English critics continue to praise the golf playing of Miss Alexa Stirling, the Canadian and U. S, champion, who is in England in search of the English title. She was given her hardest test since crossing the Atlantic at Burhill on Friday last, and while her score was not as good as the English or Scottish champions', she did some good work, her putting being erratic in the morning, but showed improvement in the afternoon.

Many improvements are being made at the Hamilton Jockey Club, and by opening day the plant will provide better accommodation for the public than at any time in the history of the club. The mutuel shed has been enlarged, and now extends down to where the bleachers used to be. But the boys who viewed the races from the "pine boards" in the past will not be deprived of their pews, for bleachers are being erected on the top of the betting stand, with accommodation for a larger crowd than ever.

A meeting of the Canadian Racing Association will be held this week, when the applications for licenses will be passed on. Rumor has it that two prominent Canadian trainers are on the anxious seat regarding the outcome of their applications.

"Something To Think About"

By Jeanie Macpherson

THE top of life—and the bottom! And the same fair woman reached them both. Why? How? And which was the end?

A ROMANCE aglow with the metropolitan beauty and richness always linked with the name DeMille

Yet built from the hearth of a village blacksmith and made of the stuff that fills the simplest hearts.

The Central Ontario League Baseball Club had their first workout of the season last night at the Riverside Park, and the practice was a surprise both on account of the large turn out and the fine form shown by the players. Manager Solomon put the crew through batting practice first and then devoted a profitable twenty minutes to fielding practice. Ray Rose, Tommy Holyman, Micky Murray and Roy Cherrett were all going great guns in the infield while Pinnette shaped up nicely at first base. Bob Ross and Lawrence Soden did the catching while Lefty McElroy, last year with Lindsay, and Gilchrist, who was with the Canadian Woollens last year, were the pitchers, who took advantage of the opportunity to loosen up their arms. Jack McCarney was a familiar figure out in centre field and Bill Hatrick, Ernie Legon and several other players, cavorted around the outer gardens.

The Central Leaguers will practo-morrow night at 6 o'clock and on on Saturday afternoon at 4:15, both practices at the Riverside Park, and all aspirants for the team are asked to be out at both wokouts, in order that the squad will be in the best possible shape for the game, a week from Saturday, with the Hillcrests. The latter look like one of the strongest amateur teams ever gathered together in the province, but the Petes alw /s take kindly to the pitching of Cannon Ball Ed. Scott, who has taken four beatings at their hands in the past two seasons, and whom they hope to have the pleasure of trimming once again in the May 7th engagement.

BRITISH BOWLERS WILL COME HERE.

Will Leave Canada on Sept. 2—All Dates Advanced a Week.

The dates of games for the tour of the British bowlers have been changed as the tourists have to leave Canada on September 2. It has been found impossible to leave the week of the Dominion tournament open, and under the new arrangement the team will leave Toronto for Hamilton on Saturday, August 13, instead of August 20.

The team will be in Toronto on August 6, and will play a game in the afternoon against the Canadian team which toured Great Britain in 1913. After the game, a banquet will be held at the Granite Club.

Games will be arranged for all the city clubs on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. On Wednesday the British players will go to Oshawa for games against Cobourg, Oshawa, Port Hope, Bowmanville, Belleville and Peterborough. On Saturday they play in Hamilton, and the balance of the tour will follow the original arrangements, with the exception that the dates are shifted a week forward.

It is the intention to play a series of test matches in Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton and London, when six skips will be selected to captain the strongest rinks which can be selected from the district to play against the Britishers.

CHURCH GIRLS PLAY STRENUOUS BASKETBALL

Two very exciting games of basketball were staged in the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium last evening, the occasion being a social evening under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's Church.

As a curtain raiser a team of young ladies from George Street Methodist Church met the young ladies representing St. John's, and after thirty minutes of strenuous play, were declared winners by the score of 10-8. The teams:

George Street: M. Rutherford, T. Paxman, I. Bates, M. Dixon, E. Outram; H. Lamb and A. Bulmer, subs.

St. John's: B. Pidgeon, M. Stuart, F. Hutchison, M. Mills, K. Cuffe; J. Nicholls and F. Park, subs.

The second game saw the quintette representing the Excelsior Club of George Street Church arrayed against the St. John's boys. Play opened very fast, and was closely contested throughout, the game terminating in a win for the Excelsior Club by the score of 48-44. The teams:

Excelsior Club: M. Brownscombe, C. Armstrong, C. Elliott, A. Darling and Malcolm.

St. John's: H. Young, C. Seely, A. Horsfield, K. Seely; S. Ecobichon sub.

KING EDWARD WIN FROM CENTRAL SCHOOL

YOUNGSTERS STAGED FINE GAME —OTHER BASEBALL ITEMS.

King Edward made it two straight wins in the senior series of the Public School Baseball League yesterday afternoon, by defeating Centrals by the score of 10 to 6. The game was played on the King Edward school grounds. Bradley's good work in the box was a puzzle to the Centrals and they were dangerous only in the fourth when Bradley's support wobbled. The teams contributed some smart fielding plays.

Player's certificates will be issued this week to the clubs in the Mercantile League.

It is proposed to provide a baseball bill for the 24th of May, by putting on a league game in the juvenile series at Riverside Park in the morning, and two games in the afternoon. The City League and the Mercantile League will play the after-dinner games.

The small admission fee of fifteen cents will be charged for the two games in the juvenile series, at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon. Lakeviews meet the Bankers in the opener and St. Peter's play the Generals. With Alex. Kay umpiring the games, the youngsters will receive a lot of encouragement.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE ALLEN.

The screen will duplicate and no doubt surpass most of the stage's greatest triumphs, according to a prediction made by Lionel Barrymore, who is said to be covering himself with glory in the stellar role in "The Master Mind," which will be seen at the Allen Theatre for last time to-day. "The day for disparaging th escreen has gone, because intelligent people everywhere have recognized that the pioneer custard-pie comedies and impossible wild and wooly western 'dramas' did not by any means constitute the limitations of this form of dramatic expression', he says. "To-day we see some of the finest plays on the screen; to-morrow we will see ever more masterly works."

AT THE ALLEN

"Oh, the swimmin'-hole! In the long, lazy days
When the hum-drum of school made so many run-a-ways."

Ever fragrant memories are recalled by these lilting lines from James Whitcomb Riley's poem, and when this week you see Charles Ray in the character of Ezra, the carefree barefoot boy in "The Old Swimmin' Hole", you will live again your childhood days. While Ray has made a reputation in many juvenile roles, he is at his very best in this idyll. The laughs chase the lumps up and down your throat as you watch his love affair with the school flirt, how she jilts him and how the everfaithful Esther fixes up so prettily that he succumbs to her charms. How he gets into a dozen scrapes and the amusing way he tumbles out of them are all depicted with a freshness and charm that captivates all at the Allen Friday and Saturday.

SETTINGS OF GREAT BEAUTY DISTINGUISH NEW DE MILLE FILM

Law of Contrasts Observed by Producer in "Something to Think About"

Stage settings of unusual beauty are assured in any photoplay bearing Cecil B. De Mille's name and "Something To Think about", the Paramount picture which will be shown at the Capitol Theatre tonight easily reaches the high standard set by previous De Mille productions

But "Something To Think About' has in addition to several stage settings of remarkable beauty some of the mose realistic backgrounds of a humbler sort ever seen in a motion picture production ... .

The story offers a great opportunity for contrast and due advantage has been taken of every opportunity for contrast and due advantage has been taken of every opportunity. In this production, has been supplied a humble blacksmith's home, his work shop and the poverty-stricken apartment wherein some of the most important action of the story transpires.

Against this background Cecil B. De Mille placed a home of exquisite beauty. By thus contrasting the two surroundings, they have emphasized the realism of one and the artistic perfection of the other.

Notable examples of this decorative lavishness are to be found in th e Oriental living room, library and music room which comprises one portion of the residence in question. Another striking sample of the ultra-modern influence in interior decoration is in the dining room of the same dwelling. A boudoir of striking beauty completes this house hold.

Besides this splendid production the usual specially selected comedies scenic and other short reel subjects and appropriate musical settings by the Capitol Concert Orchestra of 8-pieces which will complete an entertainment of extraordinary merit.

AT THE REGENT.

PEARL WHITE HERE IN BIG FEATURE PICTURE

In "Tiger's Cub," the William Fox production starring Pearl White which comes to the Regent Theatre to-day, story interest vies with excellent acting for first place among the many good things that can be said about this production, which has the frozen North and the gold fields of Alaska for its background.

"Tiger's Cub" as a novel, written by George Goodchild, was a pronounced success .It became one of the season's "best sellers."

In film form this tale of love, treachery, strife and sacrifice in the primitive North retains all of its plot strengh and interest, and its value is further enhanced by the convincing realism in action which only the screen can offer. The myriad readers of the book will be doubly thrilled by the flesh and blood counterparts of the wonderful characters they know of, while those who have not read the story have a great pleasure in store.

AT THE EMPIRE.

DETERMINATION WINS THE DAY.

Tina Moditti, the piquant little Italian beauty who is leading feminine role in "The Tigers' Coat", the Dial Film Company production released through the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation, which comes to the Empire Theatre to-day tells an amusing incident relative to her first stage engagement.

Tomasino Gianini, the Charles Frohman of Italy, had a play in rehearsal at the Thetre Italienne, in Florence. Tina learned that a small part was open and hurried to Gianini's office.

"Tell Signor Gianini," she instructed the office boy, "that Tina Modotti wishes to read him the ingenue role of his new play."

The boy returned with the information that the producer was too busy to see her, whereupon Tina walked into his office unannounced.

"I wish to read you the ingenue part of your new play," she said.

Gianini turned in his chair and frowned. "Young lady," he said sternly, "do you realize that my time is worth a dollar a minute?"

"I'll take five minutes!" she said.

Gianini gave her the part.

MUMMIFIED BODY OF WOMAN BEEN FOUND

COPENHAGEN, April 8.—(Associated Press, by Mail)—The mummified body of a woman who died 3,000 years ago was found recently buried in a field in the Jutland district of Denmark and is being unwrapped by employes of the National Museum. Her coffin was the hollow trunk of an oak tree and the body was wrapped in a cowhide. She appears to have been a person of rank. Her garments included a short jacket with sleeves and a petticoat and she wore two belts around her wrists and two bronze bracelets on her arms.

CHAPLAIN S. BEAL,

Noted Irish preacher and lecturer, who during the war was one of the foremost speakers in the British Isles and who by his efforts recruited over 10,000 men in Britain's volunteer army. Chaplain Beal is in Peterborough this week in the interests of the Navy League of Canada. In June 1920 he, with Judge E. C. S. Huycke, made a stirring appeal to the County Council and were given a grant of $1,500.

ENCROACHMENT ON URBAN RIGHTS IS TO BE PROTESTED

WOODSTOCK ASKS MUNICIPALITIES TO UNITE AGAINST LEGISTURE.

WOODSTOCK, April 28.—At the request of Mayor Paul, the Woodstock City Clerk has sent out the following letter to different municipalities:—

"In view of the recent encroachments by the Ontario Legislature on the rights and privileges of urban municipalities in such cases as the McCrea Bill and Fireman's double platoon system, it has been suggested that the municipalities get together to protect their rights and protest against such legislation being passed without consulting the municipalities affected."

It is stated that the actual cost of the above four items in the regular way would be $1.25 instead of 90c.

STATEMENT FROM THE EMPLOYING PRINTERS OF PETERBOROUGH

glad to be advised just as early as possible of the intention of your Union.

Thanking you, we are,

"Yours very truly."

Renewal of Last Year's Scale.

The renewal of the scale of last year the employing printers regarded as chiefly in the interests of the men. It would have been a real gain for them in view of the gradually decreasing cost of living, and of the wage reductions in other occupations. The Typographical Union has deliberately refused to consider any compromise, but has decided to get by force an increase in wages and a decrease in the number of hours for a working week, demands which the court of public opinion will surely declare unwarranted and altogether unreasonable, for, with the hundreds of men idle in this city, and cities of similar size, and thousands idle in the larger centres, it is inconceivable that men having steady work, week in and week out, at a rate that guarantees them over $1,500.00 a year as a minimum, and with a few hours a week overtime has allowed some of them to earn over $1800.00 during the past year, that these men will deliberately walk away from an offer that will give them the same wages and same hours of work under such unfavourable business conditions as prevail at present. Just suppose the men now unemployed in Peterborough were to be told that they could go back to work at the figures above mentioned, would they be likely to refuse?

It may be stated that the employing printers have neither shown nor felt hostility toward the Typographical Union. They were quite satisfied with the working arrangements between its management and the Typographical Union. If the harmonious relations that have obtained are to be severed now by the persistence of the Union in its demands, the fault will not lie with the employing printers. Organised labour has always boasted of its sanity and reasonableness, but in going after a 44-hour week, and an increase in wages as well, which means an increase of over 40 per cent. over last year's earnings, the Typographical Union has surely parted company with reason, sound judgment, and a helpful consideration of the printing industry under the present business difficulties.

The employing printers of Peterborough, after careful consideration, have arrived at the conclusion that business cannot be obtained that would permit of a faithful performance of the contract by them if entered into at this time.

Society

Miss Lancaster, superintendent of the Protestant Home, left this morning for a month's visit with friends in Petrolia and other points.

Mrs. Frederick Hills will receive in her aparment, Crown Building, on Saturday, April the thirtieth from 4 until 6 o'clock.

Mrs. S. Porter of Lakefield, was in town yesterday attending the Convention of the W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church

Through the kindness of the Holy Name Society the hall at St Aphonsus Lyceum was placed at the disposal of the Knights of Columbus last evening, for the lecture given under their auspices by Rev. J. M. Fraser, Roman Catholic missionary to China. The hall was well filled and a most enjoyable address on the life and customs of these people, illustrated by a series of excellent lantern slides in colors, was given by Father Fraser, who is one of the earliest pioneer missionaries from Canada to the Far East.

Mr. George Richardson of Louisville, Kentucky, is spending his vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Richardson, 270 Sherbrooke street.

Mrs. A. C. Carruthers, Midland, who is attending the provincial convention, is the guest of Mrs. Cruikshank, Sherbrooke street.

Mrs. Dawson, of Port Arthur, who is attending the W.M.S. Convention, is a guest of Mrs. J. W. McDermid.

WEDDING BELLS

SHERK—WIDDIFIELD.

At a quiet ceremony in Trinity College chapel, Toronto, at a quarter past three yesterday afternoon, Mary, the youngest daughter of Judge and Mrs. Widdifield, became the bride of Mr. Wendell Sherk of Indianapolis, Indiana. Rev. James Widdifield, of Detroit, the bride's brother, officiated. The bride wore a beige suit with jade green hat and corsage bouquet of orchids. Attending her sister was Mrs. H. B. Roney of Pittsfield, Mass., who wore a brown lace frock with orange girdle and hat of the latter shade. Her bouquet was of yellow roses. Mr. Russell Widdifield of Peterborough, was the best man; and Mr. Clatworthy was at the organ.

After a reception at the Nordheimer tea rooms, the newly wedded pair left for East Aurora, before going to their new home in Indianapolis to reside.

CRAIG—WATSON.

The wedding was quietly solemnized at St. John's church at 7 o'clock this morning of Beatrice Mary, elder daughter of Mrs. Watson, 300 Frederick avenue, to Vernon Robinson, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Craig, 45 McDonnel street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Blagrave in the presence of the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who wore a very attractive suit of navy gabardine with lace hat and a fur scarf, the latter the gift of the groom, entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Harry Watson, to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, Mr. R. J. Devey being at the organ. The bride's corsage bouquet was of pink roses. After the ceremony the young couple left on the 7.33 C.P.R. train for Toronto. They will reside at 45 McDonnel street on their return.

O'CONNELL—MOHER

A St. Joseph's Church, Douro, the wedding was solemnized on Tuesday morning with Rev. Father McGuire officiating of Viola Moher of Douro and Thos. O'Connell of Lindsay. The bride who wore a navy blue suit with hat to match was attended by Miss Gertie OConnell, while the groom was assisted by Mr. Frances Moher. Miss Mabel Allen of Douro played the wedding music. Afterwards a turkey dinner was served at the home of Mr. Thos Nolan. Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell motored to Port Hope and from there went to Toronto for the honeymon. They will reside in Lindsay. The young couple were the recipients of many useful and beautiful presents

OBITUARY

EUGENE McARTHY

Eugene McArthy, who has been a resident in Toronto for the last 35 years, died in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, yesterday. About six years ago he suffered a stroke from which he never recovered. He was born in Peterboro, and went to Toronto at the age of 40. He was a contractor by trade and was well known to the building trade. He attended St. Monica's church. Surviving him are his widow, nine sons, George, Joseph, Lewis, Francis, Patrick, Edward, Martin, Lorne, Eugene, and two daughters, Misses M. and E. McArthy.

WALTER ANDREW ROBSON

After but a week's illness Walter Andrew Robson, 18 years old, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Robson, 426 London street died at the Nicholls Hospital on Wednesday. Deceased was born in Peterboro and was employed as a pattern maker. He is survived by his parents, and one brother William and two sisters; Mrs. H. A. Dunsford and Mrs. E. W. Watson of Peterboro.

The funeral under the auspices of the Orange Order will be held on Friday afternoon from the family residence, 426 London street to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. J. A. MacKenzie will conduct the funeral service at two p.m.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE CONVENTION

The indefatigable little press secretary of the convention, Mrs. E. F. McL. Smith, of Alliston, is responsible for some of the following:

Mrs. J. J. Steele, of Toronto, remembered so fittingly by this convention last evening, is one of the oldest officers of the Women's Missionary Society in Canada. President of the General Executive Council for the seven years since the amalgamation of the Home and Foreign Missions, she was president for years previous of the Foreign Missions Society, a follower in the footsteps of her mother, Mrs. Ewart, who held office for so long in the same work.

The chimes were rung to-day in honor of the visiting delegates to the W.M.S. Convention.

The ladies of Murray Street Baptist Church served an extra lunch to-day at 11.30 for the convenience of those wishing to take an earlier train.

The lady who brought an unexpected escort in the shape of a small boy of eight had some difficulty in finding a suitable billet for him.

Some of the more fortunate ladies had the pleasure of eating from Crown Derby china, provided by a very hospitable-minded host.

Rather an odd combination, but still a sidelight on human nature, whether in missionary society conventions or elsewhere, is the spectacle of the "audience" section of the delegation appearing promptly for the first table as an "invitation tea," while the busy workers, including the President, come in for the second serving.

The last convention held in St. Paul's Church took place exactly sixteen years ago.

Miss Lilhan Oliver, the very wide-awake exponent of the C.G.I.T. Course, first heard the Word of God preached from the lips of Rev. Mr. Pogue. This young lady is a cousin of Dr. Chone Oliver, one of the most noted workers in the Indian field.

The lady attending the convention who secured a gentleman's grip on the train in place of her own, was somewhat shocked to discover a pair of pyjamas within. If this gentleman had been on his way from Montreal, however, it might have been a great deal worse. The feelings of the owner, when he opened the lady's valise, to find, probably, some missionary literature, or, possibly, a report of the work in some far-off district, are better imagined than described.

About seven members of sometime-ago graduates from the Brantford Young Ladies' College, amongst whom were Mrs. E. F. McL. Smith of Alliston, Mrs. Hamilton of Goderich, Mrs. McKinnon of Woodstock, Mrs. M. Gould of Uxbridge, and Mrs. D. H. Douglas of Chatham, foregathered at the convention last night and arranged to have lunch together to-day and talk over old times. This school was said by the young ladies to confer the degree of "F.F.M.W.," or "Fit For a Minister's Wife."

The ladies of the Women's Missionary Society Convention are unanimous, one and all, in their appreciation of the time and trouble expended by the ladies of Murray Street Baptist Church in providing meals for the three days of the meeting, and to the Ladies' Aid Societies of the three local Presbyterian Churches for the tea given them on Tuesday evening, also to the ladies who so kindly made arrangements for billeting and looked after their visitors so well. They feel that the women of Peterborough have set a bright example with their friendly, warm spirit of helpfulnesss.

SUPREME COUNCIL PLANS ACTION AGAINST GERMANS ---U.S.REJECT TERMS

London, May 3 (Canadian Press) The Allied Supreme Council today decided to take no naval action against Germany without consulting the nited States. This was agreed to after full discussion of the Council members with Admiral Beaty and Admiral Grasset of France on plans for naval pressure upon Germany. The Council adjourned until three this afternoon.

Experts reported onthe plan worked out concerning guarantees to be demanded of Germany for payment of reparation and the Council will consider it this afternoon.

The occupation ofthe Huhr coal basin in the event such action should beome necessary, was considered with milltary representatives of the Allies.

Washington, May 3.—The United States Government has rejected the German reparation proposals of April 24 on the ground that they do not afford a basis for discussion acceptable tothe Allied Governments, and has informed Berlin that these proposals cannot be entertained. The decision ofthe Harding administration was announced last night when Secretary Hughes issued a statement saying he had instructed Loring Dresel, American Commissioner at Berlin, to deliver to Dr. Walter Simons, German Foreign Minister, a memorandum to the a bove effect.

SESSION OF HOUSE ENDS

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE PROROGUED BY LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

Toronto, May 3 Canadian Press) Most of the Farmer members of the Ontario Legislature found the call of the land too strong for them and there was a scant representation of the Provincial Legislatures today, when the House was formally prorogued by his Honor the Lieutenant Governor, Lionel H. Clark.

The Lieutenant Governor assented to 90 bills, making a total of 143 passed by the House and given Royal approval. In his speech from the throne the King's representative reviewed the work of session and outlined the objects of the more important legislation put through the legislature this year.

ANNUAL MEETING THE SOCIAL SERVICE COUNCIL OF ONTARIO WILL MEET HERE

Peterboro is the have the honor this year of being the place of meeting of the Social Service Council of Ontario in their Annual Convention. The Convention will be held on the 8th, 9th and 10th of May. The Public Library will be the Headquarters of the Convention, but some of the larger churches will be used for the evening sessions and for Committee work.

The programme will deal with such questions as Child Welfare Work in all its phases. Industrial life and community problems, Social legislation and citizenship. Some of the speakers who will address the Convention are, Mr. J. D. Flavelle, Dr. J. G. Shearer, Rev. George C. Pidgeon, Mrs. Adam Shortt, Miss Charlotte E. Whitton, Rev. Peter Bryce, Professor J. W. MacMillan, Dr. T. D. McCullough, Rev. Robert Legsworth, Mr. A. McLaren, Rev. Gilbert Agar and Premier E. C. Drury.

The President of the Council is the Rt. Rev. F. J. Sweeney D. D. Lord Bishop of Toronto and the Secretary is Rev. Gilbert Agar B. A. of Toronto.

The first session opens at 2 p.m. on Monday the 9th. On Sunday the 8th. the various pulpits of the city with one or two exceptions will be filled by convention speakers.

All the sessions of the convention will be open to the public. The evening meetings will be of special interest.

GOVERMENT LEAD DROP TO FIFTEEN

CIVIL SERVICES RETURN TO PATRONAGE BILL SPLITS HOUSE ON PARTY LINES

Ottawa, May 3—(Canadian Press) The Covernment carried the second reading ofthe bill which the Opposition claims is a return to patronage at midnight, by the smallest majority of the session. When the vote was counted, the government had a majority of 15, the vote standing 72 to 57.

When the result became known the Opposition cheered and shouted to the Government "Resign, Resign" Despite the fact, however, that the majority was the smallest yet, the division was without great excitement. Four members of the Opposition were paired and announced that otherwise they would have voted for the six months hoist, proposed by Hon. A. K. McLean.

Mr. McLean spoke at some length and his arguement carried great weight in that he was responsible, proabbly more than anyone else, for the Civil Service Act as it exists now.

The amendments proposed in the bill which the Prime Minister said was a "skeleton" would take the appointment of certain classes of Civil Servants from commission and in this way, according to the discussion yesterday, restor the patronage system.

NEW YORK BEGINNING TO CRITICIZE "YANKS"

NEW YORK, April 29. — The Yanks are beginning to get razzed on the Polo grounds. Miller Huggins has perhaps the biggest combination of talent in the major leagues, but it lacks that class essential for a championship club.

Yesterday's games give a good illustration of that thing known as class. The Yanks proceeded to get four runs in the first three innings against Washington, but they blew a lead that would win for any real ball club and dropped the game. On the other hand, Cleveland let the Detroit Tigers get off to a four-run lead, but Speaker used 23 players and finally won the game.

Speaker does not under-estimate his opposition and believes that a game is a game. The Yanks go along apparetly thinking that there is plenty of time yet to get started.

Monday afternoon the Yanks were invincible for seven innings. Carl Mays didn't allow a hit in that time. Then the whole works blew and Washington won the game.

FIFTY MILE GALE SMOOPS ON SASKATCHEWAN

Regina, May 3—(Canadian Press) From Assiniboia to Saskatoon and from Swift Current to Regina, Saskatcrewan yesterday was visited by one of the most violent wind storms in years. A fifty mile an hour gale, commencing early in the morning, practically stopped all seeding in the province and it did not subsile until night.

Agricultural erperts fear, that where soil is light and well worked seed would be blown out of the ground. The storm reached violent proportions in Moose Jaw and all construction work was suspended for the day.

MAY MEETING CITY COUNCIL LAST EVENING

ALDERMEN LOST SOME SOME OF THEIR BEAUTY SLEEP IN EFFORT TO CLEAN UP BUSINESS

It was twenty minutes to one o'clock this morning when the May meeting of the City Council was concluded. For one thing they were late in getting started, for another there was considerable business and lastly and most important reason forthe late session was a lot of discussion.

Mayor McIntyre presided with all members present excepting Ald. G. N. Gordon, who requested in a letter that leave be granted him from council meeting until July. Possibly if the House prorouged sooner he would be able to attend meetings previous to July 1, he said. On motion of Ald. Crowe and Ald. Whitehouse leave was granted Ald. Gordon.

SALARY INCREASE
A communication was received from Dr. T. W. H. Yonng, M. O. H. asking that his salary of $1800 be increased to $2000 as paid the former M. O. H. and which salary he said he expected to receive from Jan. 1921. The request for increase was referred to the Property committee.

CHILDRENS SHELTER
Repairs and alterations said to be long needed at the Children's Shelter will be made by the City Trust for the society. The Council recommended last night that the city trust be requested to make the repairs and alterations asked by the society. Dr. King and Rev. F. E. Malott spoke to the Council for authorization. In all some 20 items were mentioned, the estimated cost to be about $1500. The City Trust approved the repairs but required Councils' authorization. This was given on motion of Ald. Hamilton and Ald. Whitehouse.

A LABORATORY
A deputation of physicans from whom Dr. A. W. McPherson was the principal spokesman urged that Council accept the offer of the Provincial Board of Health to establish a laboratory here. The doctors claimed that a laboratory would be of great value to them in combatting disease and every cent the city paid would be returned ten fold in a more healthfut city. Other cities would jump at the chance. Dr. McPherson said.

According to the scheme the provincial government equip and maintain the laboratory at an annual cost of about $5000, while the city pays only $500 a year for its share. The examinations and tests would be made free of charge. A bylaw was passed last night authorizing the execution of an agreement between the city and the Provincial Board of Health to establish a laboratory here. Meanwhile the city is awaiting a report from Toronto on the requirements fro the laboratory and if the rooms examined by Dr. M. McCullough on the third floor of city hall will be satisfactory.

NUMBERING HOUSES
G. A. Dodds, secretary of the Trades and Labour Council brought to the Council last night the resolution passed, asking that the city take some action to have the numbers on the houses made conspicuous. Mr. Dodd spoke in favor of having every number bright and shinny on every house and Ald. Turner also spoke favorably of the idea.

MISS MADELINE TRAVERSE ASKS $222,500 FOR ALLEGED BREACH OF CONTRACT.

NEW YORK, May 3—It became known yesterday that a suit for $222,500 for alleged breach of contract had been filed in the Supreme Court against Herbert Lyon Smith, a coal mine owner, by Miss Madelaine Traverse, a motion picture actress. Miss Traverse, who lives at the Hotel Laurelton, 147 West Fifty-fifth street, said yesterday that last June Mr. Smith agreed to form a motion picture company with herself as the leading star, but had never taken steps to organize the concern. After numerous postponements, she said, which caused her loss of time and money, she placed her affairs in the hands of Samuel Untermyer, as her lawyer.

M. E. Sobel, counsel for Mr. Smith, beyond stating that the suit grew out of business dealings beween Miss Traverse and his client, would give no details.

A summons was served upon Miss Traverse by Mr. Smith yesterday, ordering her appearance in the Fourth District Municipal Court for "conversion of personal property". It was stated that the property referred to was a trunk and other presents made to Miss Traverse by Mr. Smith. Miss Traverse said that Mr. Smith had given her the trunk in 1918, when she was in haste to leave for California for the Fox Films Corporation. She had no objection to returning it, she added, but would fight the complaint "on principle."

Mr. Smith, who also lives in the Hotel Laurelton, could not be reached last night. He has no office in this city, nor does his name appear in local directories.

COUNCIL MEETING

He suggested that a salesman get busy and take orders for numbers and also moved seconded by Ald. Crowe that the Mayor issue a proclamation urging all citizens to have the numbers of their houses conspicuous.

DOG CATCHER

Council appointed James Gates, official dog catcher for the city last night at the same rate of pay, $125 per dog as last year. Mr. Gates was received like an old friend. He will commence his activities on Mon day, May 9.

When Ald. Crowe opposed the purchase of the Reo car for Fire Chief Grange, recommended in the Fire, Water and Light committees' report, Ald. Turner, Ald. Hamilton, Ald. Gainey and Ald. Phelan supported him. They all favored waiting till the financial way seemed clearer, and then buying a special fire chief's model. Ald. Crowe carried the day, the vote standing 5 to 4 striking out the recommendation.

THE BY-LAWS

A stream of by-laws flowed through after midnight. These were briefly:

A by-law to authorize the construction of a sewer on Stewart street from Smith to Edinburgh.

A by-law authorizing the city to borrow $260,000 from current (expenditures.

A by-law authorizing appointing Frank Wise at his tender price of $145 to supply the earth and sod for the slope on each side of the concreate walk in Victoria Park and for grading and laying the same.

A by-law authorizing the borrowing of $16,000 to pay for extensions made in the Waterworks system.

STREET PAVING

When it came to passing a by-law authorizing the paving of the streets, decided on some time ago. Ald. Turner objected that there was no provision for competitive bids on different kinds of paving. He opposed concrete paving threatening an injunction if concrete was put in front of his house. He put up a long fight and finally won and the city will call for tenders for concrete and other kinds of paving. The ayes and nays on the by-law were:

Ayes	Nays
Mayor McIntyre	Ald. Day
Ald. Jones	Ald. Crowe
Ald. Hamilton	Ald. Phelan
Ald. Turner.
Ald. Morrison

Ald. Whitehouse and Ald. Gainey did not vote.

Ald. Turner spoke in favor of and moved that Simcoe street be paved to the racks but lost his motion.

CHARLES DUNCALFE

Chief Constable for Campbellford, who, in his annual report to the Council at their April meeting showed the largest returns in fines to the Treasury in the history of his department. At that he does not aim for a record number of arrests, but tempers the strict performance of his duties and the enforcement of law with sensible leniency.

SCHOOL BOARD

The regular meeting of the Board of Education will take place tonight, at 7.45, in the Board Room at 437 George Street.

GOVERNMENT AIDS HOUSE BUILDING.

So Municipalities Erect at Excess of Market Value.

FREDERICTON, N.B., April 29 (Canadian Press).—Building houses with Government money is not without its possible difficulties for municipalities. A Bill has been presented to the Legislature empowering municipalities to sell houses they have erected, below building cost, making up the difference by an assessment on the section in which the houses were put up. The Bill is supported by the fact that on account of unsettled economic conditions, some municipalities endeavouring to solve the housing problem by taking advantage of Government loans, have put up houses at a cost in excess of their present market value.

A BUMPER APPLE CROP

Buds Never Looked Better—Expect 2,000,000 Barrels

HALIFAX, April 29.—The Dominion Government entomologist, after examining the fruit buds in the Annapolis Valley, reported that he had never seen them better. Unless some serious weather conditions are encountered he is satisfied that this year's crop will run to 1,500,000 barrel, with every possibility of reaching the 2,000,000 mark. All early indications point to a bumper crop.

HER AUBURN LOCKS FOR OUR SOLDIERS

Canadian Girl, Who Is New York's "Ideal," Posed For Lustrous Hosiery.

NEW YORK, April 29.—When Miss Allison McBain posed on the platform of the Town Hall while Coles Phillips drew her portrait as "The New York University Girl" (which role she is to fill in the $6,450,000 endowment fund campaign now being waged) a sense of recognition crossed the minds of some of those in the audience.

Miss McBain was winner in the beauty contest among eighteen girls of the debautante committee of the New York University musical club's concert, which had just been concluded.

The beauty of the blonde girl seemed so familiar that every one wondered where it was they had seen her. The sketch, too, when it was completed, was very characteristic of many of Philip's drawings. The girl who smiled from the campaign poster as it grew under his pencil was very like other girls he has drawn on magazine covers.

Yet it was not until yesterday that any one identified "the most beautiful debutante" as Phillip's favorite model, and one of the best known poster and magazine cover girls in the city. She is the girl of the subway posters who sits in rapt admiration before a wedding chest containing a widely advertised silver plate. It is she who stands with extended foot admiring her shapely ankle clad in a well-known brand of lustrous hosiery.

Miss McBain has been seen on the stage and the screen also. She came to New York from her home in Sherbrooke, Quebec, in 1915, and made her debut as the dancing partner of Nigel Barrie in "Nobody Home" at the Princess Theatre. She appeared in "Love O' Mike" at the Shubert, in 1917. During the war she offered to sell her auburn gold hair for the fund for relief of Canadian soldiers, but the sacrifice was not accepted.

Miss McBain was, however, eligible to the beauty contest in which she was chosen Monday. Vincent Roberts, chairman of the Alumni Committee, said there had been no effort to conceal the identity of the "most beautiful girl in the circle of friends of the university."

"Miss McBain is the most beautiful," he said, "and the object of the contest was to obtain the most satisfactory model for the campaign poster."

The sorrow nobody mentions,
The storrow that no one may share
Is the sorrow the dear Lord giveth—

The tears of night and of day;
And whispering softly, "I love you,"
Brushes the tear-drops away.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

THE rocking chair, which has been formally approved by the French Academy of Sciences as the most hygienic of all chairs, is now recommended by that body for general use in both offices and homes.

Not only does the scientific world now acknowledge that the rocking chair is a tested aid in the practice of therapeutics, but standard and popular literature offer much testimony in support of the rocker as an influence for peace and domestic tranquility. Herewith is offered in evidence four lines of a popular poem, dear to the days gone by:

"Mother, come back from the echoless shore;
Take me again to your arms, as of yore;
Over my slumbers your loving watch keep;
Rock me to sleep, mother, rock me to sleep."

Chaucer says:

Dryden offers this testimony in his translation of Ovid's epistle, xi.:

"High in his hall, rocked in a chair of state,
The king with his tempestuous council sate."

Shakespeare:

"Sleep rock thy brain."

Dryden:

"His fellow, who the narrow bed had kept,
Was weary and without a ricker slept."

W. M. Baker, in New Timothy:

"He has extracted a particularly important one, and leaning back in his rocking chair, that cradle for grown-up babies—he is obeying my Lord Bacon and inwardly digesting the same."

In the times of Charles I. the Court Rocker was a distinguished official.

"Rockabye Baby Upon the Tree Top," which has soothed most of us in the beginning, is a time-tried lullaby. Anybody who has ever had a good chance to judge knows that rocking in a chair in the old home kitchen is the poetry of motion.

The position of a person seated in a rocking chair is declared to be physiologically the most correct, since the normal position of the skull on the spinal column is preserved at all angles of inclination of the chair. This being the case there is no mechanical obstruction to the breathing, no matter what position the sitter adopts. The rocking chair has long been regarded as an American fad.

An illustrious French scientist-physician told the world recently that the much-to-be-envied women who spend their vacation months at hotels do not waste what time they spend rocking, talking, sitting and knitting on wide and airy verandas.

But exercise—that is the key to health. Not the only key, it appears. The porch rockers have chosen the better part, says this French physician. They relax and rest and enter into harmony via the undulations of the rocker.

Porch rocking being an American diversion and "nerves" being largely an American problem, a physician having to do with American nerves would seem to be the obvious source of information regarding the benefits of using a rocking chair. Dr. Flavius Packer, a New York physician who conducts a sanatorium for persons afflicted with nervous ailments, should have something of interest to say on this subject. When asked about the effect of rocking chairs on nerves Dr. Parker said:

"Well, I'll tell you an incident. I was visiting a friend in New Hampshire. A little girl was in disgrace and her mother sentenced her to a certain corner of the room to sit and be silent. She plumped down into a little rocking chair, which was the gift of an uncle. She rocked furiously for a time, defiant and rebellious but obliged to be speechless. We were amused and interested and soon noticed that the motion of the chair became less violent and more regular. Presently she called her mother and asked whether she might come to her. 'Her mother assented and the child said she was sorry. She had acquired understanding and calm by rocking.

"A student of human nature may learn a great deal of a mortal under stress by seating that individual in a rocker and observing the manifestation of nervous or muscular disturbance. Under conversation a listless one may hold the rocker motionless. More often as the interest or grievance is piqued the individual rocks furiously, gradually reducing the motion to calm as serenity develops. Now, in that case, would you call rocking a symptom or an influence?

"The sailor has his hammock—on the principle of the rocker—and the cavalryman his saddle. The seasoned mariner and the seasoned rider find these seats restful.

"The straight seat is more fashionable than the rocker, I think," Dr. Packer continued. "The straight front corset does not permit the form to relax into the comfort of the rocking chair. And I think our modern young women are less serene than their grandmothers were. Compare the fidgety disposition of the young woman condemned by fashion to seek one dimension in her figure, with the girls of gracious curves and tranquil disposition who charmed our male ancestors. The even-tempered, old-fashioned mother, who had a wise knowledge of life from living it normally, rocked her restless infant to sleep in a cradle. Some parents have scrapped the cradle—but it will come back. The babe of the future will be rocked to sleep again while mother sits in her low rocker and busies her hands with something equivalent to the knitting of other days. It may be with holding a book on science, a brush or with the operation of a soundless typewriter."

"The kitchen is sunny," he said, "and the kitchenette and alcohol stove for cooking have not invaded the precincts of the surviving homes. I know kitchens in which the odors sacred to the last generation, used to preserving and fruit drying, are something more than ghostly. They still have their big fireplaces and the old black rocking chair with a picture of roses down its wide back panel. And the rocking chair is still the throne of a white-aproned mother. Why, when I was a boy there was a big rocking chair in every kitchen. And there were no bungalow aprons, just the wide apron tied around the waist.

"From that gracious seat of authority were dispensed understanding and forgiveness and sympathy and comfort. Father sat and oracled from his stiff arm chair near the other window, and mother healed and soothed and blessed from her rocker. Mother understood father and interpreted him. And all went well. I do think the rocking chair is entitled to its share of credit. I only wish that porch rockers could, under existing general conditions, have the privilege this passing type of women had, of swaying by kindness and serenity, superinduced by the rhythmic motion of that blessed old chair.

"If one may use the term now, I would say that the rocker chair is 100 per cent. American. It has moved from sunny kitchen to shady porch, but it is still with us. I do not think you will find it in use in other countries except as a novelty. If I did not remember having read of it in tales of olden times I would call it another Yankee invention. I am sure in its perfected form it is essentially American, and if you find yourself worried (the doctor's eyes twinkled) take a rocking chair to a sunny window and think it over. The solution is likely to come. At any rate, all I have to say about the rocker is that I think it has made a case for itself in practically every American home."

"Our Modern Young Women Are Less Serene Than Their Grandmothers Were. The Even-Tempered, Old-Fashioned Mother, Who Had a Wise Knowledge of Life from Living It Normally, Rocked Her Restless Infant to Sleep in a Cradle."

WHY NOTHING STANDS STILL

THOUGH a great deal has been written about the new theory of relativity, it is doubtful whether one person in a thousand has any idea of its meaning. The first thing to grasp is that all words expressing size, distance, or speed have no absolute meaning. For example, it is not correct to say that anything more than six feet long is big, and describe anything less as small. You speak of a huge gooseberry and of a small hill, although the hill is obviously thousands of times larger than the gooseberry.

Little or small can be applied quite correctly to houses or baby elephants. In the same way great, big, huge or enormous are rightly used in describing certain mice, beetles or even cheese-mites. It is readily seen that a big mouse is one that is large in comparison with, or in relation to, ordinary mice; a little house is small in relation to normal houses.

These words of size are all comparative or relative and cannot be given a definite meaning in yards and feet and inches.

What of speed? The earth has a circumference of about 24,000 miles, and it revolves once in twenty-four hours. Therefore, the surface of the earth must have a speed of 1000 miles an hour. Do you call this slow or rapid motion? Rapid, of course.

Now look at the small hand of a clock, which you must watch carefully if you wish to detect its motion, since it is moving slowly. But the hand makes a complete revolution in twelve hours, while the earth takes twenty-four hours to revolve. The hand is moving twice as fast as the earth! It is only because the surface of the earth is so much more distant from its centre that we call its motion rapid. Its actual turning speed is only half that of the hour-hand of a clock.

Here is another amazing fact. You cannot say that anything is fixed, motionless, or at rest, unless the words are used relatively or comparatively. You say, for instance, "I am standing still," but are you? The point on the earth's surface on which you stand is moving at 1000 miles an hour; further, the earth, besides revolving on its own axis, is traveling forward on its path round the sun at the rate of about eighteen miles a second, and you are moving with it.

Scientists explain that we can perceive motion only if we can see objects which are moving at a greater or less speed than our own. We know that we are moving in a railway train, because we can see fields, trees and houses flashing past. But we seem to be standing still on the earth's surface because the only objects we can see outside the earth—the sun, the moon, and the stars—change position so slowly that they give us no idea of motion.

Lord Haldane said a short time ago that it was conceivable that a man in a fast-moving train might really be at rest, while the landscape and the rails themselves were moving. It seems a remarkable statement, but it is not difficult to see that it is true. Imagine a train moving across the continent from east to west at 1000 miles an hour; as the earth is moving in the opposite direction at the same speed, the train is really motionless, while the rails, being fixed to the earth's surface, are moving.

A similar thing occurs in a well-known stage turn, in which a cyclist rides his machine on a track formed by an endless belt which passes over rollers. When the rollers revolve, the path moves rapidly, and the cyclist, by dint of furious pedalling, is able to keep in one position upon it. You can see by his actions that he is traveling very quickly, yet his position does not alter. In relation to the stage and the auditorium he is standing still; in relation to the track he is moving at a considerable speed.

OF all white children born in America the average age at death will be 60 for males and 64 for females, writes Arthur Beington in the Popular Science Monthly. The officials of the Life Extension Institute will prove to you that the expectation of life for men and women who have passed 40 has actually decreased and is steadily decreasing.

One has but to glance at the faces of a group of women of high society toward the end of the season to see the ravages that high living and late hours have wrought upon them. "It is the pace that kills." Many learned physiologists have speculated upon old age and its causes, and have written treatises to prove that we are all potentially immortal and might live for hundreds or even thousands of years if we could avoid—oh, so many things! And they have pointed to the lives of famous old men as examples of what we ought to do to attain to their extraordinary length of days. The classic example is that of Cornaro, who lived comfortably to the age of 98, his secret being his diet, in which he limited himself to 12 ounces of food a day. Another example is Count Greppi, an Italian senator and former diplomat, who was hale and hearty in his hundred and first year. Count Greppi then said his rule of life was to allow himself no sensations—he declared that he had never loved!

Dr. E. E. Rittenhouse says that there are always 1,500,000 Americans ill with preventable diseases; that four out of every ten deaths are preventable or could have been prevented.

According to Dr. E. Lyman Fisk, of 28,000,000 men between 18 and 60, 8,500,000 show evidences of approaching disease or already have it.

It is illuminating to read the causes of death. In 1917—a typical year in which the figures were not complicated by the war—14.2 of every thousand persons in the United States died; out of every hundred thousand deaths 153.2 were from diseases of the heart, 149.8 from pneumonia, 146.4 from tuberculosis, 107.4 from kidney troubles, 82.9 from apoplexy, 81.6 from cancer, 79 from diarrhoea, 25.3 from diseases of the arteries, 17.2 from influenza, 16.9 from diabetes, 16.5 from diphtheria, 16.3 from bronchitis, 108.8 from accidents of all sorts. Arterial diseases and diabetes show an increase that is really alarming; for in 1900 only 6.1 per 100,000 died of the former and only 9.7 of the latter. These, with those of the heart and kidneys, are diseases that result directly from the strain and stress of modern life.

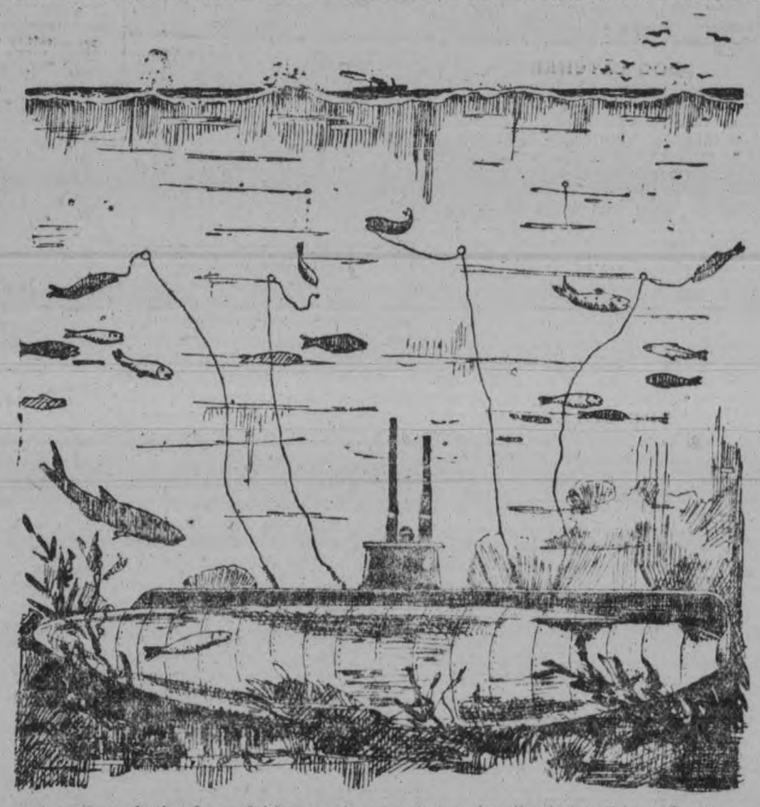
Going FISHING in SUBMARINES

FISHING with inverted lines from the decks of American submarines is the newest pastime among members of their crews operating in the Pacific ocean from the Los Angeles submarine base. The boats make frequent practice trips between Los Angeles and Santa Catalina island. The water in this area averages about 90 feet in depth, and is one of the finest fishing grounds of the Pacific coast. Frequently the boats dive to the bottom, and lie there with their motors shut off while practicing submarine signaling, torpedo-tube routine, and the like.

The upside-down fishing is done in a very simple manner, as a writer in Popular Mechanics explains. Prior to making a dive the men arrange their lines on the deck rails of the submarine. The hooks are baited, and are strung out on the decks to be carried upward when the boat dives, by a float attached near the hook.

Since any fish that takes the bait cannot be removed until the boat comes to the surface, the lines are fastened to the deck rail by coil springs. This practically eliminates the chance of losing the fish by its breaking the line, or tearing the hook out of its mouth. Thus the baited hooks "dangle upward" when the submarine is resting on the bottom of the sea—then along comes a fish, swallowing the bait and snags himself.

The method of submarine fishing recently was given a try-out by an electrician aboard the submarine "H-5." He baited four lines prior to making a dive and when the boat came to the surface he had three yellow-tails, weighing 24, 28 and 32 pounds, respectively. A fourth fish had taken the bait, but got away.



To Fish from the Deck of a Submerged U-Boat, Floats Carry the Baited Hooks Upward, the End of Each Line Being Attached to a Spiral Spring on the Deck, to "Play" the Fish, Which Cannot Be Removed Until the Submarine Comes to the Surface.

How DISEASE Is SAID to BEGIN

THE crude and bizarre ideas of disease that were slowly developed into the medical conceptions of the cultivated oriental races, and subsequently evolved into the medicine of the classical period of antiquity, reach far back into the period of the prehistoric ages. As early as 4000 B. C., a sort of medical knowledge was already well established, so that the existence of disease must have been recognized ages earlier. The discovery of the beginnings of the history of medicine does not reveal the beginnings of disease on the earth. Did it precede man or was it contemporaneous with him? To such questions the newly recognized study of paleopathology is addressing itself.

Germs are said to be among the oldest inhabitants of the earth. R. L. Moodie defends the thesis, however, that disease did not exist with the most ancient bacteria. They were harmless, as are most of the present-day bacteria. According to this paleontologist, disease did not become especially active until the present age of the earth had been attained by nearly three-quarters of its duration. That is, disease, so far as animals and plants are concerned, explains a writer in The Journal of the American Medical Association, has been active only during the last quarter of the earth's history. We cannot imagine that there were no accidents with resulting injury to early mankind; indeed, the fossil remains give evidence of such misfortunes. According to Moodie, however, disease in the guise of bacterial invasion was not a part of the life history of primitive man.

It is interesting to speculate on the characteristics of life and living at a period when disease was at its very beginnings. Moodie's picture is a tranquil one. So firmly guarded, he writes, were the primitive animals of the first ages of the earth that no disturbing influences entered into their existence. Only when racial old age, and the introduction of other antagonistic influences disturbed this natural immunity, did animals see the new factor of disease enter into their lives.

Shivering to Keep Warm

DO you know that every time you shiver it is just one of nature's little dodges for keeping you warm? It is the cold which first excites the nervous system just as heat generally soothes it, and shivering consists of a number of small quick to-and-fro movements, which sometimes become quite regular—as you experience when your teeth chatter—of most of the muscles of the body.

One good reason for shivering, however, is that it helps to make you aware of cold as you might not otherwise be, in order that you can take steps to protect yourself. It does this by keeping the brain awake and making it aware that something must be done.

Then there is another very good reason for shivering, physicians explain. Whenever a muscle works a certain amount of heat is produced—in fact most of the heat of the body is produced in the muscles—and though shivering often makes you realize that you are cold yet it really helps to keep you warm, for all the tiny muscular movements are producing heat.

This can best be illustrated in the case of a person who refuses to move about in cold weather in order to keep warm. When he persists in keeping still, the brain, as it were, takes the matter into its own hands, and in spite of his stubbornness does what little it can by causing his muscles to shiver.

Is the EARTH Really Being MADE OVER?

THE world is in process of being made over climatically and geologically as a result of recent tremendous seismatic disturbances in the Arctic seas and northern Asia, according to a statement by an eminent French scientist, Prof. Guillaume Bigourdan, president of the committee on longitudes.

"We are traversing a period of volcanic disturbance similar to that occurring before the creation of man and which caused the disposition of the present continents, oceans and chains of mountains," says Prof. Bigourdan.

"While we need not anticipate any abrupt alterations in the earth's surface, there is undoubtedly a possibility that new groups of islands may appear in the Pacific ocean and that others may disappear. The cycle of seismatic evolution is likely to extend for a period of hundreds of years, eventually completely transforming the geological and climatic conditions under which the earth is governed.

"These disturbances may be expected in a zone of subterranean energy extending from the Mediterranean sea to the Indian ocean and eastern Asia, finally involving the entire Pacific coast line of the American continent which will likely be particularly affected. However, resultant earthquakes and eruptions of long dormant volcanoes are unlikely to rival in severity those of 2000 years ago."

WHY There Are MANY VARIETIES of HONEY

IT IS the popular belief that there is only one kind of honey, but this is a great mistake. Not even is all honey sweet. Apiarists will tell you that there are more kinds of honey than you think. There is honey that is black and sour; honey that is red; honey that is poisonous; honey that is green and honey that is rose color. Nearly everyone has eaten honey that is white, and most persons know honey that ranges in color from pale yellow to brown.

Honey, a beekeeper explains, is of many flavors, depending on the kind of blossoms the bees work on. Light honey is gathered from clover, apple, locust and other early blossoms, while dark honey is made from nectar the bees gather from the flowers of buckwheat, golden rod and other autumn flowers. Honey obtained from the blossoms of white clover is generally greenish yellow and excellent in flavor, and so, too, is that honey which bees in the British Isles obtain from the bloom of heather. The color of that honey is a dark and rich yellow. Honey also varies in color and flavor with the breed of bees which makes it.

Honey made out of the flowers of the rhododendron and the wild azalea is irritating and narcotic. From the mountain laurel or "calico bush," which grows plentifully in the mountain and foothill regions of the United States, wild bees make a honey said to be harmful to man.

One of the famous varieties of honey is that called Maltese, because produced in Malta, and there it is said the bees feast mainly on orange blossoms. Another famous honey held in high repute in Europe is "Norbonne," and the bees make that from the flowers of rosemary and related plants.

Shrub for Tanning Purposes

A SHRUB growing principally in the gold fields of Australia has been found to possess properties suitable for tanning purposes, according to The World's Salesman, a Yokohama commercial magazine published by Americans. Leather tanned by the extracts from this shrub is adjudged equal to the best, being especially useful in lining hats. Excellent samples of fast dyes have also been extracted from this shrub.

An extensive area has been granted, over which the bush will be stripped to feed tanning and extracting works.

JACK MINER IS OUR JOHN BURROUGHS

Three Thousand Wild Canada Geese Just Ending Visit to Him in Essex County.

BIRDS LOVE PLACE

The Owner of the Sanctuary Is Their Friend, Doctor, Dentist, and Osteopath.

By. FRANK YEIGH.

CANADA has a John Burroughs in another John, otherwise knewn as Jack Miner.

He's our Canadian Burroughs in his love of nature, his open-mindedness, his big heart, his habit of hospitality and his sympathetic touch with every beast of the field and fowl of the air. As a dog knows his master, so a bird knows his benefactor, and thousands of winged creatures have Jack Miner on their list of friends. He is known among them, all the way from Mississippi and Louisiana and the two Carelinas to our Northland backyard of the Hudson Bay parish.

Ask any one of the three thousand wild Canada geese at present sojourning at Jack's bird sanctuary, up in Essex county, and the gander daddy of each goose family will honk his gratitude on his and their behalf.

I was up at Uncle Jack's bird ranch the other day and, while he was mending the broken wing of a mother goose, I slipped over to pond No. 1, crowded to its cement edge with hundreds of fat and glossy beauties, and asked them straight what they thought of Jack Miner and why they thought what they thought. It was all done "unbeknownst" to him, though his bird-loving little son Jaspar (he of the curly hair in the film, who feeds the robin from his hand) had his youthful eye on me.

"It's this way," said Tom, when he had silenced the noisy brood, "this bird you call a man issued invitations some years ago for us geese to visit him on our flights south and north. You see, we're real Canadians, like the Indians, and we're proud of our name of the Canada Goose. But we were suspicious of his intentions. Other two-legged birds had tried to feed up on lead pills forced into us from a long iron stick, and it sent lots of us to our bird heaven. But we looked him over and decided, on his looks, to take him at his word and we're still taking him. I remember the first fleck that ventured to try him out. 'Good-bye, brothers,' honked some cheerful relatives, when they sailed on and we sailed down on the Miner farm, "we'll never see you again.' "

Free Meals For All

"ANY trouble with him?" you ask. "Not a hint or a bit. He's kept his word to the birds; he's been a father, mother and rich uncle and sympathetic aunt to thousands of our winged tribe; he's our doctor, surgeon, dentist and osteopath."

"Anything else?"

"Well, rather. In our goose language, he's a honky-dandy. It's one continual banquet—corn-on-the-cob twice a day, brought right to our feeding-ground, with water to drink and dessert pickings in the adjoining fields. Why, I've put on two pounds of weight since I flew here from Georgia, where I and my family wintered. It's our winter resort. Ever see our name in the Social Column of the Wild Goose Gazette?"

Tom had an exciting time later on that night. He was on patrol duty beside his mate. Among the tributes Jack Miner pays to the Canada gander is his loyalty to his nesting partner. It is a case of faithfulness unto death, if need be.

First, Klondyke, the Miner Airedale, chased a stray cat to and under the barn. The cat, in running for its life—a streak of black in the dark—nearly bumped into gander Tom who, in turn, pursued the terrified pussy, who is still running. Then Klondyke, coming too near the nest, Tom took after him, and the dog also ran. It was Tom's bad night as he caught sight of Jack and me watching the cat-dog-and-goose mixup. Our turn then came, as he hissed and honked at us in disgraceful language and, with extended wings, flew at Jack. But Jack spoke him fair, told him, in the gander's own tongue, not to get excited, and sure enough the big bird backed to the side of his perturbed spouse, folded up his wings and put the soft pedal on his acrimonious tongue. And Tom will stay loyally by his post for the weeks necessary to produce a new family.

It was just after sundown that a commotion among the three thousand geese in the three sanctuary ponds announced their evening flight to Lake Erie, three miles away, where, a mile from shore, they would have a night's sleep in safety on the calm waters. A wonderful flight it proved to be, as battalion after battalion of birds took to the air with a rush of wings that sounded like rustling silk. Swish—swish—swish, as flock after flock—some in scores, some in hundreds—circled aloft and then headed, V-shaped, for the lake. Wild trumpet calls from the gander leader filled the still night as they marshalled their families. So they sailed into the twilight world of the west, mounting higher and higher as they flew over the intervening No-Man's Land so as to be safe from any stray pot-hunter.

The Great Sun-Up Flight

BUT Jack's bird ranch was by no means deserted. He has planted a row of trees especially for the robins and hundreds of the chirping redbreasts filled the branches for the night. Martins disappeared into their birdhouses, after a fight with the sparrows; doves centred in the barns, and then a lonely blue heron streaked athwart a clear sky—detached from all his feathered brethren—to a safe marshy retreat.

So we humans, after a good night look at Venus and the dipper and a sky crowded with star worlds, and after a rocking-chair hour before a log fire, joined the geese and the robins and the Wyandotte hens and Tom and "Klon" and Jasper's grey and black squirrels, in the beautiful land of sleep.

"Hi, there, are you awake?" came the startling challenge from Uncle Jack at an unholy early hour the next morning. What a wonder-world sleepy-heads miss! The sun was sending out a few scouts of light; the silver grey of the morning was crowding out the black of the night, when my host suddenly cried, as we stood in a field, "Listen! hear him? see him?"

"Hear—see, what?" City folk are blind and deaf anyway. It was the herald of the wild goose army—the advance gander acting as the official announcer, as the three thousand flew high over the Miner sanctuary and settled, again in families, all ready for the corn breakfast that was ready for them.

So we watched, in a thrilling silence, the aerial flight between the break-o'-day and sun-up, until Uncle Jack spoke: "I say, friend, the wild Canada goose knows a heap more than some of us humans do," as he looked at me in a most personal and penetrating way.

By the time this article appears in The Star Weekly, Uncle Jack's three thousand visitors will have started on their annual non-stop flight to Hudson's Bay—except Tom Johnson, who is staying behind, to oversee, in a proper parental way, the expected new arrivals from eight plump eggs in the nest on the north side of the barn.

The President of Hayti

HERE is President Dartignenave of Hayti. If he lives through his term, or two years more, he will have the distinction of being the first president of Hayti to serve his full term of seven years. All the others have been either murdered or killed by bandits within a short time after their election. President Dartignenave can thank the U. S. marines, now in Hayti, for his comparatively long official life.

DEAN OF SENATE PLANS REFORM

Senator Power, the Oldest Member, Thinks Senators Should Be Elected.

ALTHOUGH the much criticized Senate of Canada is composed of men, for the most part, of advanced years, all with the exception of five have been appointed during the Laurier, Borden, and Meighen administrations. The senior five are: Senators Power, now the dean of the chamber, Bolduc (speaker), Poirier, Lougheed and Montplaisir. The four last named alone survive of those appointed during the premiership of Sir John Macdonald.

Hon. Lawrence G. Power, of Halifax, now the senior member, has seen forty-five years of service as a senator, and is the sole survivor of the period when Mr. Alexander Mackenzie headed the government. Unlike a great number of his colleagues he served no apprenticeship to politics in the House of Commons, but was appointed directly to the upper chamber and was looked upon as a very youthful member; though he had thirty-six years to his credit it was the fashion to speak of him as the "boy senator."

Born close on eighty years ago at Halifax, he was educated at St. Mary's College in that city and in Ireland, whence his parents came, at the Catholic University, and at the Harvard Law School (LL.D.) He was active in politics and municipal affairs, and was a member of the senate of the University of Halifax. In the Senate of Canada he rapidly acquired a leading position both as a debater and practical statesman and so it was but an almost inevitable step, twenty-five years after his entrance to the chamber, from the floor to the speaker's chair, and he filled the office of president with dignity and general acceptance for four years. His long experience in the Senate, though a staunch upholder of the bi-cameral system of legislation, has led him to the conclusion that a change in the constitution of the Senate is desirable and has no hesitancy in declaring his views and explains them in effect as follows:

Aim to Get Big Men.

PRESUMING that in such matters it is as well to "go slow and let the people think," he says: "Consideration of any reform of the Senate must be preceded by an examination of the weak points of the House of Commons where it is seen that bills and resolutions are too frequently imperfect, too carelessly passed, and through defective drafting need great revision by some competent body outside the 'popular' house. Too frequently excessive party spirit or appeal to local feeling is seen instead of a single eye to the public good. Sometimes, too, measures result from panic, temporary considerations or for the promotion of local or personal interests. There never was a time when a revising chamber was more required than at present, and while the Senate does its work well it has a tendency to be timid and does not display proper independence. And it has a weakness of a serious character arising from the fact that when a government has been in power for some time appointments of its supporters only become too numerous and the chamber out of balance and likely to become partizan."

Asked how he would correct the weaknesses of the present chamber Senator Power expressed the opinion that there should be ninety-six districts created to be represented by the present occupants, and as vacancies arise each district should elect a senatorial representative, the Senate and Commons voters' list to be similar as well as the electoral procedure, save that the senators would be elected for life. There should be no addition to the numbers, and the system once in operation would remedy the defects of that now existing. It would make the Senate more independent and less timid in action and as the constituencies would be three times, or nearly so, as great in population as those of the Commons this would result in the selection of men of sterling ability and professional and business standing in the community.

Little Stories of Well-Known People

A LITTLE boy said to the Hon. Hartley Dewart, leader of the Ontario Liberal party, "Why do people take different newspapers? Is it because of their politics?"

"Very often. What is your daddy?"

"My daddy is a Liberal, sir."

Mr. Dewart clapped him on the back approvingly. "That is fine. And you are going to be a Liberal, too."

"No, sir; the Globe hasn't any funnies."

In one of his recent speeches, J. J. Morrison of the United Farmers of Ontario, came to a pause with the following: "You can't fool all the people all of the time."

Whereupon a powerful voice from the audience flung at him: "So that is the reason you do not believe in making it a People's Party."

"I know what a minister of labor does," she said.

"Well, what does he do?"

"He preaches to everyone else to work."

BIGGEST U.S. LIAR

MR. J. W. DAVIS, the retiring American ambassador to Great Britain, recently told an amusing after-dinner story concerning one of his countrymen who entered a train in the United States carrying a large and varied assortment of fishing tackle.

There was one other man in the carriage. He looked up.

"Been fishing?" he inquired.

"Sure thing. Just come from Massachusetts."

The other man raised his eyebrows. "But it's the close season for fishing there," said he.

'Oh, I never worry about that," was the answer. "I go just the same, and I get trout that size. Huge fellows." He indicated a size.

"Yes, that's all very well," said the other. "But do you know who I am?"

"No."

"I'm the game steward of Massachusetts."

"Indeed? And do you know who I am?"

'Can't say I do."

"Well, I'm the biggest liar in America."

MUTE IN PARLIAMENT

FOR nineteen years Sir Courtney Ilbert, who is retiring, has been clerk of the British House of Commons. He has described himself as the Commons' "professional mute, obliged even to refrain from strong language through long and dreary nights of debate."

Sir Courtney is fond of the story of a constituent who listened from the strangers' gallery to a speech by his member.

Meeting the M.P. afterwards, he said, "There are some parts of your speech that I find it hard to understand."

"Point them out," replied the member, who was a bit of a wag. "I'll rewrite the other portions. I intended the entire speech to be that way."

Palmists Read The Prince's Hand

They Tell Him He Is Fond of Nature and Beauty and That He Will Live Long.

LONDON, ENG.

THE Prince of Wales spent a crowded two hours at the ex-service men's exhibition at the White City.

Not long after he entered "Professor" James, late of the 4th East Surreys, invited him to have his hand read. The Prince smilingly held out his hand and laughed heartily when he was told in solemn tones, "You are fond of the opposite sex, good-natured, very thoughtful, possessed of big ideals, and keen on sport."

"Very true and very flattering," was the Prince's comment. "What is your fee?"

"Sixpence, sir," replied the palmist.

The Prince, wishing to pay more than the usual fee but having no change, turned to his equerry, borrowed five shillings, gave it to "Professor" James and passed on smiling.

Prof. Conrad Lyle also read the Prince's hand. He said: "You have a wonderful long life line and fairly good health throughout your life. Any little weakness that you might have would occur in the upper part of the chest. The head line droops towards the mount of the moon, denoting a keen imagination.

"You would have done well if it had been necessary to take up horticulture, poultry farming, cattle breeding, or anything near to nature. The nearer you get to nature the better it will be for you.

"You have got good powers of organization and of control, and would be very successful in controlling others.

"You are very artistic and fond of beauty in your surroundings in all forms, and you should be good at drawing, designing, painting, and music. Music, especially, is well shown, but more an appreciation of music than cultivation."

The Prince agreed to this, saying he was "very fond of music, but did not like practice at all."

A BRITISH OIL KING

FANCY boxes covered with shells and inscribed "A Present from Margate" laid the foundation to the fortune of Sir Marcus Samuel, the British oil magnate, who has just retired.

His father sold these boxes to holiday-makers and was thus able to send his son abroad, where he acquired the commercial knowledge which brought him millions.

LEMIEUX'S TWO SEATS IN QUEBEC

Have Brought Him Into Trouble in Commons — A Distinguished Parliamentarian.

A SUPREME ORATOR

Something of Laurier's Grand Manner—His Speeches Choice Essays — His Record.

By M. GRATTAN O'LEARY.

MR. RODOLPHE LEMIEUX, whose representation of two constituencies in the Commons has brought him before the committee on privileges and elections, is among the decreasing number of distinguished Canadians in parliament. Although a comparatively young man, he has been in the House of Commons for a quarter of a century; has been solicitor-general, postmaster-general, and minister of marine; has worthily represented the Dominion on the stage of international affairs; has been honored by the governments of France and Japan; and to-day, with reputation assured, sits in parliament as the intellectual successor of Laurier, a brilliant career still ahead of him.

Mr. Ernest Lapointe's many brilliant qualities have recently brought him to the fore as a potent figure in French Canada, but they have not been sufficiently outstanding to dim the light of Mr. Lemieux's supremacy. Mr. Lapointe is eloquent, ardent and practical, but his oratorical gifts are inferior to those of Mr. Lemieux, his experience and knowledge sparser, his prestige less great and his personality less interesting. There is something of the atmosphere, of the "grand manner," of Laurier about Lemieux. Like Sir Wilfrid, he is a lover, and a master, of the best in English literature; has the same admiration for the British character and constitution, the same reverance for the great figures and achievements of mid-Victorian Liberalism. It is always a pleasure to sit in the press gallery and hear a speech by Mr. Lemieux. His addresses, mostly delivered without notes, are really the choicest of essays, enriched by quotations from the noblest in British literature.

His Political Heroes

GLADSTONE, Peel, O'Connell and Bright are his political heroes, although they sometimes share a place in his speeches with the great writers and statesmen of France; and not even Dr. Michael Clark excels him in the art of apt quotation. Mr. Lemieux's oratory, indeed, is one of the prized possessions of a House of Commons conspicuously barren of orators. Less direct and practical than Mr. Lapointe and Dr. Clark more florid than Sir Wilfrid Laurier, his ardent, impassioned, sometimes tempestuous style has an irresistible appeal to the ear. Although at his best when denouncing his foes, or dwelling upon the glories of the Liberal past, some of his finest addresses have been upon other and less conflicting themes. Of this class was his oration upon Laurier, which will take its place among the finest flowers of Canadian parliamentary eloquence. Its close—directed to the Quebec members who sat with tear-dimmed eyes behind him—has an elevation and a solemn beauty that would not be unworthy of Lincoln or Bright. He was speaking a last farewell of French Canada to her greatest son, and said:

"We say farewell and we thank you. We thank you for having thus gathered around you your own people, the descendants of those Canadians of old, the last to give up the fight in that last battle, who, with souls anguished by defeat, escorted the Marquis of Montcalm from the gates of Old Quebec to the Chateau St. Louis. We thank you for having lifted them up to you and invited them to share your glory.

"Farewell. Close to your resting place, amid maples and poplars, adorned by the coming spring with luxuriant foliage, we shall many of us congregate to pray in the tongue of your ancestors. The field wherein you lie, whose tender embrace you received, will be light to you. For it is part of that native land whose history is three centuries old and whose motherly womb will some day cover our meanness with its vastness and shroud our nothingness with its perennity. Adieu!"

The Famed Lemieux Act

BUT it is not alone in the sphere of eloquence that the career of Lemieux has been great. He gave to Canada one of its most practical pieces of legislation, famed the world over as the Lemieux Act; and under his administration the postoffice had its most prosperous years. In the war, too, he was a tower of strength, and although his opinions on conscription were not those of the majority of his countrymen, the death of his only son on the battlefield told that his heart beat true; and so doughty an opponent as Sir Sam Hughes has paid tribute to his services and his patriotism.

The circumstances under which his representation of two constituencies are brought before the committee on elections, hardly do him credit. His position, certainly, is hostile to his professions of Liberalism, and a denial of the principles of really responsible government. Nevertheless, while all should desire to see Mr. Lemieux deprived of one of his seats, few should care to see him deprived of both. The House of Commons can ill afford to lose much of intellect or talent. It has row upon row of men who, cold, hard and unimaginative, know little of parliament's traditions, and are careless of them; it has all too few with the culture and the love and knowledge of what government means that distinguish Mr. Lemieux.

No. 32.—SIR GEORGE FOSTER

By Emil Longue-Beau.

THE appointment was after lunch at his office in the west block. On Wellington street, near the entrance, I was overtaken by Sir George, who was always a brisk walker.

"These historic buildings are beginning to look almost out of date, don't they?" he asked, noticing my gaze at the structure whence he has observed the late morning sun now during nearly ten solid years. "They were fine when I first used to come here; but, compared with the new Houses they seem dingy, and scarcely fit the times. Let us go in through the basement door. The elevator comes down there, and saves the climb up the steps. It's not quite as public as the other way—more suited to a confession," he concluded, with the dry humor that has seldom overflowed, though it has always been available.

Soon we were in the room of the minister of trade and commerce, and Sir George began to talk about himself, first remarking that he supposed it was better to give out than to be drawn out.

"Do you know," he began, "when I look around and back, I think I must have come out of the Ark. I was elected a member of the house of commons thirty-nine years ago. I became minister of marine and fisheries in 1885, and was minister of finance when Sir John Macdonald died, and I carried the bag until the grand old party came to grief in 1896. To have been minister of finance under five prime ministers is something of a record. When I reflect on the changes I have seen since 1896 it isn't wonderful that those years of my prime seem antediluvian. Why, I had been in the cabinet four years before I was married. The third time I went to England on official business I felt as if I was carrying all the financial responsibilities of the world on my shoulders; for my job was to arrange a loan of eleven million dollars. White and Drayton would spend that much before shaving in the morning. I have budgeted for about only half of what we seem likely to regard as a normal deficit on our side-lines of national finance, the national railways."

"Well, Sir George," I broke in, "it is a unique experience to listen to Sir Noah, though you never emulated your ancestor who once got drunk."

"I imagine Noah became a prohibitionist after his intoxication," replied Sir George, "though, long before his lapse, he had sense enough to come in out of the wet. But I was a prohibitionist as soon as I came to years of discretion. I forsook a professorship to lecture on temperance. Though I have since had many other wide interests I have never forsaken my first evangelistic love. Drink was never a temptation to me. "Wine, women and song" has an alluring sound: but it never got farther than my ears. For forty years I have been able to fill up on a blue book and a biscuit. I am still a believer in the efficacy of water."

"You are a Baptist, I believe," said I.

"Yes, in moderation," was the answer. "The Baptists are very strong in parts of my native province. In some counties they are as preponderant as the Catholics are in Quebec. But, though I helped to form the Baptist Union while I was in the political wilderness, I prefer to be called a Free Christian. I have always been in the Conservative party, but have also always been a bit of a radical, in comparison with some of my friends. You knew Nicholas Flood Davin?"

"Not personally, but very well by repute. He used to look upon wine when it was red."

"Poor Davin," said Sir George. "He was our most brilliant man, though Sir John used to say that if he had had a little common sense he would never have been heard of. Whatever he did with wine he had sound views about women. In 1895 he moved a resolution in favor of women's suffrage. Though I was in the cabinet I supported it; and received a good deal of chaff from some of my colleagues. I sometimes wish that chaff was the worst stuff given me. I wish also, if I must be candid, that I had done more chaffing and less blistering. My, but I had a tongue in the old days, and I used it in a way that deserved the double edged compliment paid me by a Toronto paper—that I was the most effective debater in parliament; but nobody loved me when I sat down."

"What would you teach a class of young politicians who desired to serve their country more than they wanted to aggrandize themselves?" I enquired.

"Well, that's rather a large order," responded the parliamentary daddy of them all. "I don't think I'll answer that directly, but will draw a little on what a long and sometimes bitter experience has taught me. It is quite true that at one time, and speaking politically, nobody loved me—I might have been a fat man. Maybe I would have mellowed sooner—and you know I have mellowed, glory be—if I had had experience of how the modern generation beings up father. My friends tell me it's a great thing to be taught some of your p's and q's by your own bright children, who reflect some of your own faults sufficiently to make you realize how much they, as well as you, have missed. Borden's first cabinet was strangely lacking in paternal experience — did you ever notice that about half of us couldn't muster a son or daughter between us?"

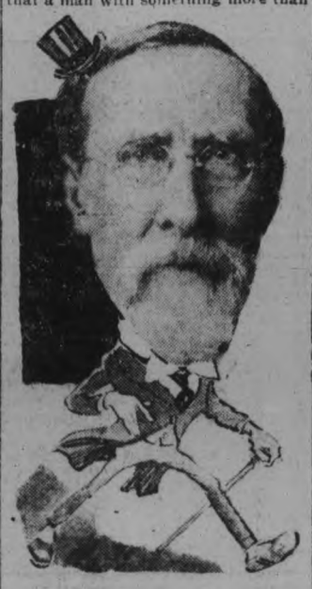
"Did he? Borden never noticed it. As to myself, not having been born with an excess of geniality, and being of a frugal mind, and always, too, something of a solitary—another misfortune—I never associated very intimately with my fellow members. Lecturing on prohibition is apt to beget a certain austerity, unless you happen to have a disposition like Pussyfoot Johnston's. They used to say I scarcely ever spoke to our supporters during the session, unless they spoke to me. I was aloof with my friends, and unnecessarily bitter with my opponents. That wasn't all my fault. The party orthodoxy led you to accuse the other side of faults of which unlimited gall was the least. You developed an excess of spleen yourself. But, to be fair to the George Foster that was—and he wasn't really a bad chap—I must say that a man with something more than the average gift of speech, and a turn for dissection, doesn't always realize the distance between his articulation and that of ordinary individuals—Pardon me for being as blunt as that, but you are not looking for false modesty. Such a man was I. Things that hurt the other fellow didn't strike me as particularly out of the way, because I was quite willing to take as good as I gave; but very few could pay me back in my own oratorical currency.



Sir George always was a brisk walker.

"I won't go into the details of how I came to see that the kinder side of life is the better side—I mean publicly, of course, for on the domestic side I have had great good fortune, which remains with me. The difference with me is remarkable. I don't think any man in this House of Commons has a single unkindly thought towards me; and I haven't an unkindly feeling towards anybody there; though it's quite a trial sometimes, to suffer fools gladly."

"You spoke of the disadvantages of an unusual gift of speech, Sir George. May I ask you how you rank yourself as a speaker?"

"You certainly don't want me to err on the side of reticence, do you?" he replied. "I may tell you I don't rank myself as highly as I once did; though, to be open with you, I really think I speak better than I ever did. On this continent we have too much supposed that oratory is the mere multiplication of resounding words. New Brunswick in my youth was very subject to Yankee influences; and I suffered a little in that way. I've been told that a city editorship would have compacted my style.

"I am at my best in a sustained argument that I have had time to prepare. At other times I'm too verbose and have too few original ideas. While I have always had a remarkable facility I never had much originality. I can't at the moment recall any phrases of mine that have caught the public fancy. I am not a coiner of phrases that stick.

"As we are on the candid side, perhaps I may tell you a story about my speaking that has not been told before. Just after being elected for North Toronto in 1904, I presided at one of the temperance meetings that were then held Sunday afternoons in Massey Hall. I hadn't anything new to say, and after going on some time I said I wouldn't stand longer between the audience and the speaker of the day. 'Hear, hear,' came from a voice on the ground floor. I did not stop as soon as I intended, and, though the comment struck me rather forcibly at the time, I thought no more of it until several years afterwards I met the commentator, who recalled the incident."

"Rather an unpleasant man?"

"Not at all," said Sir George. "He told me that he was not then a resident of Canada, though he became one shortly after. He was spending a week in Toronto that Sunday and dropped into the meeting unexpectedly. He thought I was very laboriously trying to say something about temperance, and succeeding in really saying nothing. His interjection was intended to speed up the meeting. As I still went on, he said, he asked the man sitting next him, 'Who is this old windbag?' and got the answer, 'That ain't no windbag; that's the Honorable G. E. Foster.' So, you see, I had one admirer, even if it was my off day."

"But why repeat such a story so long after the event?" I asked Sir George.

"Just a little vanity, on my part," came the genial response. "My former critic was something of an artist, as well as a very frank man. He added that he gave me that piece of old information because he had frequently heard me since and wanted me to know that his judgment had been absolutely reversed on experience."

"Quite decent of him," I said.

"More than decent," from Sir George. "I had so seldom been a chairman that I forgot that brevity is the soul of presidency. It is a mistake to suppose that whenever you are on your legs people expect a full speech from you. Occasionally it is better to send them hungry away than to surfeit them with discourse. I've been learning a good deal these last dozen years. Fortunately I had become a grateful pupil in the hardest of schools before we returned from the bleak hills of opposition in 1911. But it was good—mighty good—after fifteen years, to be able to put your foot once more under the dining table of a private car.

"Of course, even then, everything wasn't lovely. I don't mind telling you I would like to have been minister of finance again. But I took White's elevation philosophically. And, if I haven't made the mark I hope to make in the commerce department I think, on the whole, the country has done well by my service. Two of my characteristics, though, I shall never cure. I hate to spend public money; and I want to do too much of the work of my office myself. I simply can't help answering letters that I should never see; and I'm afraid to do bold and costly things that would not have been possible in Canada's penurious days."

"For instance, early in the war we talked largely about capturing a goodly share of Germany's export trade. A convention of manufacturers was proposed. To launch a campaign to that end, I asked a well-known trade propagandist to handle the matter. He told me several thousand dollars should be spent on familiarizing the public with the idea, before the manufacturers assembled at Ottawa. That frightened me, and the convention didn't meet. Still, my department has done more advertising in my time than it ever did before. We spent barrels of money on 'Eat an apple a day' advertising.' I wonder what would have happened if Borden, in 1911, had taken a suggestion that was made by one of our Liberal allies who had himself made a fortune while he was in politics. It was that Melvin Jones, head of Massey-Harris and minister of trade and commerce. How little the country knows of what it has missed!"

The reader will not take too literally the observations of leading men about themselves recorded by Mr. Longue Beau, but will understand that they are what the speakers would be likely to say confessionally.

LIVE STOCK PRICES LOWER IN STATES THAN IN CANADA

All classes of live stock sold at much lower prices in the United States markets than in Canada this week.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy, of Toronto, reports for his firm a busy week in export cattle, having secured space on the following steamers for shipments.

	Head.
Cabotia, Montreal-Glasgow	82
Tulsa, Baltimore-Antwerp	200
Western Star, Baltimore-Glasgow	105
Western King, Baltimore-Liverpool	100
Manchester Shipper, St. John Manchester	100
Cornishman, Montreal-Liverpool	300
Trader, Montreal-Liverpool	172
Orthia, Montreal-Glasgow	300
And sheep	480
Yapalaga, Philadelphia-Antwerp	200
	2039

These steamers sail within six days, from April 3 oto May 6, inclusive.

One hundred and fifty cars of live stock were handled through the H. P. Kennedy, Ltd., office Torinto, in one week, their approximate values including freights, etc., being $500,000.00.

One straight train load of 23 cars was bought in Kansas City. Prime steers averaging 1,300 to 1,400 cost 7 1-2 to 8 cents. Thirty-five cars were bought in Pennsylvania; best quality steers 8 to 8 1-2c; and several cars in Chicago a prices ranging from 6 3-4 to 8 1-4c.

A few cars were bought on Edmonton and Winnipeg Markets at higher levels than the American cattle cost.

The above firm also bought several cars of American lambs on the Chicago market and paid the 25 per cent. duty and sold them on the Toronto market.

Mr. Kennedy reports orders booked ahead for May and early June for export cattle. There will be a steady demand for choice cattle.

NEED POLICE RESERVES TO KEEP BACK THIRSTY CROWD

NEW YORK, April 28.—Police reserves had to be called yesterday to hold back crowds that gathered when 600 gallons of real beer, seized by the police in their efforts to dry up the city under the new State law, was poured down a sewer on East 123rd street. Men and women carrying pitchers, basins and even cups tried to break through the lines, but were driven back.

JAP ADVENTURER ENJOYS VANCOUVER

After Fastest Dog-sled Dash Ever Made.

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 27. — (Canadian Press.)— Jugrio Wada, Japanese explorer, traveler, adventurer and celebrated "musher" is in Vancouver enjoying for a time the delights of civilization, following what is said to be the fastest winter dog-sled dash ever made from Edmonton to Fort Norman and back. His name and fame have extended all through Alaska and the Yukon, the Peace river and the Mackenzie river basins, and his last exploit, done in the interest of a local syndicate, has earned him new laurels.

He found the trip to Fort Norman "comparatively esy." There was no time on the journey that he did not see human beings every day. Habitations of the Indians are at the most only forty or fifty miles apart, he said. Wada filed 20 miles south of the Norman well, getting five claims of 640 acres each under the old regulations.

Some years ago Wada with his dog team and sled went from Nome to Cape Prince of Wales, thence round the Arctic Coast to Cape Blossom, on to Point Narrow and so to Herschel Island.

REPORT

Hamilton, May 2, (C. P.)—When spoken to yesterday afternoon regarding the finding of ommissioner John A. Paterson in the investigation into the administration of justice by Magistrate David Hastings, of Dunville, J. L. ounsell, who acted for the latter, stated that he was not the least bit surprised thatthe commissioner had reported as he did. In fact, Mr. Counsell said, the report was just what he, Magistrate Hastings and F. R. Lalor, M. P., had expected.

Mr. ounsell did not care to discuss the matter at any length, as he said the case was far from finished yet. The writ for alleged criminal libel, which he had served on Hon. W. E. Raney, Attorney-General, in pursuance of the instructions of Mr. Hastings and Mr. Lalor would proceed. That was a certainty.

AMENDMENTS TO N.B. GAME ACT.

Endangers What is Known as Hunters' Paradise.

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 29 (Canadian Press). — Proposed amendments to New Brunswick's Game Act have drawn the attention of the Province generally to a situation allegedly perilous to the country's reputation as a hunter's paradise. Guides and big game hunters declare that the law which permits the sale of game meat in the public market threatens the big moose and deer with extinction, and that already there is a rapid decline in the numbers of game animals in the Province.

Guides say that in the old days when it was illegal to sell moose and deer carcases in the market, residents shot only for their own use. At that time many of the farmers did not like game meat, and seldom bothered going out with their rifles. But during the war years when meat was scarce, and prices high, as a war measure, the game was permitted to be sold. This, it is declared, has resulted in a big business of market hunting every fall. The settled is accused of taking out a license for himself and every member of his family and getting the legal number of animals on each permit. As a moose carcase brings anywhere from $75.00 to $100.00, it is easily seen that forest game may be a large source of revenue for the farmer. The financial inducement of hunting for the market is alleged to be indirectly turning away from the Province many wealthy hunting parties that formerly came to New Brunswick every year.

OBSTRUCTIONISTS GO TO U.S. FEDERAL JAIL

Two Men Sentenced Leave Chicago for Leavenworth.

CHICAGO, April 29.—Dispirited and leaderless in the absence of William D. ("Big Bill") Haywood, a fugitive from justice, ten I. W. W. members have departed for the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kansas, to complete their sentences for obstructing the nation's war work.

They were the Chicago contingent of the forty-seven I.W.W. who recently had been denied a new trial by the United States Supreme Court and who were ordered back to prison for terms varying from five to 20 years after being at liberty on bonds.

Haywood disappeared about a month ago and has been reported as seeking Bolshevik aid in Russia. "We have reports that he is now in Russia, but will notify us, of his willingness to return by cablegram within the next few days," said a U. S. official.

The prisoners were accompanied to the train by a sad-faced group of wives, sweethearts and friends. Last farewells apparently had already been said and they stood about in silent groups, several of the women weeping in their husband's arms.

The prisoners were accompanied only by John J. Bradley, United States' marshal, and were not handcuffed.

A Real Bicycle For a Real Boy

"WHY don't you ride your bicycle to school any more, Bill?"

"Well, Dad, everybody laughs at it. The other boys ride rings round me, and call it the old boneshaker."

"Hmm! How long have you had it?"

"Why, it's three years, now. You got it second-hand, Dad—remember?"

"That's right! What kind of bicycles have the other boys?"

"They're nearly all C.C.M.'s. The best ones are, anyway."

"I see. What make would you like best?"

"Why, of course, a C. C. M., Dad, every time!"

Dad Offers Him One for Passing

"Well, now, look here, Bill. If you'll pitch in at school and pass your exams., I'll get you one of those C. C. M. Bicycles. How does that strike you?"

"Dad, I'd do almost anything for a C. C. M. You just watch me!"

"That's the stuff! I've heard C. C. M. Bicycles well spoken of, and one should be a prize worth winning."

"It sure is. C. C. M.'s look so snappy and ride so easy. Pewee Bowman has one of the new models and it has the C. C. M. Triplex Crank Hanger. He loaned it to me yesterday for five minutes. Gee, it was just like riding on air!"

"Why, what difference does the Triplex Hanger make?"

"Well, there's never any looseness or tightness when you're pedalling. You feel that every single bit of weight you put on the pedals counts for speed.

"And the C. C. M. doesn't tire a fellow out, either, Dad. Why young Mac Reynolds—he's only half as big as me—rides around all day on his C. C. M. It never tires him out.

"And there's a special bike that I won't outgrow, Dad. It's equally good for a lad of nine or a youth of twenty. It's called the C. C. M. 18-inch Curved Bar Model."

"That's a fine idea, Bill. Dig in, now, pass your exams., and that C. C. M. bike is yours."

Pasteurized Milk

Pure Cows' Milk is the Best Milk for bottle-fed Babies, but it is not always possible to obtain Raw Milk in a state suitable to be fed to a young infant. Milk fit to be used raw must be produced under conditions which ensure rigid, scientific inspection, and which also allow of the Milk being used in a relatively short time after it is produced.

The question of Pasteurization must, therefore, be briefly considered. In Pasteurizing Milk, it is generally heated to 145 degrees F. and held at this temperature 30 minutes. This process when done by the best commercial methods, destroys 99 per cent. of the bacteria (germs) present in Milk and considerably delays its souring. However, the important result of Pasteurization is that, if properly done, it effectually kills any disease germs likely to be present, such as the germs of tuberculosis, diphtheria, or typhoid fever. For this reason, to render Milk a safe food, Pasteurization is now carried out to some extent in the majority of our cities of 10,000 inhabitants or over, and nearly all of the Milk that is used in seven of our largest cities is Pasteurized.

THINK VINCENT HIDING WITH AN EAR TORN OFF

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 28.—Bruised and cut and with his left ear torn off, it is said, John J. Vincent, 28 years old, of 11 Walnut street, Hamilton, is hiding somewhere in or near Niagara Falls, N.Y., afraid, the police believe, to seek medical attention for his injuries because he is sought by them after his sensational escape through the window of a moving train Tuesday afternoon.

AIRSHIP WITHQUT CREW BUT WITH LIQUOR CARGO

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 29. — A commercial airplane, loaded with 80 quarts of liquor, but minus a crew, was found peacefully resting on the municipal landing field yesterday. Nobody knew where it came from or when it arrived, and State officials were puzzled what to do with it, though they promptly seized its cargo. The State Prohibition Act does not cover confiscation of bootlegging aircraft. Probably the machine came from Cuba.

SPORT COMMENT

With the start of a season it may be of impaired interest to know that from the old Cubs of 1906 there are now just two survivors still attached to the pastime.

These two are John J. Evers, who returns to the Cubs as team leader, and Frank Schulte, who still remains in Class AA as an active performer—fifteen years after Chance's great machine won 116 games in a single year.

When Evers was wearing alien uniforms the old guard still thought of him as a Chicago Cub, and wherever his people finish this year we offer a hunch that the Evers-Cub combination of 1921 will be one of the season's features in more ways than two.

* * * * * *

In all this early rambling gossip one might argue that if Dempsey could knock down 250-pound Willard seven times in a round he ought to be able to knock 172-pound Carpentier out into the crowd.

But there is this difference: Slow-moving, over-confident Willard was a fixed target, where Dempsey could plant himself and put everything he had into the wallop.

It isn't so easy to land solidly upon a shifty, fast-moving opponent. Dempsey hit Brennan often enough, but few of the punches landed with any solid effect. Very few of them. Bill was either going away or ducking or blocking with sufficient speed to remove part of the deadly sting.

Carpentier is faster than Brennan, and he is supposed to be a better boxer. So he should be even harder to hit. And against a hard hitter, such as Carpentier is, one can't take too many risks. So the polite early chit-chat moves back and forth with a tidal wave of argument and guesses piling up.

* * * * * *

Adrian C. Anson, John McGraw, and Willie Keeler were three great hitters who never could be induced to take many wallops at balls that were not over the plate. When they swung at the horsehide they had a very definite idea that they were going to connect. All three of them had a keenness of vision that would make a hawk think it needed glasses. Anson always was willing to bet that, with an umpire who would call them right, no pitcher could strike them out. McGraw had an ability to foul off good balls that drove pitchers wild, and really was the indirect cause of the foul-strike rule. One season he struck out just three times.

As for Keeler, they used to say that he never struck out unless an umpire called the third strike on him, and that if an umpire did call it, he generally was wrong.

McGraw may have annexed a few pounds and a few grey hairs since he quit active service, but he still can hit the ball. There is many an old Giant rooter who would be perfectly willing to see John J. step into the batter's box to-day if a hit was needed to win a game.

The Red Cross Carries On---Why?

1. Because of demands made upon it in dealing with the terrible aftermath of disease and suffering which always follows war.
2. Because of the serious health conditions revealed by the war—more than half of our Canadian young manhood unfit for combatant military service.
3. Because an international conference of medical experts, realizing that voluntary organization was necessary as an aid to Governments in solving the world's health problems, decided that "no other organization is so well prepared to undertake these great responsibilities as the Red Cross," and that "no movement deserves more the hearty and enthusiastic support of all people than does this."

You May Not Be Sick, But Are You Really Well?

Are you one of those people who think that they are well just because they are not sick in bed?

Hundreds of thousands of men and women are troubled with Indigestion, Constipation, Sleeplessness, or just plain Nervousness. As a matter of fact, your trouble may be of such long standing that you have become accustomed to it as a matter of course.

The CAUSE of Ninety-five per cent. of all Disorders is that the Nerve which feeds the Organ involved, is not supplying the VITAL FORCE to keep that organ in good working order. In other words, the CAUSE of so-called Disease is purely mechanical.

THERE CANNOT BE ANY ORGANIC TROUBLE WHEN YOU HAVE A PERFECTLY NORMAL SPINE.

The Chiropractor locates the CAUSE of your trouble—finding it to be Nerve Pressure at the point where the Nerves leave the Spine. This Pressure is caused by some of the Vertebra (Small Bones of the Spine) being out of position. These are put back in position by means of CHIROPRACTIC VERTEBRAL ADJUSTMENTS; the Nerve Pressure is relieved; and the Vital Force flows uninterruptedly to the various Organs. HEALTH IS THE RESULT.

There is no mystery in Chiropractic. It is simple and logical. It is an exact Science because it is mechanical, and by mechanical means corrects the CAUSE of Disease.

You will find it very much worth your while to talk to your Chiropractor and find out just what he can do for you.

ANOTHER DRAW IN GORDON SERIE

C.F.E. AND CANADIAN WOOLENS UNABLE TO DECIDE WINNER

The Canadian Woollens and C. G. E. /soccer team who played a 1—1 draw last week in the Gordon Cup Sedies resumed their argument at the Oval last night and after seventeen minutes at hard fought football retired with honors still even. Last nights score was 2—2 so that a third game will be required to select a winner.

A big crowd of fans thronged the side lines and they were well rewarded for their pilgrimage to the Oval by being given a snappy exhibition that was full of interest until the final whistle.

C. G. E. had a slight edge in the first half, although Woollens were the first to score, a long shot by Jimmy Shaw which Griffin thought was going over the bar and did not try for dropping into the net. The C. G. E. rallied and had a little better of the argument until the turnover. Ted Bartley put them on even terms when he got away along left wing and shooting from an almost impossible angle close to the side line, fooled Fenner the ball being partly through when the Woollens' goalie got his hands on the leather. A little later on a passing run Williamson on a snap shot that gave Fenner no chance to save, ripped a low one into the corner of the nets putting Canadian General ahead. The figures were 2—1 at the end of the half.

It was a different story in the second half. Woollens improved greatly, opened up a clever combination and were early on the offensive They forced three or four corners in rapid succession and tested Griffin at close range. Finally with the half well under way Jimmy Shaw got a chance and his bullet like shot was deflected from McDonald's shoulder past Griffin for the equalizing goal.

Alex McKinley was an impartial and capable referee.

The teams:—

CANADIAN WOOLLENS

Goal—Fenner.
Backs—Cridland, Chambers.

Hamilton, Ont. May 4—Striking printers in Hamilton were aroused this morning over a rumor to the effect that strike breakers from Toronto were being brought in. Both stations were closely watched but the pickets were unable to pick out their non-union brethren. One member of the union declared that information had been received from reliable authorities in Toronto that at least 40 men were to be brought here to break the strike several of the best printers in the city were offered positions in print shops in Montreal and Ottawa and ten men accepted the offer. Solicitors from these cities appeared at the Typographical headquarters in the city in search of men.

The strike of the building trades men has greatly lessened since Monday. Several contractors have acceded to the demands of the men with slight provisions and it is estimated now by the business agent of the men affected that less than 400 are on strke, the total of strikers in the building trades Monday was 1790.

DRAMATIC TALES OF DISASTER TO FREIGHTER OFF OREGON COAST

Seattle, May 4 (Canadian Press)—Forty three of the sixty five survivoes of the Japaness freighter Tokuyo Maru which burned to the water's edge yeterday off the Oregon coast with a loss of eight lives were in Seattle hospitals today suffering from shock and exposure. Others have recovered.

Officers of the transport Dufor which effected the rescue told many dramatic stories today regarding the disaster. Many seamen were unable to get into boats and were rescued from the sea. The Bufor captain stated there were constant explosions and with every explosion flames shot a hundred feet into the air and bales of cotton were hurled two hundred feet high. The freighter carried a cargo of coal, fuel oil, nitrats, lumber and cotton.

THE PURCHASE OF RIVERSIDE DROPPED NOW

CITY COUNCIL VOTES AGAINST EXPROPRIATING PARK PROPERTY DESPITE BY-LAW

The Railway Committee recommended in its report to the city Council that the City Solicitor be authorized to take the necessary steps to expropriate the properties of G. A. Ellis, G. H. Ellis and D. J. Lundy on Hunter street east for a public park. Ald. Hay fought strenuously for the expropriation of Riverside Park as well as in order to keep faith with the ratepayers. He moved an amenrment that Riverside Park be also expropriated, but the amendment was lost on the following vote:—

Ayes	Nays
Ald. Hay	Ald. Phelan
Ald. Jones	Ald. Hamilton
Ald. Whitehouse	Ald. Turner
	Ald. Crowe
	Ald. Morrison
	Ald. Gainey
	Mayor McIntyre

The Special Bridge Committee reported two tenders for the Chamberlain Estate building on Hunter St. and the lease of the land. Mr. Butcher offered $1000 and A. E. Micks, $1256. They recommended that the matter be left over for further consideration.

The committee also recommended that the 57th Regiment be asked to pay for the lumber used in the skating rink at the armories, or return it.

The Legal Committee's report embraced a recommendation that the City Solicitor be authorized to offer George Evans, with prejurice, $100 in full settlement of his claim for damage to his motor car on Charlotte street and, if he accepts this offer, that the City Treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque to the City Solicitor for that sum, for the purpose of settling the claim. The report was adopted with this recommendation.

CONTRACTS BY PULL, CHARGE

CRERAR SAYS ATTEMPTS MADE TO GET RAILWAY CONTRACTS IN THIS WAY

Ottawa, May 4 (Canadian Press) That certain individuals were given to attempting to use political influence to secure contracts for ties and that it was the business of the committee to frown on such practice was stated before the Parliamentary Committee on Government owned hailways this morning by Hon. T. A. Crerar, progressive party leader. Railway officials would not be fulfilling their duties if they permitted themselves to be influenced, he said.

R. C. Vaughan, vice president, said the ties were purchased where the price was favorable to the railway. Other supplies were purchased on a similar basis.

Mr. Crerar later said a section of the public looked on the National Railways as a cow that could be milked.

Reports that new German propositions relative to the Reparations question had been received which were current here last night, were denied this morning by Louis Loucheur, French Minister of Liberated Regions, attending meeting of the Supreme Conucil.

TO OUR READERS AND ADVERTISERS

Yesterday's "Strike" issue contained four pages and today's issue will consist of six pages with some of the regular news departments showing signs of returning to norman conditions. Additional men will be o hand tomorrow when the Examiner expects to be able to serve its readers and advertisers in a larger measure that was possibly yesterday or today.

AN EXPLANATION TO READERS REGARDING TEMPORARY INCONVENIENCE

The Examiner desires to explain to its readers and advertisers its temporary inability to handle news or advertising in any considerable volume, due to conditions which are beyond its control, namely the strike of its former employees for an $8 a week wage increase and a 44-hour week, demands which, if granted, would virtually be suicide for the paper.

Our mechanical staff is gradually being bhilt hp again with new men, but until such time as this process is more nearly complete we ask the support of our readers and advertisers in our present attempt to accomodate them with limited mechanical facilities.

In explanation of the stand we have taken in the dispute with our former employees wish to point out that these men for many years have worked in The Examiner plant in harmony with the management and under working conditions as good as we could provide. Under last year's agreement they received an increase of $9 a week in the face of the steadily increasing cost of newspaper production, cost which in the past few years has forced the suspension of many newspapers in this country and the United States. Yet in spite of last year's large increase and the almost prohibited cost of newspaper production this year they demand an agreement which would entail, roughly, an increase of $20,000 a year in our production costs, and this while industrial depression is causing unemployment in a degree unprecedented in many years, accompanying destitution among thousands, and wage cuts in nearly every branch of industry. This demand is beyond the power of The Examiner to grant if it wishes to keep its head above water.

The figures were 2—1 at the end of the half.

It was a different story in the second half. Woollens improved greatly, opened up a clever combination and were early on the offensive They forced three or four corners in rapid succession and tested Griffin at close range. Finally with the half well under way. Jimmy Shaw got a chance and his bullet like shot was deflected from McDonald's shoulder past Griffin for the equalizing goal.

The teams:—

CANADIAN WOOLLENS

Goal—Fenner.
Backs—Cridland, Chambers.
Half Backs—Frost, McMillan, Rutter.
Forwards—Shaw, H. Jones. Shaw, J. Shaw, Rappee.

C. G. E.

Glasgow, May 4 (Canadian Press) A Police inspectator was shot dead and detective a wounded here this morning in what is belived to have been the first Sinn Fein attack on police in Scotland.

The Sinn Feiners fired on the policemen who were escorting a van, conveying a man to prison, killing Inspector Johnston and wounding a detective. The assailants escaped.

(Exclusive to The Examiner)

Hamilton, Ont. May 4—Striking printers in Hamilton were aroused this morning over a rumor to the effect that strike breakers from Toronto were being brought in. Both stations were closely watched but the pickets were unable to pick out their non-union brethgen. One member of the union declared that information had been received from reliable authorities in Toronto that at least 40 men were to be brought here to break the strike several of the best printers in the city were offered positions in print shops in Montreal and Ottawa and ten men accepted the offer. Solicitors from these cities appeared at the Typographical headquarters in the city in search of men.

The strike of the building trades men has greatly lessened since Monday. Several contractors have acceded to the demands of the men with slight provisions and it is estimated now by the business agent of the men affected that less than 400 are on strke, the total of strikers in the building trades Monday was 1790.

43 SURVIVORS IN HOSPITALS

DRAMATIC TALES OF DISASTER TO FREIGHTER OFF OREGON COAST

Seattle, May 4 (Canadian Press)—Forty three of the sixty five survivess of the Japaness freighter Tokuyo Maru which burned to the water's edge yeterday off the Oregon coast with a loss of eight lives were in Seattle hospitals today suffering from shock and exposure. Others have recovered.

Officers of the transport Dufor which effected the rescue told many dramatic stories today regarding the disaster. Many seamen were unable to get into boats and were rescued from the sea. The Bufor captain stated there were constant explosions and with every explosion flames shot a hundred feet into the air and bales of cotton were hurled two hundred feet high. The freighter carried a cargo of coal, fuel oil, nitrats, lumber and cotton.

THE PURCHASE OF RIVERSIDE DROPPED NOW

The Railway Committee recommended in its report to the city Council that the City Solicitor be authorized to take the necessary steps to expropriate the properties of G. A. Ellis, G. H. Ellis and D. J. Lundy on Hunter street east for a public park. Ald. Hay fought strenuously for the expropriation of Riverside Park as well as in order to keep faith with the ratepayers. He moved an amenrment that Riverside Park be also expropriated, but the amendment was lost on the following vote:—

Ayes	Nays
Ald. Hay	Ald. Phelan
Ald. Jones	Ald. Hamilton
Ald. Whitehouse	Ald. Turner
	Ald. Crowe
	Ald. Morrison
	Ald. Gainey
	Mayor McIntyre

The Special Bridge Committee reported two tenders for the Chamberlain Estate building on Hunter St. and the lease of the land. Mr. Butcher offered $1000 and A. E. Micks, $1250. They recommended that the matter be left over for further consideration.

The committee also recommended that the 57th Regiment be asked to pay for the lumber used in the skating rink at the armories, or return it.

The Legal Committee's report embraced a recommendation that the City Solicitor be authorized to offer George Evans, with prejurice, $100 in full settlement of his claim for damage to his motor car on Charlotte street and, if he accepts this offer, that the City Treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque to the City Solicitor for that sum, for the purpose of settling the claim. The report was adopted with this recommendation.

COST OF PAVING

R. H. Parsons, City Engineer, estimated the total cost of the proposed street paving at $88,580..84. To pave George Street from the C. P. R. tracks to Romain street he estimated at $36,645..85, with an estimater rate per foot frontage of $4..11. The concrete pavement on McDonell street from Aylmer to Reid Sts., he estimated to cost $20,248..84, cost per foot frontage of $5..00, concrete paving on Water street from Brock to Dublin streets; $31,686..15, Simcoe street, from Water to Queen streets; $6,257..61, and the cost of

The Examiner desires to explain to its readers and advertisers its temporary inability to handle news or advertising in any considerable volume, due to conditions which are beyond its control, namely the strike of its former employees for an $8 a week wage increase and a 44-hour week, demands which, if granted, would virtually be suicide for the paper.

Our mechanical staff is gradually being bhilt hp again with new men, but until such time as this process is more nearly complete we ask the support of our readers and advertisers in our present attempt to accomodate them with limited mechanical facilities.

In explanation of the stand we have taken in the dispute with our former employees wish to point out that these men for many years have worked in The Examiner plant in harmony with the management and under working conditions as good as we could provide. Under last year's agreement they received an increase of $9 a week in the face of the steadily increasing cost of newspaper production, cost which in the past few years has forced the suspension of many newspapers in this country and the United States. Yet in spite of last year's large increase and the almost prohibited cost of newspaper production this year they demand an agreement which would entail, roughly, an increase of $20,000 a year in our production costs, and this while industrial depression is causing unemployment in a degree unprecedented in many yeafs, accompanying destitution among thousands, and wage cuts in nearly every branch of industry. This demand is beyond the power of The Examiner to grant if it wishes to keep its head above water.

CONTRACTS BY PULL, CHARGE

Ottawa, May 4 (Canadian Press) That certain individuals were given to attempting to use political influence to secure contracts for ties and that it was the business of the committee to frown on such practice was stated before the Parliamentary Committee on Government owned railways this morning by Hon. T. A. Crerar, progressive party leader. Railway officials would not be fulfilling their duties if they permitted themselves to be influenced, he said.

R. C. Vaughan, vice president, said the ties were purchased where the price was favorable to the railway. Other supplies were purchased on a similar basis.

Mr. Crerar later said a section of the public looked on the National Railways as a cow that could be milked.

Reports that new German propositions relative to the Reparations question had been received which were current here last night, were denied this morning by Louis Loucheur, French Minister of Liberated Regions, attending meeting of the Supreme Conucil.

TELLS OF NORTH ONTARIO

G. C. Bateman, general manager of the La Rose silver mines, addressing the Toronto board of trade on Tuesday, placed mining in the same class with agriculture, declaring these two to be the basic industries of the country, though the former was still in its childhood. In Porcupine, he said, Ontario had the second largest, if not the largest gold mine in the world.

PRINTERS GET $4.35 CUT IN WAGES, WEEK

CHICAGO BOARD OF ARBITRATION REDUCES PAY OF FOUR MAJOR CRAFTS

BASEBALL

The Fire Hall team tied with the Duffus Devils in an exciting game last night. The tie will be played of on Tuesday evening, May 10th.

The South End Wild Cats won from the Brownton Stars with a score of 9—3. Bronton batteries; Connors, Rogers, and Charlebois. South End Wild Cats; Dummit, Moore, Batley and Feeley.

The Beavers of East City lost to the South End Wild Cats last night by a score of 7—1. Batteries for Beavers; "Frenchy" Holland and Havey Smith. Wild Cats; Batley, Feeley, Moore and Dummit.

CONVENTION HERE

The meeting of the Ontario Social Service Council Convention to be held here on the 9th and 10th inst. will be one of the most important and significent meetings ever held in this city. As the delegates will be in the city two full days, and hoted accomodation is inadequate for their number, it is necessary to ask the householders of the city to open their homes. They will gladly pay full rates. Will all who can take delegates telephone Mr. J. J. Hartley, 234 Antrim street, at 736W.

Mantreal, May 4 (Canadian Press) At the annual meeting of the C. P. R. shareholders today the four retiring directors, E. W. Beatty, Hon. F. J. Beique, C. R. Hosmer and Hon. W. J. Shaughnessy were unanimously re-elected

At a special general meeting immediately following the directors were authorized to issue bonds, debentures or other securities as they deemed fit and at such times as they should approve, as collatoral to the consilidated debenture stock. In this connection no amount was mentioned, but president Beatty stated that there still remained unissued sixty seven millions of consolidated stocks. The annual meeting lasted fifteen minutes and the special session five minutes.

CHOICE RECIPES

Bread Crumb Salad.

Mix a cup of bread crumbs with a cup of hot milk, a teaspoon of butter and a little salt. When cold add two beaten eggs and turn into a hot, well-buttered pan. Fry brown, fold and serve.

Potato Salad.

Boil enough potatoes to make three cups. Add to them half a chopped onion, a tablespoon of chopped sweet red peppers, a bunch of chopped radishes, a tablespoon of chopped green peppers and mix with a boiled or mayonnaise dressing.

Orange Salad.

Cut the required number of oranges in half. Scoop out the pulp and add a very little sugar. Boil the rinds soft and cool. Fill with the pulp and a few slices of bananas. Serve on lettuce with a dressing made by mixing two tablespoons of the water in which the oranges were boiled, a tablespoon of lemon juice and a little olive oil. Mix well and season.

Rhubarb Pie.

Cut into small pieces enough rhubarb to make three cups, add the yolk of two eggs, two tablespoons of flour, a cup of sugar, half a lemon sliced very thin, and a little salt. Line a pie plate with pie crust, fill with the rhubarb mixture and bake until the rhubarb is tender. Beat the whites to a stiff froth, add two tablespoons of powdered sugar, dot by spoonfuls on the pie, and brown in the oven.

WEIGHT OF A CROWD

Interesting experiments were made some time ago at Harvard University which seem to demonstrate that engineers usually underestimate the maximum loading caused by dense crowds on bridges, floors and platforms. Forty men averaging 163 pounds in weight placed in a box six feet square caused an average pressure of 181 pounds to the square foot on the floor.

An engineer has estimated the weight per square foot of the densest crowds on the New York elevated railways at only 45 pounds, but since the Harvard experiments the opinion has been expressed that the maximum loading on the elevated cars and platforms may be nearer 181 than 45 pounds. This applies to other close packed crowds.

IT'S NOT WORTH WHILE

It's not worth while—the fretting
The sighing and the woe;
Best spend your time forgetting
Your troubles as they go;
Best look ahead for laughter
And take no time for tears—
The sunny days hereafter
Will make the golden years.

It's not worth while—the grieving
About the chances lost;
What gain are you receiving
The while you count the cost?
Forget them, O, forget them!
Look ahead and smile.
The blue days, tho you've met them,
Are none of them worth while.

It's not worth while—the whining
When things are going wrong,
The mourning and repining—
Mix sunshine with your song!
Come, shake the shades of sadness
And lose the dreams of gloom—
And your heart beats time for gladness
So give it lots of room!

—W. D. NESBIT.

A friend was in the office the other day and remarked that the present day disregard of money had reached even the children. To illustrate his point he told of seeing two children looking for a piece of money which one of them had lost on the sidewalk. After looking about for a moment one said, "Oh, let it go. It was only a dime." And they went blithely on their way. Another instance was related to me recently of a little girl whose parents were very poor. However, whatever they did have they lavished upon the child and she, being only in the primary room at school, had fabout all her earthly wants supplied. The day before Thanksgiving the teacher had special exercises and the little girl's fond mother came to view her proud offspring, as fond mothers so often do. In the course of the exercises the teacher had each child stand up and tell one thing for which he or she was thankful. Much to the poor mother's embarrassment (for it was a small town and every one knew her circumstances) the littel girl stood up and clearly piped, "I am glad my papa is rich."

Children should be brought up with an understanding of the value of money. A dime should mean ten pennies to them and not "only a dime." Otherwise they will surely grow into spendthrifts and bring sorrow to their parents' hearts. Furthermore they should be taught to realize the financial condition of their home. Not that any responsibility should be placed on their young shoulders, but so that they may realize why they cannot have as many marbles as Johnnie next door or as many dolls as Susie across the street and not think it is pure injustice on the part of their parents. Then, too, when they get a hobby horse or a new dollhouse as nicet as anyone's in town they will appreciate it for they will know it meant sacrifice in the home that they might be happy.

WHAT IS CONTENTMENT?

Is contentment a quality of mind to be found only in the aged couple? That is the way we usually picture it. We see a nice old couple sitting on their front porch in the summer time and we say they are "the picture of contentment." To be sure they are, but can't young people be contented too? At least they can have a negative contentment. While they may be strivint to better their condition in the future they can hold their mind in a state of contentment in regard to the mistakes of the past. They can realize that there is no use in "crying over spilt milk", that while they are crying they are only losing ground.

When Old Man Trouble comes, how are you going to act? Of course, you won't be glad to see him, but are you going to make the best of the situation? Are you going to be "a good sport" or "a quitter?" Are you going to take yim all over the neighborhood and try and leave him on some one else's door step, when he is really your own particular care? Or are you going to take him in and then forever after weary your friends to death telling them about your unhappiness?

Trouble comes to every one of us. There's not a one who doesn't get his share. You may think you know some man who hasn't met trouble but you haven't. He's just kept still about it, that's all. Now when trouble comes, don't whine. Make the best of it. Whining won't drive him away and it won't make you any frieds. Meet him with a grin and your head up.

MRS. A. JONES GETS A PRESENTATION.

On Eve of Her Departure For Bridgenorth.

Mrs. A. Jones, Concession street, who is removing to Bridgenorth shortly, was visited by a number of the members of the Auburn Sunday school at her home last evening, and presented with a handsome Methodist hymn-book, bound in morocco leather, as a token of their friendship and regret at her departure. An address, signed on behalf of the entire Sunday school, was as follows:

"Dear Friend and Fellow Worker:— It is with a feeling of regret tha we have heard of your intention of leaving the city, and especially of your severing your connection with the work to which you have been so long attached, the Auburn Union Sunday school, and where you have labored so earnestly and faithfully, amidst many trials and discouragements, sowing the good seed.

We feel assured that your work and labour of love has met the approval of our Heavenly Father, has not been in vain, and that numbers of lives have been benefitted and helped and pointed to the Saviour whom to know is life eternal, because of your efforts.

In recognition and appreciation of your services of the Master in this particular part of His vineyard, we the officers, leaders and members of the Sunday school, desire in some degree to express ourselves. Will you kindly accept this little gift as a slight token of our regard.

Trusting you may prosper and enjoy good health under the Divine blessings in the locality to which you are going, we remain,

Yours sincerely,

HAS ORIGINATED NEW CUCUMBER

BEAMSVILLE, MAY 4—A new greenhouse cucumber has been originated at the Vineland experimental station, which is capable of setting its fruit without fertilization. The work on this cucumber was started in 1915, and consisted in crossing the white pine type with the English long type. The fruit sets without fertilization, and hence is seedless. Present varieties will set some fruit without fertilization, but generally they do not set in commercial quantities, especially during the winter months. This means that hand pollination must be resorted to or that bees must be introduced into the greenhouse. Either method is unsatisfactory. Hand pollination entails a great deal of work, and bees will not work to advantage in the moist, humid atmosphere necessary to cucumber growing. As our markets demand a short type of cucumber, the English long cucumber is not grown to any great extent. The new cucumber is a very desirable type, from 8 to 10 inches long, 1¼ to 2 inches in diameter, even size throughout, with no suggestion of bottle neck. The skin is very smooth, almost completely free of spines, and it is a beautiful green color, with no white markings whatever. Specimens of this new fruit can now be seen growing at the Vineland Station, and greenhouse growers are asked to go down and see for themselves.

CIGARETTE BUTTS STARTED A FIRE

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., May 4. (Canadian Press.)—ohe wide scope of the Fire Prevention by-law of this city was recently demonstrated when a resident at a local hotel was fined $10 and costs for having cigarette butts in the waste paper basket in his room.

The room was searched by the fire chief and a police officer following a fire in the awning of the hotel just below the man's window, the assumption being that the blaze started from a stub dropped out of the window.

REV. DR. SYMONDS ILL

Vicar of Cathedral Underwent Operation

Montreal, May 2.—Rev. Dr. Symonds, who was opertaed upon on Saturday at noon, in the Montrea General Hospital, made as good a rally as could be expected, it wa reported last night. His conditio last night was fairly satisfactory though not such as to be free altogether from cause for anxiety. The cause of the operation was said to be serious internal trouble, the precise nature of which was not indicated. The news that the vicar o Christ Church Cathedral had bee suddenly stricken came to his parishioners and many citizens as a distinct shock. Prayers for his recovery were offered yesterday, and there were numerous enquiries made on his behalf.

WOMEN ELIGIBLY FOR JURY DUTY

EDMONTON, Alta. May 4—(Canadian Press.) — In accordance with a bill passed by the Alberta Legislature, women will now be eligible for jury duty in this province. They will not however be compelled to serve as jurors. The bill was passed after strong opposition, one of the opposing members declaring that no good woman should be present at some of the cases presented in court. A member favoring the bill declared that women ought to assume the responsibility. "It was no worse for women to serve on juries than for women to be forced to attend the trials. Consientious women would be willing to do their duty."

Allied Occupation Gives Turkish Women Freedom

Constantinople, May 4.—The command of the Sheik-ul-Islam, vicar of the Sultan ordering Turkish women not to appear on the stage, is ignored by them. The German-Austrian and Allied occupation of the city, together with the loss of husbands, fathers and brothers, and the press of poverty has brought a new freedom to Turkish women. This is daily seen by their clothing.

They still wear veils, instead of a hat, but turned back and tied into a knot, after the manner of their Russian refugee sisters.

Because of the high cost of cloth, Turkish women no longer wear a multitude of garments, designed in old time to hide the outlines of their figures. Both veil and dresses are of deep sea blue, instead of the dull conventional black once the custom. Some affect the homespun brown dress, the becoming garment designed by Halide Hanum, the Nationalist woman leader.

These changes have dissipated the mystery which once enveloped the Turkish woman and Americans here find that she does not differ in looks very much from others. On an average, they are not so good looking as the American woman. The difference may be said to lie in their timidity. Even this quality is dissipated quickly when they come in contact with foreigners, as is the case in the mixed receptions given at the Constantinople College for girls, maintained here by Americans. At such receptions the Turkish girls, and women talk brightly and cleverly with American naval officers and other guests, and sometimes take part in the dancing flirtations.

Wall Street Offers 9 to 5 on Dempsey

New York, May 2.—W. L. Darnell & Co., and James W. Ball & Co., who accept betting commissions became active yesterday for the first time since last fall, offering wagers at various odds on the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

In the big championship bout scheduled for July 2, Dempsey, the heavyweight champion, is of course the big favorite. All kinds of money are being offered at odds of 9 to 5 that he will successfully defend his title in his bout with Georges Carpentier, the French contender. There has been little Carpentier money in sight to date, but betting commissioners anticipate that considerable foreign money will be sent here to be placed on the French idol very soon.

DIG UP ELEPHANT'S SKELETON IN TEXAS

Gigantic Beast May Have Have Lived 1,000,000 Years Ago, Says Biologist

San Leon, Texas, May 4.—Positive proof that elephants of gigantic size with bodies probably covered with long hair, once roamed the coastal plains of Texas has been obtained by the unearthing here of the skeletons of one of these prehistoric animals. The period of its life dates back anywhere from 500,000 to 1,000,000 years, according to H. C. Chandler, assistant professor of biology in Rice Institute of Houston, who assisted in removing the remains from the hard bed of sand and gravel.

It will take some time to reconstruct the bones and form the skeleton as it originally existed, and until this is done measurements cannot be accurately taken. The fact, however, that the tusks are each more than twelve feet long indicates the great size of the pachyferm.

The skeleton was discovered by E. T. Roy, of Houston, who called Mr. Chandler to his assitance in unearthing it. In speaking of the discovery Mr. Chandler said:

"Before Noah collected hiss animals in the ark ,and before Adam and Eve ate the disastrous apple in the garden of Eden this beast, perhaps attacked by a murderous sabre toothed tiger, a huge beast which also roamed through North America at that time, laid his great carcass down on the sands of the beach and died. The seabirds of that ancient time no doubt dined sumptuously for many weeks on his great body, and what was left by them was picked by the microcopic animals of the bay.

NEGROES RUN CHICAGO BANK

First United States Institution of Its Kind Has $200,000 Capital

Chicago, May 3.—The first national bank to be controlled by negroes—the Douglass National Bank of Chicago—was ready for business today. The charter was received last Friday from the Comptroller of the Currency at Washington. Only one white man, the chairman of the board of directors, is connected with the bank in any capacity.

Stock in the institution, which opens with $200,000 in capital and $50,000 in surplus, is to be sold exclusively to Chicago negroes.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE THREATEN ESTATE

Bridgeport, May 3.—Miss Annie Burr Jennings, daughter of the late Oliver Burr Jennings, an original director in the Standard Oil Company, virtually is held a prisoner on her large estate, Sunnie Holme, at Fairfield, because of several mysterious attempts at arson.

The most recent fire, it was learned to-day, occurred a few days ago. State police and a large number of private detectives are working to find the person or persons back of the attempts, which, if they had been successful, probably would have caused the loss of much valuable property. Miss Jennings's estate is heavily guarded, and persons who are seen to stop their automobiles near by at night are ordered to drive on.

The Fairfield police, who, by the way, have not been invited to help the State authorities in getting at the bottom of the case, believe that either an employee of Miss Jennings or some one who has gained access to the estate through one of the workers is responsible. All the employees have been questioned at length, but nothing has been learned.

The latest fire was started in a large cow barn which extends to within a few feet of the Jennings mansion. The barn, filled with hay, burst suddenly into flames and it took the combined efforts of the Fairfield and Bridgeport fire departments to prevent the burning of the house. After the fire all efforts to get a statement from the family or from the State police were unsuccessful and the whole affair was surrounded by mystery.

The first fire on the estate occurred several months ago, but when about six weeks ago a garage and automobile only a few feet away from the scene of the first blaze also caught fire it was felt certain that all the attempts had been incendiary. It is regarded as significant that the first fire was started soon after Miss Jennings, for some reason never made public, summoned private detectives to her estate. The attempts at arson began when the detectives left.

Attempts at arson also have been made on the estate of the late Samuel H. Wheeler, a realty and hotel operator, which adjoins the Jennings estate. A barn was burned.

Woman is Genius of Kemal's Hold Over Asia Minor

Reval, May 3.—A powerful feminine mind is back of the Turkish Nationalist movement.

"Halidi Edib Hanum is one of the most remarkable women who has appeared in the Orient for many centuries," said Achmes Reouf Bey to a "Herald" representative to-day. "Halidi Hanum is the inspiration of the Nationalist Government and how much Mustapha Kemal owes to her energy and enthusiasm it is difficult to exaggertae. When the British found that her patriotism in Constantinople was causing them trouble they sought to arrest her, but she took refuge in Roberts College and was hidden there until an opportunity occurred to smuggle her across the Bosporus to the Asiatic side, where it was easy for her to make her way to Angora"

As a writer of poetry and novels she will go down to history as the Madame de Steal of Turkey, as a politician and patriot she will be reckoned with Rosalie Montmasson, the friend of Crispi, who made the campaign of the Nile and accompanied him into exile and acted as the messenger between him and Mazzini.

In the Nationalist Government and army her influence is supreme, and there are few questions on which she is not consulted. She is constantly with the army riding with the troops on long marches even into the Caucasus Mountains. She wears man's riding clothes and in the field only a veil over her hair, but in the city in accordance with local prejudice she wears a light tcharchash. She is not, as people think, a djesme or Moslemized Jewess, but was a Moslem. As soon as the Greeks landed at Smyrna in 1919 she raised the standard of protest in Constantinople. She received from the Sheik-ul-Islam permission to address the male population forbidden theretofore to women. She addressed a mob of 150,000 outside the Mosque of Sultan Ahmed II., and so inspiring were her words that the mass fell on their knees and swore to fight the invader.

Halidi Edib Hanum at the time of the Armistice with Turkey founded the Wilsonial Society in Constantinople and wished to head a deputation of women to the U. S. A. to insist on the territorial rights of Turkey being recognized. During the war she was the inspirer of Djemal Pasha and Djavid Bey. She also wrote a famous book called "Pan-Turanianism," of which the hero was the infamous Talaat Pasha. When the Allies conquered Gaza they found in the trenches thousands of copies of this book, which was freely distributed to the Turkish soldiers.

A fanatical Moslem, Halidi Hanum, made the journey to Syria with Djemal Pasha and organized the orphanages which were necessittaed as a result of the massacre of the Arabs by Djemal. Much will be heard of Halidi Hanum in the future. She is certainly, in spite of her training in the American girls' school and as a professoress at Roberts College, only a mild adaptation of Western methods in the East. Previous to the war she was a strong propagandist for the greater liberty of women in the East She has somewhat changed her opinions on this since the war, especially owing to the behavior of the Germans during their occupation of Turkey. She confessed herself that this had caused the downfall of Moslem women to the extent of ninety per cent.

As a leader of the Pan-Turanian ideas she would like to see not only the Moslem world linked up together, but also all nationalities which have Seljuk blood in their veins.

SIR A. CONAN DOYLE'S TOUR

(Dominion News Service.)

London, May 4.—"In my opinion, the public control of industry is a complete failure in every branch." Such is the conclusion arrived at by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, as a result of his seven months' lecture in Australia and New Zealand, from which he has just returned.

"Their telephones, telegraphs, posts, railways—everything I touched was bad," said Sir Arthur in an interview; "and it was not at all on account of any national slackness, because the few things left in private hands, such as the ferryboat service in Sydney Harbor, are extremely good. The reason is clear. If the employees disagree with the Government, which is always a Labor Government, they can vote solidly against it and apply all sorts of pressure."

Referring to his pet subject, Sir Arthur said there had not been the same amount of psychic research in the Dominions as in this country; but among the poorer classes the spiritualist movement was very vigorous. He is about to publish a book on his tour, called, "Wanderings of a Spiritualist."

FROM BROADWAY

(By Frank Vreeland.)

New York theatregoers nowadays are beginning to suffer the ravages of the claque, hitherto considered a European affliction. Statisticians have yet to compute how many patrons squirm on an average at every first night performance when some important nobody skips onto the stage and his coterie of friends, who wear evening dress as though they were one degree removed from waiters, clap so hard they shake the dust off the scenery. And all because his name happens to be in a little larger type than that of the scene painter for "The Girl With the Wandering Eye."

Ususally this eruption of enthusiasm is so long that it takes up nearly a whole act in itself. This generally makes the majority of the audience sore on that particular player and inclined to shudder at the mere mention of his name. So he had to work twice as hard to overcome the acclaim of his friends and redeem himself in the eyes of the world for being hailed as the greatest little ball of fire ever.

Now it develops that some opera stars not only have their own claque but actually carry a troupe of hired performers around them like a tame menagerie. An instance of this came to light at a recent benefit entertainment at the Casino Theatre, when a diva who was to sing for charity appeared with a dozen persons in tow who were to perform for her benefit. When the doorkeeper held up this royal entourage the prima donna had to explain to the house manager that they ought to be allowed in, as they constituted her own private thunder machine.

The performance meant nothing in her professional life, as she was singing without pay and the artists at a benefit are customarily greeted as cordially as a new Governor the first week or so after he has taken office. But the singer had been unable to resist the temptation to make it a dead certainty that the mere lift of her eyebrows would receive the reward of genius.

Boot-legging is coming to be quite an honored profession among the theatrical folk—it may be said of some of them that it forms their only extra curriculum activity. And they are more luminous as moonshiners than as stars. A number of prominent actors on tour, in common with a number of wealthy men who travel frequently, have their own private alcoholic ambassador and first aid expert. It is the solemn duty of this hootch hound, whenever the company arrives at a new town, to track the hard stuff to its lair. Immediately after the hootch hound has flushed a covey of booze the star is heard to smack his lips, and presently is singing.

A subordinate male member of the cast is generally chosen, who can flit toward booze with the sure instinct of a homing pigeon. It has been found advisable to make sure that he is a good actor as well as a virtuoso of the vine. A leading black-face comedian is bewailing the loss of his special deputy collector for each port they entered, because for a man with such talents for carrying booze he has an awfully poor actor. Not even the efforts of the star could save him from being fired, and now every time the comedian blacks up he feels he puts his face in mourning. Like Shakespeare, that player couldn't as well as he could produce the goods.

A detective sergeant, prominent in the Police Department, who has played a conspicuous part in solving several murders, is not so adept as detecting and curbing his own impulses. He is fond of playing practical jokes on his acquaintances, and, like most practical jokers, he is very touchy about having them played on him, for then such pranks become almost as heinous in his sight as obstructing an officer in the performance of his duty.

One day at the Criminal Courts Building the detective played his favorite trick on an acquaintance, lifting a gold watch from his pocket with the tactful finesse of a regular dip. The friend discovered his loss, pattered about frantically and perspired freely. But that did no good until the detective decided he'd been funny enough and returned the watch, filling up on laughs as his friend restrained himself from bursting a blood-vessel.

The friend swore to be revenged, and a few moments later succeeded in extracting from the sleuth's pocket important papers necessary to convince the court in a pending case that he had been on the job and got the goods on the defendant. On taking the witness stand the detective discovered his loss, and it was his turn to perspire, which he did promptly and copiously. After he had searched feverishly about the corridors and almost lost the power of speech, the friend presented the papers to him, together with a little hand-tooled homily on joking, its cause and cure.

The newspaper men got hold of the story and printed it, and for a time the detective wanted to call out the militia against them. Then he invited out to lunch a reporter who was a particular crony of his—for lunches can sometimes be a vital part of a detective's career. Halfway through the meal the sleuth mentioned with the restrained calm of a volcano that he would like to spoil the present and future of the guy that first planted him in that story.

"I did", said the reporter, without even missing a stroke as he ate. The detective jumped up and pounded the table; a procedure for which he had the precedent of numerous historical crises.

"What, you did?" he bellowed. "You——" Then, unable to make the English language do his bidding, he buzzed out of the restaurant like a hornet.

And the reporter, instead of the Police Department, had to pay for the luncheon.

The Bowling Green station of the subway is no longer the Promised Land, where pickpockets used to find milk and honey, or its equivalent, in the pockets of wayfarers. It was wont—notice the literary style—to be a regular gold pocket for that species of the light fingered breed known as "lush workers," who would ply their trade on gentlemen—lush with liquor. They would reap a harvest in the early hours of the morning, when the drunks who were to change trains at Bowling Green would be thrown off a car by a kindly guard and would promptly sag into slumber on a bench. As the drunks sit down beside them and pursue their calling, while the inebriated person usually thought they were doing him a good turn by helping him to hold up his heavy head.

It was not prohibition that broke up these midnight parties. It was the dodge of the detectives in hiding in the motionless shuttle train to South Ferry opposite, disguised as trainmen, and then, when they saw a dip putting money into circulation again, strolling across via the tunnel and catching the crooks before they had a chance to worry if another victim were coming along. So now this station is as pure as the subway can possibly be, and men had better beware when they try their customary nefarious trick of seeing if there isn't a loose piece of gum in the slot machines.

Leo Donnelly, actor, was standing in the lobby of his hotel the other day when a man came up to him with a mat on his chin that needed only the "Welcome" sign. Despite the hirsute undergrowth Donnelly recognized him as a movie camera operator he had known, so he wasn't surprised when the man accosted him, but he was taken aback when the acquaintance requested the actor to lend him a safety razor.

"Sure," said Donnelly, and took him up to his room and handed him a spare safety razor, though anticipating its return in a very maltreated condition. Next the man suggested that he could use a shirt without injury to himself. Donnelly donated one.

"How about a collar?" he inquired sarcastically.

"Yes—I could use that, too." Donnelly hung one around his neck.

"Anything else that strikes your fancy?"

"Well, yes. That's a nice tie you've got there."

"It's yours," said Donnelly. "Now, what's the plot?"

"Well, yes. That's a nice tie "I've been locked out of my room for nonpayment of rent and couldn't get my things. And as I'm to be married to-morrow, I wanted to be all pointed up for the wedding.

A little while ago one of the big department stores discharged an errand boy who threatened, if he were allowed to go unchecked in his meteoric rise toward a merchant prince, to put a big dent in the store's trade if not force them out of business. He was underselling them to their own employees. He had established a store within the store in several disused shelves, and was selling a wide variety of articles, picked up around the shop, to his fellow workers at a big trade discount. Trade became quite brisk, and the young man no longer had much time to attend to his own duties while competing with his employers under their very nose. His custom became so large that the store decided to take advantage of it themselves, and so in reward for his enterprise the youth was escorted into the great beyond.

Six Mayors Go on Strike

Troyes, France, May 3.—Six Mayors of the Champagne district and several City Councils have notified the Prefect of the Department that they are on a thirty day strike because collectors had not appeared to collect taxes. The officials say they will resume their offices in a month if all back taxes are collected by that time.

Their interest, they add, is not so much in the fact that they want to pay taxes but that they cannot run their small communities until they get their share of the taxes.

AUSTRIA IN PAWN

(Dominion News Service.)

London, May 3.—Austria's assets, upon which she desires to secure foreign credits, were offered to the Allies a few days ago at a meeting between Allied financial experts, and the delegation from Vienna, headed by Dr. Mayr, the Chancellor.

These assets, as enumerated by Dr. Mayr, include:—

Customs revenues.
Salt and tobacco monopolies.
State railways.

The two State monopolies are on a paying basis, and the receipts from the Customs have greatly increased. It is proposed to create new monopolies in mineral oil, sugar, and alcohol, upon which money can be raised.

Dr. Mayr stated that Austria will require food imports during the next twelve months to the value of £12,500,000, after allowing for the food produced in the country.

A second conference, which was held at the Treasury, was attended by the British, French, and Italian Ministers at Vienna, as well as the French Ambassador in London, and British, French and Italian financial experts.

Boy Killed by Train After Lucky Escape

London, May 2.—Jesse Rogers threw his ball too far and it went bounding to the railroad tracks in a strangely fateful way. The boy rushed after it and was just recovering the ball when a train approached. With remarkable coolness he threw himself between the rails and before the eyes of his friends the train passed over, leaving him unhurt.

He got up, laughed at his comrades and stepped over to get his ball just in time to be struck by another train going in the opposite direction and was killed.

Stick Pins Into Body of Plaintiff in Court

Butte, May 4—There have been strange scenes enacted in Silver Bow court rooms, but probably the most unusual was staged during the trial of the $18,000 damage suit of Ali Hassan against the Northern Pacific Railway.

Hassan was brought into court on a couch and divested of his clothing while numerous tests to demonstrate that he was or was not paralysed were made by Drs. Lhotka and Magill. Pins were imbedded in Hassan's flesh almost to the head, heat applied to his legs and pliers used on his toe nails without visible effect. It was only when the examiners applied their tests to those portions of Hassan's body above the wast line that he indicated he felt a sensation.

During the progress of the tests more than twenty doctors summoned by the defendant and plaintiff surrounded the couch to watch the tests. At the conclusion of the examination the plaintiff was removed from the court room to rest in the Judge's chambers.

The introduction of a human spine, to demonstrate the nature of the injury sustained by Hassan when he jumped from a handcar near Homestake, was another unusual feature of the trial. Doctors called to the stand used the spine to visualize to the jury the testimony offered. A spinal cord was also introduced in evidence.

STRATFORD, CONN., SEEKS RELIEF

Stratford, Conn., May 3.—Privation among families here, due to industrial depression in the neighboring city of Bridgeport, reached such an acute stage to-day that plans were laid to raise $20,000 to provide immediate relief.

Heads of most of the families, who usually earn a living in factories in Bridgeport have been out of employment several weeks. The situation was brought to the attention of authorities and prominent citizens when school teachers perceived that hundreds of children appeared undernourished.

BRIDAL RING FOR THE GROOM

(Dominion News Service.)

London, May 3.—A bridal ring for the bridegroom as well as for the bride.

This innovation was made recently when the Rev. A. Windsor, pastor of Woodnock Baptist Church, Accrington, solemnised the wedding of Mrs. Mary Mills and Mr. William Clement Evans, and has created universal approval throughout the district.

The pastor says the innovation was by special desire of the bridegroom. It remains to be seen whether all England will follow the example.

Kahn Explains World Idea of Man on Street

London, May 4.—The Times publishes a letter from Otto H. Kahn, of New York, expressing the attitude of the American "man in the street" toward the proposed cancellation of the Allied debts to the United States. It says in part:

"American opinion considers the circumstances and motives of our entrance into the war as essentially different from those which effected most of the Allied nations.

"America went into the war wholly of her own free will, uninfluenced by any material or political considera- and without anything whatsoever to gain.

"It is literally true to say that she fought mainly for an ideal and against iniquity.

"The spoils, and the only spoils, which America asked for and promised herself was to uproot the poison growth of Prussianism, to make an end of war as far as humanly possible, and to bring about a finer worthier and nobler state of the world.

"Has that expectation been realized? Has the world been made a better place to live in?

"To ask these questions is to answer them.

"Sentimentality, the attitude of the man in the street' toward Europe, has gradually become one of disillusionment and retrospective questioning.

"Practically, he does not consider it a justified contention, under the circumstances of the case, that the loans of America to the Allies should eo ipso be considered and treated as a contribution to the common expense of the war.

"When ' the man in the street' looks over the balance sheet of our participation in the war, what does he finds?

"He is far from undervaluing its asset side. True, these credit entries are of a nature mainly sentimental, but I doubt whether sentimental items have a greater popular value anywhere in this so-called 'land of the almighty dollar."

"What about the debit sideé He seems to discern a tendency to discriminate against his country in respect of those world opportunities which its people played no mean part in helping to win for their comrades in arms. He does not relish the spirit and wording of the "mandates,' nor the controversy over the disposition of the formerly German-owned cables, nor the dispute about the Island of Yap, etc. He finds that nothing positive or substantial has been done about the much-vaunted pledge to reduce armaments. He finds barriers and impediments and willful interruptions trown across the ways of trade and intercourse. He finds wars and preparations for war.

"He sees little reason to attach credence to the contention that these would have been materially different if America had entered the League Nations.

"'The man in the street' is not lacking in generosity. He does not mean to drive a hard bargain. He appreciates that this is no ordinary debt, and that it cannot be treated as if it were. Moreover, he realizes quite well that his own country cannot return to a state of normalcy, until a reasonable librium will have been established in Europe. He recognizes that among the prerequisites for that all too-long delayed consummation is some kind of a settlement of the inter-Allied debt on large-minded and liberal lines, and American co-operation otherwise in the problem of European readjustment.

"He is bewildered and disillusioned, and the possibly naive faith which animated him has undergone a somewhat rude shock. In order to be predisposed toward those accommodations on America's part which are indispensable to a satisfactory settlement, and toward that comprehensive and broad-gauged co-operation which the situation calls for, he will have to become affected with the impression of an attitude, a purpose, a spirit, and a condition in Europe more nearly approaching than seems to him the existing state of things, those conceptions which he believed the American nation was aiming to realize when it set out on its crusade to Europe in the spring of 1917.

"These views and sentiments are widely prevalent among the masses of the American people, and it has seemed to me that this state of mind and the reasoning from which it arises are not, perhaps, sufficiently realized among our English friends. And it has also seemed to me, whether they are held to be based upon error and part truth, that these views and sentiments and reasonings ought to be brought to public attention in England; for nothing is more apt to cause men or nations to drift apart and become estranged than lack of comprehension of one another's mental currents."

A meeting of the Board of Education took place last evening, at which the following were present: Mrs. W. R. Morris, Dr. F. C. Neal, Messrs. G. H. Thompson, G. O. Cameron, P Denne, E. G. Paterson, J. W. Worth, J. A. McKone, A. A. Fowler, A. A. Mowat and Mr H. R. H. Kenner, representing the Collegiate Institute.

On recommendation of the Finance Committee, the tended for grading and concrete walks for the new Prince of Wales Srhool has been let to James O'Keefe

The report of the Supervision Committee was adopted, recommendation that, as a tempoary expedient the Commercial Department of the Collegiate Isstitute be transferred to the South Central School on Septem ber 1st, and also that the rall industrial classes, with the exleption of the sewing and domestir slience courses, be held in this school.

A motion was carried to allow Miss Yelland sick leave without pay until the 1st of September next.

The report of the committee regarding extensions to the Collegiate Institute was adopted, and the motion carried that the whole matter be left in abeyance until next fall, when it will come up again for a final decision at the September meeting.

The Board wish to go on record as expressing their appreciation of the work of the pupils and teachers, of the City schools, under the capable srpervision of Miss M. R. Rannie, as exemplified in the recent Spring Festival held n the Grand Onera House.

The total attendande atthe Collegiate Institute for the month of April was 384, with a daily average of 369, and a percentage of 96. The attendanre at the Public Slhools was 2,820, daily average 2,679, or 95 per cent, the largest attendance in the history of the city.

Getting a Drink in England Presents Many Difficulties

War-time restrictions upon the sale of liquor have not been lifted, and under these restrictions spirituous liquors may be sold only between the hours of 12 noon and 2.30 p.m., and between 6 and 9 p.m. Before the war the "pubs" in London were open for nineteen and a half hours a day; now they only serve spirits hive and a half hours daily. After that the thirsty man must go dry, for there are no bootleggers nor blind tigers in Picadilly Circus, Leicester Square or any where else.

These war-time regulations, popularly known as "Dora" (the defense of the realm act), have caused considerable complaint here. The brewers, however, have seen the shadow of prohibition, which "Pussyfoot" Johnson cast before him, and, although they are agitating for longer hours for serving liquor, make a point of simultaneously declaring in favor of moderation in drinking. They have organized a society which advocates a restraint in the sale of liquor, coupling, however, the slogan: "Drunkenness Must Go!" with another "No Local Veto!" Now they have introduced a reform scheme in Parliament, intended to aid a restoration to pre-war condition and yet provide that moderation shall prevail.

It takes the form of a licensing bill introduced by Colonel Gretton and supported by a number of Conservatives, including Sir Frederick Hall and Admiral Hall. The provisions of the bill include:

Abolishing the Liquor Control Board and all its orders.

Not more than eleven hours opening for the sale of liquor and not less than nine.

The penalties for drunkenness to be increased.

The long "pull"is prohibited.

The sale at any time of liquor for medicinal purposes in cases of "recent" accident or illness, the reasonableness of the demand to be decided by the license holder.

Liquor may be sold at any time in railway waiting rooms to persons arriving from or departing for a distance of more than twenty miles.

Not more than half a pint of liquor in a corked or sealed bottle may be sold to a child.

An adult is not to be prohibited from taking a child into any part of licensed premises, not being an open drinking bar, where provision is made for the supply of suitable refreshment.

The bill applies the principle of limitations to clubs, which in pre-war days were able to open whenever they pleased.

HEART TROUBLE
in most instances is merely an adaptative sympton of some other trouble—usually of the stomach. Oftentimes the most severe heart pains are caused by nothing more than undue pressure in the region of the heart. This gaseous distention, as we have said, is probably due to the abnormal condition of the stomach. When the stomach is provided with its normal supply of mental impulses the nbnormal gaseous condition disappears, the pressure is moved from the region of the heart and the pains, palpitation or other efects in the functioning of that organ. disappears.
If the trouble is directly with the heart, the results which the Chiropractor gets in a vast majority of cases are very remarkable. Your case should not be an erception in responding to Chiropractic adpustments.

THE HEALTH EXPRESS
If you were told that a certain train would convey all sick people to some city where only HEALTH abounded and DISEASE as unknown, the train would surely be overcrowded. Yet those who do not enjoy HEALTH can, but taking CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENTS, take a TICKET to HEALTH-and they will not be disappointed. Isn't it worth trying? Don't scoff at this assertion until you have actually investgated ths Science, until you have actually taken CHIROPRACTIC VERTEBRAL ADJUSTMENTS.

WEDDING BELLS

SHARPE-METHERAL

A quiet wedding took place on Monday May 2nd, when Miss Helen Dickson Metheral, daughter of Mr. Albert Metheral, Reid street, was united in marriage to Mr. James Ryan Sharpe, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sharpe, of Homewood avenue. Rev. Father Phelan performed the ceremony

The bride, charmingly attired in a suit of navy tricotine, heavily embroidered, with hat of blue and grey and bouquet of pink roses, was attended by Miss Kitty Sharpe in castor with roses, and the groom was supported by Mr. Max Metheral, a brother of the bride.

The young couple left on the 3.20 for Detroit, where they will reside. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly gifts in silver and cut glass, and the groom received a very handsome electric grill from the staff of the receiving department of which he is foreman, in the establishment of the Burroughs Adding Machine Co. in Detroit.

GORDON URGES FAIR WAGE TO NASSAU LABOR

SAYS DAM CONTRACTORS BRING MEN IN FOR 30 PER CENT LESS THAN LOCAL FAIR WAGE

(Exclusive to The Examiner)

OTTAWA, May 5—The reported absence of the fair wage clause in the agreement with the workers of the Trent Canal was brought to the attention of Hon. Dr. Reid. Minister of Railways and Canals in the House vesterday by G. N. Gordon.

Mr. Gordon said that laborers were brought in from larger cities and worked for 35 cents an hour whereas the fair wage in Peterboro as 50 cents. He declared that it was not fair to Peterboro. He said he had brought the matter to the attention of the Minister of Labor who had referred hin to the Minister of Canals who would see if the report was true and then the labor department would act. Mr. Gordon brought it to the attention of the Minister of Canals and if there is no action it is the fault of the Government.

Mr. Gordon also advocated the completion of the Trent system to Georgian Bay. It would be much more valuable when completed and grain could come in from Georgian Bay from the extensive milling industries of Peterboro'. He thought that in the tonnage figures the launches could not be included or the tonnage would be greater.

Mr. Sexsmith backed up Mr. Gordon for the completion of the canal.

PRESIDENT OF TRADES COUNCIL

THOMAS H. LANE SENT IN HIS RESIGNRTION.

Owing to business engagements that required his continued absence from the city, Thomas H. Lane submitted by letter his resignation as president of the Trades Council at last night's meeting. His resignation was accepted and Harold Gilbert of the Musicians was elected as his successor.

A committee was appointed to interview the Utilites Commission in regard to the letting of the contract for the filtration plant pumps to a company in Switzerland on the German border. It was stated that a local tender was only $2,000 less than that from the foreign firm. Several of the delegates stated that according to the information this work should have been placed in Peterboro if possible, especially in view of the fact that there is considerable unemployment here at present.

A communication from the Civil Servants of Ottawa asking for support of their claims upon the Govern ment was complied with by a resolution, protesting against any reduction in the bonus paid them in as much as the cost of living and the low salaries paid to the majority of the employees of the service would not permit of such reductions. The resolution also requested Premier Meighen to grant an interview to a deputation from the Civil Servants Union to receive their views on the bonus question and to discuss the memorandum already presented to him. It further asks that if an agreement cannot be reached between the Civil Servants' Union and the Government, that free opportunity be given for a discussion of the whole question on the flood of the House.

The Association of the Federal Employees of Ottawa in their letter pointed out that they had not formed their union and affiliated with the Trades Congress. That was step hitherto untried by the Government employees of Ottawa, and was looked upon with scant favor by the Government who, it was said, had refused an interview of the representatives of this union.

NO CELEBRATION

One of the delegates asked members of the City Council whether there was any by-law dealing with the sale of wood in Peterboro. He alleged that wood is being sold loads at $5. a load which supplies only one-quarter of a cord, and that on this basis a cord of wood costs $20. In reply the information was given that the city had no authority to regulate the sale of wood.

FALMOUTH, May 5 (Canadian Press)—The Harrison Line steamer Ingoma on fire, struggled into Falmouth today after a race of a hundred miles to save the lives of her eighty eight passengers and her crew. The Ignoma was bound from London to the West Indies. The fire was discovered a hundred miles off Falmouth while the passengers were asleep. The captain of the vessel kept them in ignorance of their danger and having prepared the boats for launching, made for Falmouth under full steam.

CLOSE LINES AFTER RISING

POLISH-SILESIAN BORDER CLOSED, WARSAW HAS ANNOUNCED

WARSAW. May 5 —(Canadian Press)—On account of conditions in Upper Silesia the frontier with that district has been closed on the Polish side, it was announced today, Warsaw newspapers declare the Polish Government was taken completely by surprise by the uprising and that it is making efforts to restore calm. An immediate report was sent to the Allies upon the Government learning of conditions

OPPELN, Upper Silesia, May 4—(Canadian Press)—Organized Polish forces, estimated at twenty thousand, have occupied all of Upper Silesia, south of a line running from Kosel to Tarnowitz with the exception of a few large towns, and are moving further northward, according to information supplied by a member of the Interallied Representation here. The Poles, according to this source, are marching in well ordered manenr and are being supplied with rifles, machine guns and dynamite. Italian troops in the southern section of the plebiscite arer are surrounded by three thousand Poles and pitched battle has been going on for several hours, informant stated. Italian known dead are three officers and twelve privates.

WEDDING BELLS

From the Rochester Democrat and Chronical, March 30.

BAYER-GOSSELIN

The marriage of Miss Rosalie M. Gosselin to Harold E. Bayer took place Wednesday morning at St. Mary's Church, the ceremony being performed by Rev. S. Fitrsimons, who also celebrated the nuptial mass that followed. During the ceremony Alexander J. E. Bayer brother of the groom sang Gounod's 'Ave Marie" and "O Lord I am not Worthy."

The bride wore a blue beaded tricotine suit, a picture hat and carried bride roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mae Gosselin as bridesmaid, and wore an embroidered blue tricotine suit, a large picture hat and carried pink roses.

After the wedding breakfast was served at the Powers Hotel to immediate relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Bayer left on an extended western trip to New York and other parts. At the station they were met and serenaded by the Colgate Glee Club, which sang "O Promise Me"

The pre-nuptial events included variety showers by Mrs. George Boda, Mrs. J. Schiefen, Mrs. J. E. Duguette and by young women the office staff of the Art and Buttons Inc.

CURRELLEY THE ARCHAEOLOGIST

Ransacker of the Orient, Who Has Built Up Ontario's Wonderful Royal Museum.

BEGAN AS PREACHER

Are Ancient Canadian Civilizations Being Neglected in Favor of the East?

By ANGUSTUS BRIDLE.

WHENEVER an archaeological poohbah in Cairo and all around there prepares for an auction sale of more remnants of pre-historic civilizations, he naturally looks through the hotel register to see if Charles T. Currelley, Toronto, is registered. If the name be not there the Theban collector asks the clerk:

"Any word of Charles Trick Currelley? I seem to feel that he is on the way."

The clerk flicks out an aerogram.

"Expected this day week, sahib."

"Allah be praised! We shall postpone the sale."

Twenty years ago or less, dating from a time when Egyptology was a fad even in Toronto, Currelley has been a ransacker of the Orient. He was born that way, in a small town called Exeter, not in Devonshire, though he is of Devonian origin. How he came to begin business as a Methodist preacher is not set down in the minutes. But he seems to have done missionary work in Manitoba, where no doubt he stumbled across some reliques of the mound-builders and decided to be a missionary for museums. For nearly two decades he has been America's prize collector of authentic curios illustrating the phases of pre-Anno-Domini civilizations. With the zeal of a Visigoth he has pillaged the temples and the fanes of the Near and Far East, excavating for kings, boring for stone gods, exhuming remnants of ancient dynasties up and down the Nile, in the islands of the Mediterranean, following the path of Moses across the Red Sea, into the land of the Tigris and the Euphrates. He was studying labor conditions in England when he first felt the archaeological "bug" enough to join the staff of the Egyptian Exploration Fund. For thirteen years now he has been curator of the archaeological museum, which a few years ago grew into the Royal Ontario Museum, and never would have done so but for the wanderlust of Charles T. Currelley. That the R. O. M. has not as yet a Rameses is no fault of Currelley—merely his misfortune. At the present time he has 15 tons of archaeological art crossing the Pacific from China, and carloads in the basement of the museum waiting for standing room.

David Harum of Orient

HE is the David Harum of the Orient. The Oriental dealers know him. He has written their names on scores of checks. They have met many an "expert" who could be buncoed. But here is an expert who does not confine his explorations to museums. Currelley has explored the Oriental mind. No wily denizen of the mystic desert, no sunrise inverter of thought, no Parsee nor "heathen Chinee" nor inexplicable Arab can ever—at least twice—get the archaeologist of Ontario to a state of mind where he forgets what any particular specimen of archaeological art is worth in any translation of Oriental currency.

A man must have a subtle twist to his mentality to become the successful purveyor of pre-historic art and not be done out of his company's shekels. When Currelley goes expeditioning he not only goes to study the knacks of the natives, and to endure the intolerable heat and the foreign grubstake and the hazardous methods of travel; he goes also to acquire.

Anybody who has taken hours to travel through the museum will appreciate the years that Currelley has trailed in the lands of defunct and convalescent civilizations to get f.o.b. in Toronto the astounding hoard of pre-Noachic and post-diluvian treasures that make even the mound-builders look like parvenus. There he sits in his big office, where there is always something being done to get a new god pedestaled or an old tapestry restored, thinking himself almost a preacher again as he talks about the aeons of yesterday. He is always cheerful. He never declines to talk. He is very likely deciphering your own niche on the ancestral hall of fame.

Still a Young Man

A LAD in corduroys, he takes you for a stroll along vistas of color in robes and gowns that represent the Ming dynasty, half a mile of others reflecting the dynasties of Jap imitators, great and gorgeous tapestries from palaces that went out of pageantry long ago; iron-work scrolls that must have been wrought about the time Cyclops went to the oculist, and rugs whose exquisite patterns he yet hopes to see reproduced in Ontario. All the while you notice that Currelley talks about the past as though it were yesterday. He is still a young man. There is yet time for Currelley to want an archaeological museum three times as big as the one he has got. He has an insatiable appetite for the Orient.

Toronto's Second Woman Alderman Is From An Old American Political Family

Mrs. Sidney Small's Grandfather Nominated Lincoln for President—She Is One of Toronto's Most Active Leaders in Social Service.

By HILDA HIDLEY.

MRS. SIDNEY SMALL, the new woman member of Toronto's City Council, is a Philadelphian by birth. She was brought up in the diplomatic circles of Washington, D. C., and she comes of political people. Her grandfather was Mr. Justice William D. Kelly, of Pennsylvania, who for nearly twenty years was the leader of the Republican party, and father of the House of Congress. At the Chicago convention of 1860 he had the honor of nominating Abraham Lincoln for President.

Mrs. Small is well known in connection with the Big Sister Association—an organization which is peculiar to Toronto and unique in Canada—of which she has been president for the past two years. Under her regime, the Girls' Club at 21 Carlton street came into being. Here the "Big Sisters" and the "Little Sisters" meet for recreational purposes, and to get acquainted with each other. It is in the front window of this club house that there burns all through the night a lamp.

"It takes a soul to save a soul," declares Mrs. Small, and the lamp that sheds its kindly beams out into the night is a symbol of the friendship which stands ready to succor and to serve. There in the quiet house on Carlton street many a young life has been saved from the "tragedy of loneliness," and has found the friendship, counsel and protection that have been its preservation.

Prior to her presidency of the Big Sister Association, Mrs. Small did much practical work in the Evangelia Settlement, and she helped to found, and became vice-president of the Riverdale Settlement.

For six years, Mrs. Small was president of the club for the study of Social Science, and with her confreres she made a most exhaustive study of municipal, provincial and national questions. She has made a specialty of the study of the Juvenile Court systems of Canada, England, and the States, sitting on one occasion on the bench with an United States magistrate, and on another with Magistrate Wilberforce, at the old Police street court of London, England.

A strenuous year awaits Mrs. Small in the City Council, for she has been appointed to several important committees. She will serve on the Juvenile Court and Parks committees and on the Board of the Alexandra Industrial School for delinquent children, and she has just been appointed one of the three aldermen from the City Council to act on the Board of Health.

Mrs. Small has great faith in the part which women may play in constructive citizenship.

"I do earnestly believe that women should devote themselves now to public service as heartily as they devoted themselves to war work," she declared. "Every woman should ask herself, 'What does reconstruction mean to me?' Light and vision are women's special constitution. You remember Browning said to his wife, 'See and make me see new depths of the Divine.' We must go before and show the men that only when the individual is made safe for the state can the world be made for democracy."

Of the charming personality of Toronto's new woman councillor one can only say that she impresses one as having an affinity with things French. She has, in truth, something of the vivacity, the wit, and the chic which mark the clever French woman—and it is really very delightful to find, in combination with a strong mentality, so much personal attractiveness.

Mrs. Small has succeeded in making goodness and cleverness attractive.

Folks in the News These Days

SOUTH AFRICA'S GREAT STATESMAN

JAN CHRISTIAN SMUTS is only fifty years of age, but is genuinely regarded as one of the greatest statesmen of these clouded times.

He was one of the signers of the Treaty of Versailles.

But when he signed it, he filed a statement of protest against it on the ground that it was not economically sound.

Gen. Smuts

He was one of the unheard-of few who disagreed with the big four who put the treaty through. His objections to the treaty are exactly those points which have caused these various reconsiderations, international councils and consequent uneasiness and dissatisfaction.

But Smuts could not raise too loud a cry at the peace conference because of the awkward situation in his own land, South Africa. There, four political parties are at desperate odds: a Boer party, a British party, a Labor party and General Smuts' own party of moderates who desire a dominion status within the empire for Africca.

Son of a Boer farmer, Smuts was sent to Cambridge University by Cecil Rhodes. He graduated in 1894 with distinction, returned to Africa, was made state attorney by Oom Paul Kruger in 1897, and led Boer forces against the British throughout the Boer War.

After the war, he became one of Botha's right-hand men for the building of a nation in the British commonwealth.

In 1917, Botha sent him to represent South Africa at the imperial conference at London. There his remarkable qualities of statesmanship and diplomacy as well as his wide knowledge of economics and affairs were instantly recognized, and Lloyd George lifted him out and used him as a sort of cabinet minister. Smuts was the outstanding figure of all the Dominion statesmen assembled in England.

D. B. HANNA A SINGER

ONE may sometimes visualize public men as unbending sufficiently occasionally to tell a funny story, but scarcely ever as singing a song. Not that there would be anything undignified in a cabinet minister or financial magnate singing, but the fact is few of them are much good at it. This is where D. B. Hanna has one advantage over most men in the public eye. The president of the C.N.R. can sing well, and on occasion does. When he first landed, a young Scotsman, in Portage la Prairie, he took charge of the choir in the Presbyterian church. It is said that in an amateur way he quite rivals Sir Harry Lauder. He is a regular attendant at Massey Hall concerts On the occasion of the banquet at Halifax some years ago to Sir William Mackenzie, when the first Canadian Northern liner arrived from Bristol, Mr. Hanna was present and made a very good speech. Immediately there were cries for a song. He obliged, delighting the crowd with "I Love a Lassie."

THE KING'S COUSIN GOES INTO BUSINESS

THE Marquis of Carisbrooke, who has been visiting the Vanderbilt family in New York and who is returning to England to take his place actively in the commercial world as a member of the board of directors of the British shipping firm of Lamport and Holt, was formerly Prince Alexander of Battenberg, son of the late Prince Henry of Battenberg and the Princess Beatrice and a grandson of Queen Victoria. He served as a captain in the Grenadier Guards during the war. His democratization has been swift during the last few years. He got in turn a surname, a wife of non-royal blood and now what almost amounts to a trade. He became Alexander Mountbatten, Marquis of Carisbrooke, two days before he was married to Lady Irene Denison, only daughter of the Earl of Londesborough, on July 19, 1917. It was formally announced at the time that the marriage had the "entire sanction and approval of the King." With ladies of title going into the movies it is now presumably all right for an ordinary marquis to become a member of a shipping company.

HIS FATHER'S SON

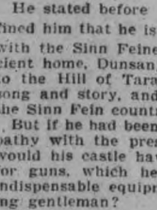
MR. J. AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN, British chancellor of the exchequer, has always, perhaps because people remember his famous father, "Joe," been regarded as a young man and yet he is only two years short of sixty. He has been in parliament for nearly thirty years. He had completed his education in Germany and France and had returned to act as private secretary to his father, soon to be in the zenith of his power, when he was elected at the age of 29 Unionist member for East Worcestershire. In the following year he delivered his maiden speech in the house of commons. Among those who heard it was Mr. Gladstone, prime minister of the day, between whom and Mr. Joseph Chamberlain there was now the keenest political antagonism. Although it was on the subject, Home Rule, which had separated Gladstone and his father that Austen Chamberlain spoke, the Grand Old Man, with the fine courtesy that always distinguished him, promptly offered his congratulations. "It was a speech," he said, "that must have been dear to a father's heart." Those who witnessed the scene say that Mr. Joseph Chamberlain was visibly moved by the words of his old chief.

Mr. Austen Chamberlain has lived through some stirring political times since then, the Boer War, the Liberal regime succeeding 1906, when Lloyd George brought in his radical financing and Austen Chamberlain was his chief antagonist of the opposition benches; the Great War, when he was secretary of state for India, and later a member of the war cabinet. He has been also postmaster-general and twice chancellor of the exchequer, first under Balfour and now under the leadership of his former opponent, Lloyd George.

LORD DUNSANY AND HIS ARSENAL

ANYBODY who has read any of Lord Dunsany's tales of wonder can readily understand why he had in his possession, in spite of the law in Ireland, fire-arms and buckshot for his guns.

He was arrested a few days ago and fined £25 for having at his castle in County Meath fire-arms contrary to the new law in Ireland.



Lord Dunsany

But what man whose imagination is peopled by such wild monsters and baleful goblins as Lord Dunsany's, according to his tales, wouldn't keep a few buckshot loads handy about the house?

Lord Dunsany is the eighteenth lord of that title, being the third oldest peerage of Ireland. The original Lord Dunsany was created in 1468, during the Wars of the Roses, twenty-four years before Columbus discovered America, and only a few years after Joan of Arc and Agincourt.

The present lord is famous in the literary world as a writer of poetical plays and weird fairy tales of beauty and mystery. He is also highly regarded in Ireland as a sportsman. He served through the South African War, and in the late war in Gallipoli and France, being wounded in the Dublin riots of Easter, 1916.

The peculiar feature of Lord Dunsany is that he claims to be an ardent imperialist, proving it by serving in the wars. But he has frequently expressed his distaste for the English and all things English. He maintains that it is quite in keeping to be an ardent Britisher without loving the English.

He stated before the court that fined him that he is not in sympathy with the Sinn Feiners. His very ancient home, Dunsany Castle, is close to the Hill of Tara, famed in Irish song and story, and in the heart of the Sinn Fein country.

But if he had been entirely in sympathy with the present government, would his castle have been searched for guns, which he claims are the indispensable equipment of a sporting gentleman?

At any rate, the incident will doubtless feature in his next satirical playlet or prose allegory.

AN IRREVERENT YOUTH

SURROUNDING Fulham Palace, the official residence of the Bishop of London, is a moat filled with not over-clean water in which the small boys of the neighborhood are accustomed occasionally to fish; usually, be it said, with very indifferent success.

Not long since, the Bishop, attired in mufti, was strolling through the grounds, when he came upon an urchin lying flat upon his stomach on the bank and staring down into the turbid water with big eager eyes.

In his hand he gripped an apology for a fishing rod, and upon this the kindly glance of the worthy bishop rested with evident interest.

Said he to the boy: "And are you catching fish, my little man?"

"No, guv-nor: givin' 'em their rations," was the caustic reply of the irreverent youth.

STENOGRAPHER ARRIVES

TWENTY-THREE years ago Miss Ethel M. Sayer entered a London firm of advertisement contractors and printers. To-day she is not only a director but a member of the Holborn Borough Council. "I attribute my success," she declares, "to hard work and a thorough knowledge of the business. But then, it happens to be one in which there is nothing to prevent a woman going to the top, as in some other professions."

Miss Sayer received in 1918 the freedom of the city of London, an honor rarely given to a woman.

No. 21.—THE RT. HON. SIR THOMAS WHITE

By EMIL LONGUE BEAU

THE knickerbockered, silk-stockinged Jeames who flunkeys inside the Ritz-Carlton door said: "Sir Thomas is waiting for you in his suite on the second floor. He wishes you to go up."

Sir Thomas White is Sir Thomas, indeed—far removed from the lanky boy whose harrow the stubborn glebe so freely broke down Bronte way forty years ago, before he came to Toronto and worked for John Ross Robertson at eight dollars a week. Curiously, the knight was thinking of those times when he greeted me in his noble, condescending style:

"Times have changed, indeed, since I told old John Ross that he mustn't expect Greek hexameters for a dollar thirty-three a day," he said. "Here I am sitting on the Grand Trunk arbitration with an ex-president of the United States, with 'Right Honorable and Sir' before my name; and very few men to call me Tom. But I never forget my old friends."

"Even if you seldom remember them?" I ventured.

"My dear Longue-Beau," he replied, "don't make me sadder than I am. I'm a sensitive man, and though I remind myself of things occasionally, I don't care for other people to do the reminding for me. I presume you'd like me to think aloud for you."

"A beneficent exercise," I said, "it may do you good."

"I don't know so much about that. You see, having once been a reporter, I know how remarkably things get into the papers."

"I won't print anything you don't say," was my rejoinder. "You can talk as freely as you choose."

"Yes, and perhaps, when I get the paper it'll be a great deal more freely than I like. But it's good to have somebody to whom I can talk openly, for I'm a lonely man, my dear Longue-Beau."

"Peaks are always lonely, Sir Thomas," I said. "You mustn't forget that you are the only Canadian who refused a premiership. Surely you are proud of being on that pinnacle."

"Not proud, but grateful," he answered, "though gratitude is not a common distinction of distinguished men. Would you be surprised to hear that very few people know me? In fact, till quite lately, I didn't know myself."

"Oh, I don't know. I'm not a small man, but I don't mind telling you I'm not nearly as great as I thought I was. I've been learning a good deal through my association with Taft. You'd never think he had been the head of the greatest republic of all history. If you'd met me not very long ago you'd never imagine I'd been anything else. I had so much confidence that I'd forgotten there was such a thing as the vanity of human wishes. I refused to succeed Borden, though for thirty-five years it had been my dream to become Prime Minister of Canada. The office was predicted for me, on and off for many years by men who were judges of ability. But they forgot something which I also forgot."

"Which was?"

"That I am very chilly inside. I had a cold heart and an enlarged head, and it was only when I found this out that I refused the premiership. Do you think I made a mistake?"

"This is your day of candour, Sir Thomas," was my reply, "but why did you refuse it, really?"

"To tell you the truth, I was afraid. The premiership in these days needs a man of supreme courage; and I'm not overly courageous."

"Are you speaking in parables?"

"No. You recall Napoleon's saying about two-o'clock-in-the-morning courage?"

I nodded.

"Well, my nerve isn't of that kind. Disraeli never fought so brilliantly as when he knew his cause was lost. When things are dead against me I can't say 'Bo' to a goose. I'll give you a couple of instances. Five years ago in the house of commons that fellow Kyte from Cape Breton, launched his charges against the conduct of Sam Hughes's shell committee. Sam hated me and I didn't love him. But I had to reply to Kyte. He had made out a damaging case. If ever there was a chance to shine it was mine that night. Meighen would have taken it with dazzling ingenuity. I simply floundered around like a hippopotamus trying to dance. At midnight they asked me to move the adjournment, as a score of our supporters with old Andy Broder at their head, were in revolt demanding a commission of investigation.

"The other time was on nomination day of the last general election—the conscription election. You remember the Ontario farmers were ready to stampede against the government, and some of my supporters in Leeds and Brockville were badly scared. They had me even worse frightened. I felt rotten at the afternoon meeting. Hugh Guthrie was to speak with me at night. He found me in my room at the hotel, lying down, with wet towels round my head. I told him I was likely to be beaten by twenty-five hundred—and I believed it. He laughed, but he couldn't make me laugh. I have had to devote too much attention to the career of Sir Thomas White to be able to nourish my ailing sense of humor. Guthrie afterwards told me my speech that night was one of the worst he ever heard; and I knew it was. I'm over six feet high, but six-feet-one of statesmanship in a funk is a fearful burden to carry."

"I'm a lonely man," my dear Longue Beau.

"But you weren't well then?"

"True, and soon after the election I went to California, and missed making the budget speech that session. In 1919, while Borden was at the Peace Conference, I led the house with remarkable success, though I do say it myself. They thought I was aiming at the premiership, and I was. It was during that session that the scheme of a new coalition with Gouin as the Quebec lead was hatched. I wasn't the hen on that nest, and it didn't bring forth. But in June, when Borden was back, and it was clear he wasn't looking for an honorable discharge—his phrase during the war—I threw up my cabinet position and carried out a frequently recurring intention."

"Yes. I'm temperamental, and I don't find it easy to support all the concentrated dullness that gets into some cabinets. During my first session I was warned against walking around Ottawa at three in the morning, as the boys were talking about it—Jack Currie, for instance. I was in a new job, and didn't like some aspects of it. Politics makes a big demand on you to suffer fools gladly; but there's a limit to an intellectual man's gladness under affliction. I can do the glad-hand all right—six feet of cordiality, but a regular cooler inside, that can't always be disguised. I took myself too seriously—and that's one of the faults in a highly-placed man that Taft tells me is about the biggest hobble he can put on himself. I've got more tummy than I had nine years ago; but if I had all of Taft's corporation, my metaphysical make-up would hold my physical contour in subjection. Fellows who worked with me years ago say I became uppish and no doubt I did. It's a mistake to be always feeling yourself on a perch."

"Curious, isn't it," the ex-finance minister continued, "how little things smite you under the fifth rib? After I went into the cabinet I remembered that Johnny Robinson was the man to whom I owe more than to any other except Bob Fleming. But Jack, though he championed me as a public man, wouldn't resume the relations of the period when we visited at each other's houses and used to settle the affairs of Toronto and the universe about nine times a fortnight. Then I was rather badly discommoded by an article in a Toronto magazine a few months after I became minister of finance. It was by a man who used to board in the same house with me, when I was in the assessment department and was studying for the bar. At that time Johnny was carrying me on the Bay street books at eighteen dollars a week and I was turning in copy whenever I could.

"Well, this old fellow-boarder of mine—I think it was Bertram—wrote a character sketch of me that was kindly on the whole, and candid in spots. One paragraph in particular got under my skin. It was to the effect that, having known Tom White in his obscurity, admired his ability and been his friend, you one day went to see him in his prosperity. You entered the room admiring his ability and feeling like a friend. You came out as full as ever of admiration for his capacity, but you didn't feel like a friend." That was a hard saying, and I must confess, too true."

"Why should it be true?"

"Didn't I tell you I'm cold inside. The constitutional tendency to cold feet operated operated very strongly in my political infancy. I was one of the eighteen Liberals in Toronto who signed Lash's manifesto against the reciprocity agreement, and made my first political speech in Massey Hall, early in March. All spring it seemed as though Laurier would sweep the country, if he brought on an election then. Clifford Sifton thought so, and I guess he was right. Anyway, I didn't do another thing in politics till the last week in August, when I spoke again in Massey Hall with Borden. I was to be the only other speaker, but they crowded a grist of others in, the old orthodoxy of a repletion of oratory having come into play after the engagement was made. That meeting threw me into the campaign, and I became finance minister."

"The notion that I was after the job, and that I was the tool of the big interests is a delusion. I definitely refused the portfolio in writing, and I don't mind telling you where that letter is." (Sir Thomas told me, but strictly under seal). "And when I took office I was nobody's man, for the reason I've already given you."

"Please state it again."

"That I am constitutionally cold inside. As for my service in finance, I am willing to leave it to the judgment of the future. As Lord Bacon said: 'For my name and memory I leave it to men's charitable speeches, and to foreign nations, and to the next age.' And now I must go to dinner with Taft."

"No truck or——?" I insinuated.

"Lots of it." Sir Thomas vouchsafed, and I was outside the door.

The reader will not take too literally the observations of leading men about themselves recorded by Mr. Longue Beau, but will understand that they are what the speakers would be likely to say confessionally.

JEWELER FLASHES TIME BROADCAST

Gets It by Wireless and Wigwags With Headlights.

EVERY day a jeweler in a small eastern town in the United States receives the correct time by wireless from a government station. He figured that his advertising should reach beyond his neighborhood, and so he arranged to distribute his wireless time to the surrounding country.

The courthouse tower is the highest point in his vicinity; he therefore secured permission to use it for his purpose. With four large automobile headlights, each facing a different direction, he throws powerful rays that can be seen for miles.

On Saturday nights he flashes the time to the surrounding country. Beginning at 8.59 he flashes the headlights at one-second intervals until 10 seconds to nine o'clock, then he stops until the stroke of nine, when he sends out a long flash. Every Saturday night, clocks and watches for miles around are set by his time. A flash is given in front of the store for the crowds that have formed the habit of waiting there to set their watches.

The jeweler has also arranged the wireless code on a card. He distributes these cards among boys and girls.

Each week he holds a contest, offering a prize for the first one coming to his store with a correct copy of the message that he flashes in the tower. The messages, of course are worded as an advertisement. This has stimulated the sale of electric flashers with which the children practise the code.—System for January.

Fashionable Funeral

"I DESIRE," said a husband to the wife, as they were walking along the shore, that when I die I be buried in a plain coffin, without expensive trimmings."

"But, my dear," said she, "how much more fashionable it would be to have black walnut and silver."

"Possibly," he said, "but I was thinking of that for you."

Little Tales of Well-Known Folks

THE recent marriage of Sir George Foster to a distinguished lady, caused no small ripple in Canadian social circles. It is said that some of Sir George's bachelor friends near and less than his own age are looking around for similar courage. One of these, a well-known Ottawan, dared to broach the subject to Sir George.

"At your age, my dear fellow," he said, "you surprise me."

"I realize," replied Sir George, "that I might have waited a little longer."

When Sir Sam Hughes returned to Toronto from England a few days ago he happened to meet in the lobby of the King Edward Hotel one of his stellar wartime officers, a man who has a real affection for Sir Sam. This friend very wroth poured into the knight's ear some gossip that a local paper had printed about him.

"I have already heard about it," announced Sir Sam, calmly.

"It was libel."

"I have no doubt. That editor and I are such good friends he knows he can take the liberty."

The Canadian National Railway does not pay immense salaries. A young man in President Hanna's office found an opportunity to speak his mind the other day to the august head of the road.

"I have been in the railroad business ten years," he avowed, "and I am only getting $200 a month. Why, a man could spend that much on neckties."

And Mr. Hanna replied: "Your argument is a bad one, young man. If I gave you any more money you might hang yourself."

A young married lady, who knows Sir Henry Pellatt very well, suggested to him slyly the other day. "Sir Henry, why don't you reduce?"

The distinguished broker rolled an eyelid. "I am waiting," he said, "for the United States navy."

Democracy Losing Prestige, Says Taft

The growing lack of respect for representative Government of the present day is attributed by ex-President William Howard Taft to an inconsistent desire to achieve economic reform through the same channel.

"Representative government is not as much respected now anywhere in the world as it was a century ago," Mr. Taft said. "One hundred years ago a representative form of government was looked upon as a means of escaping from absolute monarchy with all its ills. The great goal then was personal liberty and equality before the law. Now there has come into the minds of many not a desire for liberty and equality of opportunity, but a demand for equality of conditions. The betterment in the condition of all the people has created in the minds of a considerable number a desire for wider equality of comfort and living, which prompts the demand that government shall bring about an economic as distinguished from political reform."

"Because legislative bodies have not the power to work economic changes, their inability to provide economic quality should not be charged against representative government but against the existing social order, Mr. Taft reasoned. And if members of Congress and legislatures are not now looked up to with the respect that they formerly had, perhaps fallen below the ability, experience and disinterestedness that marked the members of these bodies in early days, this estimate "is due in part to the fact that the members are more representative of their constituents than they were."

The influence of money in politics, Mr. Taft did not regard as "eliminated," but as "improved" through reform. "An important feature of the reform has been the dissolution of the bond between corporations and the political boss. He was created as a power by the supposed needs of corporations which wished to avoid strikes and blackmail by councilmen and legislators on the one hand and wished to secure special and sinister privileges from them on the other. They have found it far wiser to appeal to the public on the justice of their case and to spend money in securing publicity for their arguments."

Mr. Taft attacked political parties representing certain classes as autocratic. "We object to party discipline in the great parties," he said, "but there is no such discipline in the great parties as occurs in the class parties. The Socialists, the Non-Partisan League and the Extreme Laborites rule their followers with a rod of iron.

"The striking advantage which our representative system gains by reason of these two large parties is the fact that they are each made up of all classes and conditions, their cleavage is vertical and not horizontal. Each includes the well-to-do, the moderate circumstance and the poor. Each views questions and politics from the standpoint of all the people. In order that each may command support from each class and group of people they shape their policies to be fair to each class."

The Socialist Party, Mr. Taft felt, is unrepresentative in that it seeks to create a class war. The same, he said, was true of the Non-Partisan League in North Dakota.

"They organized the Legislature and ran it by a caucus of the Non-Partisan League" Mr. Taft declared. "They excluded lawyers and all but farmers from the Legislature. For a time they were able to exercise absolute authority, but they have made a lamentable economic failure and they cannot maintain themselves, for their leaders are real Socialists and seek in di uised ways to have the State acquire all the land, while this is the last thing wanted by the farmers who constitute the party."

Trophies Taken in 1870 Returned to France

Paris, May 4—As a balm to French patriotism Germany has finally decided to turn over a train load of military trophies captured from France in the war of 1870. Included among them are numerous cannon and rifles, and even the first machine gun models. The train bearing these trophies arrived at Mayence. They will be displayed for the troops of occupation there and then brought to Paris for an exposition at the Invalides.

The French Ministry of War has not yet been informed whether the French campaign banners which the Germans are compelled under the terms of the Treaty of Versailles to surrender, but some of which were reported to have been destroyed at the outbreak of the war and the remainder in the anti-French demonstrations in Berlin last year, are in the shipment.

'To him that hath shall be given'

Was the Biblical version of our modern saying: "Nothing succeeds like success." So it was with Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., who, over 50 years ago, gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equalled as a tonic for the weaknesses of women. Many women in every hamlet, town or city will gladly testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did them a world of good. Ask your neighbor.

Another of this great physician's successful remedies is known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and, like the "Prescription," is now sold by druggists everywhere, in both liquid and tablets. This medicine was a success from the start, for the list of men and women all over the universe who have successfully used it for indigestion and as a blood tonic and system builder, makes an amazing total of thousands.

JAPAN NOT SEEKING WAR, SAYS BRITON

New York, May 3.—The American who believes that Japan wants war or that Honolulu can be captured or San Francisco invaded is holding to a foolish delusion, in the opinion of Major Fairbuirn Downie, C.B.E., who has just returned from a three-month visit to Japan. He went there to study political and industrial conditions and is hastening back to England to write a series of articles and deliver lectures before the Anglo-Japanese treaty comes up in June. Japan, he said, yesterday, at the Hotel Pennsylvania, does not seek war, and that even if she did the barrier of distance could not be overcome.

"From the outsider's standpoint Japanese armaments are alike unprecedented and uncalled for," he said. "No other power in modern times spent or contemplated spending fifty per cent of its revenue on arms and this at a time when economy is more urgently needed than ever before. No other power, certainly no European power, was ever more strongly protected by circumstance and geographical position from external aggression. America, even if she wished it, is too far away. China and Russia are too weak to attack Japan. England, apart from any question of an aliance or possible motive, is also too far to be ever seriously considered as a possible enemy.

"The problem in Japan is the struggle for existence. This is the struggle that is going on in Japan to-day, and especially in view of the economic slump the only escape for many Japanees is to be found to emigration. The question is where to go. The United States of America, Canada, and Australia, have closed their doors; are they the only outlets? In considering this problem it is only fair to point out that the Japanese on the whole have not proved themselves good colonists. They do not like pioneer work, they do not willingly endure climatic extremes, they do not settle permanently in or identify their interests with the land of their adoption. They prefer to go where others have led the way, they want a moderate climate, and then chief aim and object is to trade only among themselves, and having made their pile return home to Japan.

"Lately much has been said and written on both sides against the continuation of the alliance, the chief argument apparently being that its renewal may provoke a suspicion of the United States of America. It is difficult to see why, if American suspicion was not provoked in the past, it should be now by a defensive alliance which has already been proved, in the late war, to have been a power on the side of the peace-loving nations of the world. The alliance originated as an instrument of defence—there can be no reason why it should not be continued as such, or why Japan's help should not be sought in maintaining peace and security in Eastern waters."

"HIS MASTER'S VOICE"

(Dominion News Service.)

London, May 3.—A simple story, mingled with romance and pathos, is associated with the painting of the world famed picture "His Master's Voice," by Mr. Francis Barrand, to whom the Gramophone Company has awarded an annuity of £250 in recognition of the debt they owe to the picture for the wide success of their business.

"My brother, who was a scenic artist in Bristol," he said, "had a very cunning and clever little fox terrier named Nipper, and when he died Nipper was inconsolable.

"I said I would take Nipper out for a walk, and was told the dog would not follow me. I love dogs, and, curiously enough, Nipper took to me at once.

"I had a talking machine, and when I set it going Nipper used to go and sniff in the horn, and cock his head knowingly on one side. Well, that's the origin of a doggie listening for his master's voice.

"My introduction to the Gramophone Company arose through my going to their shop to ask for the loan of a brass horn as a copy to paint in my picture. The Gramophone asked me for what purpose I wanted the horn, and on learning the reason asked to see the picture. They instantly recognized its trade value, and bought it at my price of £100 there and then."

Pay of American Second Lieutenant Equivalent to Foch's

Coblenz, April 14 (By Mail).—The pay of a second lieutenant in the American army on the Rhine is equivalent at present rates of exchange to that of Marshal Foch.

This may explain in part why the American army of 15,000 men cost Germany more than 80,000 French troops in the Mayence zone. It accounts also for the exaggerated statement from German sources that America's fighting force cost Germany more than all the Allied armies of occupation.

Marshal Foch's salary is 33,000 francs. A second lieutenant in the American forces in Germany receives $2,120 a year, which extra allotments bring up to about $2,300. At the rate of exchange of 14 francs and a half to the dollar the second lieutenant draws about 33,350 francs a year.

The buck private receives $36 a month, a corporal $51.80, a sergeant $63 and a technical sergeant $74.20.

The French poilu at Mayence has to be content with 75 centimes a day, a corporal receives 90 centimes and a sergeant 2 francs.

With the rate of exchange about 60 to 65 marks to the dollar, the American soldier in Germany draws a larger salary than many high German city officials.

The American soldier in the Coblenz area lives better than the average bourgeois family of either France or Germany. At each of the ten huts managed by the Young Men's Christian Association in Coblenz the soldier can obtain better and cheaper food than in the average good restaurants of Paris or Coblenz.

Here is the menu of the one Sunday dinner at the Bahnhof Hotel, conducted by the Y. M. C. A., which the soldier could buy for 30 marks, or about a half dollar: Cream of pea soup, roast Danish turkey, nut dressing, cranberry sauce, potato croquets, Jersey sweet potatoes, creamed cauliflower, shrimp salad, radishes, olives, pickles, rolls, butter, marshmallow ice cream, cake, coffee or tea.

There never has been a soldier in any army who has had at his disposition the organization of welfare which the American soldier on the Rhine enjoys. Officers say the boys here are living the lives of gentlemen and behaving as such.

Although prohibition does not exist in Coblenz the correspondent has yet to see a drunken American soldier in the city, yet pay-day the dread of the military police, has come and gone.

The Germans seem to bear them no animosity and they are popular with the frauleins and spooning might be added to the outdoor sports which find favor with many soldiers.

Protects Holy Sepulchre

London, May 4.—Provision for the protection of the Holy Sepulchre against fire has been made by Sir Herbert Samuel, High Commissioner for Palestine, says the Palestine Weekly.

Sir Herbert recently visited this shrine of Christendom and noticed that no arrangements had been made to cope with a possible outbreak of fire. He at once ordered three portable fire pumps to be sent from England, and has presented them as a personal gift to the Latin, Orthodox and Armenian representatives at the Holy Sepulchre.

Sweden Plans Heavy Advances in Tariff

Stockholm, May 3.—The Government to-day introduced a bill in the Riksdag for a provisional increase of import duties on more than 500 different kinds of commodities. The increase includes 100 per cent. on furniture, wall papeer, textiles, glass, china, eathenware and metals, and 30 per cent. ad valorem on motors, locomotives and tramway cars. It is proposed to retain these duties until July, 1922.

It is estimated they will yield 1,000,000 kroner.

of "SALADA" TEA were sold in the first three months of this year than in the corresponding period of last year. This is equivalent to an INCREASE of 20 tons a week and a modest estimate of this means that over one hundred million MORE cups of delicious "SALADA" were enjoyed in the homes of the people during these three months than in the same three months of 1920.

This INCREASE confirms the popularity of "SALADA", which was evidenced by the INCREASE of 1,496,236 pounds in "SALADA" sales for 1920 over 1919, and the increase of 1,536,789 pounds in 1919 over 1918.

We publish these figures because we believe everyone is interested in the reward of merit. For 30 years we have been blending and selling an honestly fine quality tea to the public. In all that time "SALADA" has remained matchless in flavour—unapproached by any other tea in cup quality—and as a result has continually increased in sales.

Please remember the above figures represent our INCREASES alone—"SALADA" sales are not only larger than those of any other tea in America, but amount to over

ONE-TENTH OF THE TOTAL IMPORTS OF ALL KINDS OF TEA INTO AMERICA

London, May 5.—Thirteen admirals and rear admirals were on the committee, and the Prince of Wales was patron of the Navy League Ball which was held last Wednesday, (April 27) at the Albert Hall. The hall was transformed for the occasion into an Elizabethan ship, with her deck cleared for dancing, and the orchestra on her prop. There was a very large attendance, and the funds of the League will materially benefit through the energy of the organizers.

Royal Husband Gets None of Leeds Millions

Athens, May 3.—Princess Anastasia, who before her marriage to Prince Christopher of Greece was Mrs. William B. Leeds, of New York, widow of the tin-plate king, said today that not one dollar of her fortune of $40,000,000 is settled by her will on Prince Christopher. She explained that they had been married under the Swiss law, by which each keeps his or her own money and property, and one is not responsible for the debts of the other.

Princess Anastasia said that her will specified that upon her death her son, William B., Jr., would draw her interest on the trust funds of the estate, but would be unable to touch the principal. If her son or his wife should die, the princess said the entire Leeds fortune would go to their offspring as a trust fund, which will cease with the third generation. If they have no issue the fortune, she said, would go to the Lying-in-Hospital in New York.

Mrs. Leeds characterized as absurd the statement that her son was the richest boy in the world." She recalled that his father's will provided that he should receive only $500,000 when he reaches the age of thirty-five. She said that for the present he was entirely dependent on what she allows him. Princess Anastasia is trying to postpone indefinitely the marriage of her son and Princess Xenia because of their youth. She said, however, that when her son marries she intended to arrange with the trustees of the estate to give him a moderate sum.

Princess Anastasia, her son, the Grand Duchess Maria and the latter's two daughters, one of whom is Princess Xenia, will leave her for Brindisi, where they will entrain for Paris. Princess Anastasia will go to the American hospital there for a second operation.

When she recovers entirely the princess intends to go to America, but if Prince Christopher goes to the fighting in Asia Minor she will return to Greece.

Princess Anastasia to-day appeared extremely weak and much thinner than before her critical illnes. She sat in an invalid's chair, being still too weak to stand. The engagement of her son, she declared, had broken her heart, and on learning of it she wept three days and three nights, refusing to see him. The objections of the princess to the match, she said, were based on the youth and inexperience of the coupte, but she finally yielded to her boy's persuasion.

Princess Anastasia denied that her son would adopt the Greek Orthodox religion, or receive a title from the King. She said the young couple would probably live in America.

Sentences 41 Thieves; Blames Poor Wages

Macon, Ga., May 4.—In sentensing forty-one men, thirty-six of whom were found guilty and five of whom pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to rob the American Railway Express Company of $1,000,000, Federal Judge Evans declared that the whole conspiracy was brought about because "the express company did not pay the massengers wages sufficient to give the man adequate living."

Judge Evans declined to hear pleas for leniency. He gave penitentiary sentences to thirteen.

One defendant, U.L. Johnson, received a penitentiary sentence. Judge Evans told him, "because of your fondness for poker and your appreciation of the company's goods for poker stakes."

SCHWAB SPURNED 100 MILLION BRIBE

Offered by Berlin to End Making Munitions Early in War for Allies.

STRIFE SECRETS TOLD

New York, May 3.—Germany lost the war, but if the United States dose not look to its laurels Germany will "win the peace," Charles M. Schwab, head of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and former director of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, said in addressing the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, which tendered a reception to him in recognition of his war service.

Germany has gone to work, Mr. Schwab declared, and has gained tremendously over the Allies and this country in economizing, sacrificing and throwing herself into real production. This country must get busy, he asserted, if she is to be a world leader.

Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the chamber, in presenting a massive bronze tablet to Mr. Schwab, commemorating his war services, eulogized the steel maker. He said that when Mr. Schwab was making ammunition for England in the early days of the war, Germany, through her Ambassador at Washington, offered to Mr. Schwab $100,000,000 for himself if he would break his contracts with Lord Kitchener.

Thereupon Great Britain, having heard of the proposal, offered $150,000,000 to Mr. Schwab if he would carry the contracts to completion. To both offers he replied that there was not enough money in England and Germany together to make him break faith with Lord Kitchener. Hints of a German attempt to bribe the steel man were heard at the time, but that Great Britain tendered a bonus of $150,000,000 to him to keep his contracts, both of which offers he rejected, had never before been made public, and in telling the chamber about it Mr. Kingsley sprang a real surprise.

"Our problem now," Mr. Schwab said, "is a far greater task than the winning of the war—it is to win the peace. We meet at one of the most critical moments in the history of the world. Out of the decisions which are made within the next few months there may arise the greatest prosperity the world has ever known.

"I have just returned from Europe, and I come with renewed admiration for the courage, the enterprise, the determination which is being displayed in Italy, Belgium, France and England. Those nations, which were wonderful as our allies in war, are marvellous in meeting the tasks of peace.

"But if there was one thought above all others borne in upon me by my observations in Europe, it was this: Geremany has gone back to work as has no other nation in Europe. Her working people are economizing, sacrificing and throwing themselves into real production. Believing as I do that the strength and prospertiy of a nation depends upon the efficiency of its labor, I had something of a shock in contemplating this thought. Is it possible that after having won the war we of the allied nations, with everything in our hands, will allow Germany to win the peace through the efforts of her labor? Will it be possible that the pressure of adversity will have taught the Germans such a lesson in the need of thrift and hard effort that they will have gained the permanent benefit from the war while labor in the allied countries would have reposed in its ease and security and let go the most brilliant opportunity in all history?"

Mr Schwab pointed out that Germany was obtainnig a big advantage over America and the Allies in her international trade by reason of her low costs, largely labor costs. Germany can sell a ton of steel in England, he said, $20 cheaper than what it costs English producers to make a ton of steel.

He made it plain that he believed in rewarding every man as nearly as possible for what he does, but added that labor on the whole can only be paid what labor on the whole earns, and that if in some sections labor exacts more than its share, then the labor of other sections must suffer. He pointed out that of every dollar received by railroads 60 cents goes for labor; that out of every dollar paid for making steel 85 cents represents labor.

"We formerly sold pig iron at a profit at $14 a ton." And while freight rates are too high, he said the roads are nott o blame—railroad costs must come down.

"In so far as our people in America are prepared to go to work at reasonable wages," Mr. Schwab continued; "in so far as we are prepared quickly to abandon the artificial extravagances of the war, will we lay the foundations for a new prosperity such as we have never enjoyed before."

Thomas A Edison, an honorary member of the Chamber of Commerce and an associate for a time with Mr. Schwab in his war work, also was a guest, occupying the rostrum with Mr. Schwab and Mr. Mr. Kingsley. Mrs. Schwab was present.

THE CAUSE OF BACKACHE

MANY PEOPLE THINK IT IS DUE TO KIDNEY TROUBLE

Every muscle in the body needs constantly a supply of rich, red blood in proportion to the work it does. The muscles of the back are under a heavy strain and have but little rest. When the blood is thin they lack nourishment and the result is a sensation of pain in those muscles. Some people think pain in the back means kidney trouble, but the best medical authorities agree that backache seldom has anything to do with the kidneys. Organic kidney disease may have progressed to a critical point without developing a pain in the back. This being the case, pain in the back should always lead the sufferer to look to the condition of his blood. It will be found in most cases that the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to build up the blood will stop the sensation of pain in ill-nourished muscles of the back. How much better it is to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the blood than to give away to alarm about your kidneys. If you suspect your kidneys, any doctor can make tests in ten minutes that will set your fears at rest, or tell you the worst. But in any event you should keep the blood in good condition and for this purpose D. Williams' Pink Pills are highly recommended.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Ca., Brockville, Ont.

CANADIANS IN LONDON DON'T "PULL" RIGHT

(Dominion News Service.)

London, May 5.—For some reason or other, Canadians do not pull together as do Australians in London. To anyone who has had the opportunity of meeting members of both communities this fact is painfully obvious. A case in point occurred the other day when a meeting was held to propose to inaugurate a Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Only one Canadian bank manager attended and he was not enthusiastic; the others ignored the meeting altogether. As one goes about among the Canadian community one hears the scheme criticised not for its merits or demerits but because it was supported by so-and-so and so-and-so. While there are a certain number of Canadian business men keenly interested in putting through the scheme, there are many utterly indifferent who say, "Oh, this is one of so-and-so's stunts. What does he want to butt in for? Once before a Canadian Chamber of Commerce was inaugurated but it died for lack of support and lack of funds to run it properly. There seems to be no kind of feeling that makes a Canadian in London say "This is a Canadian concern, therefore I must back it up."

How different are Australians in London! They cling together in a wonderful way. Once a week Australians in London lunch together. Sometimes as many as 200 are present. At this lunch any Australian stranger in London may attend if he will put down his money for his lunch. The stranger from Australia or New Zealand goes to this lunch knowing that he will meet fellow countrymen. On his arrival there he will be greeted and welcomed, asked where he comes from, and introduced to many of those present. It is something when you are thousands of miles from home to be welcomed like that. Out of this lunch have grown other gatherings such as an Australian Social Circle which meets periodically in the evening at the Royal Colonial Institute to discuss informally over pipes and coffee any Australian topic that may be to the front at the moment. Nor do the Australians forget that their womenkind need social gatherings, and in the winter there are dances and other entertainments.

The Canadian stranger in London has no welcome from his brother Canadians for they have no organization such as the Australian Lunch Club. There is, of course, that time-honored institution the Canada Club which dines three or four times a year, but you must be a member or invited by a member to attend a dinner. It is not the democratic gathering that the Australian lunch is. I understand that a little band of Canadian business men once tried to organize a Canadian lunch club on the lines of the Australian but their efforts met with a cold response. Even so, they meant to put their scheme into practice, but the war upset all arrangements. Perhaps some day there will be such a club to which the Canadian stranger may go and be welcomed by brother Canadians in London, but if there is Canadians must learn the lesson from Australians how to become good mixers, and the man with many dollars must learn to shake hands with the man who has but few.

BANDITS ROB AND MURDER

Manchester, England, May 4.—A strange story of how the Minister of Finance of a civilized state was attacked, robbed of state funds and left for dead, by mountain bandits comes from American Red Cross sources to the Manchester Guardian correspondent at Paris.

Radowitch, the Jugo-Stav Minister, was sent by his government to Montenegro in charge of two and a half million dinars destined to pay war pensions and widows' allowances in that state. He arrived at Bukowitza Pass in a fast car with two guards, the money in a suitcase by his side. On the brow of a dark mountain, Mount Lofsen, the way was barred by a landslide. The guards alighted to clear away the obstacles.

Shots were fired and both guards fell dead. Another volley directed on the car terribly wounded Radowitch, a bullet passing through both legs at the height of the thighs.

Paying no attention to the groaning figure of the minister, a band of men dressed in tattered Czech and Serbian uniforms laids hands on the precious suitcase. The leader, as the minister has since been able to reveal, was a noted Greek chief who took to the hills in the latter days of the war.

The first tidings of the fate of the party was brought to Podgoritza by a goatherd, and a search party found the car dismantled in the pass, apparently empty. Radowitch, informants say, is now in an American Red Cross Hospital at Cettinje, where his life is despaired of.

Lowe Brothers

"Oh, I'm so glad we used Mellotone on our Walls"

People who are tired of wall paper and painted walls that look "painty," appreciate the soft, rich, velvety finish produced by Lowe Brothers Mellotone.

It's a flat oil paint, made in a variety of tints that match nature's wild-flower colorings. Is washable, sanitary, and has great lastingness.

Come in and see the sample panels and ask for interesting literature.

HEART TROUBLE
in most instances is merely an adaptative sympton of some other trouble—usually of the stomach. Oftentimes the most severe heart pains are caused by nothing more than undue pressure in the region of the heart. This gaseous distention, as we have said, is probably due to the abnormal condition of the stomach. When the stomach is provided with its normal supply of mental impulses the nbnormal gaseous condition disappears, the pressure is moved from the region of the heart and the pains, palpitation or other efects in the functioning of that organ, disappears.
If the trouble is directly with the heart, the results which the Chiropractor gets in a vast majority of cases are very remarkable. Your case should not be an erception in responding to Chiropractic adpustments.
THE HEALTH EXPRESS
If you were told that a certain train would convey all sick people to some city where only HEALTH abounded and DISEASE as unknown, the train would surely be overcrowded. Yet those who do not enjoy HEALTH can, but taking CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENTS, take a TICKET to HEALTH and they will not be disappointed. Isn't it worth trying? Don't scoff at this assertion until you have actually investgated ths Science, until you have actually taken CHIROPRACTIC VERTEBRAL ADJUSTMENTS.

G.N. GORDON TO PRESS FOR INCREASING STORAGE AREAS OF TRENT SYSTEM

OTTAWA, May 6—(Exclusive to The Examiner)—G. N. Gordon, M. P. West Peterboro', said last night that when the Trent Canal estimates are brought down early next week he will not only support every item but will press for additional sum for increased storage areas to ensure a more uniform flow of water for power purposes in Peterboro.

Mr. Gordon stated that he had interviewed the Chief Engineer of the Department of Railways and Canals and was satisfied that the improvements to be recommended were necessary an in the interests of Peterboro and other municipalities along the Trent system.

J. H. Burnham, ex-M. P., West Peterboro, expressed to The Examiner today his hope that G. N. Gordon's strenuous efforts in the interests of Peterboro and greater storage areas for water for power purposes would be successful. He however, had found that Ottawa will positively not deal with power, leaving that to the Provincial Legislature, he said.

"GYM" CLOSING HUGE SUCCESS

SPLENDID EXHIBITION OF THE YEAR'S TRAINING AT Y.M.C.A

The gymnasium closing exercises of the Young Women's Christian Association, held last evening in the Y. M. C. A. were a splendid exhibition of the year's training in physical exercises and in folk and aesthetic dancing. Military precision haracterized the exercises of the different classes in the club swingine and dumb bell exercises, and everyone taking part, from the tiny little tots to the young ladies of the senior classes, seemed to enjoy their own performance just as much as the audience. A fine spirit of cooperation between teacher and her pupils is manifested in the performances of the various units, and Miss Pryce, the physical director, is to be congratulated on her splendid system of training. The Peek-a-boo dance by 20 wee, Pink-frocked little barefoot maidens and one lonely boy, was heartily encored, and the dance by the junior school girls, "The Flower Fairy and the Fairies," with little Victoria Goodson in a toe dance, as the flower fairy, was splendidly executed. The entire programme, which will be repeated tonight, is as follows:—

PART ONE

Grand March — Massed Classes
Folk Dance—Portland Fancy — Intermediate and Seniors
Gymnastic Exercises, Saturday Juniors.
Elementary Club Swinging — Junior School Girls
Dumb Bell Exercises — Athena Club and Seniors

COMRADES WIN IN CUP MATCH

VICTORIOUS IN GORDON CUP AT OVAL LAST NIGHT

In the Gordon Cup series the Comrades defeated De Laval at Nicholls Oval last night by 2 goals to 1 after an interesting exhibition of football in which both sides threw away good opportunities to score.

Comrades won the game in the first few minutes, thanks to a penalty and a fumble by goalie Evans both of which McDougall, the scoring ace of the Comrades converted into goals. McDougall scored three goals for his team last Saturday so that he has been responsible for all five counters hung up by the Comrades in their last two fixtures. He made no mistake on the penalty last night and a minute or two later when Evans fumbled a long shot from right wing, McDougall was on top of the play and scored easily. "Ned" Hardie was through twice in

In the seond half De Laval showed a marked improvement in their play and made things decidedly interesting. They hammered away without much luck in their attacks but keeping the Comrades very busy. Finally their persistence was rewarded when Dyer took a pass from Hanson and fooled Post with a neat shot There was no more scoring.

ULSTER IS TO MAKE NO MORE CONCESSIONS

UNIONIST PARY DECIDES THIS AFTER HEARING THE REPORT ON THE MATTER

BELFAST, May 6,— (Canadian Press)—The Ulster Unionist Party in a meeting called by Sir James Craig, Premier Designate of Ulster, to hear his report of the conversation yesterday with Eamonn De Valera, Republican Leader, decided today that Ulster, having accepted the Government of Ireland Act, could make no further concessions

LIQUOR FLOWS

A considerable number of late liquor deliveries are still coming into Peterboro yesterday the Canadian Express Company handled 13 cases and it is said that the Dominion Express have been doing a larger business.

Last week the flow of liquor from Quebec was at flood, according to License Inspector Stewart. Hundreds of cases were handled. The largest shipment was made up of 60 three gallon cases and one 60 gallon barrell valued at $2,500. Mr. Stewart said he understood importation from the British Isles and other oasis was allowed till July 1.

FINED $200 AND COSTS

Limerick McGowan, groceryman, of Preniview, where the Ontario Rock company's plant is situated and where two years ago a murder took place was fined $200 and costs of $20 by Magistrate Langley in Norwaad yesterday for keeping liquor in his house above his grocery-store deemed to be an unlawful place because there is no separate entrance to the house.

SUBSCRIPTION LIST FOR NEW FAIR PROJECT

EXHIBITION BOARD MAY OPEN LIST FOR THE $7,000 GRAND STAND ADDITION

The proposed additions to the grand stand at the Exhibition grounds to more than double its accomodation and the building of the cow barn formed the principal discussion of the Industrial Exhibition directors at a meeting last night. The town works will cost $7,000 and no definite decision was reached on the financing of the jobs, but in all probability a subscription list will be opened.

FASHIONS

(By Dominion News Service)

London, May 5 (by Mail).—A Wellington cravat and Blucher boots for bathing and a Shetland shawl for promenading! Sh! It is a fashion secret stolen from the Women's Wear Exhibition at Islington. General Public (poor fellow) is not allowed in, because Paris and London style specialists want to spring a surprise on him later on. And as for a reporter's pad—'twould have been safer carrying a nice smooth bomb!

A visit to the fair gives evidence that "strikes may come and strikes may go, but Fashion goes on for ever."

London women, who may be said to lead the fashions amongst English speaking countries, will not wear freakish apparel, if the exhibition is taken as an indication. The graceful draperies on hats and dresses that are new and also happily feminine and womanly. Womanliness is so often missing when Fashion gets a mad mood. But there are some staggering new modes too.

Lizards and spiders and beetles have ousted "clocks" on stockings. They are painted on ankles of silk hose and guaranteed not to crawl off when washed. The latest shoe is a high heeled sandal, lavishly strapped and sometimes jewelled.

It has one rival—a plain pump, something like those long-vamped rubbers worn in Canada.

In evening gowns, there is a struggle for supremacy between glittering clinging, sequin coats of mail, and shimmering clouds of tulle, lace or net.

Speaking of bathing suits, English people are much amused at the shoulder-to-toe tights worn beneath the jumper, that the exhibition features. It isn't usual for English toes to be sheathed at bathing resorts, as they are in Canada and America. Most of the suits shown seem to be models made to appease the critical eye of a Bathing Costume Controller.

The "Wellington" one, in rust red and fawn, was a thing of remarkable modesty, considering the style it had.

The diving caps flatter aviation helmets. There are some patterned after the ubiquitous tam.

Most progressive of all new exhibits is the smoke blouse. It has almost the convenience of a smoking cabinet, combined with the beauty of an alluring garment. There is a match-pocket and cigarette case hidden in silken folds of crepe de chene.

Milliners seem to have been weaving from aerial fabrics, and every other airy headdress has clusters of luscious looking fruit resting, or hanging or climbing about the brim. Young and old faces will be framed in finest laces lightly attached to small, and picture hats.

Cape dresses, and those with a sort of Nanky Poo or pyjama jacket, held the procession of summer clothes. The capes are short and built of serge jersey silk, flowing crepe-de-chene or satin. The frocks beneath hang perfectly straight from enormous horse-collars. Shetland shawls are shown quite extensively for dresses, and grandmama's paisley is fashioning the most exclusive cloaks —fringe and all!

The exhibition predicts a colour parade in women's attire. Lemon, blue at its brightest, rust and brick red, grey and navy blue, are most conspicuous. Lingerie frocks and ginghams have their traditional places in the summer wardrobe.

Although numbers of Paris fashion houses were represented, it was amazing how little attention they attracted. Exclusive wholesale and retail firms of London had stalls and models that were unsurpassingly beautiful. One window of French dress materials was amongst the most impressive displays, but the hats, dresses, suits and cloaks that won warmest admiration were shown by London firms. One enterprising French firm had an aeroplane delivery service running direct from their Paris house to the exhibition evening and morning, so that Dame Fashion's last whisper might be "heard" at the seat of distribution.

Soviet Problems to Go Before Big Conference

Riga, May 4.—The Soviet government has decided to combine the All-Russian Congress of Trades Unions, which has been summoned to meet in Moscow May 15, with the fourth Congress of the All-Russian Councils of Public Economy, putting before the joint sessions of these bodies all the new problems created by the recent reforms.

Stage & Screen.

THE announced intention to re-issue "The Birth of a Nation" would seem to stultify a good many arguments advanced during the past two years about the advancement of the motion picture—that is, if any of them was seriously intended.

The redoubtable Fatty Arbuckle whose real name is Roscoe, plans to enter vaudeville. He has made personal appearance on many stages in his career, and thinks now that he would like a vacation from film work. And as he has appeared both in musical comedy and vaudeville, there is no reason why he shouldn't prove a big headliner, both financially and physically.

* * *

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran are on the outs at present and it all started when officials at the Universal studios cut a comedy. Lyons walked off the lot declaring he was through. Moran remained and unless a truce is declared will continue to appear in Universal pictures without his old time mate as a foil. Lyons and Moran have appeared in pictures together for years and their association, until this break, always has been of the Damon and Pythias variety.

The film industry is more seriously regarded in Germany than in any other country in the world. It is so regarded not only by the people who attend the theatres, but by the Government itself. The result has been that in Germany everything possible has been done by the Government to foster the industry, to give it protection from without, encouragement from within. For the last two and one-half years there has been an effective embargo on all films coming into Germany from foreign countries. This embargo was raised very slightly on the first of this year. At present but 2 per cent of the footage released in Germany is permitted to enter Germany from all foreign countries.

Free lance scenario writers in Los Angeles are having hard times these days. The producers are not buying as many "originals" as they used to. Louis Calhern tells of a friend of his, a scenario writer, who was sued by his butcher. The writer met the butcher on Hollywood Boulevard and asked why the butcher had not sent around the usual roast for Sunday.

"Why, Mr. Steelescript," said the butcher, "I didn't think you'd want to deal with me after I brought suit against you."

"Never mind that," said Steelescript, "sue me all you want, but don't starve me to death."

Robert Ellis, who plays a leading role in "Ladies Must Live," once was a member of a stock company that toured Kentucky and Tennessee. One Sunday Ellis went up in the mountains and stopped at a log cabin for cornbread and coffee.

In payment for his dinner he told Zeke Tanner, his host, about the wonders of New York and Chicago and Cincinnati. Zeke considered Ellis' remarks for a long time. Then he filled his corncob pipe reflectively.

"Stranger," he said, "if I knew as much as you and was a little younger I'd go somewhere's and start a little grocery."

A. L. Erlanger, Charles B. Dillingham and Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., have acquired all the producing rights of every kind of "Ben Hur," the famous play by William Young, founded on the no less famous novel by Gen. Lew Wallace. Included in the transaction are the motion picture rights, for which alone the price is to be $1,000,000. This deal—one of the biggest ever made in the theatrical world—is the culmination of eight years of negotiation and conflict in the courts, and by its consummation the three associated managers come into undisputed possession of all the stage and screen rights to the story.

"How do you do it?" asks the motion picture fan as he sees bricks forming themselves in a wall. Or he may ask, how are submarine pictures made? And is there anyone in fandom who hasn't wondered how auto thrillers, showing a car falling over a cliff, are made?

These puzzling effects are sometimes very simple, and sometimes require the greatest care, patience and ingenuity.

For instance, the brick wall effect, with the bricks fairly flying through the air, is merely a case of reverse photography. First a brick wall is photographed. A man, hidden behind the wall pulls down a brick at a time and throw it into a pile in front of the wall. Each time he does it, it is photographed. The film is reversed when it is shown, so that the last picture appears first. By similarly reversing the film a man smoking a cigar can be made to appear as if he were swallowing the smoke, and the cigar gets longer instead of shorter as he smokes it.

Submarine pictures are more difficult. In one picture a specially constructed boat is used, from which a long steel tube descended into the water. At the end of the tube was a chamber of steel and glass, where the camera operator worked. The necessary light was obtained by lowering a number of very powerful mercury lamps.

As to automobile thrillers—most producers do not squander money when they can avoid it, and the scenes are generally faked. When the high-powered auto, containing the villain and the kidnapped heroine, reaches the edge of the cliff, both the auto and the camera stop. A wooden replica of the auto, containing dummy figures, replaces the real car, and it is then shoved over the cliff. The camera man takes a picture of the fall and crash and then stops his camera long enough so that the actors can crawl under the wreckage. He then takes a picture of them crawling injured from the debris.

As an up-to-date sample of imaginative press work of the kind that keeps the civic incinerators busy, the following, written about a dog, called "Patches," now appearing in a picture being made by a well known motion picture actress and producer, should be awarded most honorable mention:—

Two weeks ago "Patches," then without a name, home or friend, was just a street hound scratching to kee both ends wiggling. Today he has a personal servant looking after his every comfort. T-bone steaks, beef stew and sausages are his favorite diet, a warm bed next to the furnace his nightly resting place and kindly hands tickle his nose to his utter delight.

The movies, responsible for many miraculous changes in the lives of various unsuspecting persons, is credited with the present wonderful existence of "Patches," who, in lieu of pinching himself, bangs his head against the kitchen table to make sure he is not asleep or in dog-heaven.

The hound, whose bark resembles a cross between a sighing north wind and the cry of a leaping goldfish, was discovered in the close vicinity of an ash can recently by Miss ——, the producer. Offering the physical qualifications of the very kind of a dog she wanted for her new picture, she took him to the studio and started him on his career.

The lanky pup proved himself a natural born actor and Miss —— enlarged his part daily with the result that should the dog now catch a touch of spring fever, break a leg or die, he would tie up thousands of dollars in this picture, for, according to all who have seen him, there could never be born two such strange looking animals in one generation.

YOUNG WOMAN FOUND DEAD AT PORT HURON

PORT HURON, Mich., May 5,—The body of a pretty woman about 28 or 30 years of age with a bullet wound through the heart, presumably selfinflicted, is at Falk's Morgue here awaiting identification. Sheriff Mains and Coroner Falk are trying to find some clue which may lead to her identification. The body was found in the tool house at Rosehill cemetery, abut one mile south of St. Clair.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

RACE HATRED IS EXTENDING

London, May 5.—Doubtless racial bitterness is on the increase in America," remarked John H. Harris, the organizing secretary of the Anti-Slavery and Aborigines Protection Society, and a foremost authority on the negro problem, when interviewed today.

"It is also sad to say that the bitterness noticeable in America is being reflected in the African continent, proceeded Mr. Harris. "If segation is taking place in South America the South African Government has likewise embarked—for good, or ill upon a policy of segation, or, more correctly, a separation of domicile. South Africa is being divided up on a chequered board principle of black and white areas.

"Ultimately the four million natives are to be placed on forty million acres of land, and the white people on the remaining 260 million acres. Whether this project is for better or for worse, it will take generations to accomplish in its entirety.

"General Smuts, a few weeks since, called attention to the deplorable fact that racial hatred is extending.

"Lord Buxton, speaking in London at a recent dinner of the South African Society, had a deal to say in his presidential address relative to native grievances. Civilization and authority, said his lordship, controlled and hampered the natives in every way in their tribal areas. They must not drill, they must not fight, they must not kill nor raid their neighbours individually or collectively, and in some parts they might not even carry an assegai.

"The life of the natives had become very drab and dull, and they had plenty of time to brood over their grievances—a fruitful field for the agitator. They had got to hear about the League of Nations, and the Nationalist agitation had turned eyes to self-determination for the native as well as the white."

In Mr. Harris's opinion these words of Lord Buxton are very important, for the most prominent feature in the negro world today is the sense of African nationhood. The negro of America is calling to the nego of Africa upon the basis of African brotherhood.

"Contact is now being established by conferences and committees and for summoning a conference in some European city, which will be attended by the leading negroes of America and the leading negroes of the vast African continent. The chief object of this meeting is the inauguration of a scheme for mutual assistance in breaking the fetters which bind them both politically and industrially.

Regarding the thorny topic of mixed reltaionship, Mr. Harris holds very definite views. "There is," he said, "a deal of evidence that the white man has no repugnance for the native woman. In secret he loved her, but in public there is the color bar! What the African rightly says is: "If you want my daughter or my sister, it must be upon the same terms as you would take the daughter or the sister of a white man."

(Dominion News Service.)

Geneva, May 5.—A strange marriage took place her yesterday. A handsome Frenchwoman, aged twenty-nine, had received an order of expulsion from the canton of Geneva, but outwitted the local police by visiting a hospital and inquiring whether there was an incurable or dying Genevese patient under treatment there.

She was told that there was one and a nurse introduced her to a man named Baudit, fifty-nine years of age, who agreed to marry the Frenchwoman on payment of £6 cash down and £2 monthly so long as he lived.

The bride presented the bridegroom with a new suit of clothes and other necessaries, and the couple drove in a motor-car to a register office, where the ceremony was performed. The bridegroom then returned to the hospital and the bride to her flat. They will probably not see each other again. The bride, being now a Genevese, cannot legally be expelled, and the judge's order of expulsion is valueless.

Soap Control

London, May 6— (By Canadian Presse) —The absorption of numerous Swedish soap manufacturing companies by a British corporaton is reported from Goteborg, Sweden. British capital, it is stated now completely controls the Swedish soap manufacturing industry.

No Rank Recognized

Coblenz, May 6.— (Associated Press, by mail) —An American school, where the children of private soldiers mingle in study and at play with the children of colonels, is one of the institutions organized by the Young Men's Christian Association in Coblenz, of which General Allen, the American army commander, is the proudest.

The work of the school ranges from kindergarten to high school grades. There are 122 children registered and the average attendance is about 100. Miss Elsie A. Hammond, of Nebraska, has charge of the work, in which are engaged five other teachers.

Loan Farmers Money

Madrid, May 6. (Canadian Press, by Mail)—Farmers' associations of Spain are demanding that the government set up land banks to loan them money at reasonable rates to purchase modern machinery and fertilizers. They say the tenant farmers now have to borrow cash from usurers who often charge as high as 250 per cent.

This leaves the farmer so poor that he cannot afford to buy the implements for deeper ploughing necessary to dry farming, to which 50,000,000 acres of land are devoted

Is Only 18 Months and She Sketches

Cardiff, Wales, May 6.— (Associated Press, by mail) —Helen Williams, of South Wales, is stated to be the world's youngest artist. Her claim to this distinction is that, although she is only 18 months old, she sits up in her cot every day and with a pencil and drawing board sketches the things that adorn her nursery.

Two of her studies drawn from memory are being exhibited at the annual exhibition of the Royal Drawing Society in London.

Lowering Wages in Sweden 15 Per Cent

Stockholm, May 6— (Associated Press, by mail) An effort to reduce wages and cost of production to the present lower level of prices is being resisted by Swedish wage earners generally, but a start has been made in the wood pulp and cellulose industry where wages have been lowered 15 per cent.

One of the largest electrical companies has also come to an agreement with its operatives for an adjustment to a lower basis.

Record Egg Stories

Edmonton, May 6.— (Canadian Press) —Record breaking egg stories from various cities in the Dominion have been frequent during the past few weeks. Each succeding report shattered all previous records for size and weight and now we have another egg-phenomenon —an "egg in an egg". This remarkable egg was laid by a Playmouth Rock pullet owned by the Genereal Hospital here. There are two shells with about a half inch of the space between them filled with the same material as the white of an ordinary egg. The outside shell is about the same size as a double-yoked egg, while the inner egg is the size of a normal one.

Punish in the Home

Edmonton, Alta, May 6.— (Canadian Press) —When a seventeen-year old boy had been found not guilty by a jury of breaking an entering a store Mr. Justice Ives addressed the youth as follows:

"I don't for a moment think that you are a criminal, and even if the jury had found you guilty I would not think so, for there are a great many in this country who are convicted of transgression against the criminal code who are not "criminals" according to the accepted meaning of the term.

"Now you are only seventeen years old. Let this be a lesson to you. Hereafter choose your company, your associates. And let the parents who hear me now know that they owe more to their children than to their business. There is no excuse for parents not knowing where their children are at the age of sixteen, and knowing what they are doing. The pool halls are not the place for them. The street is no place for them after 9 o'clock, and joy riding never makes a man.

"Parents in this city are to blame. It is time to revert to the good old principle of punishment in the home, and then there will be less punishment to be done in the courts."

Cost of Education

Auckland, New Zealand, May 6 — (By Canadian Press) —The minister of Education, has reported that the cost of public education in New Zealand for the year 1921 would be $15,767,460, which is a very great increase over 1914, when the expenditure for education amounted to $6,873,600. Over 50 per cent of the children in New Zealand go through the primary school course from standard one to standard six and then to the Proficiency Certificate grade. At present one pound sterling out of ten of the general taxation is taken for educational purposes and expended for the benefit of not fewer than 200,000 children. During the year about $2,500,000 is to be spent on the construction of school buildings.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Lakefield, May 6.—The Dramatic Club of the George St. Epworth League drove up from Peterboro on Monday night, and gave their mock trial "Peck vs. Peck," to a capacity audience in the Lakefield Memorial Hall. Each player took his and her part well, and the audience was most appreciative throughout. The varied types presented in the women of the jury kept the audience in roars of laughter, and the remarkable evidence of the witnesses was appreciated.

The programme was augmented by solos by Misses Myrtle Succee and Doris Rathbone, both of which received encores.

One particular point was made certain to the people of Lakefield—one which has been a long-disputed question—and that is that the Memorial Hall is "safe" in structure. The crowd of Monday night demonstrated its sustaining feature beyond further question.

The Press Attacks Pigeon Shooting

London, May 6.— (Associated Press) —English public opinion is being stirred by a concerted attack by the press against pigeon shooting and as a result a bill has been introduced in Parliament which would make this form of sport illegal.

The storm arose over a contest recently at Chatham where live birds were released from traps for a shooting competition. Support for the proposed anti-shooting measure is promised by the government and is warmly given by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Agitation against this form of sport has extended to Monte Carlo, where many upper-class English spend part of the winter, and where the practice is said to be an institution. The Prince of Monaco is reported to be sympathetic to the attempt to eliminate to live pigeon shooting and to substitute clay pigeons.

Diamond Mines in South Africa Shut Down

Jagersfontein, South Africa, May 6 (Associated Press, by mail)—There has been further retrenchment in the diamond mines here and underground work has ceased. It is estimated that the employees will shortly number only 60 Europeans and 800 boys, compared with 900 and 8,000, respectively, before the war.

The men who are leaving receive two month's pay. Many families have already left the town and business it at a stand-still.

High Receipts Record

New York, N. Y., May 6— (Canadian Press) —Receipts from the Metropolitan Opera for six months are estimated at $2,250,000 a new high record.

The snappiest, jazziest, funniest and most thrilling screen comedy ever produced featuring the foremost comedy artists including the world famous Singer Midgets - Worlds tiniest people.

Meat Prices Decline

Auckland, New Zealand, May 6— (By Canadian Press) —There was a gradual decline in meat prices during the last months of 1920 and the first months of this year, with a very general slump during the past few weeks that has very greatly disturbed stock raisers, slaughterhouse people, and meat exporters in this Dominion. The meat congestion in Europe is blamed for much of this marked decline, and to this is added the increased freight charges for actual shipping costs, including insurance, commission, etc., to more than 8 cents a pound, while beef is now quoted at wholesale in London at 18 cents a pound forehind quarters and 12 cents for fore quarters. Stock raisers claim that this leaves very little margin for them.

Less Begging in France These Days

Paris, May 6.— (Associated Press, by mail) —There is 80 per cent less begging in France than previous to 1914, according to police statistics, but theft has increased in about the same proportion. The police explain this phenomena by saying that the temptation constantly held out to the gaily inclined to enjoy themselves appeals to those who cannot afford it as well as to those that can.

Criminality among women and children has notably increased Amond a hundred persons found guilty of crime before the war there were 12 women and five minors there are now 30 women and 14 minors in every hundred convicted.

Besides the temptation to have a good time, the police say sensational moving pictures have had a good deal to do with the development of crime among women and children.

Cases of assault and battery and other offenses which are largely credited to alcoholism, have decreased. This is attributed to the suppression of absinth and to abstemious habits acquired when war-time restrictons made it impossible to drink at all hours of the day.

War Romance for Minister Aged 51

London, May 6.— (Associated Press, by mail)— Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscawen, Minister of Agriculture, who has just been returned to Parliament from Taunton borough, is to marry his former private secretary, Miss Phyllis Dereham, a volunteer war worker. The wedding is to be in August.

Sir Arthur is 51 years old and a widower. Miss Dereham was educated at Easthourne and in Paris. During the war she was employed in the Agricultural Department, where she won promotion to a private secretaryship, serving under her prospective husband. Later she yielded her place to a former soldier.

Revives Whipping Post

New York, May 6— Revival of the whipping post for criminals was advocated in Brooklin by Supreme Court Justice Fawcett in sentensing a highwayman to a term of imprisonment of from 10 to 20 years. "Shorter sentences and the genrous use of the lash would rid the community of hadened criminals", said the court; "The prison with it's moving pictures, theatricals and other froms of entertainment is not considered unishment by many prisoners. The time has come when judicious use of the lash would meet a long felt want in making our streets and parks safe and in protecting the lives and property of our people.

A GENTLEMAN

New York, May 4th. (By Canadian Press). — Mr. Donald O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, is doubtless a gentleman of excellent humour", declared the "New York Times" in a recent editorial. "He must be amused at the eargerness of his American protectors to create for him a status which he didn't originally claim. He has been here since January 4. In plain disregard of the facts and violation of the law secretary of Labor Wilson refused to deport him, made him a "seaman'. To the present administration he is stil a Jonah, a nautical character, expected to take ship early in June. He favored us with a visit as a stowaway for the purpose of giving testimony before an absurd volunteer committee in Washington. That purpose achieved, one might suppose that he would consent to go back. For one thing he would relieve a kindly government of a certain difficulty. Of course compulsion against an alien lawbreaker who happens to have powerfull friends is not thought of save with trembling. Law has its uses but votes are supreme.

"Mr. O'Callaghan counsel, not content with his modest imposed place as a mariner, have vainly tried to establish for him the favored and exceptional position of a "political refugee". Neither Mr. Wilson nor Mr. Harding's administration admitting this itneresting fiction, there was an effort in Congress, beaten only after a hard fight, to make is law, to insert into the Immigration Restriction bill an amendment providing for the admision of aliens "who are refugees for political reasons". Mr O'Callaghan is not a political refugee. He is a foreign political propagandist in the United States against a country friendly to the United States. He ditdn't come here because he was driven out, but because he wanted to It it true that the amendment provided that the question whether an alien is a political refugee or not shall be determined by a jury; but the proposal seemed none the less, to be special and personal, and made for the purpose of delaying indefinitely the Lord Mayor's return.

"The proposal to make [illegible] for the protection of a lumberake [illegible] explains the doubt Mr. O'Callaghan enjoys the [illegible] making and [illegible]

Growing Demand for Aunts in London

London, May 6— (Associated Press, by mail) —There is a growing demand for "aunts" to escort schoolboys and girls who are passing through London on ther way to and from school for vacations. American visitors are also keen on securing the services of "aunts" for sightseeing and shopping expeditions.

This has led to the formation of an association called "Uuniversal Aunts", composed of about 70 cultured women experienced in travel and having linquistic ability.

Their sphere of usefulness is not confined to the chaperonng of boys, girls and American visitors, as many of the "aunts," are experts in designing dresses and decoration of houses.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow complexion, others who have bilious attacks, acid stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

ANDREW WILSON & CO TORONTO AND MONTREAL

NATIONALIZATION OF GAMBLING

By Hamilton Fyfe, in Italy.

London, May, 6. — "Strike at San Reno" I read as I sat at breakfast with the grey English winter morning sky outside, and I wished I were there on the Italian Riviera, sauntering under the palm-trees and looking out on the blue glittering Mediterranean, turned to the likeness of a sea of brass at noon-tide under the high glow of the sun. Strike or no strike, that was what I wished, and then I turned to wondering what on earth the strike could be about.

There is but ont industry at San Remo. The place exists for the foreign visitor. Before the new town was built there was a little old town to which you may climb still. But it never had many inhabitants, and to-day there are fewer still.

It is by hotel-keeping and shop-keeping that San Remo lives. Who could have struck, the hosts or the guests?

I read further and found that the strike was a strike of shop-keepers against the decision of the Italian Government that there must be no games of chance in the Casino, no "little hortes" no baccarat. And then the message added that this was due to the Italian Premier's disapproval of gambling.

This made me laugh outright. How can gambling be disapproved of by the head of a Government which derives a large revenue from it? The real cause of this quarrel between San Remo and the authorities is the resolve of the later to sweep all the profits from gambling in Italy into the National Treasury instead of letting them go into private purses. What the rulers of Italy say is this: "People are going to gamble; of that we feel sure. Isn't it better that the nation should benefit by this propensity rather than individuals? We will therefore provide an attractive means of gambling in which all, even the poorest, can take part, and we will not allow any other methods to be carried on either openly or under cover. Those who want to have a little flutter shall do it our way and enrich the Treasury, or they shall not have it at all."

The means provided by the Government are, first and chiefly, the State Lotteries; secondly and less important as a source of revenue, the Totalisator on racecourses, which declares the odds automatically, does away with bookmakers and takes a percentage of every bet to relieve taxation. But this brings in little by the Tombolas of lotteries. The tickets in these are bought by all classes. They are bought regularly and regarded as part of the business as well as part of the fun of life. Whoever has been in an Italian town when the results of the drawing of numbers were declared knows what excitemen tis aroused and how the whole population seems to share in it. The numbers are read out from the Town Hall steps, there is a band, the mayor and councilors wear their scarves of office. It is an official occasion.

Down in the south, where there is more superstition than among the harder-working, shrewder Italians of Piedmont and Lombary, lottery "tipsters" make money easily by selling prophecies of lucky-numbers. Once in Naples I saw a huge crowd coming away from a Cemetery. They had been there to see a body exhumed. It was the body of a tipster's sister who had died a year before. He had put into her coffin five numbers which he said would be the winners in twelve months' time! Even the beggars have their tickets, or shares in tickets. Almost everyone dreams of winning a big prize and being made wealthy for life. So deeply has this form of gambling entered into Italian life that a lottery is the usual method of raising money for a charity, just as a bazaar is with us. Once at a big hotel I came in for a dance on New Year's Eve. The King's cousin and all the local swells attended, and in the middle of the dancing there was a five-franc raffle for a lot of very nice-looking prizes The King had sent a silver coffee set, I remerber, and the Queen-Mother something else. Such an incident in England would have brought the police on the scene.

Here, then, is the explanation of the atempt to suppress in San Remo and all Italian towns the games which are the attraction at Monte Carlo. The Government want to keep gambling a State monopoly, and personally I think they have reason on their side. Why should the owners of gaming-houses and casinos fill their pockets? They are not good citizens anyway. It is far better that the nation should reap the benefit. But I daresay the Government will have a strugle. Other places will back San Remo up. Perhaps the solution will be for the Government to establish "little horses" and baccarat itself. They are really no worse than lotteries after all. And it must be galling to Italians to see the richest visitors going to Monte Carlo always and leaving there the money they might be pouring out upon Italian soil.

A strange spectacle it would be for those among us who think all gambling wicked, I have heard Englishmen denounce even lotteries as sinful, but most of them tried their luck at Monte Carlo all the same!

Stakes Oil Claims

Vancouver, B.C., May 6.— (Canadian Press) —The claims staked by Wada, the Jap, in the Fort Norman oil fields have been acquired by a Vancouver syndicate and a Dominion charter has been granted to the James K. Cornwall Syndicate, Limited, for the prospecting and development of petroleum, gas, and mineral deposits.

Col. Cornwall, a director of the company, will be the field manager, and it is the intention to begin active development in the near future. The company starts out with $50,000 capitalization as its minimum, the charter provides that the shares have no nominal or par value, but that that amount of capital stock must be subscribed. Vancouver will be the head office of the syndicate with Col. Cornwall looking after its interests in the local field.

BIG LACROSSE TURN OUT

The first regular practise of the Campbellford Intermediate Lacrosse team was held on the Agricultural grounds on Monday evening with a large number present. A large number of the enthusiasts turned out to try and win a place on the team, and in all there were about forty practising T. Thomas was chosen captain, and sides were drawn up. Among those practising were: Jas. Blute, Jas. Kerr, C. Jacobs, L. Reynolds, A. Jacobs, D. Graham, B. Kerr, H. E. Nancarrow, L. Hill, P. Thomas, T. Thomas, L. Hartt, C. Alexander, C. Montgomery, W. Nesbitt C. Johnston, V. Farell, E. Labrash, C. Runions, J. Brown, B. Edwards.

There was a large number of spectators present, who were delighted with the form displayed so early in this season. There is a strong belief that Campbellford will clean up this district.

D. W. Douglas, local Ford agent, sold Mr S. Wallace a touring car; H. Fraser, a tractor; Wm. Bennett a touring car; Ed. Thompson, a runabout; Dr. Campbell, of Runabout, and Thos. Moore, or Rosemath, a runabout.

Reasonably High Heels Not Harmful

London, May 6.— (Associated Press, by mail) —The mothers who train their children to walk with toes pointing outward and counsel their little girls never to wear high heels when they grow up, have been told they were all wrong, by Dr. W. H. Trethowan, orthoepaedic surgeon, in an address at the Institute of Hygiene.

"To walk properly," he said, "the feet should be kept absolutely parallel. The "quarter to six" attitude is one of the big mistake of physical training. Three minutes to 12 and three minutes past is what you want when standing.

"A long stride is not good for the feet. A slow, short step is better, for it makes you rise on the toe.

"Never discourage a child who is turning his toes in, unless he has an actual deformity of the foot. He is probably trying to cure himself of knock-knees or weak ankles."

Reasonably high heels are very excellent things, the surgeon said. Low heels are all right for children, or for adults with a perfect foot, but unfortunately no foot was perfect.

"I advise, unhesitatingly," he added, "the use of high heels. I do not mean by that the silly three-and-a-half to four-inch Louis heel with its curved mechanical shape and inefficient support. The height of the heel for remedial purposes should not exceed two and a quarter inches, and in house shoes should not be less than one and a quarter inches. In cases of overstrained feet, slippers must be avoided."

Send Milk to Factory. Road Grading.

Quite a number of cheese factory patrons, who expect to put their milk on the truck, have to clear it themselves, until more people are ready to send milk to the factory.

THIN PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

All that most weak, nervous, thin, mentally-depressed people need is ten grains of pure organic phosphate with each meal for a few weeks.

It is natural food for nerve and brain cells and is known to such reliable pharmacist as McDermid & Jury as Bitro-Phosphate. Because of its power to help create healthy flesh and strengthen weak nerves, much of it is being sold to people who are lacking in vitality.

CAUTION: Although Bitro-Phosphate is an excellent aid in relieving weak, nervous condition, its use is not advised unless increased weight is desired.

Unable to Choose

Poughkeepsie, May 6. — Confronted by two suitors and having taken out licenses to marry both of them, Mrs. Victoria Zina, of Stoneco New York, was unable to choose between the two in Justice of the Peace Lyon's court so she let her children name the man to be their future step-father. The children chose Emelio Frozzno of Steneco.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

MAKING VISIBLE THE HUMAN AURA

NEARLY every person who has read or heard something about the aura of the human body, which has been represented by weirdly colored drawings that were supposed to indicate the hues and shapes of thoughts and emotions, was inclined to dismiss the subject as the invention of an over-active imagination. In so far as the human aura is concerned, never was there a clearer case of "seeing is believing," for without ocular evidence the average person is inclined to be a skeptic. Today science makes it possible for every doubting Thomas of a man, woman and child to see just how his body is enveloped in an atmosphere peculiar to itself and which may be made visible at any time by anyone who will provide himself with the necessary apparatus.

For some time Dr. Walter J. Kilner, a member of the British Royal College of Physicians and formerly electrician to St. Thomas's Hospital, London, who says that he "does not make the slightest claim to clairvoyancy, nor is he an occultist," has been conducting a series of experiments to the end of making visible the aura of the human body. In a book which Dr. Kilner has written on this subject he describes the aura as a haze intimately connected with the body, whether asleep or awake, whether hot or cold, which, although invisible under ordinary circumstances, can be seen when conditions are favorable." Dr. Kilner says that a special glass is needed to see an aura at first, but once it has been seen, he asserts, 96 per cent. of people with normal eyesight can see the aura.

Dr. Kilner explains that the aura is the outcome of force emanation from the body, which, like all forces, is invisible, but becomes perceptible through its action. He thinks that it may be a part of the infra-red rays of radiant heat, or of ultra-violet undulations that may be emitted from the human body, normally invisible, but that can be made visible. He compares it to the "magnetic haze" that can be seen about a magnet, the poles of a galvanic cell or a highly electrified body.

Dr. Kilner is also of the opinion that the aura of the human body may become of great value in aiding physicians to make a diagnosis in doubtful cases.

According to Dr. Kilner, mental diseases and attacks of fainting decrease the size and distinctness of an aura.

Dr. Kilner says that in the case of hysterical persons the aura narrows about the legs and bulges at the small of the back and in disease of any kind there is always an alteration in the color over and about the part of the body that is affected. These patches of changed color, he has observed, are visible only when observed through special glasses. Epilepsy, he says, causes the aura to bulge more on one side than on the other, and to be symmetrical in size, texture and color. These changes from the normal are usually in the outer aura, but the inner also is affected in many cases, contracting over the affected organ and sometimes vanishing entirely over a certain spot, so that there is a funnel-shaped depression. This is difficult to see and cannot be seen at all except against a dead black background. Dr. Kilner says that all such irregularities usually disappear little by little as the disease yields to treatment.

When a body dies Dr. Kilner says that all traces of its aura disappear. Hypnotism produces the same effect, he says.

Fill two flat glass cells with an alcoholic solution of dicyanin (a blue dye made from coal tar), one of them containing a much stronger solution than the other. Then, by looking at the light through the cell with the deeper blue solution, sensitize the eyes to yellow, this being the complementary color to blue. With eyes thus sensitized, look at a person standing against a dark background in only a moderate light.

Then the aura, enveloping the whole body, becomes visible, looking like a blue or gray haze, and possibly with rays darting out from the shoulders or armpits.

Dr. Kilner says that the experimenter should get someone to hold his hands about a foot in front of the black background, on the same plane and parallel with it, from eight to ten inches apart with his fingers extended. He must then peer through the dark dicyanin screen for about 30 seconds at the daylight (the sky if possible, but not directly at the sun.) The screen ought to be held quite close to the eyes, to prevent all light impinging upon the retina unless it has traversed the blue fluid. The influence of the screen usually persists for an hour or more, but sometimes on the first few occasions for a shorter period, when the operation may be repeated as often as necessary.

How the Aura Emanates from a Healthy Body in Two Distinct Parts. The Dotted and Broken Lines Indicate the Inner and Outer Auras, Respectively.

"Next," as Dr. Kilner goes on to explain, "the blinds ought to be so arranged that the hands to be examined are just clearly visible to the observer as he stands with his back to the window and shades them with his body. The observer will, as a rule, be almost immediately able to detect streaks proceeding from the fingers of one hand to the fingers of the other and a haze in the interval between the two hands. Now and then there is some difficulty at the first trial, which can generally be overcome if the other hand be held at right angles and a short distance from the arm. By this means the aura will be intensified, and when the hand is removed the observer will be able to see it around the bare arm."

Dr. Kilner directs attention to the arrangement of the room and its lighting which are quite important, for the aura is not easy to see unless the light is just right. He directs that the body of the person under examination should be just distinctly visible after the observer has become accustomed to the dimness. The light should be diffused, proceeding from one direction only and illuminating the subject equally all over. The best arrangement is obtained when the observer is standing with his back to a darkened window while the subject faces it. The light can be regulated by using a blind consisting of two thicknesses of black serge that can be raised or lowered to any desired height. The subject should stand at least a foot away from the background, on which there should be no shadows.

Throughout his experiments Dr. Kilner has found no two persons to have identically the same aura, although all auras generally have much the same appearance. Dr. Kilner says that it is easy to distinguish the aura of a man from that of a woman, for the shape is different. A little girl's aura has the same shape as a boy's, but in adolescence it gradually takes on the typical feminine form.

"A man's aura," writes Dr. Kilner, "enshrouds the head equally, all round, usually being three to four inches broader than the width of the shoulders. When he stands facing the observer with arms raised and hands resting on his head, the outer aura will appear narrower by the sides of the trunk than round the head and following the contour of the body, where it does not usually exceed more than four or five inches in width, or roughly speaking, one-fifteenth of his height. Viewed in profile, it will be seen down the back about as broad as down the sides, but barely as wide in front. It is always continuous down the lower limbs, though a little diminished in width. Around the arms it resembles that encircling the legs but it is usually broader round the hands, and constantly projects a long distance from the tips of the fingers. The inner aura is generally from two and a half inches to three and a half in extent, and keeps the outline of the body all over.

"The aura of a woman has a specific shape of its own. Above the shoulders, round the head and down the arms and hands it is very similar to that of a man. The difference at once becomes evident, when, facing the observer, she places the hands on the head, for the aura extends further from the sides of the trunk than in males, and broadens out until at the level of the waist it has reached its full size. Hence it gradually contracts until it approaches the ankles. This is the most perfect form, the ovoid, but sometimes it appears to narrow higher up, but not in health, before it arrives at the level of the lower part of the thighs, from which it proceeds downward, much the same in width or only shrinking slowly.

"Cease Your Snoring!"

SNORING is just a habit in three-fourths of all cases, asserts Asa Millard, D. O., in a contribution to The Osteopathic Magazine. It is a habit unpleasant to others and unhealthy and feature-distorting to the snorer.

Mentioning a train experience which will bring to mind the rather unattractive picture of many a snorer when in action, Mr. Millard recalls an incident when a young lady, carrying a small child, was assisted to a seat in a car by a couple of fellow-travelers. When they sat down, one gentleman remarked to the other, "Rather sweet-faced woman, isn't she?"

A few minutes later the other gentleman called attention to the lady and remarked, "The picture has become somewhat marred." The lady leaning in a corner of her seat had fallen asleep. Her mouth was sagging wide open and her nostrils twitching as she vigorously snored.

"The facial distortion of snoring is not all limited to the snoring period," says Mr. Millard. "Years of snoring and its accompanying mouth breathing permanently change the facial expression, tending to make the features heavy and less expressive. Particularly is this true when the habit of snoring is acquired by children. The nose is intended to act as a filter for dust particles (often the dust is germ-laden) from inhaled air and to warm and moisten the air before it reaches the throat and lungs. This filter arrangement is eliminated and throat membranes weakened, dried and irritated and made susceptible to throat troubles by dust ladened air continuously striking them when not warmed and moistened as nature intended. The adjacent muscles about the throat and at the back of the neck will usually be found by an osteopathic examination to be somewhat contracted, tensed and thickened, due to reflection to them through the nerves of this irritation to the throat membranes.

"Many persons snore only when they lie on their back. Something fastened to the back by a belt in such a way as to prevent them lying that way when they sleep will cure them of lying in that position.

"The majority of snorers will need to have the mouth held shut by some arrangement to hold the lower jaw from falling open as soon as they go to sleep. A very slight pressure will accomplish this. A saucer-shaped piece of leather or cloth pad fitting the point of the chin and held in place by elastic bands, as shown in the accompanying illustration, will accomplish this.

"Eliminating the habit of snoring is certainly well worth the few hours of sleep which may be lost in getting accustomed to any device to accomplish the results. Of course, in children and not unfrequently in adults nasal growths or obstructions of some other form may interfere with the passage of air through the nostrils, causing mouth breathing and snoring. This should be attended to. Oftentimes, however, after these are removed the individual is so accustomed to mouth breathing that he keeps it up until systematic measures are taken to get him out of it.

"A few persons can snore a little with the mouth closed, but no real high-class snoring can be done if the lips and teeth are kept closed."

Making BARRELS OUT of PAPER

THE barrel problem, which is an important one in many industries, seems to have been solved at last. A highly ingenious machine which may be installed in any plant and operated by anyone, makes it possible for an organization to make its own barrels out of paper. The paper is bought in rolls, and the barrels are made as needed. Hence there is no waiting for the barrel man to deliver the barrels ordered: the machine is operated for 24 hours if need be or not at all, according to the immediate demand for barrels; the paper in the form of compact rolls takes up little space as compared to empty barrels; and the paper barrel is a lighter and tighter container.

The paper-barrel machine is the invention of George C. Snyder of New York city, although its development to the commercially practical stage has been brought about by others. This machine, as described in The Scientific American, consists of a two-part mandrel which is capable to being rotated by power and also of being more or less drawn apart, a paper feeding and coating mechanism, a slitter, and a collection of accessories for controlling the size and thickness of the barrel being turned out.

To start the operation, the end of the roll of paper, which passes through tension rollers and over the coating mechanism which coats one side of it with the adhesive liquid, is drawn on to the mandrel and inserted in a slot. The mandrel is then rotated by power for a certain number of turns, after which a slitting wheel is brought into action for cutting the paper into two strips. Then the two halves of the mandrel draw away from each other, each carrying its strip of paper along. Thus the proper length of winding is obtained for the height of the barrel being made. After the requisite number of turns have been made to gain thickness, the slitting wheel is thrown out of action and the paper becomes a single strip again, winding several layers on the centre of the barrel, to form the bilge. The paper strip is then cut, the mandrel parts separated still more, and the finished barrel removed. The entire operation requires less than one minute.

Silicate of soda, commonly called water glass, is used as the adhesive. It sets quite rapidly so that the barrels are ready for use shortly after leaving the machine. The paper employed is clip board paper, which comes in rolls. A wooden head may be employed to finish the barrel, or, if desired, special pressed steep ends may be used.

The finished barrel is light, strong and clean. It is tight. However, as to cost the paper barrel is not so cheap as the ordinary slack or tongue-and-grooved wooden barrel, due to the high cost of chip-board paper at present.

When SUGAR CANE Was First RAISED

SO far as known, sugar-cane was first cultivated in India, and was introduced from that country into the valley of the Euphrates, Arabia, Egypt and Spain. Columbus on his second voyage in 1493 brought it into the New World, where it was destined to become one of the most important crops.

The first sugar exported to Europe, according to a contributor to The Scientific American, was grown on the plantations established by Cortez in Mexico. The soil and climate of Cuba are peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of sugar-cane and it has been grown on that island in great quantities. The first plantations in Louisiana were a failure, but the purple variety of cane has been found to grow well there and also in other parts of the southern United States.

Sugar-cane requires an abundance of sunshine and water and a deep, fertile soil. In planting, the stalks are laid lengthwise in furrows, and each joint sends up a shoot, which later produces suckers. When ready for harvesting, a field of sugar-cane resembles a cornfield, but the plants are somewhat larger and there are no tassels and no ears. The stalks at this time have been growing about 12 months and have changed from green to redish in color, while most of the lower leaves have fallen away. They are cut by hand with a long knife, stripped of their leaves, and carried on carts or small cars to the sugar mill.

Sugar-cane stalks are surprisingly heavy and contain 18 per cent. of sugar. The sweet juice is extracted by crushing them between rollers and it is then boiled down to a point where the sugar separates out as brown crystals, leaving behind a syrup known as molasses. Pure white sugar is made at the refineries, where the impurities are removed by washing, filtering, decolorizing and repeated crystallization.

Many other plants contain sugar and have been used for its manufacture. The bamboo was used for this purpose in India even before sugar-cane. In China, sorghum has long been a favorite source of syrup. In the United States the Indians tapped the wild maple trees and made maple sugar very much as it is done today. In Mexico, the century plant was formerly a source of sugar, but it is now almost entirely given over to the manufacture of pulque, an intoxicating beverage.

Just WHY a CAT Does NOT Stay LOST

A CAT which had been taken a distance of 200 miles found its way back after two months' absence. Everyone is familiar with the fact that can't be banished. And now and again science takes up the interesting problem of the sense of location strong in the lower animals—only to drop it again with vague theories about animals' "sixth sense."

While it is true that you can "lose" a cat temporarily, you cannot deprive a cat of its homing instinct. Unlike the dog, the cat is moved entirely by self-interest. If a cat doesn't return after straying it is because it has found a new home, not because it could not find its way back.

In the wilds, many hunted animals can detect the presence of the hunter from a distance of five miles. Every man has his individual peculiar odor, though he himself is unaware of it. Experiments tried in France with cats proved that the animals, after they had been taken away, invariably returned to persons rather than places—so it may be that they are guided by their sense of smell.

Insects cannot be "lost." By what means they find their way unerringly back to their nests is unknown, but it is certainly not by their sense of smell.

Some wasps were once removed from their nests, placed in small cylinders and taken to a spot many miles distant, where they were liberated. Next day all the wasps had returned to their nest.

Again, the parasite wasp sometimes lays her eggs in the cells of the mason bee. The bee, to protect her own eggs, seals the cells with clay. Upon this clay the bee places a further coating of mud, which bakes hard in the sun.

When the parasite wasp returns she moves over the hard ground trying this spot and that with her sensitive feelers. At last she stops, and begins to "dig." The job may take hours, but eventually a tiny shaft is sunk to the spot where the wasp's eggs are concealed.

HOW to Put a MONOGRAM on FRUIT

THE last word in ultra-exclusiveness is growing your own fruit with your monogram, crest or any other design of your fancy on it. It is not a difficult procedure, patience being the principal thing demanded.

Suppose, for example, you wish to have your initials appear on the luscious eating apples you serve your guests, you proceed in this manner, according to the directions given in Science and Invention:

If possible, select apples growing on the tree and of a variety which is known to be colored (yellow or red) when ripe. Pick out a dozen or so which are easily reached and have developed to full or nearly full size. They must, however, be green, or better, just beginning to show a tinge of color. See that they are smooth and sun, free from worm-holes, and firmly attached by the stem.

Now get some glazed black paper or some of that black paper which comes around camera plates and films, and cut out any silhouette figures which suit your fancy, such as a swastika sign, initial letters, monogram, etc. If you are ambitious and clever with the scissors, you may even essay dancing figures or something equally artistic.

Do not make the figures too large—an inch and a half in height is about right.

Next wipe the fruit with a cloth moistened in little alcohol, and shellac the cut-out figures firmly and smoothly on the apples, favoring the sides which you think will get the most light. Some care will have to be exercised so as not to soak the apples from their stems. When the paper figures are quite dry and show no signs of peeling at any point, go over them once with a light coat of shellac. This will effectually prevent dew or rain soaking the paper off. Little remains but "watchful waiting." Inspect your "prints" every day, repairing any curling which may occur.

When the fruit has attained a decided color, pick and soak a few minutes in cold water, sponging off any shellac remaining with a little alcohol. You will find a sharp impression of your paper cut out in green on a yellow or red background as the case may be, the contrast being very striking.

DISEASES That DOOM the DOCTORS to DEATH

EVEN these enemies of death, the doctors, must die. How well do they resist the adversary? The Journal of the American Medical Association gives an interesting set of figures for the year just past. Of 2272 physicians dying in the United States and Canada during 1920, whose age was stated, 37 were under 30, 174 between 31 and 40, 351 between 41 and 50, 463 between 51 and 60, 541 between 61 and 70, 436 between 71 and 80, 208 between 81 and 90, and 19 between 91 and 100. The greatest number of deaths for a given age occurred at 63 and 64 years, at each of which ages 65 deaths were noted.

Causes of death—General diseases accounted for 257 deaths; diseases of the nervous system, 271; diseases of the circulatory system, 404; diseases of the respiratory system, 266; diseases of the digestive system, 70; diseases of the genito-urinary system, 154; senility, 77; suicide, 32; accidents, 102; homicide, 14, and sequels of surgical operations, 74. The principal assigned causes of death from disease and their frequency were: Organic heart disease, 236; cerebral hemorrhage, 211; pneumonia, 186; nephritis and uraemia, 142; malignant tumors, 91; tuberculosis, 59; angina pectoris, 50; pneumonia-influenza, 37; arterio-sclerosis, 33; myocarditis, 34; septicaemia, 31; influenza, 29; diabetes, 28; meningitis, 17; cirrhosis of the liver and acute dilation of the heart, each 16; endocarditis and anaemia, each 15; peritonitis, 12; and appendicitis and gastritis, each 11.

Exercise Cures 'Yankee Twang'

NEW ENGLAND'S traditional "Yankee twang" is due mostly to laziness of the jaw, according to Dr. Eugene C. How, professor of hygiene at Wellesley College.

This is not attributed to a lack of jaw exercise, but to an unaccountable failure to let lower jaw fall far enough in articulating.

Students from New England, who are by means in a great majority at Wellesley, are being urged by western girls to practice jaw calisthenics by wearing non-adjustable ve[illegible]

ENGLISHMEN ARE TOUGH

Englishmen Tough, Indians Tender and Nice, Says Cannibal

London, May 4.—A remarkable East African journey of exploration has just been completed by the Rev. John Roscoe, of Thetford, Norfolk, who described his experiences to a London Daily Mail representative.

He has brought back curious knowledge and curious concrete things beyond even his own dreams. The things include fifty or so varieties of herbs—some of which seemed to effect miraculous cures of malaria and even the worst diseases—many native poisons, vast cases of fetiches, implements and instruments going back to 2000 B.C., and photographs innumerable of strange and grime ceremonies—some cannibalistic— many quite unknown hitherto.

The knowledge of ritual and custom is a yet stranger store. Mr. Roscoe, one of the greatest ethnologists, went out for the Royal Society and the government in May last year and the expedition was most generously financed by Sir Peter McKie, to whom both science and humanity owe great gratitude.

Mr. Roscoe, who is in his sixtieth year, travelled many thousand miles in the interior on foot and—of all machines—by bicycle, using native paths. He found tribes who lived wholly on milk and nothing else whatever, unless a cow died, and after feeding on that a twelve-hour fast was imposed.

So vast are their cattle herds that a king regarded 20,000 as a small flock. Another tribe lived wholly on bamboo tips and moles! In another the relatives always ate the dead, even if they died of smallpox; but these folk, which is hardly surprising, were less healthy than the others, whose women are described as "the fattest things ever seen," while the men are thin, very athletic and often well over six feet in height. One of the cannabals stated in evidence that "Englishmen were very tough, but Indians nice and tender."

"The waves of the ancient bay rippled over the bones of the fallen monarch, carrying sand and gravel, until finally the entire skeleton was hurled deep under a mass of debris.

"Centuries passed and the land slowly raised to its present level, ten feet above the water level. Year by year the waves lapped continuously against the bank, eating it away, until finally a tooth was brought to view, probably some 500,000 years after it had been dropped from the jaws of the great beast.

"There are many who, while admitting the evidence of their eyes that an elephant did live and die on the shores of Texas, will question statements of scientists as to the great expanse of time since the animal existed.

"No very accurate estimate can be made, it is true, but that it exceeds 500,000 years and may approach 1,000,000 years there is no doubht in the mind of any person who has made a study of the past life on the earth. Such estimates are based on the time required to deposit sedimentary rock, to erode valleys and to wear away rocks. No one could judge the age of this particular specimen alone, but its age is estimated on the known occurrence of the animal in company with other animals in rocks or deposits where the age can be roughly estimated and in absence, in deposits which are of more recent date.

"Had there been game hunters in the pleistocene period North America, rather than Africa, must have been their favorite hunting grounds. Scientists state that during that period over the same plains which these elephants roamed numerous other long extinct animals, whose descendants now live in such distant places as India or Central Africa, were living in abundance.

"As the storms and waves gradually eat away the gravelly bank of the bay at San Leon the remains of camels, extinct horses and perhaps other prehistoric animals will be brought to view, thus furnishing material for another page in the account of that long distant period when centuries, and not years were used as the unit in the measurement of time."

The crown of the expedition was six weeks spent with the King of Bunyoro. He has become a Christian and so felt it possible to give Mr. Roscoe all his fetiches, an entirely priceless collection, which throws quite new light on ceremonies going back to 2000 B.C.

He also organized a pageant of some 4,000 years of ceremonial, such a thing as no man ever saw before. Thousands of natives themselves came to see it—a sort of grand finale to ages of accumulated superstition. Since the King is also high priest and the great repository of tradition, he could give away the inmost mysteries and did: How to bring rain is a miracle that Mr. Roscoe achieved in a forest holy of holies, and received native thanks; how to promote all sorts of prosperity—especially plenty of salt—and how to exorcise evils.

By his knowledge of local language and earlier visits Mr. Roscoe, who was all alone, penetrated many present beliefs and customs that have balked our rulers and our missionaries. For example, in one tribe girls are betrothed at birth and married at twelve or fourteen. If they are unfaithful before marriage they are killed.

In the next tribes girls may do as they will until after marriage. Many most elaborate laws of marriage, of morality, of divorce and of land tenure have been revealed in the course of the journey.

The discoveries include valuable commercial news, including an unknown graphite mine of high quality.

Mr. Roscoe says he has material for five years' work at six hours a day. He is as yet without most of his stores. His herbs and poisons are being tested and analysed by Edinburgh University and by Burroughs and Wellcome. A dozen cases of ethnological valuables are going to the Pit Rivers Museum at Oxford. Mr. Roscoe is to give a brief account of his journey to the Royal Society.

The journey started at Mombasa, and the most dangerous, difficult and richest part was west and north of the Victoria Nyanza, and in the triangle between the three great lakes. Mr. Roscoe returned by the Nile, and has much to tell of the Egyptologists.

REVENGE AND HATE POLICY GERMAN GROUP

German mothers were called upon implant hatred and a thirst for revenge in the hearts of their children by Colonel Reinhafdt, the officer who served as Prime Minister of War for a few months following the overthrow of William Hohenzollern, in an address delivered before the Berlin group of the "League of National Minded Soldiers," and quoted from in the Berlin Freiheit of March 21. Prolonged applause greeted Colonel Reinhardt's "song of hate," as was also the case when he later declared that "We must have the strength to tear the Treaty of Versailles to pieces."

The organization addressed by the ex-Minister of War is described as one of the propaganda leagues founded by General Ludendorff; Colonel Baueh and Captain Pabst (the last two having been active in launching the Kapp reactionary revolt fo March 1920), for the purpose of promoting the monarchist idea and working for a possible restoration of the Hohenzollern dynasty. In opening the meeting the chairman announced that at a future meeting a Prussian officer would talk about Crown Prince Wilhelm and his activities. The Chairman continued: "The Great Elector in his day came from Holland with a stick, and so in the future there will come from Holland a man who will lead us again toward our good old times, the days of glory of the Prussian Army. Just now we are living through days of trial and discipline."

In the course of a laudation of the old German Army, Colonel Reinhardt sorrowfully drew attention to the signs in Berlin indicating the location of the demobilization offices of various army units, and then snapped out "We are not demobilizing; we are building up! We want to have the old army again!" He then said that the members of the league wanted to stiffen the backbone of the German Government, so as to be closely allied with the regular army, "to fight against the alien enemy."

Referring to what the Prussian monarchists ought to do, Colonel Reinhardt pointed to Bavaria and its "Orgesch," the armed body of some 250,000 men which supports the reactionary Bavarian Government, and continues to exist in defiance of disarmament decrees issued by the German Reichstag at the orders of the Entente. Major von der Lank, speaking after Reinhardt, told how he had heard George Escherich, the organizer of the "Orgesch," say to the members of the National Club, a monarchist society, a few days before: "I am bringing my king back again, and you Prussians must bring back your Hohenzollerns." There were three hearty cheers for Escherich, and the "National Minded" soldiers closed their meeting by singing "Deutschland ueber Alles" and giv- three cheers for "His Majesty, our most gracious Kaiser and Lord, and His family."

COIN FOUND A HISTORIC ONE

(Dominion News Service.)

Johannesburg, South Africa, May 4.—A coin of historic interest was recently circulated in Johannesburg.

It was a sovereign bearing the stamped endorsement "Francois Thomas Burgers, 1874."

So rare to the sight was this coin that several storekeepers in the town refused to accept it.

During President Burger's tenure of office the Transvaal Republic was poor, but "there were abundant signs that it might become one of the Eldorados of the world." Gold had been discovered at Marabastad, Lydenburg, MacMac, Pilgrims Rest and Eersteling.

In the last-named place in 1872 fine gold quartz was found. Company formation began, and numerous nuggets, as well as samples of quartz, were sent to Europe.

Few probably of the coins were minted.

Inquiries about this sovereign of fine gold, at which Johannesburg storekeepers looked askance, gave a romantic touch to the history of the discarded coin.

The person who passed it to its present possessor was sure the sovereign was a "bad" one. A banking official to whom it was displayed, said he had handled many thousands of pounds sterling in his time, but had never seen one like it.

It is in a good state of preservation—"actually brand new." At present it is being submitted in England to expert valuation, and, it is understood, will be catalogued at Christie's London, at a figure far above its original par value. The reserve placed upon it is £50.

It is presumed that the historic Transvaal coin was among a number minted in Holland for the President.

In the days of the first gold discoveries, when samples were despatched by eager prospectors to Europe, some sovereigns were struck and presented to the President as a compliment to his great interest in the country's progress, which those discoveries foreshadowed.

Descendants of President Burgers have been visiting the Rand, and it is expected that the rare specimen of the 8741 coinage was passed back into circulation in the ordinary way by one of them.

PHILOSOPHY

(Dominion News Service.)

London, May 4.—There is a certain latent trait in most of us which persistently and tenaciously clings to us, and crops up in a hundred and one different guises; but which, in spite of its many and variegated aspects, is but one and the same thing —a love of the morbid, and a real satisfaction in commiserating over our own and our neighbor's misfortunes. With a particular type of person it takes the form of recounting with vivid details all the deaths and death-beds it has ever been their luck to know. This special mode of its expression has been pretty well extinguished by means of the comic papers; but there is a far more fashionable and insidious form which is rampant at the moment. With the majority of us it comes to light in a gloomy and pessimistic perusal of the contents of our pockets, and bank books, which are but the earliest symptoms of that deadly disease—economy mania. It has come to be so universal just now in this wise.

We are all of us hard up—or, if we aren't, we ought to be—and we have most of us got to retrench. Well and good; but it is the method which we employ to attain this desirable and laudable end that is so utterly deplorable, and which has the effect of ruining so many tempers.

That old proverb, "Look after the pence, and the pounds will take care of themselves," or, rather, its underlying sentiment, is at the root of a great deal of mischief. It must have been invented by a woman; for nature has endowed the average woman wtih a pernickerty mind, and you will find that she secretly enjoys economising over small items. It gives her a chance of indulging that favorite female hobby—bargain-hunting; though it is a very doubtful point whether she gains much thereby. When you come to think of it, there are two hundred and forty pence in a pound, and it will take a mortal long time to save that amount of pennies if they are going to be hoarded one by one, no matter how assiduously one bargain-hunts; and even if this method were to prove itself profitable, would all the amount of worry and inconvenience which it would cause recompense? Another very debatable point with even odds on the issue.

Someone who flatters himself that he has a cool, calm outlook on all such matters, will tell you firmly that the one and only way to economise is to do away with all luxuries? Probably you will find that the general term, when it has been boiled down to suit your own particular case, will resolve itself into all the little drops of oil and dabs of jam which lubricate the household's wheels, and sweeten its tempers to such an extent; the small comforts which somehow seem to make just all the difference.

There is only one royal road to the mecca of economy—that is to say, economy attained with the minimum amount of inconvenience—and that is to be found by going right down to bed-rock at the very start, and knocking off something big. In this way you will save a large sum at one fell swoop, and although it may be very tiresome at the moment, yet it is over and done with in a comparatively short time; while with the other method, the same feeling of irritation and annoyance is spread over months, and then in the end you will find that you have not saved half so much.

Economise rather on the future than on the present. Dispense with the things you were going to have or going to do, rather than with those you now have or are engaged upon. By doing this you will be quit of those depressing regrets and looking-backs to what the landladies term "other days," which provide food for much unpleasant thought.

Be wise in your choice of economies; keep ever before your eyes the picture of the lady who denies herself the luxury of a deck-chair on the beach, thereby saving twopence, and by sitting on the sands ruins a frock which cost seven guineas in the sales. Be not blind to the most blatant moral of this picture.

Above all things, remember that in the long run the small amenities of life are far more essential to comfort than the big—providing that the toast is crisp, what does it matter if the toast-rack is only electro-plated? If you act on this principle, you will lead a more peaceful existence than the majority.

ARE GENEROUS WITH TITLES

(Dominion News Service)

London, May 5.—To spend a fortnight with a Lord High Chancellor, and to return a count of the oldest Republic in the world, all for a little over $500, is likely to be a popular holiday this summer.

A man who has spent a holiday in San Marino, but eschewed being made a count, is Rotarian Samuel Wells, of Sheffield, who told his fellow Rotarians at Leicester all about it in a recent Rotary luncheon.

"When I visited the Republic during the pasts winter, I was the guest of the Lord High Chancellor of the Republic, who charged me 35 cents a night for a bedroom," he said.

"There are no titles in the Republic, but in order to raise funds for a hospital foreigners are granted the title of Count of San Marino for a payment of about $375.

This was not a bad opportunity, said Rotarian Wells, for San Marino was "the oldest, smallest, and perhaps the proudest Republic in the world, and certainly the wisest and best."

LABOUR AND PEACE LEAGUE

(By the Dominion News Service)

London, May 2.—Grave uneasiness is prevalent here concerning the League of Nations. The growing antagonism to the political activities of the League has not been allayed by its attitude to industrial questions. The International Labor Organization associated by the Peace Treaty with the League, is displaying a disquieting readiness to adopt the regular bureaucratic tendency to override industrial interests under the pretext of furthering humanitarian causes.

Examples of this tendency are provided by the attitude of the International Labor Office at Geneva towards such questions as the prevention of anthrax, and the treatment of agricultural conditions. But it is even more flagrantly displayed in relation to the proposal to prohibit the use of white lead in painting, which figures on the agenda of the International Conference to be held next November.

At the outset of a partisan and unscientific questionnaire circulated by the International Labor Office, to all the Governments concerned, it is assumed that the replacement of white lead in paint by efficient substitutes is an admitted technical fact. This question-begging assumption has elicited spirited protests not only in Great Britain but in other parts of the world. This attitude indorses that of the Master Housepainters and Decorators of the United States and Canada in their Convention in February, when they passed a resolution stigmatising this claim as untrue, and declaring that any general prohibitions of the use of white lead would result in less permanent and satisfactory work. A copy of this protest has been forwarded to the secretary of the International Labor Conference.

In the highest interests of the League of Nations and of the Labor organisations associated with it, it is vital to create among all the adherent nations an atmosphere of implicit confidence and faith. On such a basis only can the existence of the League produce these conditions of peace and mutual trust among the peoples of the world, which it has been established to promote. Hasty action, founded upon imperfect consideration of the facts and partisan motives, is bound to encourage suspicion that the League is being exploited by particular interests. The mere existence of such suspicions will inevitably damn the movement at the outset.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

RECIPIES

By A. L. Wyman, Chef.

Some one once said that there were only three towns in the United States where an epicurean could secure any dish that he could ask for—New York City, New Orleans and San Francisco. New York has a cafe for every nationality on earth and a few that we never heard of. In my hunt for new and practical dishes to give to my readers I went at midnight to Greenwich Village and the most unique cafe that we found was conducted by a lady from the state of Maine who makes a specialty of lobster, which she serves in fifty different ways. Before the coals of a bright open fire she serves lobster that tastes different from those to be found in the uptown cafes and for half the price. Her lobster special served in a chafing dish was better than any lobster Newburg that I have had served since we left Los Angeles.

Lobster a la Maine.

Cut in dice the meat of two medium sized boiled lobsters and place in a saute pan with four tablepoons of butter, half a cup of peeled and diced mushrooms, and four sliced artichoke bottoms; season with salt, pepper and mace; add one teaspoon of lemon juice and four tablespoons of orange juice, shake the pan and cook until reduced one-half. Beat the yolks of three eggs with one cup of cream and add; cook until thick; do not allow to boil after adding egg yolks.

Lobster Salad "Greenwich Village."

Her lobster salad was simple, but delicious. This was made by covering the bottom of a salad bowl with shredded crisp lettuce and chicory, ober this spread shredded cooked lobster, sprinkle over lightly a French dressing made with lemon juice. Cover with a layer of white mayonnaise, decorate with hard boiled egg quarters, fillet of anchovy and capers.

The best cafes that I have found are those that cater to men in the wholesale district: here one can find out of the ordinary cookery that appeals to the overworked business man. Duck a la Mode in jelly is a nice cold luncheon dish and will keep for several days in a cold place. This can be prepared in small individual moulds and served as the principal dish at a supper picnic.

Duck a la Mode.

Cut up a calf's foot and place in a saucepan with four cups of cold water, one teaspoon of salt and a small bay leaf, bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for one hour, or until liquor has been reduced one-half. Cut up a four to five-pound domestic duckling and fry until well browned; wipe off the grease and place in another pan with the calf's foot and the broth, ten small carrots, one small bunch of parsley an jten smal onions that have been browned in part the fat from the duckling, one teaspoon of lemon juice, five tablespoons of orange juice, and salt and pepper to taste; cover and cook slowly for one hour. Cool for two hours and remove the grease. Place the vegetables in individual moulds with the duckling which has been skinned, boned and cut in small pieces. Strain over the stock and place in the ice box to harden.

Chicken Salad, New York Style.

Lne of the large caterers here makes a very fine chicken salad and he cooks his chicken so that dark meat will be nearly as white as the breast meat. Place a large chicken in boiling water with a bay leaf and one onion in which has been pressed six cloves; bring to a boil and let boil rapidly for five minut. Reduce the heat and cook until the chicken is tender. Let cool in the broth. When the chicken is cold remove bones, fat and skin and cut in half-inch cubes. To each two cups of prepared chicken sprinkle over one tablespoon of lemon juice and set on the ice to chill. When ready to serve mix two-third chicken with one-third white celery cut in the same size pieces with a dressing made by rubbing fine the yolks of two hard boiled eggs with one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon French mustard, two teaspoons sugar, and a drop at a time one tablespoon of olive oil; when smooth and light add the stiffly beaten white of one egg and four tablespoons of lemon juice a little at a time Place salad in a lettuce lined bowl and garnish with hard boiled egg slices and ripe olives.

New Dishes for Raisin Day.

Those familiar with the ways of foreign cooks know how these experts introduced raisins into salad, meat and vegetable dishes with wonderful results. On raisin day try a celery root and raisin salad or a potato and raisin dumpling. Honey and raisin cakes are a dainty nothard to make but almost impossible to keep long before eating.

Celery and Raisin Salad.

Here is celery root salad as served at a Hudson street cafe. Pare and wash celery root the size of medium potatoes and put on to boil in salted water. When cold remove from the water and chill. Cover the bottom of a salad bowl with crisp lettuce leaves. Cover the lettuce with boiled raisins, cover the raisins with the celery root cut in spices an eighth of an inch thick, pour over all a good French dressing.

Another good salad is made with equal parts of boiled chestnuts, celery shredded, diced apples and orange cubes served on a bed of Romaine lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

A.L.Wyman, Chef

Potato and Raisin Dumpling.

Potato dumpling that is served at one of the market cafes also is embellished with raisins. Boil eight peeled potatoes and when they are soft drain off every drop of water and lay them on a moulding board and mash with a rolling pin, adding one cup of flour. When thoroughly mashed work in two eggs, salt and nutmeg to taste. Flour the board well and roll out the dough to the thickness of your little finger. Brown half a cup of chopped onion and half a cup of grated bread crumbs in three tablespoons of goose fat or butter and when well browned spread over the dough with one cup of soaked and drained seedless raisins; roll up like a jelly roll; cut in three-inch pieces and put in slightly salted boiling water and boil uncovered for fifteen minutes. Pour over drawn butter sauce.

Honey and Raisin Cakes.

In calling on a baker in Brooklyn last week I secured a good recipe for honey cakes and he told me that to have them good I would have to use California orange honey. Place in a saucepan half a pound of strained California orango honey and one and a quarter cups of sifted powdered sugar; set over the fire and when warm add one cup of shredded blanched almonds and stir thoroughly; add a pinch of cloves and nutmeg, the grated rind of one lemon, four tablespoons of orange juice, half a cup of chopped seeded raisins and work to a smooth dough with two and a quarter cups of sifted flour. Place in a cold place for a week and then roll out about three-quarters of an inch in thickness. Baek in a quick oven and when baked and while hot cut in pieces two inches wide and three inches long. Let stand a week before using.

SPORT COMMENT

Baseball is due for a big boom in Peterboro this summer. The youngsters will have a large part in the program mapped out, and they will play the game under conditions that will be a wonderful help to them.

There will be five leagues operating here this season. The Public School League is now well under way; the Juvenile series, fathered by the City League, made a good start with two games last Saturday; games in the Church League will be played this week, and one week from next Saturday, the City League and the Mercantile League will open at Riverside Park.

The Church League will have a senior and a juvenile series. This makes three leagues in this series, Public School, City League and Church League, all affiliated with the O. B. A. A. The respective winners will play off for local honors. All these contests will be interesting. They will bring the best of the young players together, and will provide good baseball games for the fans. The winner in this elimination series must then be prepared to meet outside clubs, as called for by the Ontario Association.

Three Intermediates.

Three leagues will operate in the Inetrmediate series of the O. B. A. A. The winners returned from the City League, the Mercantile League and the East Peterboro League will be sent through the process of elimination similar to that followed by the Juveniles. It will mean an abundance of good baseball, after the individual league races have been fought and won.

Play Twilight Games.

Commencing with Saturday, May 14th, the Mercantilers and the City Leaguers will play a week-end double-header, on the Saturday afternoons not required for Central League games. Twilight contests will be played on Tuesday evenings by the Mercantilers, and on Thursday evenings by the City League. The two leagues will also play a double-header on the afternoon of May 24th.

City League Opening.

On Saturday, May 28th, the Central League will open their season at Riverside Park, with a game between Oshawa and the Petes. Lindsay comes here on Saturday, June 11th, and Belleville follows on Saturday, June 25th. Cobourg will be the visiting club for Dominion Day, and Port Hope arrives on Wednesday, July 13th.

Robber Requisitions 20 Policemen to Loot Bank

London, May 4.—The robbery of a Versailles butcher's safe has an interesting sequel, writes the Paris correspondent of The London Daily Telegraph. The leader of the robbers was the riotorist anarchist, Alphonse Etienne, who robbed a bank at Aix-la-Chapelle, of 1,000,000 francs. He was arrested for this crime but escaped.

After the armistice Etienne, who at the time of his arrest was masquerading as a marquis with a high-sounding name, was an under officer of a sanitary corps on German territory. Donning the uniform of a Belgian major and styling himself a delegate from the Belgian War Ministry, he requisitioned twenty German policemen and with them entered a German bank at Aix-la-Chapelle on the pretext of searching for Belgian bonds stolen during the German occupation of Belgium.

The director of the bank was sent to his room and the staff to their homes. Obtaining possession of the keys of the safe, the "Belgian major" laid hands on all the bonds and banknotes, worth over a million francs, and put them in a portmanteau, which was sealed with red wax.

When he left the bank with the portmanteau a superior Belgian officer, who had been informed of his mission, asked for informtaion, and his replies not being satisfactory, he was taken to the Belgian headquarters and unrestored to the bank.

A MIGHTY STURGEON

New Westminster, May 6— (Canadian Press) —It's a whale," more than one visitor asserted who visited Monk's wharf here recently. They were wrong. It was a sturgeon. From the tip of its tail to its snout it measured just thirteen feet and it weighed 988 pounds. This monster fish was taken with a drift net in the Pitt River by an Indian fisherman and is said to be the second largest ever taken.

Help Save The Home!

To Principals and Teachers, Scholars and Parents:—

We will send "Home Inspection Blanks" to the teaching staff throughout Ontario for distribution among their pupils.
As patriotic Canadians your sympathetic co-operation is sought in the important work of conserving the lives and property of our people from destruction by fire.
The inspection is planned to take place throughout the Province during the week of May 2nd. The primary object of this Inspection is to draw attention to hazardous conditions in the homes and have the fire menace removed or corrected by the householders.

HEART TROUBLE
in most instances is merely an adaptative sympton of some other trouble—usually of the stomach. Oftentimes the most severe heart pains are caused by nothing more than undue pressure in the region of the heart. This gaseous distention, as we have said, is probably due to the abnormal condition of the stomach. When the stomach is provided with its normal supply of mental impulses the nbnormal gaseous condition disappears, the pressure is moved from the region of the heart and the pains, palpitation or other efects in the functioning of that organ. disappears.
If the trouble is directly with the heart, the results which the Chiropractor gets in a vast majority of cases are very remarkable. Your case should not be an erception in responding to Chiropractic adpustments.

THE HEALTH EXPRESS
If you were told that a certain train would convey all sick people to some city where only HEALTH abounded and DISEASE as unknown, the train would surely be overcrowded. Yet those who do not enjoy HEALTH can, but taking CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENTS, take a TICKET to HEALTH and they will not be disappointed. Isn't it worth trying? Don't scoff at this assertion until you have actually investgated ths Science, until you have actually taken CHIROPRACTIC VERTEBRAL ADJUSTMENTS.

SITUATION IN SILESIA MADE MORE SERIOUS

ARRIVAL OF REFUGEES STIRS OPPELN AND OUTBREAK IS IN PROSPECT

OPPELIN, Silesia, May 7 (Canadian Press).—German requests that the frontier between Germany and Silesia be opened and that all political prisoners held by the allies in Upper Silesia be released have been granted by the inter-alled commission here. The situation in this city which has been growing appreciably more tense has been made more serious by the arrival of hundreds of refugees who are walking into the city from sections to the south and east of here. Many of them have been severely wounded and they have excited people with stories of alleged Polish brutalities.

Allied officials here, frankly expecting an outbreak, say they would be unable to cope with the insurgent German populace.

DOG-CATCHER IS AGAIN ENGAGED

$1.25 a Head Is Rate Paid Mr. Gates

The official dog-catcher has been engaged once more for the coming season, and he is to receive $1.25 per head. This is pretty cheap, considering everything. It seems as if a man who is willing to look at a dog in the death agony he is responsible for, should really get more than this small amount for his exertions.

Mr. Gates was proceeding at a leisurely pace down Park street one day in the "season," when one of the linemen astride a near-by telephone pole began to bark with a very good imitation of a cross cur. Instantly the official D.C. became alert and watchful, and some minutes elapsed before the nature of the deception dawned upon him.

DENY REPORT OF C. P. R. FINANCING

$50,000,000 Bond Issue Not Arranged For

MONTREAL, May 7 (Canadian Press).—J. G. Ogden, Vice-President of the C. P. R., interviewed this morning regarding the report published by the New York Herald to the effect that the railroad had arranged for the financing of a fifty-million dollar bond issue in New York stated there was no truth in the report. The New York despatch quotes the Guaranty Trust Company, with which the C. P. R. was said to have closed arrangements, as saying, "There is absolutely no truth in the report."

HOLD MAN FOR A BOLD THEFT IN BELLEVILLE

MONEY WAS FOUND IN THE ASH HEAP BEHINDTHE HOUSE

BELLEVILLE, Ont. May 7 — (Canadian Press) About one o'clock this morning following the alleged statement by James Vincent Lloyd, a married man aged 20 years, sergent Detective Truaish dug into an ash heap at the rear of the premises of John LLoyd, father of J. V. Lloyd and recovered $1,680 in Dominion Bank bills, which had been valued there last night." James Vincent Lloyd is held by the police charged with the theft of the money belonging to John Tucker, a boarder at the house of Lloyd senior.

Tucker drew out $2000 from a local bank and leaving for Campbellford at the first of the week took $320 with him. The $1,680 he left in the trunk, last night members of the Lloyd household went to a theatre and on returning found things upset. The police investigated and secured a statement from young Lloyd and he was remanded today.

SOCIAL SERVICE CONVENTION HERE

Council's Work Important and Wide In Scope

The Social Service Council Convention, meeting here on Monday and Tuesday of next week, should be well attended. Child welfare work in all its phases, industrial life and community problems, social legislation and citizenship, these things cover a wide field of endeavor, and should be of especial interest to women. Many of the feminine citizens of Peterboro have been engaged for years in helping to work out these problems on a small scale, and the experience of seasoned veterans should be welcomed by them. Premier F. C. Drury, Dr. J. G. Shearer, Rev. Gilbert Agar are among the masculine speakers, and the women workers are represented by Mr. Adam Shortt and Miss Charlotte E. Whitten.

OVERHEAD BRIDGE NEARS COMPLETION

Good progress towards the completion of the Ashburnham Bridge by June is being made and the work will advance rapidly, if the weather continues clear and warm, according to Fred. Christie, Engineer Barber's inspector.

The railing on the south side has been completed and a good deal of the terra cotta has been placed on the north side. The cement rail is being poured without delay. The Quaker Oats platform is being constructed, and the four lamp standards, two on each approach, are being finished. Each of these standards will have six 500 candle-power lights and the bridge will be illuminated by a total of 12,000 candle-power, sufficient to make light almost as bright as that of day.

OFFICIAL OPENING LOCAL GOLF CLUB

The Peterborough Golf Club will open officially next Thursday, May 12th. The house committee and the different officials in charge are going to a great deal of trouble to make the opening a success. There will be a luncheon at noon with cards and dancing in the evening, and the afternoon will be devoted to contests, including the annual match between the president's and the captain's teams and a blind fluke stakes. The presentation of prizes and trophies to last year's winners is part of the programme for the day.

Many new members have been added this year to the Golf Club records, and it is expected that the lists will soon be filled.

VISIT OF ACTRESS CHANGES PASTOR'S IDEAS OF MOVIES

WINNIPEG Man., May 7.—Rev. George Laughton, Congregational minister, preached a sermon Sunday that was interpreted to be an attack upon the movies. Thursday afternoon he received a visit from a demure young lady, and after the motion picture actress left the pastor informed the newspapers he had changed his opinion and did not believe the movies were half bad.

June Elvidge is appearing in person at a local theatre, and when she read the press accounts of Mr. Laughton's sermon she sought an interview. So effective was the supposedly "silent drama" star that Mr. Laughton announced he would screen pictures right in his church soon.

The reverend gentleman went further and declared that he did not believe in censorship boards as the best means of correcting the wrong in the picture, but said a healthy public opinion was infinitely preferable.

SOLD AT FROM FIFTY TO FIFTY FIVE CENTS ON THE MARKET

Sunshiny weather made today's market well attended by farmers and was unmarked except by the decline in the price of dairy butter to 50 and 55 cents. Eggs sold at 30 and 32 and chickens 35 and 40.

Potatoes were 75 cents. Rhubarb was plentiful at 5 cents. Asparagus sold at 15 a bunch. Green onions were 5. One farmer asked $3.00 for a bag of Ben Davis apples, apparently the only bag on the market.

Young pigs were $15 a pair today.

LADIES' CURLING CLUB MEETING UP TO ELECT OFFICERS

The Ladies' Curling Club, of Peterboro, held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss E. Morrow, Weller Street, to transact general business and to elect officers for the coming season. The retiring president, Miss Florence Gladman, was in the chair. The Gibson trophy, which was played for by the ladies last winter, was won by Miss Morrow's rink, with Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner as vice, Mrs. Gerald Wood and Miss Jessie Cressman.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss E. Morrow; vice-president, Mrs. H. Cressman; treasurer, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner; secretary, Mrs. A. McDonald; executive committee, Mrs. T. W. Oke, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. F. S. Cchneider, Mrs. R. M. Waddell, Mrs. Alan Cameron, Mrs. W. A. Sanderson.

Representatives to the Ontario Curling Club: Mrs. A. E. Coulthard and Miss Gladman.

At the conclusion of business, tea was served to the ladies and a vote of thanks tendered to Miss Morrow for the use of her house as a meeting place.

REGINA PAPERS CONTINUE TO PUBLISH ABBREVIATED EDITIONS

REGINA, May 7 (Canadian Press) —The employing printers of Regina, in a letter to the striking printers yesterday announced that they were willing to arbitrate any points of difference.

The Daily Post made its appearance since the strike was called and printed a single bulletin sheet. The Morning Leader appeared this morning as a two-page edition. The pressmen and the stereotyping departments are remaining at work in the newspaper offices.

DEATH OF LIFE-LONG RESIDENT EMILY.

East Emily, May 7—Falling about two weeks ago, when she sustained a fractured hip, Mrs. Michael O'Donnel, a life-long resident of Emily township, in her sixty-fifth year, has passed away as a result of her injuries. She is survived by a sorrowing husband. Following a funeral service in St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, interment was made in St. Martin's cemetery on Sunday.

STIFFEN LAWS AS TO MOTORS

SEVERE PENALTIES FOR AUTO STEALING AND DRIVING WHILE INTOXICATED

OTTAWA, May 7, —(Canadian Press)—Amendments to the criminal code introduced by Hon. C. J. Doherty, in the Commons yesterday propose terms of imprisonment as a punishment for motor car thieves and for persons convicted of driving a motor vehicle in an intoxicated condition.

The section dealing with motor thieves provides that anyone found guilty of stealing any automobile or motor car shall be sentenced to not less than one years imprisonment. Furthermore, sentence in any such case is not to be suspended without the concurrence of the attorney general or his agent. The section referring to intoxicated persons who attempt to drive motors provides that anyone who, while intoxicated, drives any motor vehicle or automobile shall be guilty of an offence and liable upon summary conviction for the first offence to a term of imprisonment not exceeding thirty days and not less than seven, for the second offence to imprisonment for not more than three months and not less than one month and for each subsequent offence to imprisonment for not more than one year and not less than three months.

IN ACCORD WITH BAN PLACED ON FOREIGN COAL BY TRANSPORT WORKERS

GLASGOW, May 7 (Canadian Press).—A Glasgow strike of dockers has been ordered here as a result of the ban placed on foreign coal by Transport Workers Federation. The dispute came to crisis when the steamer Kalimba chartered for a voyage to the United States, was being coaled. The dock workers alleging that the vessel was not taking full supply and intended to fill bunkers abroad. Non-union being employed under police ion.

A MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL LAST EVENING

Left overs from Monday night engaged the attention of the Council last night at a meeting. Mayor McIntyre presided with Ald. N. Phelan, R. Jones, F. Whitehouse, J. Hamilton, J. J. Turner, J. Crowe, R. Morrison, G. N. Gordon, H. Gainey at their desks.

What the Council did.

Advised the Russel-Townsend Co. to pay the labourers on the bridge who since January 1, have only been receiving 45 cents an hour back pay so that they will have received 50 cents an hour as agreed to by the city.

Passed a by-law granting $3,000 to the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition, after an amendment by Ald. Gordon cutting the grant to $2,000 was defeated

Accepted notice of motion from Ald. Whitehouse to construct a sewer on Lansdowne street from George to Park.

Gave permission to the City Trust Commission to erect a detective's office above the City engineer's office with 9 inch walls and gave permission to W. H. Hill to erect an addition to the Crown Building with 9 inch walls in the second story.

Applied to the Board of Railway Commissioners for the $5000 grant to the Ashburnham bridge.

Accepted the $1250 offer of A. E. Wicks for the Chamberlen Estate building at the corner of Hunter and Sheridan streets and the lease of the land on the recommendation of Ald. Hamilton, chairman of the Special Bridge committee.

Passed a resolution of Ald. Gainey's that the City Solicitor inform the Board of Railway Commissioners that in the opinion of the Council the removal of the watchmen on the G. T. R. tracks at Hunter, Simcoe, Charlotte and King streets is unwise and Council is opposed to the application of the G. T. R. to this end.

Authorized that Tax Collector Green be instructed to return his roll not later than May 31.

Authorized that the Utilities Commission and the township of north Monaghan be informed of their share of the costs of bringing the private bills before the Legisiature

Requested the Provincial Government to establish a technical school in Peterboro after considerable discussion and various suggestions had been made.

Adopted a motion of Ald. Turner's that a plan of the sewage disposal property be prepared by the city engineer and a copy be given to the city treasurer in order that he may rent camping sites.

Fixed the city's wage of laborers to 50 cents an hour and to cement workers 55 cents, similar to last year, until further action is taken by the Council.

Passed resolution of Ald. Gordon's closing all city offices excepting the tax collector's at one o'clock on Thursday afternoon during June, July and August, the tax collector's to close on Thursday afternoon from July 15 to Sept 15.

Authorized the Parks Committee to engage caretakers for Inverlea and Little Lake swimming beaches.

Rejected with Ald. Turner alone supporting it, motion of Ald. Gainey's that the Parks committee be given authorization to engage a band to play eight concerts during July and August in the Park.

Passed numerous eating house licenses and a transfer of billiard license.

WOMAN'S PART IN PATRIOTIC WORK POINTED

WELFARE WORKER ADDRESSES WOMEN'S GANADIN CLUB ON CITIZENSHIP

At a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, held in the Public Library yesterday, Mrs. W. H. Becker, of Toronto, a very enthusiastic worker in child welfare work and secretary of the Armenian Relief Fund, gave an eloquent and interesting address on "Citizenship," and woman's part in alll branches of patriotic endeavor. She spoke of the prominence of women in Parliament in different parts of British Columbia and the west, and regretted the fact that women did not appear to be acceptable in this capacity in Ontario.

A hearty vote of thanks in the name of the club was moved by Mrs. Stevenson and seconded by Mrs. Smith, was tendered Mrs. Becker by Mrs. Jas. Hendry, the president.

There was a very small attendance at this excellent lecture. In view of the fine speakers who are brought to Peterboro by the expenditure of a great deal of time and trouble, it is to be regretted that the attendance at these meetings is not more general amongst the members of the club.

RUM-RUNNING GAME IS STOPPED

KINGSTON, May 7—It is believer that a stop to rum-running has been effected in the apprehension by constables Mullinger and Cotter of $2,500 worth of liquor, is it was about to be shipped to the American side on an American yacht.

Residents of the section of the city where the liquor was seized, state that they are convinced there has been considerable rum-running going on. They point to the fact that mysterious actions have been noticed at night, and have been going on for some time. Last fall, particularly, residents had reason to believe that some illegal actions were being transacted, and they feel that, with the work of the police in nipping this latest attempt, the rum-running is stopped, for the time at lease.

Caught between two motor cars at Belleville, Mallard Clark, aged twelve years, was painfully injured. he was riding a bicycle across the lower bridge at the time of the accident.

RED LETTER DAY AT ST. ANDREWS

Sunday will be a red letter day in St. Andrews Church where the eighty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the Congregation is being celebrated. This congregation has had an interesting history and in recent years has steadily grown in strength and influence. The congregation is ably officered and wisely led. The property is kept in a fine state of repair and everything about the institution breaths an air of efficiency and good will.

The services of the choir under the leadership of Mr. John Crane and with Mrs. Maurice Park as soloist are increasingly satisfactory. One always hears good music at St. Andrews.

The special preacher tomorrow will be Rev. A. Logan Geggie of Toronto. Mr. Geggie has stood the test of a long and successful pastorate in Toronto. He is a Scotchman who has not lost the accent, along with an unusually rich blending of Scottish harmony and Scottish fire. The only difficulty tomorrow will be seating accomodation. Come early.

Premier F. C. Drury, Dr. J. G. Shearer, Rev. Gilbert Agar are among the masculine speakers, and the women workers are represented by Mr. Adam Shortt and Miss Charlotte E. Whitten.

OVERHEAD BRIDGE NEARS COMPLETION

Good progress towards the completion of the Ashburnham Bridge by June is being made and the work will advance rapidly, if the weather continues clear and warm, according to Fred. Christie, Engineer Barber's inspector.

The railing on the south side has been completed and a good deal of the terra cotta has been placed on the north side. The cement rail is being poured without delay. The Quaker Oats platform is being constructed, and the four lamp standards, two on each approach, are being finished. Each of these standards will have six 500 candle-power lights and the bridge will be illuminated by a total of 12,000 candle-power, sufficient to make light almost as bright as that of day.

OFFICIAL OPENING LOCAL GOLF CLUB

The Peterborough Golf Club will open officially next Thursday, May 12th. The house committee and the different officials in charge are going to a great deal of trouble to make the opening a success. There will be a luncheon at noon with cards and dancing in the evening, and the afternoon will be devoted to contests, including the annual match between the president's and the captain's teams and a blind fluke stakes. The presentation of prizes and trophies to last year's winners is part of the programme for the day.

Many new members have been added this year to the Golf Club records, and it is expected that the lists will soon be filled.

VISIT OF ACTRESS CHANGES PASTOR'S IDEAS OF MOVIES

WINNIPEG Man., May 7.—Rev. George Laughton, Congregational minister, preached a sermon Sunday that was interpreted to be an attack upon the movies. Thursday afternoon he received a visit from a demure young lady, and after the motion picture actress left the pastor informed the newspapers he had changed his opinion and did not believe the movies were half bad.

June Elvidge is appearing in person at a local theatre, and when she read the press accounts of Mr. Laughton's sermon she sought an interview. So effective was the supposedly "silent drama" star that Mr. Laughton announced he would screen pictures right in his church soon.

The reverend gentleman went further and declared that he did not believe in censorship boards as the best means of correcting the wrong in the picture, but said a healthy public opinion was infinitely preferable.

DROP OF FIVE CENTS BUTTER

SOLD AT FROM FIFTY TO FIFTY FIVE CENTS ON THE MARKET

Sunshiny weather made today's market well attended by farmers and was unmarked except by the decline in the price of dairy butter to 50 and 55 cents. Eggs sold at 30 and 32 and chickens 35 and 40.

Potatoes were 75 cents. Rhubarb was plentiful at 5 cents. Asparagus sold at 15 a bunch. Green onions were 5. One farmer asked $3.00 for a bag of Ben Davis apples, apparently the only bag on the market.

Young pigs were $15 a pair today.

LADIES' CURLING CLUB MEETING UP TO ELECT OFFICERS

The Ladies' Curling Club, of Peterboro, held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss E. Morrow, Weller Street, to transact general business and to elect officers for the coming season. The retiring president, Miss. Florence Gladman, was in the chair. The Gibson trophy, which was played for by the ladies last winter, was won by Miss Morrow's rink, with Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner as vice, Mrs. Gerald Wood and Miss Jessie Cressman.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss E. Morrow; vice-president, Mrs. H. Cressman; treasurer, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner; secretary, Mrs. A. McDonald; executive committee, Mrs. T. W. Oke, Mrs. Grant, Mrs. F. S. Cchneider, Mrs. R. M. Waddell, Mrs. Alan Cameron, Mrs. W. A. Sanderson.:

Representatives to the Ontario Curling Club: Mrs. A. E. Coulthard and Miss Gladman.

At the conclusion of business, tea was served to the ladies and a vote of thanks tendered to Miss Morrow for the use of her house as a meeting place.

MILK DROPS 2 CENTS

BELLEVILLE, May 7—Milk has dropped in price here from 14 to 12 cents per quart. This decline is in accord wth the usual seasonable slump.

LT.-COL. R. B. HARKNESS.

ARBITRATION IS SUGGESTED

REGINA PAPERS CONTINUE TO PUBLISH ABBREVIATED EDITIONS

REGINA, May 7 (Canadian Press) —The employing printers of Regina, in a letter to the striking printers yesterday announced that they were willing to arbitrate any points of difference.

The Daily Post made its appearance since the strike was called and printed a single bulletin sheet. The Morning Leader appeared this morning as a two-page edition. The pressmen and the stereotyping departments are remaining at work in the newspaper offices.

DEATH OF LIFE-LONG RESIDENT EMILY.

East Emily, May 7—Falling about two weeks ago, when she sustained a fractured hip, Mrs. Michael O'Donnel, a life-long resident of Emily township, in her sixty-fifth year, has passed away as a result of her injuries. She is survived by a sorrowing husband. Following a funeral service in St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, interment was made in St. Martin's cemetery on Sunday.

STIFFEN LAWS AS TO MOTORS

OTTAWA, May 7, —(Canadian Press)—Amendments to the criminal code introduced by Hon. C. J. Doherty, in the Commons yesterday propose terms of imprisonment as a punishment for motor car thieves and for persons convicted of driving a motor vehicle in an intoxicated condition.

The section dealing with motor thieves provides that anyone found guilty of stealing any automobile or motor car shall be sentenced to not less than one years imprisonment. Furthermore, sentence in any such case is not to be suspended without the concurrence of the attorney general or his agent. The section referring to intoxicated persons who attempt to drive motors provides that anyone who, while intoxicated, drives any motor vehicle or automobile shall be guilty of an offence and liable upon summary conviction for the first offence to a term of imprisonment not exceeding thirty days and not less than seven, for the second offence to imprisonment for not more than three months and not less than one month and for each subsequent offence to imprisonment for not more than one year and not less than three months.

MENNONITES TREK TO MEXICO AFTER HARVESTING DONE

WINNIPEG, Man., May 7.—Negotiations have been completed whereby Mennonites of Manitoba will dispose of their land in this province and near Swift Current, Saskatchewan, and trek to Mexico.

The amount of money involved in the transaction is between $4,500,000 and $5000000. First payments have beeen made. The exodus will begin as soon as harvesting operations for this season are completed.

OPEN LACROSSE SEASON.

The lacrosse season at Oshawa opens on Saturday afternoon, May 14th, with a match between Peterborough and Oshawa, two intermediate teams of the O.A.L.A. series. Both aggregations have strong line-ups. Oshawa was defeated twice by Peterborough last season.

DOCKERS CALL STRIKE AFTER COAL DISPUTE

IN ACCORD WITH BAN PLACED ON FOREIGN COAL BY TRANSPORT WORKERS

GLASGOW, May 7 (Canadian Press).—A Glasgow strike of dockers has been ordered here as a result of the ban placed on foreign coal by Transport Workers Federation. The dispute came to crisis when the steamer Kalimba chartered for a voyage to the United States, was being coaled. The dock workers alleging that the vessel was not taking full supply and intended to fill bunkers abroad. Non-union being employed under police tion.

A MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL LAST EVENING

Left overs from Monday night engaged the attention of the Council last night at a meeting. Mayor McIntyre presided with Ald. N. Phelan, R. Jones, F. Whitehouse, J. Hamilton, J. J. Turner, J. Crowe, R. Morrison, G. N. Gordon, H. Gainey at their desks.

What the Council did.

Advised the Russel-Townsend Co. to pay the labourers on the bridge who since January 1, have only been receiving 45 cents an hour back pay so that they will have received 50 cents an hour as agreed to by the city.

Passed a by-law granting $3,000 to the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition, after an amendment by Ald. Gordon cutting the grant to $2,000 was defeated

Accepted notice of motion from Ald. Whitehouse to construct a sewer on Lansdowne street from George to Park.

Gave permission to the City Trust Commission to erect a detective's office above the City engineer's office with 9 inch walls and gave permission to W. H. Hill to erect an addition to the Crown Building with 9 inch walls in the second story.

Applied to the Board of Railway Commissioners for the $5000 grant to the Ashburnham bridge.

Accepted the $1250 offer of A. E. Wicks for the Chamberlen Estate building at the corner of Hunter and Sheridan streets and the lease of the land on the recommendation of Ald. Hamilton, chairman of the Special Bridge committee.

Passed a resolution of Ald. Gainey's that the City Solicitor inform the Board of Railway Commissioners that in the opinion of the Council the removal of the watchmen on the G. T. R. tracks at Hunter, Simcoe, Charlotte and King streets is unwise and Council is opposed to the application of the G. T. R. to this end.

Authorized that Tax Collector Green be instructed to return his roll not later than May 31.

Authorized that the Utilities Commission and the township of north Monaghan be informed of their share of the costs of bringing the private bills before the Legislature

Requested the Provincial Government to establish a technical school in Peterboro after considerable discussion and various suggestions had been made.

Adopted a motion of Ald. Turner's that a plan of the sewage disposal property be prepared by the city engineer and a copy she given to the city treasurer in order that he may rent camping sites.

Fixed the city's wage of laborers to 50 cents an hour and to cement workers 55 cents, similar to last year, until further action is taken by the Council.

Passed resolution of Ald. Gordon's closing all city offices excepting the tax collector's at one o'clock on Thursday afternoon during June, July and August, the tax collector's to close on Thursday afternoon from July 15 to Sept 15.

Authorized the Parks Committee to engage caretakers for Inverlea and Little Lake swimming beaches.

Rejected with Ald. Turner alone supporting it, motion of Ald. Gainey's that the Parks committee be given authorization to engage a band to play eight concerts during July and August in the Park.

Passed numerous eating house licenses and a transfer of billiard license.

WOMAN'S PART IN PATRIOTIC WORK POINTED

WELFARE WORKER ADDRESSES WOMEN'S GANADIN CLUB ON CITIZENSHIP

At a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, held in the Public Library yesterday, Mrs. W. H. Becker, of Toronto, a very enthusiastic worker in child welfare work and secretary of the Armenian Relief Fund, gave an eloquent and interesting address on "Citizenship," and woman's part in alll branches of patriotic endeavor. She spoke of the prominence of women in Parliament in different parts of British Columbia and the west, and regretted the fact that women did not appear to be acceptable in this capacity in Ontario.

A hearty vote of thanks in the name of the club was moved by Mrs. Stevenson and seconded by Mrs. Smith, was tendered Mrs. Becker by Mrs. Jas. Hendry, the president.

There was a very small attendance at this excellent lecture. In view of the fine speakers who are brought to Peterboro by the expenditure of a great deal of time and trouble, it is to be regretted that the attendance at these meetings is not more general amongst the members of the club.

RUM-RUNNING GAME IS STOPPED

KINGSTON, May 7—It is believer that a stop to rum-running has been effected in the apprehension by constables Mullinger and Cotter of $2,500 worth of liquor, is it was about to be shipped to the American side on an American yacht.

Residents of the section of the city where the liquor was seized, state that they are convinced there has been considerable rum-running going on. They point to the fact that mysterious actions have been noticed at night, and have been going on for some time. Last fall, particulally, residents had reason to believe that some illegal actions were being transacted, and they feel that, with the work of the police in nipping this latest attempt, the rum-running is stopped, for the time at lease.

CAUGHT BETWEEN CARS

Caught between two motor cars at Belleville, Mallard Clark, aged twelve years, was painfully injured. he was riding a bicycle across the lower bridge at the time of the accident.

RED LETTER DAY AT ST. ANDREWS

Sunday will be a red letter day in St. Andrews Church where the eighty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the Congregation is being celebrated. This congregation has had an interesting history and in recent years has steadily grown in strength and influence. The congregation is ably officered and wisely led. The property is kept in a fine state of repair and everything about the institution breaths an air of efficiency and good will.

The services of the choir under the leadership of Mr. John Crane and with Mrs. Maurice Park as soloist are increasingly satisfactory. One always hears good music at St. Andrews.

The special preacher tomorrow will be Rev A. Logan Geggie of Toronto. Mr. Geggie has stood the test of a long and successful pastorate in Toronto. He is a Scotchman who has not lost the accent, along with an unusually rich blending of Scottish harmony and Scottish fire. The only difficulty tomorrow will be seating accomodation. Come early.

THE CITY'S FILTRATION PLANT

PASSING OF A SUBURBAN HOME.

(By F. H. Dobbin)

The big steam shovel, or excavator, working on the site of the filtration plant is eating its way through the scenery. It came from the depot, along Water street and slowly and methodically, being self-propelled, made the grade to the site of the plant. Once there a couple rods of fence had to be removed and so soon as it set foot, so to speak, inside the lines it began to dig.

There was a grade, or hills against it but they came away. Top of the grade was the foundation of an old and very large barn, removed some time ago. These lines of rocks and stones the shovel took up in mouthfuls and deposited on the ground outside the line of the area to be excavated. It was easy digging. Hardly a stone in the sandy loam, for the exact spot on which it was working was for many years the house garden of the Carnegie residence. A patch of raspberries, fruitful last summer was eradicated. Had to go. To-day a surprising amount of work shows as done in the last ten days. The raw water basin is neatly defined and down to grade, the sides neatly outlined in the soil, prim and erect. To the east of the basin excavation is going on to receive the structure that will house the turbine pumps that will deliver the raw water from the river.

Plant on Ground.

The contractors have on the grounds a large amount of plant and appliances, forms, siding, and carts in which to handle the concrete. Seldom does a contractor find a place so accessable and convenient in which to work. Ample room to store materials and to handle the supplies. A short distance to the south is outlined on the ground the site of the filtering basin proper, and for the placing of which another contractor has the job. Presently he will be here and begin work on his contract. The site of this part of the scheme covers the ground held by one of the several fine old residences that at one time were scattered outside the limits of the town and which are fast disappearing. Only two or three now remain, one being the residence of late R. A. Morrow, "Clonsilla," west of the boundary road and to the left of Charlotte street, as one drives out into the township. Built by Stafford Kirkpatrick, who came here from Kingston, and practiced as a lawyer in the later forties. But it is of the Carnegie building that we have to refer to.

A Pioneer Lumberman.

Originally the ground formed a part of the mill property owned by William Snyder, pioneer merchant and lumberman of Peterborough. A few lines in reference may be of interest. He was born of old United Empire Loyalist stock and at Dickenson's Landing, near Cornwall, in 1815. In business for a time in Montreal, he served as a private in the LaPrairie Co. that took active service in the rebellion of 1837-38.

He came to Peterborough in 1848 and engaged in the dry goods business. The growing importance of the lumber and timber business appealed to him and in 1855 he embarked in the lumber trade. Builded and operated a saw mill on the west side of the river at the point on the shore where the first waterworks dam was afterwards erected. The old pumping station, now standing, marks very nearly the spot. Perry's saw mill stood at the other end of the dam, on the Douro side of the river. He also built a small mill on the west side of the river just opposite the Auburn Mills, and which was afterwards well known as Hilliard's mill. The first of a long line of structures to be built at or about this point on the river. From above Nassau reaching down the river the flow was extremely rapid, giving a total fall from above Nassau to below Smith street of over 42 feet. On this stretch of the river were at one time four large power dams and mills adjoining on each side of the river. Mr. Snyder also conducted a lumber business at Otherley, Ont., and had a mill there in operation for several successive seasons. Retiring from business he built the fine residence in East City now known as the Lundy property. This building fronts the Little Lake. He died in 1905.

Every trace of the Snyder mill and surroundings has been obliterated, except the road that remains in front of the present pumping station. As originally surveyed the road was a direct line from the culvert in the road, below the station to the top of the hill, on the way to Nassau. But it was diverted to serve the purposes of the mill and shipments and so remained. Some time ago the Utilities Commission, in an effort to do away with the dust from traffic negotiated with the township to change the road to the original surve- but the idea was not cordially received.

Rights of Possession.

While the property now being used for the filtration plant has long been locally known as the "Carnegie property" so far as late John Carnegie was concerned it was his only in name. On the death of his first wife a sister of late George Hilliard, after some years he married a daughter of William Snyder and the property was given to her by her father and on it Mr. Carnegie built the residence that has now been torn down.

A New Home.

The residence was built in 1876. At that time the Romaine brick plant had commenced to make brick on a scheme proposed and put in by Robert Romaine. He had gone to the Old Country and brought back certain ideas that while working out in England did not apply here in Canada. All that remains of the plant is the building occupied by the Peterborough Machine Co., George Street South. The building is the first structure to be erected and completed of concrete in the town. Massive, strong and in the interior, was a succession of kilns, in which the brick was burned. The whole process of manufacture proved to be expensive.. Too far from the source of supplies, the clay beds being down the river. Wood fuel was, even at the cost in those days, expensive, in the way it had to be used. The formed clay issued in a stream from the machine and was cut across by a series of wires, to the size of a regular brick. Three holes driven through the ribbon of clay were to give a grip to the mortar. Eventually the process was machine substituted. But the brick never reached a fair commercial produce and the enterprise closed up.

The house of the Carnagie property was built of these brick, with a part from the machine pressed brick. Lying about the grounds and neatly piled for some future use are bricks of both kinds, many bearing the imprint of "R. Romaine, Peterborough." Good as the day they were built into the walls.

Dissecting the Structure.

As the demolition of the old residence proceeded men in the building trades marvelled at the materials out of which it had been constructed. White pine of rare clearness and beauty. Choice ash, oak and birch. Cross beams supporting the lower floors that would do for a factory building. Doors of a thickness that would be unprocurable to-day except at an extortionate price. Walls, in the lower story of a thickness that windows had each to be recessed. Fireplaces in each important room and in many bedrooms. Clear pine matched floors in the attic of a thickness of inch-and-a-quarter. A lower floor of as much as 1,200 square feet without a knot or shake in the flooring. Windows all graced with inside Venetian shutters, folding into the casings.

From a broad hall in the centre of the house two-leaf doors gave access to the important rooms. These had bay windows of generous widths and ample light. Ceilings with cornices minutely decorated with beautiful plaster mouldings and centre-pieces. Base boards and window trim of beautiful selected ash, of fine grain and figure, and the care and selection of materials extended as well to the upper floors. In removing the long main staircase it came down in one piece, having been built and afterwards put in place.

From the house to the front of the escarpment overlooking the river and main road was beautifully laid out with walks, approach avenue and flower beds and shrubbs. In the early days after construction these fine and gracious things could be viewed from the road, but with advancing years the growth of trees and shubbery hid the view. Mr. Carnegie lived at his home until about a year before his death. Then for several years the place had been closed, the isolation being onerous to Mrs. Carnegie. Inside, the house would have stood and worn for a hundred years. Outside, the brick proved to be less than permanent. Wind and weather worked their way and took toll from year to year. The upkeep, heating and general cost of occupancy of such a home would in these days of 7 x 9 apartments be almost prohibitive, unless one had a most liberal income. Income is today, a horrid word. It brings up painful thoughts of wrestling with intricate forms and papers, with details that most men pronounce as cussed, and in the end takes a slice from ones gains that make a hole into which it is fearful to look, painful to contemplate and opprobious to realize. For the income tax is after a fellow. From him who hath it shall be taken, even that which he

A Most Worthy Citizen.

While we are at it we may as well complete the genealogical chain with a reference to late John Carnegie. There may be in the city thousands of people who never heard, except in a most casual way, of the man. A sterling figure in life and activities of the town and indeed of the Province, of marked ability as a journalist, which pursuit he at times followed owing to his interest in the Review newspaper, he was one of the most venturesome men of the town in encouragement of industrial enterprises, and often, it is regrettable, not to his profit. But where others waited for a safe thing John Carnegie made a move.

A native of the County and born in Douro in 1837, his father was one of the original pioneers of this section. He had the education of the Common Schools and some time of tuition in Toronto; did something in the way of farming, and had interests in Whyte's Foundry, Central Bridge Works, Peterborough Lock Works, Auburn Power Co. and Romaine's Brick Works. A life long advocate of the Trent Canal, he was retained by the Government to prepare the brief to go before the Royal Commission appointed to investigate the proposition of completing the canal, in the early nineties. Representative for the Riding in the Legislature for several terms. Died in January, 1910, after filling important positions of trust in the town and county.

The grounds comprise lands extending north from the waterworks plant, and on the east side of the main road to Nassau about a quarter of a mile, perhaps for a longer distance. Some additional parts of the river bank were secured by the Commission so that the basin above the pumping house should not have its waters contaminated. The Commission also owns and controls a goodly portion of the shores of the river on the east, or Douro side as well.

The Clues	???????????????	???????????	???????????	???????????

SAID that great Movie Producer, Cesar B. DeMiller, to his hated rival, Movie Producer David Warkfield Griffin, "I have just engaged four of the greatest Moving Picture Stars in America for my next big Moving Picture Play." Of course this made Griffin angry because he likes to be the greatest of all the great Movie Producers and he tried his best to persuade DeMiller to tell him the names of the great Movie Stars. Just to tantalize him, Cesar B. DeMiller gave David Warkfield Griffin four secret codes representing the names of the four Movie Stars he had engaged and told him that if he had brains enough to discover the names from these secret codes he deserved to know them. It was too much of a puzzle for Griffin, so it is said he call'd in Scotland Yard and offered them a thousand dollars if they would discover the names for him from the four secret codes that DeMiller had given him. This was an easy job for the great Scotland Yard Detective Force, and in less than an hour they had the four names. They have the names to Griffin and also gave him their system for working out their clues.

Here Is The Way They Did It

"It's easy," said Chief-of-Detectives O'Flynn. "I have worked out four sums which you see beneath each one of the four codes.

"Add up these four sums and your totals give you the 4 clues to the four names.

"You go about it this way. Each secret code has ten letters to it. Each letter represents a number. The first letter of the code represents 1, the second letter represents 2, the third letter represents 3, and so on. The tenth letter in each code represents the cipher 0 instead of 10.

"Each sum, as you see, instead of numbers is made up of letters, but it contains only the letters that are contained in the code above it.

"Now change the letters of each sum into their equivalent numbers, according to the code above, putting them down line by line from left to right exactly as the letters; for instance, the first letter of the first sum is N. N as you will see is the first letter of the secret code above that sum and therefore represents number 1. H, the second letter in the first line of the first sum is the eighth letter in the code above it, therefore it represents number 8.

"After you have changed every letter of the sum into a number, add up the sum just exactly as you would any other sum of figures, and the total that you get gives you your clues to the names of the Movie Stars.

Then work out your clues this way:

"Beginning at the left-hand side of the total of your sum change each figure of the total back to its letter as represented in the secret code above the sum; for instance, I can tell you that the first number of the total of the first sum is 7. The letter C is the seventh letter in the code above the first sum, therefore the first letter represented by your total is letter C. Now change every number of your total in the same way and you will have the name of the Movie Star represented by that sum."

This is not an easy problem, but patience and perseverance may find you the names of the great Movie Stars. For the best answers submitted we will pay the following prizes:

This Great Contest Is Absolutely FREE of Expense. Send In Your Answers To-day!

This great contest is being conducted by the Continental Publishing Company, Limited, one of the largest and best-known publishing houses in Canada. That is your guarantee that the prizes will be awarded with absolute fairness and squareness to you and every other contestant. Frankly, it is intended to further introduce EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD, Canada's Greatest Magazine. You may enter and win the best of prizes whether you are a subscriber to EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD or not—and moreover, you will neither be asked nor expected to take the magazine or spend a single penny of your money in order to compete.

HERE IS THE IDEA—EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD is so popular everywhere that it now has the vast circulation of over 100,000 copies a month. But our motto is: "EVERYWOMAN'S WORLD in every woman's home." We want more Canadian magazine readers to become acquainted with this famous publication. Therefore, when we acknowledge your entry to the contest and you know your standing for the prizes we shall send you, without cost, a copy of the very latest issue and a review of many of the fine features soon to appear. Then, in order to qualify your entry to be sent on for the judging and awarding of the grand prizes, you will be asked to assist us in carrying on this big introduction plan by showing your copy to just four friends or neighbours, who will appreciate this really worth-while, All-Canadian magazine and want it to come to them every month. You will easily fulfill this simple condition in a few minutes of your spare time, and we will even send copies for each of your friends, if you wish.

How To Send Your Solutions

Use only one side of the paper that contains names of the Movie Stars, and put your name and address (stating Mr., Mrs. or Miss) in the upper right-hand corner. If you wish to write anything but your answers, use a separate sheet of paper.

Three independent judges, having no connection whatever with this firm, will award the prizes, and the answers gaining 250 points will take the First Prize. You will get 25 points for every name completed correctly. 40 points will be awarded for general neatness, style, spelling, punctuation, etc., 10 points for handwriting, and 100 points for fulfilling the conditions of the contest. Contestants must agree to abide by the decision of the judges.

The contest will close at 5 p.m., October 31, 1921, immediately after which answers will be judged and the Prizes awarded. Address your answers to-day to—

SPECIAL SPEAKERS AT ST. JAMES' CHURCH

Two out-of-town members of the Social Service Council will be the special speakers at St. James' Methodist Church tomorrow. Rev. T. C. McCullough, M. A. of Toronto, will preach in the morning, and Rev. Stapleford, B. A., also of Toronto, in the evening.

Have you the money in which to do it? Start to save while they are young—let them commence life knowing you are at the back of them.

STOUFFVILLE, April 29.—When Philip Lemon undertook to smoke bacon and hams in his garage he suffered the loss of an automobile as well as the garage itself. He saw clouds of smoke pouring through the winds and crevices of the door, but though it was simply the "smudge" doing its work. But when flames followed the smoke he realized, when too late to save either car or building, that something was wrong. Neither auto nor of "SALADA" TEA were sold in the first three months of this year than in the corresponding period of last year. This is equivalent to an INCREASE of 20 tons a week and a modest estimate of this means that over one hundred million MORE cups of delicious "SALADA" were enjoyed in the homes of the people during these three months than in the same three months of 1920.

This INCREASE confirms the popularity of "SALADA", which was evidenced by the INCREASE of 1,496,236 pounds in "SALADA" sales for 1920 over 1919, and the increase of 1,536,789 pounds in 1919 over 1918.

We publish these figures because we believe everyone is interested in the reward of merit. For 30 years we have been blending and selling an honestly fine quality tea to the public. In all that time "SALADA" has remained matchless in flavour—unapproached by any other tea in cup quality—and as a result has continually increased in sales.

Please remember the above figures represent our INCREASES alone—"SALADA" sales are not only larger than those of any other tea in America, but amount to over

ONE-TENTH OF THE TOTAL IMPORTS OF ALL KINDS OF TEA INTO AMERICA

—viz.: Canada and the United States.

THE LADY ROBIN.

A Lady Robin, who has been wintering in the South, came to Peterboro this spring, with an eye intent on setting up house immediately. A nest that had been used by some enterprising bird family was picked up from the ground where it had fallen last fall and deposited on the high partition between our back verandah and our neighbors'. This is a very compact and roomy affair of woven twigs and straw, with a little piece of string pressed into service in its construction. And here the lady bird deposited three round blue eggs. Inspection of these was made during her absence one evening, with breaths held for fear of disturbing the pretty little globes. But she came back before we were quite through, and sat on a neighboring branch, scolding us shrilly.

Unceasing Attention.

Her attention has been unceasing and vigilant, and she turns a fierce eye on all outcomers. However, the little birds are hatched out now, three tiny little mites with open mouths. The mother divided a long wriggling worm between the three greedy little creatures this morning, a diet which seems rather strong for such recent arrivals. She spreads her wings protectingly over them, and even placating gifts of crumbs fail to allay her constant suspicion.

The father of these little newcomers is not much in evidence. He may be one of the chesty robins that hops boldly along the walk, or chirps so loudly in the early mornings, but, so far as we know, he makes no effort to provide his family with food, according to the custom often described so poetically. The mother bird seems to do it all. She may be an advanced suffragette of course, and scorn all masculine assistance, or perhaps they have had a falling out, and that is what makes her so cranky with unoffending humans.

SCHOOL TEACHERS OVER-REGULATED

Speaking at Kingston, in support of Home and School Clubs, Rev. W. T. G. Brown said teachers and parents are partners in dealing with the same children, and should know each other. The teacher has many problems, he added. She must please the children, the parents, the school board and inspector.

"Then, the teacher is fairly regulated and inspected to death until no individuality remains. In time past the best teachers on earth were those who could express their own personality. This aspect is ruined today by the standardizing of the teacher. She must reach the standard set by an inspector, she must reach a certain standard in examinations, she must reach a standard set by the community in which she works, with the result that the teacher is forced to become more of a machine than a living being.

"Everybody wants his fad introduced into the school. The man who is musical wants music taught in the school, the artist wants art taught, and so on through the whole category. The Boards of Education can't do all these things, can't even suggest how they might be done, so hand one and all over to the teacher to be done.

"Add to this overcrowded curriculum the question of discipline. The boy does as he likes at home, yet the teacher is expected to control what the parents can't deal with. No easy problem."

BRIDAL RING FOR THE GROOM

(Dominion News Service.)

London, May 3.—A bridal ring for the bridegroom as well as for the bride.

This innovation was made recently when the Rev. A. Windsor, pastor of Woodnock Baptist Church, Accrington, solemnised the wedding of Mrs. Mary Mills and Mr. William Clement Evans, and has created universal approval throughout the district.

The pastor says the innovation was by special desire of the bridegroom. It remains to be seen whether all England will follow the example.

OLDSMOBILE DANCE WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

Perhaps one of the most successful dances of the season was held in Oshawa on Friday evening when the Olds Motor Works entertained at an informal dance, the local staff of the General Motors of Canada.

The occasion was honored with patronage of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McLaughlin, and Mr. and Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin.

The dance was a huge success, a fact which may be directly attributed to the exceptionally high grade of music rendered by the "Syncopated Three" Orchestra, of Peterborough, who were assisted vocally by Mr. Gordon Lamb. Their style of music, and their originality has established for them a reputation in Oshawa that will be very difficult for them to live up to. The piano handled by Mr. Paul Gliddon, and the Saxaphone by Mr. Geo. Logan, and Traps by Mr. Fries, are a combination that are a credit to the City they represent.

We all hope that we may hear from them in the near future.

Amongst the Peterboro guests present, were Messrs. R. Neill, A. Fortye, F. Jobbit, and R. Case.

I. O. D. E. PICNIC.

The 57th Chapter of the I. O. D. E. which has done such a great deal of work in connection with the Memorial to our fallen heroes, and also helps materially with the Preventorium in Toronto, has made some enthusiastic plans for the summer months, which include a picnic to Burnham's Woods, with all arrangements made to transport members to and from this very pretty spot, and plans to decorate the soldiers' and sailors' graves on Empire Day.

CORK OUTRAGE OF LOCAL INTEREST

One on of Military Bacon Seized At The Point Of a Revolver

The Dublin Irish "Times" of April 15, give the following particulars of a recent outrage in Cork, which has some local interest, because of the near relative of the Messrs. Lunham mentioned being a resident of Peterborough. The Irish Times says:—

"An extraordinary occurrence took place yesterday afternoon in Cork. It has been customary for the military to send a lorry to Messrs. Lunham's factory on one or more days in a week for a supply of bacon. Yesterday a lorry on which there were two unarmed soldiers, arrived at Messrs. Lunham's stores, and a supply of bacon amounting to about a ton in weight was put on it. The work was barely completed when the soldiers found themselves confronted by two armed men, who at the point of the revolver ordered them into a stable and locked the door, while the others of the raiding party mounted the lorry and drove off rapidly in a southerly direction. After some time the two captives effected their escape, and word was conveyed to the authorities. The police and military went to Messrs. Lunham's factory and instituted inquiries. A search of the district was then carried out, and shortly after five o'clock the motor lorry was discovered in Douglas road, burned out. There was no trace of the bacon, which had evidently been removed to a hiding place."

The extensive Lunham bacon and provision factory mentioned above was founded by the late William Lunham, of Tralee, Co. Kerry, Ireland. Mrs. M. A. Errington, of number 291 Rubidge street, this city, is his daughter. It was while on a visit to Mrs. Errington some few years ago that Mr. Lunham died, in 1894, in the village of Lakefield, at the residence of another near relative, and his remains now lie buried in the Little Lake Cemetery here. After his death the Lunham business passed into the hands of his son, Thomas Lunham, whose bacon and other products became still more famous all over the British Isles. The firm were in receipt of large contracts for supplying the British army, and navy with its products while the business continued to extend to various distant parts of the world. Thos. Lunham, having died some years ago the business passed into the hands of his two sons, who are now conducting it under the firm name of Lunham Bros., both of whom are nephews of Mrs. Errington of this city.

CAMPELLFORD COUNCIL MEET

May Buy 15,000 Gallons of Road Oil

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening, with Mayor Meyers in the chair, and the following members present:—Reeve Davidson, Deputy Reeve Stone, Councillors Palliser, Wilkinson, Southworth, Meiklejohn, Wiggins.

The Road and Bridges Committee was empowered to buy oil in sufficient quantities, the total not to exceed 15,000 gallons. Mr. Stone said that he and Mayor Meyers had made a careful estimate of the oil necessary this year as follows:—17,000 feet of Residencef rontage at 5 cents, $854.60; 2,883 feet of Business frontage, at 20 cents, $576.60; 914 feet of Factory frontage at 15 cents, $137.10; 284 feet of Vacant frontage of 5 cents, $14.20 2,778 feet of Street Intersections, a 20 cents, $555.60; Total, $2,138.10.

This amount will be insufficient to carry out the work, and a 20 per cent. increase will be necessary.

A motion by Councillor Meiklejohn seconded by Councillor Wilkinson, that the oil tax be raised 20 per cent, was adopted.

A letter was read from the Grand Trunk office in Belleville re the placing of a signal bell at the crossing on Centre street. The letter was discussed and on motion laid on the table.

A letter from the Hyde Electric Commision was read, and laid on the table. A letter was also read from Mrs. Owen Hoey re the assessment on her salary. She disputed this because she does not live in Campbellford, and because she is married, and hence her income must be over $2,000 before taxable. This was laid over.

The petition for a water main and sewer along Wellington street was discussed. Deputy Reeve Stone, Councillor Southworth and Councillor Palliser were appointed to engage an engineer to arrange the plans, and submit them to the Provincial Board of Health, and report at the next meeting.

A petition from Market street was left with the same committee.

Mr. Horkins asked permission to install a gasoline pump and tank in front of his store on Bridge street The permission was granted, subject to the usual conditions.

Mr. Daly, of the Children's Aid Society spoke to the Council in behalf of the Children's Shelter in Port Hope maintained by Northumberland and Durham counties. There are 240 children there, who are all cared for, in addition to 358 complaints from outside, during the last year. The authorities do everything they possibly can for the children, teaching, feeding and caring for them until they leave school. They then endeavour to place them in congenial homes. A grant of $50 was made to the society.

Mr. Moffat and Mr. Douglas addressed the Council in regard to the tapping of a sewer on to the main sewer on Bridge street at the corner of Raney and Bridge streets, by the Presbyterian Manse. The question of a sewer being laid along Raney street was discussed, and referred to Mayor Meyers and the town solicitor, J. A. Humphries.

Mr. Ayrhart asked for the use of the unused part of Simpson street. His request was referred to the Mayor and Councillor Meihlejohn, with power to act.

The auditors in their report found everything correct. A motion was passed that they be paid the regular fee of $75 each.

Mr. Cowell was engaged as Band Master at a salary of $50 per month, to continue as long as the Council desires. The motion carried unanimously excepting Councillor Palliser.

The accounts amouted to about $2,728, were paid, and the meeting adjourned.

WEATHER COMPARISON.

An Aged Citizen Gives the Following Weather Conditions of 51 Years Ago:

Fifty-one years ago last fall, on the 12th of October, there fell 6 inches of snow. This almost went away in the next three days, and on the night of Oct. 16, the ground froze up solid. Not more than half of the potatoes or turnips were housed. Then, on the 19th of the same month there fell sufficient snow to make good sleighing which lasted until the 15th of the next April. The first of May was on Monday, and most of the farmers got on the land. The weather then kept dry but cold, and on the first of June the trees were no farther advanced than they are to-day, and yet there was a good crop that year.

Fire Fighting In The Fifties

FIRE PROTECTION OF PETERBORO STARTED IN A HUMBLE WAY

STORY OF ORIGINAL COMMUNITY EFFORT THE FIRST FIRE ENGINE IN TOWN AND THE FIRST ORGANIZED BRIGADE

(By F. H. Dobbin)

Just look at it and see how you like it. Depends on whether you own it or owe it. You are invited to consider the sum of $66,000.00, which is approximately the cost to the city of the protection against fire, once the fire has started, or gained some headway. Lots of fires are strangled before they amount to anything serious, and a lucky thing too. But last year we had no serious losses though the years of 1916 and 1918 gave us fires of the dimensions of conflagrations. But both resulted in building activity in those two war yeats.

Sixty-six thousand dollars would do a whole lot of things. Build a new church, fix up Riverside park, buy twenty good sized automobiles, pay for the band in the park for 120 years and if piled up for seven years nearly pay outright for the Hunter st bridge, supposing we had the money in one lump for one payment. But as we are going on to pay in the future, it will cost us when the bridge is settled for as much as it will cost fifteen times over to run the Fire Protection Service of the city this year. That is one of the penalties of having civic growing pains.

However things were not always thus. The fire protection of the burgh started in a humble way. Nothing more expensive than a few community ladders and a crate or two of wooden pails and the use of the nearest pump and well, that is nearest to the fire. But with the incorporation of the town things had to be done in a metropolitan way though the pail and ladder brigade was held in the reserves. And one of the first acts of the municipality by way of its council was to buy a fire engine. This was in 1850, and the reason it was not gotten before that the burg had no authority by and through any organization to pledge the credit of the place and issue debentures. This trifling embarrassment was at once remedied on incorporation and one of the first official acts of the council was to buy the engine, which was described, in the language of the gentleman who sold it as "an exceeding powerful and efficient fire engine pump". It came spic and span in scarlet paint and gold stripes, black wheels and some German silver plated fixings, a thing of beauty and a noise forever. The burg turned out to view, and was, in its feelings prouder than a farmer with a new red waggon. Then the council issued some debentures and faith just there is where we began and contracted the debenture issuing habit that sticks to us yet.

Then a Fire Company was organized. Now do not run away with the impression casually that this was any trifling affair. The members composed and conscribed our very best citizens, speaking as for a town. W. S. Conger, Esq., was Chief Engineer and John R. Benson, Esq., was Assistant. The reader will notice the deferential titles after the names. That experssed in those days deep respect. Just as to be a Justice of the Peace was to rank as high as Premier Drury, at least. The two officers were of the most grave and reverened seniors. Men of substance and influence, for Mr. Conger was that sort of a man that Peterborough will travel along for a good many years before he is duplicated. Quite as efficient a man only in a different sense, that the late George A. Cox.

Fifty men were taken in. All good men, the very best. Men of property where they had it, but all willing to exert themselves to put fires down and out. The first summer, the company turned out in evnings for practice, quite as notable a public display and as good a drawing card as the band in the park nowadays. The engine was taken to the creek at some convenient point along the bank, and water was squirtd all over the scenery, just for practice.

The nearest blacksmith shop would be a fair mark because of it wasn't on fire at the moment it could be reckoned to get to blazing on its own account at some other time. Such shops often blazed up on a windy night when the air trifled with the forge fire as yet not dead. Members absent from practice were fined one shilling, almost all men wore whiskers.

Not only was the fire company a life saver but it held in the town a marked social place. The Annual Firemen's Ball was an affair of considerable importance and quite the leading social function of the town, and anything that the brigade took under its wing was at once a success. Had to be, for nearly everybody that was anybody was in it. It was a classic function at the christening of the engine. It was brought out on the market square and the Chief Engineer, mounted the brakes beam and fervently smashed a small bottle on the cylinders and named the infant as "Protection Fire Engine, No. 1., it being inferred that others would follow.

When a fire broke out—it will be observed that fires never happened in those days—they came as an act of Providence or of carelessness, not often determined, in spite of the penalties in the fire by-law in such cases made and provided. To the fire the engine was dragged by willing and enthousiastic citizens. It was manned by other and not enthusiastic citizens once the thing was arranged for work. "The Brakes" as the pumping or driving appliances were known, were long rods or poles that when the machine was not in action folded along the sides of the machine. When extended at right angles to the engine and manned by sixty men, thirty on each brake, things fairly hummed for a few minutes. Massed together and as applied the strength of the sixty men amounted to about eight horse power, about half that of a Ford car.

The captain of the company mounted right on top of the fixings, as far up as he could get, balanced himself as well as he might, on the teetering levers and bawled through a large tin horn for more men on the brakes, as perspiring citizens fell out of line to get more breath and take something. One fairly steady stream was thrown for about one hundred and fifty feet or up to the level of a second story widow. The work was exhausting, but then a fire was a public excitement, anyway and everybody turned out or stood about in disabille and said that they knew better how to handle that particular fire that the men who were working at it. Advice is the cheapest thing on earth.

If a fire came on very late at night, as was often the case, two things would be observed by the observer. One was the fire, as a matter of course and the other was the women. Curiosity killed the cat and fiminine inquisitiveness brought women to view the blaze. Every one dressed in a hurry. Place might burn down and the fire be out before they could get here. So any old thing answered for attire. Rugs, blankets, men's overcoats, straw hats and slippers were ever in evidence. No women paused to do up her hair in latest fashion. As a matter of fact the prevailing hair dressing consisted at the time in rolling up in a ball all the hair that wearer had and poking it into a sort of net, leaving the hair to dangle down the back of the neck in a baggy sort of way. Store teeth and the hair of commerce had not as yet become things as presented in the leading stores. Most of the attendants at fires among the women were seasoned matrons, who had come along the streets carrying a lantern and dodging impediments while en-route. These had taken in many a blaze and knew just what to do and should be done. One useful function of the women was to suppress the boys, generally a futile job. Young girls were a trifle shy, for swains might be around to see and observe. Taken altogether no fire but had its audience and many helped for a fire, once having taken hold of the wooden building knew no hesitation or reserve.

In the meantime a line would be formed from the nearest pump to the scene of the fire and pails of water passed along from hand to hand. Man at the foot of a ladder would hand on a full pail to man next above. In the operation, when the pail reached its destination there might be at a guess, about three quarts in the vessel. This was hurled where it would do the most good. It may occur to the reader to ask where enough pails would come from to form a line.

Fires promoted business. Stores were ready to do business. So if a fire came about in the business section the proprietor of the store hurried and opened up and gave out pails with the most reckless profusion. Quite the regular thing to do and publicly approved. It is on record that a fire breaking out on George St. and which destroyed the store of D. G. Hatton, (where the Dominion Bank now stands) and other places, (1857), Ogilvie & Hood grocers, gave out 268 pails, at a cost to the town of 58.25. Each man took a pail home with him, so as to have it, as he said, handy again. Pails of wood cost 25 cts. each.

A sister and sinister organization was that of the Hook and Ladder Co., jocularly known as the ladder-hooking company. It had an able and alert confrere in Hose Co. No. 1, which delighted at ripping along the street at prodigious speed and running over anything that came within reach. Stopping the traffic was frowned on. The Hook Company when it got on the scene generally anticipated what would come and fastened its prongs into the nearest building that might catch fire and jerked it piecemeal out of the way. Might as well do so as it would burn if neglected. If the house of dwelling were of the balloon frame variety the whole side would come away in a frantic effort of destruction, but this organization fought shy of tackling one of the old log houses. Too much like work, and anyway the march of progress demanded that such should be eliminated.

Zealous people proved to be energetic in a form of christian endeavor, and would in an excess of care throw the bedroom crockery out of the windows and carry down stairs the feather beds. Springs and mattresses had not come into use. Bedsteads would be left as standing, for to undo the ropes that wove across from side to side of the bed rails and from end to end would takee too long. Chairs would be cast into the crowd in reckless profusion.

As the town built up and extended away from the borders of the creek water became less handy. Wells were often too deep for the engine to be used to advantage. So the council of after years decided to insert several tanks into the earth at approved places. In 1912, in putting down the sewer pipes on Brock St. the workmen opening a trench found about eighteen inches under ground a collection of cedar logs, nicely laid side by side. And curiosity was expressed as to why any town should bury the municipal money in such a way and place. To any one, familiar wit hthe past history of the burg an answer was perfectly plain, and the logs were connected with the time of the tanks.

Three of these were built. One at the corner of Brock and George St., another at corner of Charlotte and Aylmer and a third, and the largest, partly on George St., and partly on the market square, just about opposite where the C. P. R. up-town office stands. Fairly large concerns, lined with a cement plaster, shape of a big bowl and covered with timbers and a covering of road metal. A man-hole was provided down which the suction pipe of the engine was thrust and down which any daring soul who wished might go and explore. Few tried it. The interior looked like Hades and smelled like the inferno. Entrance was only made as a matter of stern necessity and then under compulsion. There were risks and again there might be spooks and other things.

The tanks were filled from the storms water that flowed along the gutters when it rained, a grating keeping out sticks and stones and other debris. Occasionally the gratings would clog up and then some spirited citizen would pull up the grating and allow free ingress to anything that came floating along. So in time the tanks became veritable settling basins. Anything that floated in stayed and decomposed if it could.

When a fire broke out the engine was hauled to the tank and the big six-inch suction pipe inserted into the tank. Men in the vicinity held their breaths and dsereetly moved out of range, having grown wise and wary. First impressions are said to be the most lasting. These impressions prevailed to a surprising extent. There was a strainer on the end of the suction, at least it was called a strainer, but anything that could go through a three-quarter inch hole was pulled up in the suction pipe. Occasionally when the solution in the tank seemed too thick they pulled off the strainer and gave the contents of the tank a chance for what was indecent exposure. Everything that could crowd through the eight-inch cylinders of the engine came along. Frogs, snails, old boots, tin cans, pieces of rope, leaves, defunct straw hats and other debris surged up in the general current. Anything that could be liquified and gotten into the hose was squirted out, and when the stream dwindled, in spite of the power on the brakes, the suction was pulled up and a pole thrust through to clear a passage. Very often the language used by those most intimately concernd in the autopsy was unfit for publication.

The inside of any store treated to a bath of that kind of water was practically ruined, unless it burned down in a spasm of mortification at the disgrace. Any citizen who got in the way of the stream lost any shreds of respectability that his clothes as he was wearing afforded. For occasionally there would be practical jokers on the branch, such as Dave Henthorn, Bill Wrighton, Jim English and Three-fingered Jack Robinson. Any or all of these enjoyed irrigating a citizen who got in the way. A white plastered house dosed with the contents of a tank had to be stripped and re-plastered. The contents of any tank were what one of Kipling's characters stated to be a "solution of continuity":

Then followed the days when the first power driven fire engine came into use. In August 1871 the council contracted with the Silsby Mfg. Co., of Syracuse, N. Y., for such an engine. With a capacity of 400 gallons per minute. It was delivered the following November and tested and accepted, and James English was appointed as official engineer at a salarly of $150,000 year. In the meantime propositions to build and equip a waterworks system wre submitted. One man, from Kingston offered to do so for $30,509.00. Not accepted.

In 1892 an efficient protection service was given from the water system established, and since that period the town and city has enjoyed uninterrupted a very efficient service. Despite this, in 1905 a new steam for engine was bought, to serve the parts of the city outside the range of the pipes system. This machine is still in commission, though the expansion of the water service has been so general that nearly all parts of the city are efficiently protected.

LATEST IDEA IN WINDOW DRESSING

A painted black drop, such as used in theatres, is the latest idea in window dressing of one of our enterprising local young men. A restful scene, very well done in broad work, of urns and flower-plots in natural tints, and banked hollyhocks, is the background for a number of well-dressed waxen ladies, who disport themselves in beautiful garments on a thick carpet of soft grass-like material.

VANDALS AT WORK LAKEFIELD VILLAGE

LAKEFIELD May 7.—One of the most uncalled for acts of vandalism occurred in the village recently, when the flowers at the post office and at Mr. Robert Carter's were ruthlessly picked and strewn in the street. This offence has aroused the people of the village to the greatest indignation. The Board of Trade appointed a civic improvement committee, who were expected to encourage property holders to make their grounds attractive with shrubs and flowers. If this sort of thing is allowed the citizens cannot be expected to spend energy, time and money to make a Roman holiday for the hoodlums of the village.

CLEANED UP

Wednesday was Arbor Day at the public school and the grounds received their annual cleaning up. It was an interesting sight to see boys and girls of all sizes busily engaged at the work. Lakefield has beautiful school grounds and the citizens who had the trees planted around the grounds many years ago did a great service, not only to the school but to the village, as they are now splendid specimens and an improvement to the property.

ABOUT DOGS.

Most dogs are friendly. When one has been followed for blocks by a stray cur, one realizes that sometimes they are too friendly. But the snappy, biting type is in the minority, and it is hard to surpass a dog in faithfulness and steadfastness.

The little black dog next door sits on the lawn and mopes. Its master is recently dead, and its former high spirits have departed. Even the whisking chipmunk, frisking around the tree-trunks has no fascination for it.

A horse walked down Louis street the other day, accompanied by a shaggy black collie. Just the two of them, the horse with loose harness clanking, and the dog with a watchful eye on its four-footed friend. They turned in together at a lane.

Mike is an old dog, black and white with brown splashes. He sleeps in the sun, snoring loudly, or begs for candy with eloquent brown eyes. He rides on the running board of the car in all weathers, flattening instinctively against the side at a sharp corner.

A Friendly Dog.

A little friendly, romping brown doggie, with long curly hair and big flapping ears, proffered himself as an escort the other day. He trotted along, with a cocked eye for straying leaves and papers, and an air of blithesome carefreeness. On returning from a visit to a store, he was discovered in a small tucked-up ball on the steps, ready to start off down the hill and see the town. But this little stranger had no collar, and had far too confiding a disposition for long absence from home, so he was admonished about the error of his wandering ways in stern tones. He sat down to reflect, and when last seen, was making his way back home with a dejected, frustrated look. But he was safe for that time anyway.

LITERARY EVENING.

The concluding literary evening of the season, in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum, consisted of a varied and interesting programme conducted by a number of the Normal students. There was a good crowd, who applauded loudly the entertainment offered by these versatile young ladies. The programme was as follows:

Piano solo :—Miss Veronica Moloney.

Recitation :—Miss Monica Helferty.

Instrumental duet :—Misses Ursula Collins and Louise Heffernan.

Paper :—Miss May Sherin.

Playet :—"The Love of a Bonnet," Misses Anna O'Connor, Clara Murphy, Bernardine Young, Louise Heffernan, Veronica Moloney, Alice Leonard.

Reading :—Miss Kathleen Dalton.

Paper :—Miss Allen.

Chorus by Normalite girls, with solo by Miss Vera Welsh.

Father Costello complimented the young ladies on the excellence of their programme, and extended the thanks of the Literary Society for their untiring efforts in making the final evening such a success.

SONNET

In memory of George Douglas Ross, son of Rev. G. E. Ross and Mrs. Ross, Peterboro, Ontario, who died May 5th, 1914.

Soul of my soul, methinks you've grown more fair,
Since on that last May morn you said farewell,
And stole away beyond the hills to dwell.
While we stayed weeping 'side your vacant chair.
Stay; Stay; Bright glorious boy, go not away.
They will not miss thee from that shining choir.
They voice will tune my broken-chorded lyer.
And we shall sing as on that bygone day.
Oh God: He's gone, 'twas but a passing dream.
He cannot come, he would not stay with me,
But when we've played life's game we'll go to him
Where toil is pleasure, and the soul is free
To tell the story through eternity
Of Him who is the soul's bright shining beam.

PETERBORO TO HAVE LOWER MILK PRICES

Many feminine householders were surprised the other morning by the receipt of an extra milk ticket for their dollar. Instead of 16, we are now getting seventeen of these little slips, and butter also is down, the average retail price for a pound now being fifty-five cents. This drop in the price of butter is mainly due to the decrease in consumption in the Old Country, with a consequent larger domestic market for the large quantities turned out by Canadian producers.

Watching a test of cream in the local testing office of the Peterboro Milk products is rather an interesting proceeding. A very thorough test is taken to determine the percentage of fat in the lacteal fluid. The Babcock test is the one most commonly in use, and dealers are required by law to weigh all cream before going on with the process. This is done on a scale so sensitive as to respond to almost a hair's weight, equipped with agate bearings, and costing about $0 each. Nine grammes of the fluid are placed in a tiny glass measuring phial, which register up to fifty per cent of fat. Sulphuric acid is then added, which turns the mixture to a reddish color, this acid freeing the fat from the milk, and enough water is added to fill the tiny glass tube, which is then placed in a horizontal position in a revolving machine, centrifugal force being exerted for the space of five minutes, when the amount of fat can be determined by the graduated phial. A clear amber color is the proper tint for a successful test. Milk takes a little longer to test, being submitted to the revolving machine two or three times, and water added more than once. Forty-one per cent was the satisfactory result arrived at this morning by a farmer who brought in a sample of cream from a Jersey cow.

"The outlook for the butter trade of Canada is bright", says a dairymen's journal, and Dr J. H. Grisdale has stated that dairying is the industry which will put Canada in her proper place among the nations. "The Dairy Cow will be no slacker in doing her share toward our National Debt if we but give her a chance." Ottawa is supposed to have the cleanest milk supply in the Dominion while investigation into Montreal's milk conditions reveals the appalling fact that from a bacterial examination, 25 per cent of the city's milk supply is not fit for human consumption in sits raw state. However, in the year 1918, 94 per cent of the Quebec output of butter graded No. 1, while only 70 per cent or Ontario's butter got into the same grade. "Quebec has a cow population of approximately 1,165,000, the largest in the Dominion. No place in the Dominion are there such splendid herds of purebred dairy cattle to be found as in Quebec, particularly in the west end of the province. If Quebec keeps on importing and raising the quality of dairy cattle as at present, she will become world-wide known, and renown and affluence will descend upon her progressive and clear-sighted farmers."

PRACTICAL CHRISTIANITY

SPEAKS HIGHLY OF BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she is always pleased to speak highly of them to other mothers. She knows the good they have done her children and realizes that her experience should be of benefit to others. Concerning the Tablets Mrs. Fred Murphy, Charlottetown, P.E.I., writes: 'I have used Baby's Own Tablets for the past eight months for my baby I cannot speak too highly of them for they have been of great assistance to me in my first experience of motherhood." Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which are absolutely harmless and may be given to even the new born babe with perfect safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or direct at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

STRATFORD, CONN., SEEKS RELIEF

Stratford, Conn., May 3.—Privation among families here, due to industrial depression in the neighboring city of Bridgeport, reached such an acute stage to-day that plans were laid to raise $20,000 to provide immediate relief.

Heads of most of the families, who usually earn a living in factories in Bridgeport have been out of employment several weeks. The situation was brought to the attention of authorities and prominent citizens when school teachers perceived that hundreds of children appeared undernourished.

RINSO—not a cake soap, not a chip soap, not a "washing powder", but fine granules that soak the dirt out of your clothes.

Children's rompers, grimy from the playground—kitchen aprons, curtains, towels—things you dread washing because they need so much rubbing—pile them into a tub of the rich bubbly RINSO suds. RINSO harms nothing that pure water may touch. Let them soak over night. Then—just rinse them, either in warm water or cold. Your clothes are gleaming white and CLEAN. RINSO has done all the work. For anything particularly dirty it will be necessary to rub, such as soiled cuff edges, etc. It has saved the weary hours at the washboard wearing out your clothes and yourself too. Do not wash the old way any longer. Get a package of RINSO, and do your washing the new and easy way.

At night—soak the clothes with RINSO.
Morning—rinse them out. That's all.

If you have a washing machine—

Soak the clothes overnight in the usual Rinso way. The cleansing suds loosen every bit of dirt. In the morning operate the machine for a few minutes and the clothes are perfectly clean—even the most soiled spots.

LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED, TORONTO

LARIMIE HOLDS THE RANGE

By Frank H. SPEARMAN.

To obtain for a boy any sort of an education in a region so wild and so inhospitable would have seemed impossible. Yet devoted Sisters—refined and aristocratic American women—were already in this mountain country devoting their lives to the Indian Missions. Under such women little Jim learned his Catechism and his reading and from them and their example a few of the amenities of life—so far removed from him in every other direction. Under their care he grew up, after he had lost his mother, among the Indian boys. With these he learned to fish and hunt, and trap for his pocket money, to use a bow and arrow and a knife, to trail and stalk patiently, to lie uncomplainingly in cold and wet, to ride without saddle or bridle or spur, to face a grizzly without alarm, to use a rifle where every cartridge cost a fortune and a poor aim sometimes life itself.

And every summer at home his father added extension courses in the saddle and bridle, spur, hackamore, and lariat to his education. He taught him to rope, throw and mark, to use a coffee pot and frying pan, and at last on the great day—the commencement day, so to say, of the boy's frontier education—he presented him with his degree—a Colt's revolver a and a box of cartridges—and died. As he lay on his death-bed, Texas Laramie left a parting advice to his young son:

"You've learned to shoot, Jim—you don't shoot bad for a youngster. A man's got to shoot. But the less shooting you do, after you've learned—without you're forced to do it, mind you—the more comfortable you'll feel when you get where I am now. All I can say is: I never killed an honest man that I know of. In fact"—his breath came very slowly—"I never yet seen an honest man in the Falling Wall country to kill."

And Jim began life with the ranch, youth, a little bunch of cattle, no money, and much health in the Falling Wall. His first year alone he never forgot, for in the spring he drove all his steers—not a great many—into the new railroad town, Sleepy Cat, and sold them for more than he had ever seen at one time in his life. He wandered from the bank into Harry Tenison's gambling rooms—Harry having sold out his livery stable to Joe Kitchen shortly before that—just to look on for a little while before starting home. When Laramie did start home, Tenison had all his steer money and he owed the sober-faced gambler, besides, one hundred dollars. He then went to work on the range for twenty-five dollars a month. He worked four months, and it was hard work, took his pay check in and handed it to Tenison. That was, strangely enough, the beginning of a friendship that was never broken. Tenison tried to give the check back to Laramie. He could not. But Laramie never again tried to clean out the bank at Tenison's.

The Laramie cabin on Turkey Creek—the son built afterward on the same spot—stood on a slight conical rise some distance back from the little stream that watered the ranch. From his windows Jim Laramie could look on gently falling ground in all directions. Toward the creek lay an alfalfa field which, with a system of irrigating ditch and water from the creek, he had brought to a prosperous stand. Below the alfalfa stood the barn and the corral.

The day after Kate Doubleday's adventure, with him at the Junction Laramie was riding up the creek to his cabin when a man standing at the corral gate hailed him. It was Ben Simeral. Ben, old and ragged, met every man with a smile—a bearded, seamed, and shabby smile, but an honest smile. Ben was a derelict of the range, a stray whose appeal could be only to patient men. Whenever he wandered into the Falling Wall country, where he had a claim, he made Laramie's cabin a sort of headquarters and spent weeks at a time there, looking after the stock in return for what John Lefever termed the "courtsies" of the ranch.

Laramie, greeting Ben, made casual inquiry about the stock. Ben looked at him as if expectant; but Ben was not aggressive for news or anything else. He grinned as he looked Laramie over: "Well, you're back again, Jim." Laramie responded in kindly fashion: "Anybody been here?"

"Nary critter," declared the custodian, "'cept John Frying Pan—he came over to borry your Marlin."

"What did he want with that?"

"Said he was going up into the mountains—after bear, I guess. I knowed he helped you track them wire scouts over to Barb's. The blame critters tore off all the wire t'other side of the creek, too. Get any track of 'em?" he asked, sympathetically alive to what had been most on Laramie's mind when he had started from home.

Laramie barely hesitated, but he looked squarely at Ben and answered in even tones: "No track, Ben."

Ben looked at him, still smiling with a kindly hope: "Hear from the contest on the creek quarter?"

"They told me at Medicine Bend it had gone against me."

"Psho! Never! You've got another 'go' to Washington, hain't y'?"

Laramie nodded and got down from his horse. Ben, removing the saddle, asked more questions—none of them important—and after putting up the horse the two men started for the house. Its rude walls were well laid up in good logs on which rested a timbered roof, shingled.

A living room with a fireplace, roughly fashioned in stone, made up the larger interior of the cabin. To the right of the fireplace a kitchen opened off the living room, and adjoining this, to the right as one entered the front door, was a bedroom. To the left stood a small table on which were scattered a few old books, a metal lamp, and well-thumbed copies of old magazines. Beside the table stood a heavy oak Morris chair of the kind sold by mail order houses. Two other chairs, heavily built in oak, were disposed about the room, and on the left of the entrance—there was but one door—stood a cot bed. On the floor, between the door and the fireplace, lay a huge silver tip bear skin, the head set up by an Indian taxidermist. It was sothe time afterward when Nancy saw the cabin, but she remembered just how the interior, even after it lay in ruins, had looked.

The four walls were really more furnished than the rest of the room. To the right and left of the fireplace hung twin bighorn heads, and elk and stag antlers on the other walls supplied racks for an ample variety of rifles, polished by familiar use and kept, through love of trusty friends, in good order. Trophies of the hunt, disposed sometimes in effective and sometimes in mere man fashion, flanked the racks and showed the tastes of the owner of the isolated habitation.

"Coffee," answered Laramie, taking off his jacket, laying his Colt's on the table and slipping off his breast harness

Some minutes later he was eating in silence when the stillness of the sunshine was broken by the sound of a horse's hoofs. Laramie looked out and saw, through the open door, a horseman riding in leisurely fashion up from the creek.

The man was tall. He swung lightly out of his saddle near the door, and as he walked into the house it could be seen that he was proportioned in his frame to his height; strength and agility revealed themselves in every move. A rifle, slung in a scabbard, hung behind the shoulder of the horse, and the man's rig proclaimed the cowboy, though, aside from a broad-crowned Stetson hat, his garb was simplicity itself.

Abe Hawk, was evidently at home in Laramie's cabin, for he stepped through the door and, pushing his hat back on his forehead, took a chair and sat down opposite Laramie. The two men, masters of taciturnity, looked at each other while this was taking place. And as Hawk seated himself Laramie called for a cup and pushed the coffee pot toward his visitor. Paying no attention to the unspoken invitation, Hawk's features assumed the quizzical lines they sometimes wore when he relaxed and poked questions at his friend.

"Well," he demanded, banteringly sarcastic, "where's Jimmie been?"

"Medicine, Sleepy Cat—pretty near everywhere."

"I hear you got a job?"

"I was offered one."

"Deputy marshal, eh?"

"Farrell Kennedy got me down to Medicine Bend to talk it over."

"What's the matter, couldn't you hold it?"

"I didn't want it."

"You're out of practice on this law and order stuff—you've lived up here too long among thieves, Jim. Find out who tore down your wire?"

Laramie replied in even tones, but his voice was hard: "I trailed them across the Crazy Woman. It was somebody from Doubleday's ranch."

"They had a story at Stormy Gorman's that you'd gone over there to blow Barb's head off."

"Barb wasn't home."

Hawk was conscious of evasion. "Was Stormy's talk true?" he demanded curtly.

"I expected to ask Barb whether he wanted to put my wire back. I was going to give him a chance."

"It wouldn't be hard to guess how that would come out. Where was he?" asked Hawk with evident disappointment.

"They said he was in Sleepy Cat. I rode in and missed him there. He'd gone to the mines. I took the train up to the Junction. There I accidentally got switched off my job and came home."

"How'd you get switched off?" asked Hawk, recounting the outcome. Laramie's manner showed he disliked being bored. He leaned forward with a touch of asperity and looked straight at his visitor: "By not 'tending strictly to my own business, Abe."

Hawk knew from the expression of Laramie's eyes he must drop the subject, and, though he lost none of his bantering manner, he desisted: "They didn't have a warrant for me down at the marshal's office, did they?"

"They were short of blanks, Abe," retorted Laramie.

"Is Tom Stone still foreman over at Doubleday's?"

"I guess he is," returned Laramie.

"What does Doubleday aim to do with Stone?" asked Hawk cynically. "Steal his own cattle from himself?"

"A cattleman nowadays might as well steal his own cattle as to wait for somebody else to steal 'em." Laramie spoke with some annoyance. "There's going to be trouble for these Falling Wall rustlers."

"Meaning me?" asked Hawk contemptuously.

"I never mean you without saying you, Abe—you ought to know that by this time. But this running off steers is getting too raw. From the undertalk in Sleepy Cat, there's going to be something done."

"Who by?"

"By the cattlemen."

"I thought," Hawk spoke again contemptuously, "you meant by the sheriff."

"But I didn't," said Laramie. "I meant, by the bunch on the range. And when they start they'll stir things up over this way."

Hawk hazarded a guess on another subject: "It looks like Van Horn—putting in Stone over at Doubleday's."

"It is Van Horn."

Hawk looked in silence out of the open door at the distant, snow-capped mountains. "Why don't you kill him, Jim?" he asked after a moment, possibly in earnest, possibly in jest, for his iron tone sometimes meant everything, sometimes nothing.

Laramie, at all events, took the words lightly. He answered Hawk's question with another, but his retort and manner were as easy as Hawk's question and expression were hard: "Why don't you, Abe?"

The bearded man across the table did not hesitate, nor did he cast about for words. On the contrary, he replied with embarrassing promptness: "I will, some time."

"A man that didn't know you, Abe, might think you meant it," commented Laramie, filling his coffee cup up.

Hawk's white teeth showed for just the instant that he smiled; then he talked of other things.

The arrival of a baby at the home of Harry Tenison had an immediate effect on Kate Doubleday's fortune in the mountains, and, indeed, on those of a number of other people in Sleepy Cat, wholly out of proportion to its importance as a family event. Married twenty four years, they had been without children until the advent of this baby. And the birth of a boy to Harry Tenison excited not alone the parents, but the town, the railroad division, and the hundred miles of range and desert tributary north and south.

For a number of years Tenison had run his place in Sleepy Cat undisturbed by the swiftly changing fortunes of frontiersmen and railroad men. Tragedies, in their sudden sweep across the horizon of his activities, the poised gambler and hotel man had met unmoved. Men went to the height of mining or range affluence and to the depths of crude passion, inevitable despair and tragic death, with Harry Tenison coldly unruffled. He was a man in so far detached from his surroundings, yet with his finger on the pulse of happenings in his unstable world. But the birth of one baby—and a small one—upset him completely and very unexpectedly shocked others of his motley circle of acquaintances.

It was later that two men entered the room from the hotel office together. The contained, defiant walk of the slightly heavier and taller of the two was characteristic, and without the black beard, deep eyes, and pallor his face would almost have identified him as Abe Hawk; while in the emotionless, sandy features of his companion and in his more frank, careless makeup the widely known ranchman of the Falling Wall, Jim Laramie, was easily recognized.

Hawk, separating from his companions, walked to the right. Gorman hailed him and Hawk paused before the table at which the former prize fighter sat with his companions. Each of these in turn had something effusive to say to Hawk. Hawk listened to everything without a change of countenance—neither smile nor word moved him in the competition to arouse his interest. When all had had their fling of invitation and comment he refused an oft repeated invitation to sit down: "I might injure your reputation," he said grimly, and moved unconcernedly on.

Van Horn's eyes had not missed the inconspicuous entrance of the two Falling Wall men: "There's the man himself, right now!" he exclaimed, looking toward Laramie.

"No better time to talk to him either than right now," said Barb Doubleday hoarsely and tersely. "Take him back into the office, Harry. When you're through come up to the room."

Van Horn, leaving the bar, intercepted Laramie. Doubleday and Stone, pretending not to observe, saw Van Horn on the plea of important talk succeed, after some demur, in inducing Laramie to return with him to the hotel office. Once there and in a quiet corner with two chairs, Van Horn lost no time in opening his subject: "You know as well as I do, Jim, what shape things are in on the north range. It can't go on. Everybody is losing cattle right and left to these rustlers. Why, they've been running Doubleday's steers right down to the railroad camp on the Spider Water—we traced the brands on a dozen of 'em. You know as well as I do who took 'em."

Laramie listened perfunctorily, his eyes moving part of the time over the room. "Speak for yourself, Harry," he intervened at this juncture. "I know exactly nothing about, who took anybody's steers, nor that any were taken."

Van Horn uttered a rapid oath of expostulation: "Well, you sure heard about it!"

"In this country a man can hear anything," observed Laramie, not greatly moved. "I've heard there isn't a crooked cattleman north of Sleepy Cat."

Van Horn stared.

"Go on," continued Laramie, looking at the passersby. "I'm listening."

"Doubleday has sold the eating house and disposed of his property at the Junction——"

"You mean his creditors took it, don't you?"

"Put it any way you like. He's going in for more cattle, and we're going to put this range on the map. But—we've got to clean out this Falling Wall bunch first. The big men can't stand it any longer and won't stand it."

"What then?"

"I want you to get in right on the move with us, Jim—this is your chance. You're in a tough neighborhood over there. Now, I know you're not a rustler."

"No, you don't."

"Yes, I do," averred Van Horn with profane confirmation. "But everybody doesn't know you as well as I do. And your name suffers because you don't get along with the cattlemen—Doubleday, Pettigrew, and the rest."

"What then?"

"What then?" echoed Van Horn, feeling the uphill pull. "Why, line up with us against these rustlers. We're going to have a big get-together barbecue this summer, and when it's pulled we want you there. You'll have a friend in every man on the range—however some of 'em feel now. They know the stuff you're made of, Jim; they know if you put your hand to your gun with them, you'll stay; and if you do it, they know it's good-by to the rustlers."

Closely as Van Horn, while speaking, watched the effect of his words, it was impossible to gather from Laramie's face the slightest clew as to the impression they were making. Laramie sat quite relaxed, his back to the corner, his legs crossed, listening. He looked straight ahead without so much as blinking. Van Horn, nervous and impatient, scrutinized him: "That's my hand, Jim," he said flatly. "What have you got?"

NAVIGATION ON THE OTONABEE

300,000 AMERICANS PLAN TOUR OF FRANCE

Reservations From June to September Made.

Paris, May 4.—The number of American tourists who will come to France this year is estimated at 300,000 by the syndicate of French hotelkeepers. The larger hotels in Paris are reporting that they already have more than 60 per cent. of their rooms engaged from June to September. That is borne out by officials of steamship lines, who say it is practically impossible to find places on ships bound from the United States during June, while from 60 to 80 per cent. of the accommodations for later months have already been contracted for.

Incidentally, for the first time on record, Italy is sharing about equally with France, in the tourist trade, agencies reporting that the favorite itinerary starts at Cherbourg and takes in Paris, Nice, Genoa, Venice, the Italian lakes, Metz, Verdun and London.

The Lift Lock has been open to navigation since the 29th of April, with everything in readiness for summer water travel. However, it is not anticipated that any boats will get through for some little time yet, probably not until the excursion steamers on the 24th of May.

River navigation has been open for some time now, ever since the ice went out. The Geneva made the initial trip on the 7th of April, the earliest date for some years past, to the street-car wharf, and came up to George street landing place on the 17th. The Rainbow has been doing business since the 25th of April, and these boats make weekly trips to Harwood on Saturday.

WAR MEMORIAL FOR PETERBORO IS STILL IN AIR

Just to re-open the ancient controversy about the War Memorial and the most appropriate place for its erection, which seems to be decidedly in the air for some time past, as no one seems to know exactly what is being done about it, wouldn't it be a splendid idea to take some of the money for this proposed monument, say $3,000, and buy the very highest spot in Peterboro for an erection site, a place where any inhabitant of the city could look on a bright day and see, or at least imagine he saw, the remembrance to our fallen heroes standing in all its solemn grandeur? And if this spot were made pleasant by trees and shrubbery and a well-placed system of driveways, would it not be a desirable bourne for pleasure-seekers? A high elevation naturally pre-supposes a hill, which could be used for tobogganing and sleighing in the winter time, for the perpetuation of the sports which have made Canada famous, and the memory of our soldier lads would thus be kept green by constant association with their memorial in all season, instead of being visited by a lone caller on isolated occasions.

Of course, the idea of Armour's Hill as a home for the memorial may be an exploded theory, but, after all, could any more suitable place be considered in the whole of the town. Elevated high above the surrounding country, made a green and beautiful spot in the summer and the resort of pleasure-seekers at all times of the year, in close proximity to the Lift Locks, so that many strangers to our city would view our memorial every year, and carry away with them the realization of unforgetfulness on the part of the living in Peterboro to the fallen heroes, does it not seem an ideal site?

One may be a lover of pork, not necessarily a lover of pork on the hoof, of which there are very few, but an admirer of it on a platter, either fresh or cured, and still not care very much for the flavor of its by-products. For instance, there is the odor from its final home, and the strong atmosphere which it would likely impart to water.

And then there is the refuse from the laundry and the dye works. Green and yellow and magenta tints are all very well in their proper place, but water, after all, is just as well uncolored, that is, when one is obliged to take it straight. And the real home taste of brown soap is rarely acceptable, unless it happens to be one's own soap in one's own dish water. It doesn't seem quite so desirable if it happens to be the soap in which all the dirty sheets of the neighborhood have been boiled.

And the factories which empty their debris into the river, and the boats which go up and down and don't think overmuch of just where their refuse lands, and the dead fish which come floating down with calm indifference to their all-pervading flavor, all these things make one wonder just when the filtration plant is coming into existence.

Ice Supply a In Peterboro

With quantities of ice on hand, and prospects of demands from nearby centres, on account of the widespread shortage of this commodity, the Allin Ice Company anticipate a rushing business this summer. They were exceptionally fortunate in procuring large stocks last winter, which was a good one in other localities, and in having their supply so near at hand.

With regard to recent remarks regarding probable impurities in ice cut from the Little Lake, the company does not consider that the arguments in this connection are feasable. Their cut is taken from the calm water area, and, according to scientists, the action of freezing in water causes all impurities to sink to the lowest possible level, leaving the frozen matter perfectly pure. A test made by a prominent citizen of Peterboro some years ago, when he chipped a quantity of Allin ice into small fragments, put them in a sealer, and allowed them to melt, an ensuing examination of this melted water by Toronto laboratories resulting in it being pronounced perfectly free from extraneous matter, is a proof of this contention.

Peterboro will shortly have a new industry in the form of a Sanitary Ice Company, which will manufacture the artificial brand of this much-prized hot-weather necessity.

Police Gazette Banned

Ottawa, May 7. — The Police Gazette is now banned from Canada through the customs department. For some time it had been banned through the mails and on April 28 an order was passed banning it through the customs. Both the customs and postoffice will now work in conjunction on this issue.

Oshawa Hotel Closes

Oshawa, May 7. — The Queen's hotel in this town, which for 43 years has catered to the traveling public, and is the town's oldest hostelry, has closed its doors, the furniture and effects being sold last week by public auction. The hotel, a three-story brick structure is to be turned into a modern business block with stores, having been acquired by Whitby and Oshawa merchants. As the result of the closing of the Queen's, the town is now very short of hotel accommodation, as there are only two other hotels in the town, which has 12,000 inhabitants.

FIRE LOSSES

Halifax, N. S., May 4. (Canadian Press). — Four men and one woman were killed and nine persons were more or less seriously injured by fire in Nova Scotia during the half year ending in March, according to report issued by the Provincial Fire Marshall's office here. The total fire losses in the province for that period were $1,185,845.

Among the causes to which the fire losses are attributed were: defective chimneys, stove-pipes, open lights and fires, carelessness with hot ashes, careless smoking, sparks on roofs, incendiary lightning, spontaneous combustion and carelessness with matches. Two fires of incendiary origin were reported.

The Fire Marshall's report for the month of March shows that during that month there were seventy-one fires in the province in which the total loss was $82,840 and the insurance loss $41,120. Of the total loss $36,150 was occasioned by three fires, one in the town hall at Yarmouth, one in a garage in Halifax and one in Hants County. There were eighteen loss fires in March than in the preceding month.

Vermont Restoring Forests

Montpellier, Vt., May 7. — A drive is being made in this state to set an example for the nation in forest rehabilitation. Warnings by cutting bids fair to change the history experts that extensive timberoric Green mountains into a sad-colored brown range have sunk deep in the minds of the farmers and hundrds are seeking to heal the broad scars left by the ax men.

For the last few years prudent averagers have been setting out an average of 500,000 forst seedlings each spring on denuded wood lands of little or no agricultural value. Reports show that 80 per cent of these youngsters are developing rapidly into sturdy trees.

W. G. Hastings, chief forester of the state, is elated over the ever-increasing call for young trees. These are grown in the state nurseries at Burlington and Sharon where the Vermont authorities are trying to balance conditions between consumption and production of timber.

Protecting Your Furs

As spring approaches you should begin to watch your furs with care—inevitably a certain amount of dust and dirt gets into the fur, and this acts as a magnet for the moth,—that enemy of fur.

March and April is the time when the moth seeks an abiding place and the warmth and the darkness of the fur appeals at once. There it lays its eggs, the worm develops and the fur is eaten for its fat and oil. The soiled parts are the first to go and a very few days are enough to seriously damage a fur piece.

There are two methods of meeting this problem—the home method and the storage method. The former involves constant care. The furs should first be cleaned, then every two weeks in the spring and at least once a month afterwards they should be taken out, brushed and hung where the air and light can get at them.

Cedar boxes, moth-proof bags, moth balls and pepper all have failed only too often in their purpose. Infected furs when shut up give excellent opportunity to the moth eggs to develop.

The other method—the storage method,—puts all responsibility on others, always a pleasant proposition! Trouble and care are avoided and the results are eminently satisfactory. The furs are cleaned far more thoroughly than is possible at home, and are insured against damage, fire and theft, at a charge which is very low.

Repairing, Altering, Refashioning and Dyeing can also be seen to best during the summer, when winter comes once more your furs are in order for immediate wear, clean and refreshened.

IS IT NOT WORTH WHILE?

ANOTHER VICTIM OF RHEUMATISM

Entirely Well After Six Weeks' Treatment With "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MR. AMEDEE GARCEAU

32 Hickory St., Ottawa, Ont.

"I was for many years a victim of that terrible disease, Rheumatism. In 1918, I was laid up for four months with Rheumatism in the joints of the knees, hips and shoulders and was prevented from following my work, that of Electrician.

I tried many remedies and was under the care of a physician; but nothing did me any good. Then I began to take 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a week I was easier, and in six weeks I was so well I went to work again.

I look upon this fruit medicine, 'Fruit-a-tives', as simply marvellous in the cure of Rheumatism, and strongly advise everyone suffering with Rheumatism to give 'Fruit-a-tives' a trial."

SPORT FLASHES

The silver cup donated by Eddie Wright for competition in the East Peterboro Baseball League, now on display at Mr. Wright's tonsorial parlors, is attracting much attention. The trophy is a beauty, and the donor is to be congratulated on his choice.

Canadian Packing Co. have found it impossible to get a team together and they have withdrawn from the City League. Officers of the League are making every effort to complete the circuit. The Millbrook team have been invited to come in.

The ball teams have been hard at work this week, tuning up for the season's schedules. Bohunks handed a 9 to 0 defeat to Cressman's.

By defeating Kink Edwards, Queen Mary seniors have taken the leadership in the Public School League. With Hardill continuing his good pitching, the Westerners should win their division.

Although the King Edward youngsters received a set back in baseball, they came back strong yesterday, when their excellent work at cadet inspection brought a silver cup to the school.

The local lacrosse team has accepted an invitation to play an exhibition game at Oshawa.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

A NOTE FROM THIERRY

Chapter 42.

As days wore on I regretted more and more the finding of those florist's bills. I could not entirely hide my feelings and I knew Leonard must sense the aloofness in my manner.

What good did knowing about them do me? I would be far better off without such unhappy knowledge.

If I only dared talk to Leonard! If we could thrash the whole disagreeable affair out. I hated this silence. But I could not be sure what his attitude would be. It might all be true about his relations with Mrs. Darwood.

I could not be sure of my own feelings yet. If it was true, what did I intend to do? If I knew the truth of things, and the truth was hideous, what then? Would my heart be able to give Leonard up to another?

I turned these questions over and over in my mind and looked at them from all angles. But they only looked ugly and impenetrable.

I could only wait. I did not dare bring things to a climax. My will turned weakly from action.

Leonard had been out a great deal of late. I surmised that Mrs. Darwood had returned from her southern trip. Evening after evening found me dragging my disconsolate, weary self to a bed of troubled dreams.

I settled into a passive state of indifference. I could not rouse myself to action. I realized it was because I was a coward as to the course that any action might take. I felt I would rather cling to the hope that it was all a mistake than bring things to a disastrous climax. If it was true I could not let things go on and retain my self-respect. Therefore, I turned my back and refused to look.

The strain was telling on me. I avoided my neighbors. I felt that all eyes could read the shame and anguish of my heart written on my face. My broodings turned back upon themselves, chafed and intensified my misery.

Every time I went out I felt that Mrs. Russell's eyes x-rayed right through my assumed nonchalance. I even tried to bluff my own feelings—but the pain only burned the deeper into my aching soul.

At least Mrs. Russell had not ventured near me since the memorable morning when she had played the part of scandal-bearer. I had been spared that.

One morning I received an unexpected letter in the mail. The address was scrawled in a round, immature, unfamiliar handwriting. I opened it and read: "My dear Mrs. Allen:—

You won't recognize the writing, I suppose, but I hope sincerely that you have not forgotten the writer—"

"Why, Thierry Brunswick, of course," I exclaimed aloud. Then I turned the pages over to where—

"Yours 'till death,—THIE,"

Then I read from the beginning. Thie implored me to meet him in New York the following Saturday. It was Thursday now. If I could manage I need not let him know. He would be at the Manhattan Hotel at 11 o'clock Saturday morning and would meet me there. Otherwise I had better telegraph to him at once at Princeton. He would come in to New York early Saturday morning if he did not hear from me.

His letter held an air of mystery about it. He just had to see me—there was something important, he wrote.

The winning charm of Thierry's personality permeated his letter. I wondered what the dear boy wanted to tell me that was so very important.

I would have to go and meet him.

I really would be glad to see him. There was a subtle fellow-feeling between us. Why shouldn't I go?

I wondered what Leonard would say about my going? Would this stir up that foolish jealousy I had noticed at Atlantic City? It might be just as well not to tell him. I could tell him about it afterwards if I thought best. After all, I was becoming callous to Leonard's opinions. He certainly was to mine.

TURNS SCARLET AS READS LOVE LETTER

MONTREAL, Quebec, May 7.—"Where the dickens did they get that?" Fred Beauvais exclaimed today when shown a copy of the alleged "dearest honey" letter whiich he is charged with writing to Mrs. James A. Stillman.

Beauvais' face turned scarlet with anger as he read the alleged letter, and was informed that it had been published in New York as having been used in the Stillman divorce hearing.

"I never addressed Mrs. Stillman in such terms," the alleged co-respondent asserted, after a moment. "Some one has doctored a letter of mine, but this writing is not mine. They have made a great love letter writer out of me."

"Someone 'will pay for this," Beauvais said.

"So much money is being spent on this case that one can expect almost anything."

He denied passages of the letter which represented him as having sent gifts to Guy Stillman, the child whose father he is alleged to be.

All his stoicism vanished when he came to that portion of the letter in which he was made to refer to the joys of parenthood. His face became pale with rage. He appeared no longer able to restrain himself.

"I deny all those statements," he cried, with emotion.

After reading the letter, Beauvais rushed from his office to consult an attorney.

"I am going to see if I have any rights in this case," he exclaimed.

Help Save The Home!

To Principals and Teachers, Scholars and Parents:—

We will send "Home Inspection Blanks" to the teaching staff throughout Ontario for distribution among their pupils.
As patriotic Canadians your sympathetic co-operation is sought in the important work of conserving the lives and property of our people from destruction by fire.
The inspection is planned to take place throughout the Province during the week of May 2nd. The primary object of this Insnection is to draw attention to hazardous conditions in the homes and have the fire menace removed or corrected by the householders.
The housin- problem makes the protection of dwellings of paramount importance.

Seymour at both services.

PARLIAMENT TO SIT
OTAWA, May 7.—Full speed ahead has been ordered for the remainder of the session, and members predict that if the budget is not too contentious, prorogation will come by the end of the month. Parliament will sit every day but Sunday from this onward, and, inasmuch as most of the departments have already run the gauntlet of amendments to supply, and have introduced their estimates, it is anticipated that business will now slide through without much trouble or friction.

Is Anxious to Get Back to the Arctic

Edmonton, Alta., May 6 (Canadian Press.)—After an absence of one year from the top of the map, W. D. Clark, hunter, trapper and prospector, is very anxious to get back to the Arctic, where, he says, there is an abundance of all things necessary to a healthful existence, and where taxes, thieves, and other adjuncts of modern civilization have no place in the scheme of things. Mr. Clark is revisiting Edmonton for the first time in 23 years. His home cabin is situated near the head of Peel river, about 180 miles from Herschel Island, and 10 miles from Fort McPherson, but on the Yukon side of the mountains. He comes to Fort Yukon once a year for supplies and mail, and to return to his home it is necessary to pole his canoe up stream for 500 miles, the journey occupyink forty-five days.
On his trap line Mr. Clark maintains eleven cabins and four tents, the round of the line taking fifteen days travelling. There are practically no lakes in the district. It is rolling country, and due to the absence of still water there i sno available food supply for the dogs in the shape of fish. Moose and caribou are always available, however, and the canines never go hungry. He states he has herds of caribou which he estimated to number 10,000 on their annual migration.
They go to the Arctic coast in the spring, where the young are born; and about September they return inland to the edge of the timber, where they can obtain shelter and the moss on which they live.
Mr. Clark's nearest neighbor is 56 miles away, and they see each other but once a year, when they meet to talk and exchange reading matter. With the exception of this man, Abe Schafer, Indians do not come up that far, while the Eskimos from the Arctic coast do not hunt inland.
He states that the winter, though cold, is healthy, and he cited the cases of a number of old timers resident in the country, who did not know what sickness meant. In winter the thermometer sometimes drops down to 75 degrees below zero but despite cold he never misses a day on the trap line.
Last year Mr. Clark came out to the Pacific from Fort Yukon in company with the son of Sir Robert Kindersley, governor of the Hudson Bay company, and after visiting Vancouver finally arrived in Edmonton en route home.

A BRAINLESS GENERATION

Winnipeg, Man., May 7— (Canadian Press) —"There are thousands of young men walking the streets into whose brain there never comes a lofty thought, and thousands of young women whose soul never rises higher than the rouge box," declared Rev. George Laughton, pastor of General Congregational church here, when discussing the need for seemly observance of the Sabbath.
"The danger to the British Empire is not of foreign invasion. It has defended itself in the past against any who were mad enough to attack it. The danger is not to being thrown into internecine strife or red revolution. The danger is that some day there will be a brainless, soulless generation which has forgotten God."

DOUGHTY GETS SIX YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

FOR THEFT OF BONDS FROM AMBROSE SMALL THE MISSING THEATRICAL MAGNATE

TORONTO, May 9 (Canadian Press).—John Doughty, convicted of stealing over $100,000 in Victory bonds from Ambrose Small, the missing theatrical magnate, was today sentenced to serve six years in the provincial penitentiary for this offence. It is thought that the crown authorities will drop for the present the charge against Doughty of conspiracy to kidnap Ambrose Small.

Mr. Winter Becomes Katherine Mac Donald's Leading Man in "Trust Your Wife"

When David Winter attended a social function in Los Angeles and was pressed in service turning an ice cream freezer, he unconsciously stepped into the path which leads to the shadow screen.

Of course, it was mere coincidence but Katherine MacDonald, the American Beauty, was looking the field over for a leading man to play with her in the eighth Associated First National production, and the script called for a man who looks good even with a homely ice-cream freezer as a prop.

Before Winter had finished turning the freezer, Miss MacDonald appeared on the scene and instantly knew she had found her leading man Result: David Winter will be seen opposite Miss MacDonald in her latest production, 'Trust Your Wife' when it comes to Allen Theatre for an engagment of three days. And the American Beauty believes she has made a real find.

The new leading man is a St. Louisian and is a partner in one of the largest exclusive mercantile houses in Los Angeles. That he would ever enter motion pictures had not occured to him before meeting Miss MacDonald at the society fete. Winter is a social favorite, but he spends much of his time inthe mountains hunting and fishing.

Tall, brown-eyed, with dark complexion and a fine physique, Winter is an ideal type for a screen hero. Although he is from the fan ranks he is said to be as capable as though he had worked up the cinema ladder rung by rung.

WHO'LL WIN?

LONDON, May 9—Eugene Corri, noted English referee:

"I have never seen Dempsey. My friends write me from America that he is not only strong, with a regular clinker of a punch, but that he is fast, brainy and a clean liver. I have seen Carpentier in action and know what he can do. I shan't be surprised, whoever wins."

Statement Regarding Peterborough Printers

The following exchange of correspondence has taken place between ypographical Union No. 248 and the Employing Printers of Peterborough which proposition also carried with it a reduction in hours and n increase in pay.

Peterborough, Ont., May 7, 1921.

M. Glover, Esq.,
Peterborough, Ont

ear Sir:

Following conferences during the past week with the employing rinters of Peterborough, I. T. U. No. 248, wishes to submit a revised scale of prices for the ensuing year.

That 44 hours constitute a week's work in job departments of Peterorough Printers, and that the following scale of prices be paid:

JOB DEPARTMENTS

May and June	68½c per hour
July and August	70½c " "
September 1 to April 30, 1922	73c " "

NEWS DEPARTMENT

May	$31.00 per week of 48 hours
June	32.00 " " " 48 "
July to December 31	33.00 " " " 48 "

January 1, 1922 to April 30, 1922, $34.00 per week of 48 hours.

Yours very truly,
(Sgd.) C. E. SMALLEY,
Sec. No. 248 I. T. U.
Saturday, May 7th, 1921.

Mr. Chas. E. Smalley,
c/o Mr. Bentley,
Empress Hotel, CITY.

Dear Sir:

Your letter of May 7th to hand, as a proposition from the members Peterborough Typographical Union 248, being a revisedd scale of prices for thn ensuing year,, as follows:-

That 44 hours constitute a week's work in the Job Department of Peterboro printers, and that the Job scale be as follows:

May and June	68½c per hour
July and August	70½c per hour
September 1 to April 30, 1922	73c per hour

NEWS DEPARTMENT

May	$31.00 per week of 48 housr
June	320.0 per week of 48 hours
July to December 31	33.00 per week of 48 hours
January 1, 1922 to April 30, 1922	34.00 per week of 48 hours

We have gone into the matter thoroughly from every angle, and we again wish to state that it is impossible for us to grant a 44 hour week in any of our Departments.

On further looking into the business conditions we are more than ever convinced that our original offer of the same rate of wages and the same hours per week was more than a fair one, taking the wages nw being paid in other lines of business activities as a basis of comparison

If there are any individual printers in the city, Union men or otherwise, who wish to work for us, on the basis outlined above of the old contract we will be glad to receive their application on Monday.

Yours very truly,
THE PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER, LIMITED.

The letter from Mr. Stratton of the Review was along similar lines.

From the above it will be seen that the printers of Peterborough are offered the same wages of $30 per week week with 48 hours, and it will be their own faults if they are without work at these wages. We have no prejudice against any man, but individual applications must be made today for the remaining positions that are vacant before we take up the names we have of outside men applying for jobs.

Our only desire is to place our costs on a basis that we can go out and get business. Nothing can be passed on to the public which must be protected at this time.

When other trades are sharing the burden of reduced wages, fully realizing the conditions, it is unfair to these men that the printing trades should further try to increase the cost of living when the tendency is now downward.

Boys, if you want any of the jobs that are left you must apply today.

MILK IS BELOW THE STANDARD

SANITARY INSPECTOR IS INSTRUCTED TO NOTIFY GUILTY DEALERS

At this morning's meeting of the Board of Health, Sanitary Inspector Stapleton complained that several milk dealers were selling milk below the standard and Mr. Stapleton was instructed in a motion to notify these men that the milk must comply with the standard.

The report of Miss Price, matron of Queen Mary Hospital, to the Townshend Street from Stewart to Board of Health this morning, showed that on May 1 there were six scarlet fever and three diptheria patients in the hospital. During April, $878.11 was expended on the upkeep of the hospital. The total expenditure for the four months this year has been $3,970.31.

The Board recommended to the Council that a sewer be placed on Rubidge.

NOBODY'S FOOL

Miss May Robson whom Peterboro playgoers have had to thank for many a delightful evening proved as charmingly amusing as ever on Saturday, when she was seen at the Grand in Alan Dale's clever comedy, "Nobody's Fool." Miss Robson had a part in this entertaining play that fitted her work made the production one of the most enjoyable at the season. As the matron who, while apparently allowing herself to be led by her husband and son, is in reality directing their destinies, Miss Robson was irresistible. The supporting company was thoroughly adequate.

To-night Sir John Martin Harvey will be seen at the Grand in "The Breed of the Treshams," the last dramatic event of the season.

LEGISLATURE PROROGUED

WINNIPEG, May 9.—The Manitoba legislature was prorogued Saturday.

MOTHER'S DAY WAS OBSERVED

Mothers' Day was observed yesterday in most of the city churches with fitting observance. Red and white blooms appeared on all sides in the morning congregations. The decorations were all of beautiful floral character and many of the sermons were based on the ideals of parenthood, which underlie the custom.

Park Street Baptist Church had an open session of the Sunday School for Parents' Day exercises, with the children's choir and orchestra, and a special sermon was preached by Mr. Morrow in the evening. St. James Methodist also had special Sunday School services with an appropriate solo by Miss Violet Cuffe.

Rev. Dr. Blagrave in the evening referred especially to the importance of the day, and its observance. Rev. Mr. Courage preached especilly on this subject at the afternoon service at St. Mark's Church in Zion, and at Murray Street Baptist Church, dozens of roses, carnations and other flowers were sent in for the platform tables, which were afterwards sent to the sick mothers of the congregation, and, under the supervision of Mr. A. J. Madill, twenty-five automobiles were engaged to bring in mothers who, because of age or infirmity, would not otherwise have been present.

On account of convention speakers, the observance of Mothers' Day has been transferred at George Street Methodist Church to next Sunday, when special services have been planned for its observance.

Speakers to the Social Service Convention filled many of the city pulpits yesterday, and the churches were crowded at all services, both in their honor and in observance of Mothers' Day.

At George Street Methodist Church, Rev. Peter H. Bryce spoke in the morning on the work in connection with child welfare, making the interesting statement that, in the six months' operation of the Mothers' Pension system in Ontario, 2,060 mothers and about 8,000 children have been placed on the government payroll. In the evening, the speaker was Rev. Gilbert Agar, who concluded his address with: "If we wish to achieve a common goal in this work, we must forget all party differences and pull together."

At Knox Church, Rev. Mr. Stapleford and Rev. J. H. Shearer, D. D., were the speakers, the latter applying the parable of the Good Samaritan to the conditions of today. Fine music was rendered by the choir.

Rev. Canon Vernon spoke at St. John's Church, outlining the aims of social service work, and Archdeacon Inglis, of Toronto, preached in the evening.

At Trnity Church, Rev. Mr. Agar and Rev. Mr. Bryce were the speakers. Excellent music, appropriate for the day, was rendered, with Mr. Geo. H. King directing, and Mrs. King singing very sweetly.

At All Saints, Ven. Archdeacon Inglis dilated on the general tendency towards Christian unity, and Rev. W. L. Archer, of Hamilton, spoke at the evening service.

Rev. Dr. Shearer spoke in the morning at St. Paul's Church, on the true meaning of "Thy Kingdom Come," as exemplified in the social service work, while instances of helpful legislation along this line were given by Rev. Thos. McCullough, of London, in the evening.

At Murray Street Baptist Church, the pastor, Rev. T. R. Webb, spoke in the morning on the text, "Grace is deceitful and beauty is vain, but a woman that feareth the Lord she shall be praised." Rev. M. A. McLean, of Toroton, spoke in the evening on the Social Service work of the Baptist denomination.

Rev. M. C. McLean, B. A., spoke at Park Street Baptist Church in the morning, Rev. Canon Vernon at St. Luke's Church in the evening, Rev. T. D. McCullough and Rev. Mr. Stapleford at St James' Methodist Church, Rev. Mr. Segsworth in a fine portrayal of the Judas character and Mr. Cooper, of Clinton, were at Mark Street Methodist Church, and Rev. Mr. Archer, of Hamilton, was the preacher at St. George's in the morning, with the pastor, Rev. W. R. Courage, in the evening.

EDDIE SCOTT GETS REVENGE

Going in mid-season form the Hill crests of Toronto had little difficulty in beating the Peterboro Central League team at Riverside Park on Saturday by 17 runs to 2. The hand picked aggregation piloted by manager Nips Dwan proved one of the sweetest looking amateur ball clubs that local fans have seen. Cannon ball Scott held the home crew to five scattered singles one of which was made by manager Jake Solomon as a pinch hitter in the ninth and would have had a shutout had it not been for a wild throw by Batstone. He was given great support by his team mates.

On the other hand the Petes pitching was wobbly, Lefty McElroy who opened on the rubber for the home crew had not had enough practice to get into shape and his lack of control kept him in constant trouble. He was not hit hard except in one innings and when he gets the plate located he will be an awkward proposition for any man's team to encounter. McElroy showed his gameness by striking out in succession Samuels, Batstone and Conacher three of the best hitters in amateur baseball.

Gilchrist the youngster who pitched for the Canadian Woollens in the City League relieved McElroy with the bases full and one out in the fifth, and got by with only one run scored off him in that session. The Hillcrests however, took kindly to his offerings in the last three innings while his support was not of the best.

Some of the fans "rode" the home team unmercifully during the game. There was no call for abuse for the season is young and the players have had no opportunity to get into shape The fans should know by this time that manager Solomon can be counted upon to have his team up there fighting for honors as usual when the league season opens and the knockers can help a lot by putting their manners away. Saturday's game was only a workout but from the remarks of some of the fans you would have thought it was the final game for the championship, that all their money was on the Petes and they were convinced that the homesters were throwing them down. The team will be right up in the running when the Central League gets under way.

The teams.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 9.—Fighting has been renewed between the French and Turkish Nationalists in Cilicia.

BUTTER SINKS IN QUICKSAND

APPARENTLY IS CAUGHT WHERE EGGS WERE SOME WEEKS AGO

Butter is now in the quicksands where eggs were caught some months ago and thirty-five cent butter seems a possibility. Creamery butter has been declining for some days and sold as low as 48 cents in Peterboro stores on Saturday. It is said that Gunns Ltd. are selling creamery butter to retailers at from 35 to 40 cents and the best creamery was sold in Toronto down town shops at 40 and 45 cents. One of the wholesale buyers is quoted in a Toronto market report, that dairy butter wil soon be purchasable at 25 and 26 in the country and will be retailing at 35 cents. The buyers, he said are only paying 30 and went on to say the farmers will not 35 cents in the country now. He make very much if the prices drops further. Farmers will not deny this statement.

The fall in the price of dairy butter, has been inevitable. For months the price has been around 60 cents but with the cows going on to pastureage and the resumption of butter making on a large scale the farmers knew the 60 cents level could not be maintained. When creamery broke in the Chicago and Montreal markets, a crash that was anticipated, it became apparent all over the province that dairy must also go down. And down it went in Peterboro on Saturday's market. It opened fairly strong at 52 and 55 cents but sales were slow and not till 48 cents was reached did the baskets begin to ebpty. Even at that it it is said that at the close there were such large quanities left that the farmers were glad to take 45 cents.

Some sharp losses have been suffered by some of the local grocers.

The ban on the street is rejoicing in the decline and the butter situation is being discussed in street cars, clubs and hotel lobbies. One man in a hotel claimed the wholesalers got "stung" when they threw their "old" packed butter on the market and the price went down.

The ma non the street is rejoicing defended the packers and said they saw they must take a loss, like the clothers, the boot and shoe, dry goods men have had to do, and they did it manfully. Over a cigar both smiled at their anticipation of high prices in laying in several boxes of butter at 50 and 55 cents and they thanked their lucky stars it was nearly done.

Housewives are smiling and this vast army see 1914 prices when the family income went so much farther around the corner.

Eggs sold at 28 to 32 cents a dozen on the market and it is expected the price for summer will settle about 30 cents.

As dairy butter has been reduced in price it would seem natural that milk its chief ingredient should sell cheaper. This is what has occured. The Peterboro Milk Products company are giving 17 pint tickets for $1 instead of 16 and it would not be compromising if further reductions in the abnormal price of milk took place.

Sugar prices are expected to decline within a few weeks. Sugar is wholesaling about $11.00 in Peterboro. Wholesalers in Toronto have expressed their belief that sugar may soon be selling almost as low as in 1914. In May 1914 sugar sold about $4.30 a cwt. It is stated that there are several large stocks of sugar in Canada the owners of which are underselling the standard wholesale price to avoid further losses in a steadily weakening market.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND LEGISLATURE IS NEAR THE PROROGATION DATE

Considerable Legislation Has Been Put Through the House—A Resume

Charlottetown P. E. I., May 7.—(Canadian Press)—The Legislature of Prince Edward Island which began its sessions on April 10, is now nearing prorogation. The legislative programme, not a particularly heavy one, included a bill extending the franchise of the Prince Edward Island Telephone Company for five years under certain conditions; a resolution respecting the fisheries of the Province which called for suspension of some regulations regarding the canning of lobsters, and contained a clause asking the Federal Government to distribute the arrears of interest on the "Fisheries Award" accumulating between 1878 and 1882; and a number of acts of incorporation in among which there may be one incorporating the Prince Edward Island Light Heat and Power Company, capitalization one million dollars, with the object of supplying light, heat and power from a central plant to all sections of the Island.

Under the Act extending the franchise of the Telephone Company, a subsidary of the Maritime Telegraph and Telephone Company, the Company is allowed to increase its rates but the subsidy formerly granted by the Provincial Government, is withdrawn, and the Company pays a tax of one per cent. on its gross revenue. Disputes between the Company and the rural telephone company or its subscribers are to be referred to one of the Provincial judges who in his findings shall be guided by the rulings of the Public Service Commission and the Railway Board of Canada. The bill was not put through the House before many conferences between the Company and the Government had taken place and much eloquence had been expended.

There was a lenghty debate on the resolution regarding the fisheries which were declared to be in a precarious condition. A portion of last season's lobster pack went bad and the reason advanced tions which went into effect last year required that six ounces of meat be put into an eight ounce can with the result that there was not sufficient preserving fluid contained in the cans. A clause in the Fisheries Resolution suspends the questioned regulation for a year to permit packers to secure larger cans to accomodate both fish and fluid. The initiation of educational work with regard to methods of catching, dressing, curing and packing fish, the prohibition of the operation of steam trawlers, the compulsory use of heavier tin plate in lobster cans and the continuation of investigation into diseases among systers, were also urged in the resolution

A resolution may be introduced empowering the Government to sell the Dalton Tuberculosis Sanatorium, with due regard to recompensing Sir Charles Dalton, a wealthy fox-rancher who erected it at a cost of $53,000 and turned it over to the Government on the understanding that the Province maintain it. The Sanatorium has become, in the opinion of some members, more or less of a "white elephant" since the Federal Government took it over at the outbreak of the war, enlarged it at a cost of about $300,000, and reconsigned it to the care of the Province when they had no further use for it. The Opposition contention is that the Government has no right to sell the institution since that power is vested in the Sanatorium Commission. Another phase of the question is set forward in the demand of some members that the Federal Government should place the institution in the condition in which it took it ever and pay the Government here an amount in the form of damages.

HUNDREDS ATTRACTED TO WOODS YESTERDAY

Woods, noted for their prolific spring flowers, and accessible to the city, were yesterday filled with hundreds of city folks. The roads were lined with autos and by evening were stripped clean of triliums, dog tooth violets and the larger spring lowers, although violets were plentiful. If there was a fancity of flowers. There was a multitude of mosquitoes who this year seem to have become offensive several weeks ahead of the usual time.

LOVE!
By KATHERINE MOORE

I THANK THIE.
Chapter 43.

I found unexpected satisfaction in the cigarette which Thie had given me. It gave my nerves something to work on. Even in the mids of my agitation I smiled a little as I wondered if I were in danger of getting the habit. After all what did it matter? No one would care very much.

I could not seem to frame my thoughts into words. Thierry looked at me with fear in his blue eyes. I pressed my hand on his arm reassuringly.

"I'm all right, boy," I said trying to smile. "Don't ask me to talk just now, will you?"

More people were coming into the small restaurant. I finished my cigarette and the smoke from it mingled with the already stale blue cloud that curled around the ceiling, growing denser and pressing down on the heads of the diners. The oppre siveness of the atmosphere added to the befuddled feeling of my brain.

I found it difficult to breath. I unconsciously pressed my hand against my chest as if I thought I could lift the ton weight that rested there.

Thie watched me, and he must have caught the distressed look in my eyes. He rose quickly and leaning over helped me rise to my feet.

"Let's get out of here," he echoed my thoughts.

We picked our way past the little tables where now sat a strange medley of long haired boys and bobbed haired girls. Life seemed so very mixed to me just then. Everywhere I looked I found the same distorted tendencies. I longed to get away from humanity, to walk the paths of fresh air and clear vision. My grief needed the broad expanses of nature, open fields and the simplicity of the country.

We reached the sidewalk. Out there under God's blue sky it was a little better. In Greenwich Village spring seemed to make a special effort. In every studio window freshly painted window boxes offered their floral tribute to the warm sun.

We walk d on in silence until we reached the west side of Washington Square. I urned toward the center and found an empty bench. Thierry followed me.

"Is there anything more to tell me?" I asked, dropping down limply on the seat. I seemed to tire so easily.

"Nothing," he said. "I would not have told you this much, if I had not been so sure of you," he added simply.

I felt a slight tug of my heartstrings at his remark. But my feelings were too benumbed for great responsiveness.

"You're not, not wishing I hadn't told you?" he asked, doubt creeping into his voice.

"No, Thierry, I had to know—some time," I answered weakly.

The boy's shoulders slumped dejectedly. I almost forgot my own suffering as I looked at his young face with the early stamp of melancholy upon it.

I must show some response, I thought. Yes I hated having to put my painful feelings into words. It was like turning a knife around in my heart.

"What you have told me today is news—a terrible shock to me. It—it is worse even than I had thought—but I have known—a little, for some time." I had to stop and swallow hard to force down the lump that had risen in my throat. "I had hoped—but something a few days ago—and now what you have told me"—I could not go on but sat staring in front of me as if my eyes sought something staple to catch hold of.

We got up from the bench and at my suggestion boarded a 5th Avenue Bus. Thierry fairly lifted me up the little curving stairway to the top. The fresh air felt good on my aching head. It helped a little to blow away the tangle of deadly thoughts that were assailing my tired brain.

By the time we reached 42nd Street and crossed to the Grand Central Station I had collected some semblance of self-control.

I stood a minute and tried feebly to thank Thierry, and then I bid him a hurried good-bye and went down the ramp to my train. It was only a little after 3 o'clock. All that agony had happened in a few hours.

Tomorrow—After-Thoughts.

SUNDAY STREET CARS POPULAR IN PETERBORO

Service Is Being Well Patronized—Two Shifts For The Men

The Sunday street cars, which had their initiial outing a week ago, to noon yesterday, and before the to nnon yesterday, and before the exodus from the churches, one car alone had accommodated seventy passengers. Coming back from a long dusty walk yesterday it was very nice to e able to step on a car, instead of trudging another two miles with an empty stomach and a parched tongue. Of course, one man's meat is sometimes another man's poison, and, although they don't complain at all, this innovation probably lacks a silver lining for the motorman and conductors. Their day is divided into two shifts, some of the men going on from 9 to 4, and the rest from 4 to 11. Therefore a man whose nine-hour daily shift keeps him away from home every evening in the week, is denied a Sunday at home also. They reckon on having every Sunday off under the new regulations, and, although to the average small boy the acme of bliss might be represented by riding up and down in a street car all day, it doesn't seem as if a grown-up boy would feel just the same way about it, especially in the one-man affairs, with the solitary pilot pursuing his clanking, grinding way often in solitary state.

NEXT WINTER'S CRISIS

The Examiner has no desire to appear in the role of a prophet of evil or as a faint hearted pessimist but at the same time the industrial situation and the general conditions in regard to unemployment seem to call for serious consideration. The crisis during the past winter was met by an unemployment relief fund of which Federal, Provincial and Municipal Governments each contributed one-third. It was not an ideal method of dealing with the situation, but it kept the workless from starving or freezing to death, and it was hoped that the conditions were only a temporary state of affairs and that with the spring there would be a general revival. The spring has come, in fact summer is nearly here, and the hoped for betterment of conditions has failed to arrive. Many industries have been forced to lay off many of their working staff, and while the opening of outdoor work has absorbed, some of the unemployed, their places on the list of the enforcedly idle, have been taken by others who have been laid off from the factories. And the net result will be even worse conditions next winter than anything we have yet gone through. The time for considering how as a municipality we are going to deal with the problem, is, now not next winter. There is no use in burying our heads in the sand like the ostrich. The facts must be faced and a way out found, if there is one within the reach of the council The city fathers should endeavor to be prepared for next winter, and should lose no time in realizing their responsibility next autumn will be too late. The problem must be grappled with now.

MOTHER'S DAY IN CITY CREATED BIG DEMAND FOR FAVORITE BLOOMS

Peterboro Florists Report a Busy Time on Saturday—Playgrounds Association.

The florists had an exceptionally busy time of it on Saturday. All day orders came pouring in from city and country, in fact, from all over Canada and from the United States came orders for flowers to be delivered for parents in Peterboro. As one florist declared, (whose bare windows and stock stripped down to a few lone marigolds and snapdragon were all that were left to satisfy dozens of clamoring customers at the last minute) he would have been able to amply satisfy local needs if these out-of-town orders had not pounded in, in such quantities.

CALL FOR CARNATIONS

Carnations of course, are the favorites. One dealer ordered 10,000 blooms in Toronto and received only 5,000 on account of shortage in other centres. His stock was sold out at three o'clock. Red and white geraniums were in much demand, in fact, any flower brought a quick sale on Saturday.

The florists have a splendid system of interchange between the Unsent from the other side of the line sent from the other side ofthe line for flowers to be delivered here cost the sender only the price of the bloom plus the cost of message, and the same rule applies to orders sent over from Canada. A clearing house for Canadian and American money is established at Windsor and one in Detroit, with interchangeable accomodations, a system which is quite unique in its way.

The idea of Mother's Day, which originated in the United States some years ago, was fostered in Peterboro to a great extent by the Playgrounds Association ladies who procured their first funds by a sale of carnations on this day. They were obliged to discontinue the practice on account of a lack of co-operation in procuring blooms but the idea spread and grew to its present proportions and now one sees flowers in abundance, candy and souveir cards offered for sale in commemoration of Mother's Day.

89TH ANNIVERSARY OF ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

Yesterday was the 89th anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and large congregations filled the edifice for both services. Rev. A. Logan Geggie, of Parkdale Presbyterian Church, spoke in the morning and evening taking as his first subject: "The kind of people we ought to be in the light of the beliefs we hold," and in the evening giving a strong evangelistic message from the incident of Jesus' visit to the home of Simon the Pharisee.

Mr. Geggie is a man of great individuality and earnestness, and held the close attention of his congregation at both services.

Excellent music was rendered by the choir under the capable direction of Mr. John Crane, and Mrs. Maurice Park sang most beautifully her solo, "Lead, Kindly Light," being very effective.

Mr. Rollins, who succeeded the Rev. James Potter after fourteen years spent at St. Andrew's, has now entered the eleventh year of his pastorate in Peterboro.

UNVEIL KEENE

KEENE, May 9.—The memorial monument to fallen soldiers will be unveiled on May 24, when it is expected Bishop O'Brien and Captain (Rev.) Rollins, of Peterboro, Captain Anderson and all the township clergy will be present. The unveiling ceremony will take place at 2 o'clock and the evening will be devoted to baseball games. Township public school children will unite in singing a number of choruses under the supervision of Miss Pearl McKann, of Keene.

CARS GOES OVER BANK INTO THE LITTLE LAKE

Instead of spinning over city streets or country roads all day Sunday, in the bright, warm weather, an autimobile reposed yesterday morning in the cool waters of the Little Lake. This body of water is supposed to be a repository for many cast-off articles, but the car standing up to its hubs in water was not a cast-off but a very good specimen of automobile construction

A merry party, supposedly on their way to Hiawatha, struck a snag in the roadway on Crescent Street curve about midnight on Saturday, slewed to the left, ripped off a few feet of the boarding supporting the embankment, and landed in the refreshing waters of Little Lake. By a peculiar dispensation of the luck commonly supposed to surround certain fortunate individuals, no one was hurt, the car maintaining a perpendicular position throughout the course of its deviation from the straight and narrow path.

The automobile, considerably damaged was salvaged today after it

The automobile, considerably damaged, was salvaged today after it had been raised onto a rait and towed to the foot of Lak street.

Growing Old Gracefully

Are you growing old gracefully? Who wins in the race of life? Is it the man who is thin-blooded, weak, tired all the time?

An athlete trains for every race. A man is as strong as his blood and as old as his arteries. Make your blood redder, your health better by taking that old fashioned blood tonic—sold fifty years ago and still "good as gold"—namely, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Sold by all druggists, or send 10c. to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package.

CHATHAM, ONT.—"For many years I suffered with stomach trouble, and I tried many remedies, but they seemed to be a failure—I seemed to be getting worse instead of better. One day I came into possession of a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and took it, and my stomach trouble seemed completely cured. I have great faith in this medicine, and hope any sufferer that reads this will give the Discovery a trial. Once tried you will never be without it."—C. Treus, Jr., 28 Duke St.

HOLY NAME SOCIETY RECEIVE COMMUNION

A Wonderful Event In The Lines Of The Little Tots

About a hudnred and fifty members of the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's parish received communion at the cathedral yesterday morning in a body, and at the 9 o'clock mass, a hundred tiny boys and girls made their First Communion. This is a wonderful event in the lives of these little tots, and it is an uplifting and impressive spectacle to witness. The little lads, with sleek bright heads, spotless white collars and arm bows of white in fresh black suits, the little girls in white from head to toe and white veils, with bowed heads and little clasped hands, make a picture of childish innocence and consecration to God that is very, very edifying.

DR. HARRY WIGHTMAN

A prominent citizen and a practising dentist in Peterboro for 24 years died at 4 a.m. today in the person of Harry Wightman D. D. S. Dr. Wightman was 49 years old and had lived in Peterboro for 24 years, coming here three years after his graduation. Death came after an illness of only three weeks.

Dr. Whightman was active in sporting circles in this city. Perhaps his greatest interest was in baseball, hockey and curling but other sports were given his ready and hearty support. He was part owner of Riverside Park and watched with keen interest the local baseball league. He was also financially interested in Brock street rink. He was an active supporter of the Y. M. C. A. and during the war gave considerable of his time in the interest of the war and relief purposes.

Dr. Wightman is survived by his wife, two sisters, Mrs. G. E. Robertson of St. Catherines and Miss M. L. Wightman of Toronto, and one brother, Robert of Toronto.

The funeral will take place at 2.30 p. m. on Wednesday from the family residence, corner of Charlotte and Rubidge street to Little Loke cemetery. Rev. Robert Pough will conduct the services.

BERLIN, May 9.—President Ebert had asked Mr. Wilhelm Mayer, German ambassador to France, to form a new cabinet.

Protecting Your Furs

As spring approaches you should begin to watch your furs with care—inevitably a certain amount of dust and dirt gets into the fur, and this acts as a magnet for the moth,—that enemy of fur.

March and April is the time when the moth seeks an abiding place and the warmth and the darkness of the fur appeals at once. There it lays its eggs, the worm develops and the fur is eaten for its fat and oil. The soiled parts are the first to go and a very few days are enough to seriously damage a fur piece.

There are two methods of meeting this problem—the home method and the storage method. The former involves constant care. The furs should first be cleaned, then every two weeks in the spring and at least once a month afterwards they should be taken out, brushed and hung where the air and light can get at them.

Cedar boxes, moth-proof bags, moth balls and pepper all have failed only too often in their purpose. Infected furs when shut up give excellent opportunity to the moth eggs to develop.

The other method—the storage method,—puts all responsibility on others, always a pleasant proposition ! Trouble and care are avoided and the results are eminently satisfactory. The furs are cleaned far more thoroughly than is possible at home, and are insured against damage, fire and theft, at a charge which is very low.

Repairing, Altering, Refashioning and Dyeing can also be seen to best during the summer, when winter comes once more your furs are in order for immediate wear, clean and refreshened.

IS IT NOT WORTH WHILE ?

Phone 340 and have us take care of your FURS.

DUTCH PRINCESS WHO WORKS HARDER THAN AVERAGE GIRL

Twelve-Year-Old School Girls Could Take a Lesson From This Case

(Associated Press.)

The Hague, May 7.—Twelve-year old schoolgirls in America, who sometimes think teachers are mean, or that their mothers make them work too hard, and who long for the life of a princess, would find they had only to study the more and work the harder if they led the life of Princess Juliana of Holland, whose twelfth birthday anniversary was celebrated today.

Far from being the princess of fairy tales, who has nothing to do but sleep on silken covered rose beds eat chocolate drops and play with gay little page boy courtiers, Princess Juliana has to study French history arithmetic, geometry, algebra, geography, drawing, grammar, voice culture and violin playing.

In addition to this, because of her royal position, and the fact that she wil be a queen some day, and the ruler of Holland, no matter who her husband is, she is taught etiquette, court customs, and the strict rules of conduct appertaining to a princess.

Up to the last year, Princess Juliana attended a little school at the palace with a number of little girls of the Dutch nobility. Now, however, as she has reached the age of 12, which is an age of great decorum for a princess, she is having private lessons, because she must learn things in a shorter time than other children of her age.

With all this work, Juliana has some time for play. She is a plump fair-haired girl of the true Dutch type. She goes out in all weathers. She is particularly fond of skating and when there is ice on the canals, is frequestly seen there, skimming along with her mother, the Queen.

Her companions are very carefully chosen for her, and she, like her recent predecessors in the House of Orange, has been taught that it is not becoming royalty to make a "stageplay" for popularity. She frequently accompanies her father, the Prince Consort, or her mother, on trips about Holland, when her geography teacher goes along and instructs her at first hand in her own country's features.

Government buildings were gaily decdrated in celebration of her anniversary today, and a number of children called at the palace singing old Dutch songs.

PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK

Caused by Woman's Ills and Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Grafton, Pa.—"I was troubled with inflammation and pains in my sides and back. After doctoring with different doctors and not getting relief, I had almost given up hopes when my sister told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and knowing that she had really been helped by it, I purchased it. I was unable to do my work at that time, but after taking several bottles of the Vegetable Compound I can now do anything about the house or farm that a woman should do. I have a four months old baby that is the healthiest and biggest baby for his age that I have ever seen, and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all the praise for my health."—Mrs. BLAIR L. FISHER, R.D.1, Box 37, Grafton, Pa.

Working early and late—lifting, carrying, and the heaviest of household duties—is it any wonder that it results in backaches and kindred ills. But every woman who suffers as Mrs. Fisher did should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

"GROUNDHOG DAY" OF EXTERMINATION

Brantford, May 7. — In view of the great damage done to crops and the general inconvenience caused by groundhogs during the past few years, Brantford township council at their meeting yesterday decided to inaugurate "Groundhog Day" to be observed on May 24. Agricultural Representative A. Schuyler brought this important matter to the attention of the council and outlined a plan for their eradication. He advocated that a specail day be named on which everyone in the township would be urged to use carbon bi-sulphide and treat all the groundhog holes on their respective farms. This method he said, was both effective and cheap, and by doing it in a general way the nuisance would soon be cleaned up. An attempt will be made to organize the whole county in a similar way.

Want Jim Corbett For Title Clash

New-York, May 7. — With the naming of the site and the date for the Dempsey-Carpentier scrap, the next important detail is the slection of a referee.

The champion and the challenger will be allowed to decide upon the third man in the ring from a list of six prominent ring referees listed in the original agreement.

James C. Corbett, James Jeffries, James Dougherty, Robert Edgren, Otta Floto and Bill Brown comprise the list of candidates.

Recently it has been rported that this list is not binding and that Jim Coffroth might be named.

The choice of the principals is subject to the approval of Tex Rickard, promoter of the bout.

While Rickard has not opened his mouth on the question, it is understood he favors Corbett. The former heavyweight champion is a very popular man, has a big name in the sport and his presence in the ring would be a step further in Rickard's plan to make the show the greatest in history.

Corbett is high in the esteem of Carpentier and Descamps but this many cause disfavór in the Dempsey camp.

The same may be said of Bob Edgren, former sport editor of the New York Evning World, who is a personal friend of the champion, which may cause him to be opposed in the French fold.

Bill Brown perhaps is the least known of the sextet out of New York. He is a prominent referee with long experience in the ring. He is reported to be Governor Millers' choice for the chair of the new state boxing commission. The other candidates are well known, but are not so prominent.

"Any one of the officials suggested would be satisfactory to us", Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, said.

Descamps' attitude is not known, but Victor Breyer, Rickard's Paris agent, recently cabled here that Descamps had suggested to him it would not be a bad idea to have a Frenchman for one of the judges.

TREASURE SEEKERS COMMENCE OPERATIONS

Paris, May 7 (Associated Press). —The question whether France's financial crisis cannot be tied over by the printing press is being seriously discussed by French financiers and statesmen.

It is argued that an increase in paper circulation if it further debases the franc, will at the same time bring to France the benefit Germany is now enjoying from the low value of the mark—that is an immense profit on exports sold in foreign money, and a consequent automatic equilibrium in her foreign financial transactions.

It is also asserted that the increased issue of bank notes being solely intended for the restoration of the devasted regions—that is to say, for investment rather than for the payment of expenses of administration—need not necessarily depreciate the franc.

The issue would be considered merely as a provisional one that would be withdrawn in proportion as amounts were collected from Germany on reparations account. The French treasury, it is argued, can take care of all other demands upon it when once relieved of the pressing burden of reconstruction.

The government has not received suggestion with much favor.

FRANCE FACES A FINANCIAL CRISIS

May Have To Extend The Paper Money Issue To Tide the Country Over

Warsaw, May 7.—Treasure seekers are to begin work soon in an effort to recover a wealth of gold and silver rhages from 45,000,000 to den from the enemy by French soldiers in a lake near Vilna, during Napoleon's retreat from Russia in 1812. The task is to be undertaken by French and Polish engineers under supervision of the two governments.

A plan of the lake, marking the spot where the treasure was dropped into the water by the troops, has been recovered by the authorities. Estimates of the value of the gold and silver ranges from 5,000,000 to 60,000,000 gold rubles ($22,500,000 to $30,000,000).

Many guns and flags, and even carriages and other articles belonging to the Emperor himself were slipped into the lake at the time, it is said, to prevent their falling into the hands of the pursuing Russians.

Initial plans to recover the treasure were interrupted by the beginning of the war in 1914.

Society

The many friends of Miss Mary Hewson, of Belleville, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, will be pleased to learn that she is progressing favorably.

Miss Grace Shaughnessy is visiting in Toronto.

Mr. Gilbert Herrington has taken a position with the Bluebird Amusement Company.

Mr. McCormack of Toronto has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. Spooner.

Mrs. (Dr.) Hess spent a few days in Norwood, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Watson.

Mr. Welsey Huyche has been visiting friends for a couple of days.

Mr. F. Orishawof of Toronto is visiting his mother, Mrs. S. Orishaw.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Fowler 227 Rubige street, was the scene of a pretty birthday party on Saturday, to celebrate the eleventh anniversary of the birth of their young daughter, Genevive. About a dozen of her most intimate girl friends were received at the home, and made welcome as her birthday guests. They were taken in a motor car ride for an hour and enjoyed part of the time in the woods picking May flowers. On their return to the home, they sat down to a dainty tea party in the large dining room, for which a bountiful supply of the seasons' toothsome delicaies was provided.

Miss Agness Murray of Campbellford is home for a short visit.

Miss Susie Fairman of Toronto is visiting friends in the city.

Mrs. W. H. Becker of Toronto, who spoke before the Women's Canadian Club, was entertained at luncheon at the Golf Club by Mrs. E. V. Frederick.

Miss Elizabeth Murray, Parnell street, is recovering nicely from a recent serious operation.

The Catholic Women's League held a meeting yesterday afternoon in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum to discuss arrangements for the K. of C. convention to be held here on May 31st and June 1st. The League will have charge of the refreshments, wit' Mrs. G. White in charge.

Mr. Fred McNeely, boys' secretary of the Y.M.C.A., was presente l on Friday evening with an Eversharp pencil by the small members of his class. Mr. McNeely left on the midnight last evening for Montreal, to sail immediately on the Metagama for Scotland, where he wll be married on the first of June to Miss Beth Baird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Baird of Glasgow. Mr. and Mrs. McNeely expect to be back in Peterboro about June 10th.

Mr. Phillip Fitzpatrick of Perham, who came home to attend the funeral of his brother John of Norwood, has returned to the west.

Miss Muriel Harvey, of Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, spent the week-end at her home, 212 Brock.

Arrangements have been made for an open musicale to be given by the Women's Art Association at the Conservatory of Music on Saturday afternoon, May 14th.

Mr. George Elphgrave, a brother-in-law of Mr. F. W. Miller, City Relief Officer, is in the city from England.

Help Save The Home!

To Principals and Teachers, Scholars and Parents:—

We will send "Home Inspection Blanks" to the teaching staff throughout Ontario for distribution among their pupils.

As patriotic Canadians your sympathetic co-operation is sought in the important work of conserving the lives and property of our people from destruction by fire.

The inspection is planned to take place throughout the Province during the week of May 2nd. The primary object of this Inspection is to draw attention to hazardous conditions in the homes and have the fire menace removed or corrected by the householders.

Costs $5. a Long Ton to Get Coal in Nova Scotia.
Ottawa, May 9—The cost of producing coal in the Nova Scotia mines is in the neighborhood of $5 per long ton, according to evidence given before the special parliamentary committee on fuel resources this morning by representatives of the United Mine Workers. The laborers receive $2.30 out of that $5 total.

ENGLAND HAILS JAP PRINCE
Dinner May Be Cancelled Because of Fuel Shortage
LONDON, May 9.—The Japanese warship Katori, bringing Prince Hirohito, heir apparent to the Japanese throne, on his visit to England, arrived at Spithead Saturday. The British warships in port were elaborately decorated for the occasion and salutes were exchanged.
The London Times says it has learned the official dinner to be given next Thursday night in honor of the prince has been cancelled upon suggestion from the royal visitor, because of the coal crisis in Great Britain.

MUSKRATS LEAD TO LAW, TRAPPERS TO PAY DAMAGES
Muskrats in Ameliasburg, Prince Edward county, have kept the courts busy of late, more particularly because William J. Barber objected to the trapping pursuits of William J. Andrews and John Reeves, Jr.
The trial judge finds no evidence that Andrews and Reeves have had an easement to trap muskrats on Barbers' marsh. Therefore, Barber is awarded $5 damages and an injunction.

This Offer
means prettier teeth—accept it

This is an offer which millions have accepted. And glistening teeth seen everywhere show the good effects.

Make this free test. Then judge the benefits by what you see and feel.

To fight film
Dental science, after diligent research, has found ways to fight film on teeth. Careful tests have proved them beyond question. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in a scientific tooth paste—Pepsodent. So all may regularly apply them. To countless homes they have brought already a new era in teeth cleaning.

How film ruins
Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. The ordinary dentifrice does not effectively combat it. So, despite the tooth brush, it has caused tremendous damage.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It forms the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Combats acid
Pepsodent also multiplies the salivary flow. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

In these ways it acts as fruit acids do. With every use it multiplies Nature's teeth-protecting forces. Old methods had the opposite effect.

Watch it act
Send for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

A book we send tells the reason for each good effect. Judge what those results will mean to you and yours. Cut out the coupon now.

FREE
This Ten-Day test costs you nothing. It will bring you results that will please. Send the coupon for it.

PROBE SCORES REPRESSION IN PENAL SYSTEM

COMMISSION INVESTIGATING PENITENTIARIES RECOMMENDS REFORMATION AS PRINCIPLE

REPORT FAR REACHING

KINGSTON, May 12, (Canadian Press)—The report of the committee appointed several months ago to inquire into the penitentiary system of Canada and to recommend amendments to the Penitentiary Act and revision of the penitentiary regulations was made public today. The committee consisted of O. M. Biggar, K. C. Ottawa; P. M. Draper Ottawa and W. F. Nickle, K. C. of Kingston.

The report recommends several far reaching amendments to the act and a complete new body of regulations based upon the committee's recommendation that reformation instead of repression should be the guiding principle of a penal nstitution.

COBB PROMISES TO BE IN RACE AGAIN FOR BATTING CROWN

NEW YORK, May 11. One of the most gratifying surprises in the American league to date is the "comeback" of "Ty" Cobb, greatest of all baseball players. The Georgian, who is hitting the ball with regularity, promises to make another bid for the batting championship, and there are many who believe he will regain the laurels he surrendered to Sisler last season Fandom is pulling hard for Cobb. The Tiger leader, whose major

CREAMERY BUTTER PRICE RANGES FROM 40 TO 50C

Dairy Stocks Expected To Decline Locally As Elsewhere

Creamery butter was quoted at several differnet prices in the city to-day. One grocer quoted at 40, another 42, another 46, another 48 to 50 cents. Dairy prices seem to run from 40 to 45. Many of the grocers do not sell dairy. A general expectation of a further decline possibly to 35 cents, as in Kingston and Belleville, was evident amongst most of the retailers today. Eggs were selling at 30 and 32 cents, grocers stating that eggs are firm and no changes looked for. Sugar is steady so far at $11.25 a cwt., retail price.

SLEUTH OFFICES BEGUN YESTERDAY

ALTERATION TO THE POLICE STATION INCLUDE DETECTIVE DEPARTMENT

Th construction of the detectives' office above the city engineer's offic at city hall was begun by C. H. Huffman & Sons, who have the contract yesterday. Four tenders were received by the City Trust commission for this addition to city hall. Th tenders were: C. H. Huffman & Sons, $1090; Ephgrave & Barrett, $1,165; Malcolm McIntyre, $1,350; Thomas De Forge, $1,727. The contract was awarded to the lowest tenderer, C. H. Huffman & Sons. W. and W. R. L. Blackwell are the architects of the detective's office. The alteration consists of adding one story 10 feet x 15 feet, with 9-inch brick walls to the single story engineer's office, cutting a door through the wall to -connect with the police station.

A detectives' office has long been needed, says Chief Nwhall. The office when completed will be 10 feet x 15 feet, and will allow sufficient space for several desks, files and libraries, the use of which is necessary by an up-to-date police department. The alteration are expected to be compeled by July 1.

UNEMPLOYMENT DECREASE NOW IS BEGINNING

THREE THOUSAND MORE MEN. EMPLOYED THAN LAST WEEK IN FIVE THOUSAND PLANTS

OTTAWA, May 12 (Canadian Press)—Dominion headquarters of the employment service of Canada received for the week ended April 16 reports from over 5,000 firms with 609,946 workers on their payrolls. For the previous week these identical firms had reported payrolls 3,000 less than this figure. Favorable indications of the previous week have therefore been continued, though on a very modrate scale.

All provinces except New Brunswick, Manitoba and Saskatchewan reported increases in employment over the previous week.

FUNERAL OF DR. WIGHTMAN

The funeral of Dr. J. H. Wightman took place from the family residence, corner of Charlotte and Rubidge Streets, at 3 p. m., yesterday, and was very largely attended. The professional and business men of the city were present in large numbers, and members of the sporting fraternities paid their last tribute to one who did much to advance clean sport and athletics in Peterboro. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Robert Pogue, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. The pall-bearers were Dr. Andrew Scott, of London; R. Evans, of Toroto; J. J. Howden, George W. Morrow, W. D. Campbell and Dr. J. J. Craig.

AT THE CAPITOL.

Charlie Chaplin, the idol of the young and of theold, is showing today at the Capitol Theatre in a entitled "The Kid" This is his only picture in two years, and took nearly a year to complete. In it he and his little co-worker go through all sorts of laughable stunts. Old Chaplin pictures under new names have been coming to Peterboro for years. t is many moons since the movie loving public of this city have had an opportunity to see the inimatable fun artist in a fresh creation. This picture ran for many months in Toronto, anddid big busness, whch should be duplcated here, for Charlie Chaplin has suffered no diminution of his popularity since he first became a puplc idol on account of his laugh-producing antics.

JOPLING'S RARE BITS

BUMPER FRUIT CROP OUTLOOK SAY FARMERS

FAVORABLE INDICATIONS PROLIFIC BLOOM OF TREES AN EARNEST OF BOUNTIFUL YIELDS

ALSO TRUE BERRIES

Farmers say that the prolific bloom on the apple, plum and cherry trees this year is an earnest of bountiful yields. Never in many years they say have the trees been so laden with blossom. The unusual bloom in th opinion of the farmers is due to the mild winter. What is true of the fruit trees is also true of the strawberry plants, they say, and a bountiful crop of strawberries is looked for in spite of the destruction to the plants by winter frosts.

ASK INCOM TAX OFFICE FOR HERE

THE TWO LOCAL MEMBERS MAKE REPRESENTATIONS AT OTTAWA

OTTAWA, May 12—(Special to the Examiner)—G. N. Gordon, M. P. for West Peterboro and J. A. Sexsmith, M. P. East Peterboro, have made representations to Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance asking that the Income Tax office for Northumberland and Durham, Peterboro, Viotoria and Haliburton be established at Peterboro city.

They claimed Peterboro city had three times the population of Belleville and that great inconvenience was caused by requiring the people who make the returns and send them to Belleville when they should be able to make returns in their own rity to Income Tax office there.

In addition Mr. Gordon stated that it would save hundreds of dollars to Peterboro, which they now pay to lawyers if taxepayers themselves could appear before the Inspector of Taxation at his office in Peterboro and obtain his ruling before making out their returns.

They made a vigorous demand before the Minister to save Peterboro people the inconveninece of retaining solicitors or accountants to make out returns and claimed that in Peterboro there were accountants and bookkeepers who were returned men and were well qualified to be appointed as Peterboro Inspector of Taxation were his office in Peterboro city.

BASKETBALL CLUB GIRLS BANQUETED

MEMBERS OF NINE CLUBS OF LEAGUE ENTERTAINED IN Y.W. C.A

About 90 young ladies gathered in the gymnasium of the Young Womens' Christion Association last evening for a banquet given under the auspices of the Recreation Committee for the basket ball league. Members of the nine clubs in the league were present, with representatives from the De Laval, the Canadian General Electric Co., R. Hall & Sons Barrie's Ltd., and the Cressman Co.

The tables were prettily decorated in white and pink, with white lilacs and apple blossoms, and a general sprit of lighthearted gayety made the gathering a very jolly affair altogether.

Class yells and Y. W. C. A. songs set to popular tunes enlivened the repast, at the conclusion of which a series of toasts were proposed by Miss Alice Ebbs, toast mistress. "The King" proposed by Miss Ebbs, was followed by "Our Guests," by Miss Welch of the Intermediates, and responded to by Miss Lowrie, of the De Laval Company, "The Y. W. C. A.," by Miss Mesley of the Quaker Oats Company, responded to by Mrs. W. D. Scott, who, in a few words, recommended the adoption of the spirit of "togetherness" in the girls' work, "The giver of the cup" by Miss McGovern of the T. M. T. M. Club, answered by Mrs. (Dr.) Harvey, the donater of the cup, who presented it to the winning team, the Normalites, "The winning team" by Miss Booth of the Western Clock, responded to by Miss Mable Tener, captain of the winners, "The losing teams" by Miss Patton of the Normalites, responded to by Miss Johnson of the Bankers, "The Industrial and Recreation Committee," by Miss Stewart of the Athena Club, answered by Mrs. D. F. Drummond, who spoke in warm praise of the work of Miss Thompson of the Industrial Committee, and by Miss A. McDonald of the Cressman Co. Ltd., on behalf of the Recreation Committee "Our Referee" proposed by Miss Grace Evans of Senior Gymnasium Class was a tribute to the good work of Miss E. Pryce during the season, and was acknowledged by Miss Pryce, in congratulation to the girls of both winning and losing teams for their splendid spirit of co-operation. A toast to Miss Thompson of the Industral Committee was responded to in fitting terms.

Mss Charlotte Layton, secretary of the Y. W. C. A. announced the programme for the summer season and extended a cordial invitation to every one interested to attend Y. W. C. A. meetings any time, which was answered by three cheers for the speaker and three for Miss Leta Brownscombe Miss Hazel Davidson gave two enthusiastcally received recitations during the evening.

BUSH FIRES RANGE IN HALIBURTON COUNTY

LINDSAY, May 12 (Canadian Press)—Bush fires are now raging in several towns in Haliburton county, causing thousands of dollars damage. In Ansonia and Hindon townships valuable blue pine limits, owned by Mickle & Diament, are burning, as well as hemlock and pine limits in Stanhope township belonging to the Gull River Lumber County of this city. As there is no settlement of any account in the townships named, the fires are supposed to be caused by trappers and campers.

SUED FOR WAGES

An interesting action was that settled at Inverary by Judge Madden, when a farm hand sued a farmer for four months' wages owing him from last winter. Plaintiff claimed he was hired for $40 per month and keep, while the employer said that what he guaranteed to pay was $40 for the entire four months. The whole case seems to have been one of misunderstanding. The judge rendered his decision in favor of the employee, who will accoringly get $40 for each month he worked.

RETAIL TRADE HERE SHOWING OPTIMISM NOW

CHANCE TO EXPAND

Business optimism was noticeable that the first annual banquet and the annual meeting of the Peterboro branch of the Retail Merchants Association in the Empress Hotel last night.

A. W. Cressman, vice-president, in the absence of Ald. F. Whitehouse, the preseident, was chairman, and read the annual report. In the report it was pointed out if there were better transportation facilities to Peterboro, this city would serve a district with a radius of forty miles. Rural electric lines were suggested. Rest stations for visitors were also mentiond as desirable facilities.

GLAD TURNOVER LARGE ONE

W. C. Miller, secretary of the Provincial Board, addressed the branch on legislative matters affecting the retail trade. He expressed pleasure at the turnover tax not being instituted, due largely to the opposition of the R. M. A. He strongly advocated the use of the credit bureau reporting system. Mr. Newton, district secretary, spoke on the value of local organizations.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The officers of the Peterboro branch elected by acclamation last night were:

President, T. Barrie; vice-president, R. G. Kingan; secretary treasurer, L. Frazer.

During the evening splendid solos were contributed by Messrs. D. Carlisle, M. Park and J. Smith, to which John Crane played the accompaniment.

LINDSAY'S POLICE FORCE ARE ASKED TO RESIGN

LINDSAY, May 11.—The police committee of the town council have decided to recommend that the resignations of Chief of Police Short and the night constable be asked for. These two men constitute the whole of Lindsay's police force and Alderman Ferguson would favor a third man being added on the ground that the citizens are not being afforded sufficient protection, while Alderman Broom holds that the force is simply inefficient, owing to the chief's advanced age.

POTATOES 25c BARREL

Many New Brunswick farmers have from 600 to 700 barrels of last year's potatoes still on hand, and dealers will not handle them at any price. According to the Fredericton Gleaner any one can have them for the asking, or for not more than 25 cents a barrel at the most.

Poverty With Love Wins Over Riches

Boston, May 11.— Supposing you were a man 28 years old and left $1,158,000 by a rich uncle with the understanding that you marry a girl you didn't love and give up one you did!

That is the predicament in which Arthur O. McLaughlin finds himself.

His father died some years ago. The latter's brother, John McLaughlin, remained in a city near Edinburg, Scotland, and prospered. Before his death he met his nephew Arthur, for whom he had a great liking.

Arthur left home when a lad of 15, but had frequently corresponded with his uncle. Making his home for the time being in the South End, young McLaughlin made the acquaintance of a "charming young woman." But his uncle felt before he died that Arthur should marry a "Bonny Scotch lassie." Arthur thought differently and does so today, especially when he loves an Irish beauty.

"Yes, it's true I received notice that my uncle had left 300,000 pounds ($1,158,000) with the understanding that I marry a girl I do not love," said McLaughlin. "The will imposed that I give up my roving disposition, fondness for the sea, marry—and settle down in Scotland."

"There's something better than money. I find it is love. I'd rather live in an humble cottage with the girl I love than in a castle with a woman I didn't care for. That's why I am refusing this legacy of 300,000 pounds."

SAYS B.C. LIQUOR PLAN IS THE BEST

New York, May 11 (By Canadian Press).—Patrick Daly, of Nelson, B.C., miner and prospector and one-time candidate for legislative honors in British Columbia, is in New York in connection with a suit for $1,960,000, which he has started again Neil, Tritewood and Wilson, mine operators, at Fernie, B.C. The complaint in the suit now pending in the Superior court of the State of Washington, alleges the firm promised him one-fifth of the stock of the Premier mine which the operators sold to the Guggenheim mining interests for about $10,000,000, and that they did not give him his share. The mine is at the head of of Portland canal, near Stewart, B.C.

Daly and his lawyer, Judge Frederick C. Robertson, of Spokane, Washington, claim that he is the discoverer of the mine.

Daly asserts that he worked for ten years of the sixty-four of his life in developing the Premier, and he said something like $2,000,000 worth of ore, gold and silver, was taken from it in the past winter.

When not busy conferring with Judge Robertson, Mr. Daly has been very busy seeing New York. This, he told an interviewer recently, is his first trip east of the Rockies in thirty six years—since he started prospecting in the Canadian northwst, and he is much impressed with New York and New Yorkers. Many New Yorkers have also been much impressed with Mr. Daly, for he is credited with having succeeded in demonstrating several things which were hitherto unknown to them.

One of these, according to the local newspapers, is that jazz music really originated in Ireland. Another is that a visitor may go about viewing New ork's skyscrapers without experiencing a sore neck.

Daly visited a cabaret the other evening, and carried with a tin flute, which he loves, because it has been "good company in lonely spots." He played this flute at the cabaret, and the orchestra had to stop. The instrument cost him ten cents in Nome. Later he played it for New York newspaper men who went to interview him. He vowed that jazz music originated in Ireland, and demonstrated it by playing an Irish air. "I proved that to them at the cabaret," he said, according to the interviewers.

One newspaper man reports that Daly told him in all seriousness that when he first arrived he hired a cart and lying in the bottom of it, was driven through the skyscraper districts. "A man couldn't be expected to sit up and stretch his neck all over New York," he explained.

Another reporter secured Daly's views on prohibition. The Nelson miner had made a friend in the lobby of the Pennsylvania hotel, where he is staying, and the friend being in a rather helpless condition on account of prohibition went to sleep that night in the center of the only bed. So Daly got a couple of blankets and went to sleep on the floor in real prospecttor fashion.

"Prohibition," he philosophized to the reporter, "is much better as we have it in British Columbia. A man can't buy more than a barrel a day there"

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's hero—Josh Billings. The Browns' catcher singled in the thirteenth inning and drove over the run that beat the Tigers 7 to 6.

Pratt's double and a single by Hendrix beat the Yanks 2 to 1 after Ruth had tied the score in the ninth with his sixth homer.

Long George Kelly poled out his seventh homer and a double, helping the Giants to beat the Braves 8 to 1.

Brooklyn made only five hits, but three of them came in the ninth inning, and the Phils were beaten, 4 to 3.

It was the eleventh straight for Brooklyn.

Joey Dugan's home run, and Perry's fine pitching helped the Athletics beat Washington, 6 to 1.

Martin's wildness and timely hitting by the Pirates cost the Cubs a game at 4 to 3.

Students, who concentrate in the ancient or modern languages at Harvard University, must show an acquaintance with the Bible and with 12 plays of Shakespeare, when they come up for their general examination for graduation at the end of the senior year.

Milk is to be distributed daily in all public schools in Baltimore, Md., by teachers to children, at the rate of 48 cents a gallon can, or three cents for each half-pint glass. Milk dealers will serve free milk to all undernourished children who cannot afford to pay for it.

Japan Rapidly Increases Her Air Equipment

Tokyo, May 21.—Great shipments of machinery and various other material for the great fleet which Japan is preparing to build are continually arriving. The newspapers say that while Japan received no submarines, beyond those which arrived last year in this division of spoils from Germany, such are coming in constantly in take-down form, being shipped through Dutch ports in order to avoid the attention of the Allied Reparations Commission and on vessels belonging to the biggest Japanese companies which are under obligations, because of subsidies to the Japanese Government.

Great interest is being taken in a large number of airplanes and one Zeppelin, which Japan is receiving as her share of the German spoils, and which are now arriving in considerable numbers. Japan is making strenuous efforts to catch up with other nations in development of her air forces, which are without doubt the weakest part of her defense. In addition to the airplanes received from Germany, she recently bought 83 machines from France.

JACK DEMPSEY FINDS NEW SPARRING PARTNER.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Owing to a drizzling rain the greater part of the day, Jack Dempsey was unable to do any outdoor work yesterday. He managed to take a five mile jaunt on the road in the morning, but was compelled to remain indoors the remainder of the day.

As Joe Benjamin had a boxing engagement at Paterson and Freddie Welsh had a busy day in the ring with his members, Dempsey fell back on Slim Jim Chapin as a sparing partner.

Chapin is Freddie Welsh's secretary. The champion and Slim boxed three rounds, and Chapin by excellent footwork managed to keep out of danger.

Dempsey showed much speed and activity, and enjoyed the bout.

After the customary rub down, Dempsey read magazines till the dinner hour.

More Cows for Germany

Bremen, May 11.—The American steamer West Arrow arrived here with 718 cows and seventy calves, given to Germany by farmers in North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowo, and Winconsin.

This was the second cargo of cows brought to this port by the West Arrow, which on Feb. 7 arrived with 72 milch cows.

Expasnion of Canada's Trade in Great Britain

London, May 12.—Canada's trade future while yielding encouraging results, shows the urgent need of steps being taken to counter the energetic campaign which the United States is taking to boom American products.

This is the general verdict reached by a representative of the Dominion News Service after a three days' investigation, which has included the interviewing of more than fifty men engaged in handling Canadian goods, and agents for Canadian houses in London.

The United States is planning to open up an additional number of factories in Canada, and to launch an extensive advertising campaign. The products of these factories, which will be largely engaged in assembling parts manufactured in the United States and in finishing others for the market, will be advertised as "Made in Canada." All sentiment in business circles in Britain favors Imperial trading, and with the establishment of direct trade between Canada and the Mother Country instead of through the agency of midlemen and commissian men in the United States.

The growth of Canadian trade depends largely on Canada's exporting facilities. Britain is anxious for bigger business, and today has three Trade Commissioners in Canada at Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, while anouncement is made at the Overseas Trade department that a fourth office will shortly be opened at Vancouver. Although no definite appointment for the Vancouver office has yet been made, it is considered likely that Mr. Beal, of the Winnipeg office, will be transferred there. Mr. Beal is now in England.

Many British firms are planning to build factories in Canada where the greater stability of labor conditions is an inducement, and business men with whom your representative spoke seem convinced that there is a great future for Canadian-British trade. The recovery since the armistice has been wonderful, and far greater than most people imagine, said a high official of the Overseas Department.

"The increase in trade indicates the great possibilities in its expansion," he said. "For example, in 1919 Britain bought Canadian goods to the value of one hundred and fifteen milion pounds, as compared with less than thirty millions in 1913. At present there is a slight trade depression, due to the coal strike and other causes, but all business men here look forward to a renewal of the conditions of early 1919, very soon.

"If Canada wants to share in that trade Canadian promoters will have to jump in and grasp their opportunity," he concluded.

The biggest blast that ever took place in Canada, it is said, was fired one day last week at the quarry of the Ontario Rock Company and about three miles out of Havelock, when 100,000 tons of rock were blown up by a single shot. What made the event even more unusual was the fact that the rock was solid trap rock, one of the hardest and toughest varieties known in the world and hitherto found almost impossible to drill and blast economically.

Large quantities of this stone will probably find its fate in the breakwater facing Toronto Island. Mr. E. Viens, director of the testing laboratory of the department of works, Ottawa, has been testing rock from all over the country for this work for over a year. He was present at the blast and felt sure that this rock would be the one decided on.

The blast came as the climax of months of preparation. Work really started in December last when two tunnels, 40 feet wide by 75 feet high, were driven into the face of the hill to a depth of 120 feet. Cross drifts and adits gave a total tunnel lengh of 340. The work of loading the dynamite began on April 18th and continued to the 28th. Altogether 500 cases of dynamite and 120 cases of black powder were placed in pockets excavated in the rock, several electric detonators being placd in the dynamite cartridges. The tunnels were then filled with rock.

All the electric fuses were connected one wire which was led to the electric wire line at a distance of 1,500 feet from the explosion.

The switch was turned on by John A. Sexsmith, M. P., for East Peterborough, and the shot fired that lifted 100,000 tons of rock loose. No damage to property was done except that some of the neighboring high voltage hydro wires were cut and falling and the guy wires of the derricks and the rails made a wonderful display of fireworks.

The location of this deposit of trap rock was discovered by officials of the department of mines of the Ontario government working under Dr. W. S. Miller, provincial geogolist. Many distinguished engineers gathered to witness the event which was declared one of the most successful blasts known.

Rebuilding Louvain Library.

Paris, May 12, (Dominion News Service).—The plans submitted by Mr. Whitney Warren, the distinguished American architect, for the rebuilding of the library of Louvain, have been approved by the Belgian authorities.

As the Latin inscription, which, it is proposed, should be carved in stone over the main entrance, phrases it, the library was "destroyed by the barbarians,' and it is to be rebuilt by "gifts of Americans." Mr. Warren is going to America shortly to help in raising the $1,250,000 necessary for the work. He hopes that the first stone will be laid in July. The designs are based upon Flemish 17th century architecture.

Times Dynamiter Completes Sentence

Los Angeles, May 12.—His sentence shortened four years because of exemplarly conduct, John McNamar, one of the dynamiters of the Los Angeles Times building in 1911 will be freed from San Quentin penitentiary on May 11.

James B. McNamara, brother of John, whoh was given a life term, will not be pardoned, nor can any redctioun in his imprisonment be granted on account of good behavior, it was stated by Warden James J. Johnston.

In December, 1911, John pleaded guilty to conspiracy in the dynamiting of the Liewellyn iron works and his brother entered a like plea to a murder charge. John was general secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Strcutural Ironworkers.

For the past two years the McNamara brothers have been working in the bookbindery at San Quentin. They served in "apprenticeship" in the flute mills, when they first gave up their names for numbers.

David Caplan and Mathew Schmidt also connected with the case, were convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for having pruchased the dynamite used in blowing up the Times.

Lottery Prize Brings Sorrow.

Paris, May 12 (By Dominion News Service)—Sudden wealth won in a lottery has brought sorrow for Mme. Hofer, a woman employed as a servant in a bar, who in 1905 drew the winning ticket, worth $200,000 in the French Press Lottery.

She became for a time a character of national note, bought a house and a carriage, employed 10 servants, and lent money right and left to friends and other applicants. In 6 months she had only $4,000 of her fortune. This she has lost in speculations, in connection with which she brought an action yesterday against her lawyer.

Suposed Russian Spy

Paris, May 13 (By Dominion News Service).—A Russian named Kostewitz has been arrested by the Lille police on a charge of having supplied Germany with secret plans relating to the French national defences. It is stated that he was formerly a colonel in the Russian Imperial Forces. He is said to have undertaken suspicious missions in England and Italy, and both the English and Italian police are investigating his visits, which in each case coincided with explosions in factories.

British Fighting on Six Different Fronts

Special to The Examiner by Dominion News Service

London, May 12.—In spite of the fact that peace treaties have been signed with all the belligerent nations by the Allies, and ratified by all save Turkey, the British are still conducting military operations on six distinct fronts, and casualties are occurring in each area.

This is the startling statement contained in a document issued by the General Staff of the British War Office this morning, and coming as it does on the eve of the day set for further developments in the Rhine occupied area which may involve the dispatch of more troops, it's significance is fully appreciated.

The statement points out that the army of occupation on the left bank of the Rhine is frequently engaged in quelling disorders; the army in Asia Minor is called upon every week to deal with some of the bands of brigands that are roving in the district of the Bosphorus; cavalry and armored cars are frequently called upon to quell serious clashes between Jews and Arabs in Palestine; revolt in Mesopotamia are dealt with by aeroplane and a few troops while in Persia the British withdrawal continues. Most severe fighting is also continuing against the Mahsuds on the Northwest frontier of India, where the minds of the natives have been poisoned by the pernicious propaganda instigated by Soviet Russia. In this area during the last two weeks there have been twenty British killed and more than fifty wounded.

It is view of these commitments that Lloyd George is straining every nerve to force Germany to come to the terms dictated by the Allies and to making an honorable settlement.

Killed Pair of Wolves

Kansas City, Mo., May 12.—Herbert Rau, 61 year-old "city farmer," and his Airedale pup encountered a pair of wolves near the Rau farm fourteen miles southwest of this city Now, Herbert and the Airedale were out for a stroll. The wolves opened the attack and the pup tore open the jugular vein of the female of the species. A shot from Herbert's gun killed the male.

Run Over by Father's Steam Roller

London, May 12. (Dominion News Service)—The three-years old son of Arthur Petritt, of Hampden Park, near Eastbourne, was crushed to death by a steam roller driven by his father. The man had taken the child for a ride on a steam roller. While being reversed the roller gave a jolt, and the child fell out, one of the back wheels passing over his body.

Lunacy as an Aid to Business

Liverpool, May 12, (By Dominion News Service)—Can lunatics be succesful business men; This question has just been answered by a doctor who gave evidence at Chester Quarter Sessions. He declared that there were thousands of lunatics be succesful business men? This successfully.

"I see nothing very surprising in the statement," said a Harley street mental specialist, in commenting on two statements.

Mental derangement presents itself in so many disguises. For all ordinary purposes of life a man may not only appear, but be actually sane. But touch him, by design or accident, on his weak spot; and his insanity is immediately revealed.

"In the early stages of such cases the mental obsession may be very very slight, and harmless enough. But obsessions grow, and little by little become overmastering. Sooner or later the man's madness will appear.

"The phrase 'cunning as a lunatic' is a truism. In the mental makeup of the clever successful business man there must be shrewdness, which is first cousin to cunning.

"In a sense one must be very cunning to be able to make money on a big scale. And if a man, possessed of unusual business ability, should develop a lunatic kink in his brain, quality may be applied to the making of money.

"When Sir James Murray was compiling his famous dictionary, one of his most valued volunteer contributors was a mad doctor, who for 25 years was an inmate of Broadmoor Criminal Asylum.

"More than this, Sir James was wont to send the madman particularly knotty points of elucidation, which were frequently most cunningly untied. Later the doctor was removed to a private asylum, where he was supplied with extra books, and thus became still more efficient as a dictionary compiler."

THE CALL OF THE WEST

With farm labour so scarce in the west that the farmers are asking the government for permission to bring in workers from the United States. It seems rediculous that young men many of them with farm training should be idling about the streets of Peterboro and every other eastern city. Claiming that they are unable to find employment. The western farmers are offering wages of $60 per month and board, the railways are running excursions at a low rate and yet the unemployed of the east prefer to remain idle rather than accept the opportunity the west is holding out to them. Especially for those who have had experience on the farm the call of the prairie provinces should fall on responsible ears.

A CANADIAN INVASION

The Great War has been responsible for many strange vagaries of fortune. It lifted Arthur Currie from the obscurity of a Vancouver real estate office to the Command of an army of over one hundred thousand men and then made him the head of a great University. And now it has caused for the first time in the history of the American stage the appearance of an All-Canadian theatrical production at a New York theatre. The Dumbells, famous among Canada's soldiers' overseas and since the war beloved by Canadian playgoers in every province in the Dominion are presenting their revue, "Biff, Bing, Bang," for the approval of New York's blase theatrical patrons, and they have already won the plaudits of the dramatic critics of the metropolis. It is an amazing mark of fate that young Canadians, who six or seven years ago never dreamed of a stage career anywhere and who had not the slightest premonition that their future called for their appearance in New York in competition with the best offerings of the American stage, should be thus hurled into the theatrical calcium light; that Ross Hamilton, who before the war took him away from his wicket was a bank clerk in Montreal should now be hailed as at least the equal as a female impersonator, of the famous Julian Ettinge that "Red" Newman, who was employed in the office of a western hotel should be acclaimed by the New York press as a great comedian, or that Albert Plunkett, formerly a clerk in an Orilla store, should win metropolitan favour by reason of his splendid singing.

Apparently the invasion of Broadway by the Third Division Concert party of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, has been a marked success and Canadians generally will rejoice. Not only are they proud of the Dumbells for their cleverness on th stage, but they are more proud of them because they were among the first who went over seas to fight and won honors in the trenches before earning laurels in the theatre. There is no flag waving in "Biff, Bing, Bang." It was never used in their Canadian tours and needless to say has not been employed in the New York production for which there is reason to be thankful and the example of the Canadian soldir-actors might well be followed by some of the theatrical companies which visit us from across the line.

Not many stage organizations can boast of having played in Belgium, France, England, Canada and the United States, the record of the Dumbells in that respect.

Canadian playgoers will wish Captain Plunketts' troupe every success in their United Staes invasion, although they will hope that the Dumbells will be home again before the next theatrical season has passed.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The city tax collector's office is to be closed every Thursday during the summer. And many citizens would not complain if it were closed all the time.

Sir John Martin Harvey's visit to Peterboro was a fitting close to the local theatrical season.

Now if bread would only drop in sympathy with its old friend butter.

The appearance of oil or water on Peterboro's dusty streets would be hailed as an indication that the dog days are not far off.

With the dog catcher working piece work the wandering canine is advised to keep his weather eye open

"Skirts" was the title of a moving picture shown here last week. The picture if it was up-to-date must have been made of scanty material.

Seems to be more people interested in Bage Ruth's home run record than in the ultimation to Germany.

Ontario's new gas commissioner has no jurisdiction over the debates in the legislature. The title is rather a misnomer.

United States Government is to levy a stiff tariff on hides. Hon. G. H. Ferguson is not interested. He don't succeed in getting any during the session.

Rent, fuel, bread and meat must be getting lonesome way up at the top of the cost of living scale. Everything else is going down.

Hon. R. W. Wigmore seems to knew more about business than he does avout the ethics of politics.

WHAT A MANAGER CAN DO

About half of his stars were holding out for an increased dividend, and a long series of rainstorms kept the other half off the ball field.

Day by day things broke far from gently, but the portly mandarin continued to cheer up and tinker with his machine.

The lowly Braves promptly stepped in and walloped them all over the plateau. But all this time your Uncle Wilbert continued to say "Let's go" without a sign of discouragement.

His genial optimism remained rampant. He still insisted that Italy was on the other side of the Alps, and that the Alps were not so very high.

The result was a sudden turn by his lagging talent and the first extended winning streak of the year.

When they talk of Brooklyn they are all inclined to mention the power of her pitching staff.

But the power of her manager is even more important to her final allotment in the Standing of the Clubs. Robby, plus a star pitching staff, is no short hurdle to take on the fly.—New York Tribune.

COMMON SENSE USE OF CAR BEST INSURANCE

"Ten Commandments" For Driving, If Observed, Show Good Intent on Part of Operator

There are various kinds of "insurance" policies. Perhaps the best of all is the kind that is implied in the common sense use of the car and which takes into consideration the person in the street. Ten commandments for driving are apropos of good intent. They are, say "L. H. G.":

1. Drive on the right side of the road; it's just as good as the left.
2. Slow down when approaching a cross-road; it is nearly as dangerous as a railroad crossing.
3. Look out for children. You can never tell what they'll do, and you're always in the wrong if you hit one.
4. Try to help instead of hinder the traffic officer; he's there for your good, and he's got a rough job.
5. Be sure that your "dimmers" really dim; its' no joke driving into a blinding glare, as you probably know.
6. Read and obey the warning signs; they're not put up as ornaments.
7. If you feel you've got to speed, do it where it won't kill anybody but yourself.
8. When making minor repairs, stop where your car may be seen from both directions; otherwise you may stop longer than you anticipate.
9. Speeding around corners is a straight route to the hospital. Don't race past a stopped street car. Some day the jury may call it manslaughter.
10. Use discretion. The fact that you had the right of way won't bring anybody back to life, least of all yourself.

Spinsters Responsible

Great Falls, Mont., May 11.—Declaring the "spinsters are responsible for my not being married in their refusals of my wooing in the past", William Atzinger, 35, a member of the board of directors of the Montana State fair, has notified the assessor of Chouetau county, that he will refuse to pay the poll tax of $3 levied by the last legislature on bachelors. "Tax the spinsters of the same age, and I will gladly pay, but otherwise it is class legislation and I stand upon my rights", he declared.

Defeat of Radicals Predicted

Rome, May 12.—With the new parliamentary elections on May 15, there ise every indication that Italy will enter on a new era, where freed from the menace of Radicalism, and voluntarily giving up her past policy of territorial expansion, she will devote her best energies to internal reconstruction, both materially and socially.

This is the electoral program outlined by Premier Giolitti at the moment he dissolved the last chamber, and there is every indication that the country responding again to his statemanship will return a chamber wherein there will be a big workable majority for carrying out the internal reforms which now constitute Italy's crying need.

Radicalism is no longer a danger in Italy, and this problem has been settled precisely as it was settled, only, more quickly, in France and the Northern war countries.

In the new elections, it is expected that both the Socialist and popular parties will lose heavily. From the 154 deputies which the Socialists elected in the 1919 elections the number is expected from anywhere from 50 to 100.

WITH REGARD TO CIVIC AFFAIRS

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

REVENGE, MY FIRST THOUGHT.

Chapter 46.

I came back from my forced walk absolutely exhausted physically, but with my brain cleared and working at a 60 horse-power clip. It was as if all the strength of my body had rushed to my head.

I started going over every detail of the Darwood affair and analyzing it. Each tell-tale pricked into my wounded pride.

It cut deeply to think Leonard's love for me could turn so suddenly and for such a cheap attraction. Why had he ever married me at all? If Mrs. Darwood's type of woman could infatuate him now to such an extent, I could not understand why he had ever loved me at all.

Had he ever loved me? The thought suddenly slapped me in the face. Yes, before God, he had! That was what made it so terrible now. It would have been easier to believe he hadn't. But I knew—kn w! A man might bluff a sham sort of love for a while, but not for four years My mind reached back eagerly and touched each wonderful memory of love. But now they only beat cruelly against my already bruised heart.

Oh, those wonderful four years! It had all started, this hideous estrangement, on that anniversary day. Each day after that had widened the breach between us. And now, the bloom was off—the perfect happiness between us was over.

I just dreaded the evenings and having Leonard come home. I felt I could stand it better if I didn't have to see him. But I couldn't think of any way out of it. I wished I hadn't told him I would rather stay home for the summer so he could buy a car. Then I might go away some place and battle things out for myself. Afterwards I could return and get a divorce.

I suddenly thought it might be a good idea to be out when Leonard came home I could go to the "movies." I wouldn't even tell Emma where I was going and he could worry about me a little. It might do him good.

Then, just as suddenly, I realized what a fool move that would be. In the first place, Leonard might not even come home until late. Besides, if he had topped loving me, my being out would not perturb him greatly. What would it matter to him if he did not know where I was? It would probably please him more than anything else I could do.

As I realized this fact I suddenly became angry. My pride revolted at the insulting thust.

Why not make Leonard care!

Oh, I fairly hated him. It was absurd to keep on loving a man when h not care—then, at least, I would not. I would not let him bother me. I might not make him love me, but I could in turn wound his prid . I would show him I could get along perfectly without him.

I decided to have a good time myself. I had friends. There was Alvah Fairchild. Leonard did not like him and that would make it all the better. At least I could annoy him greatly.

I rushed up to my room with the desire for revenge hot within my breast.

I opened my desk and sat down in front of it I selected a sheet of lavender note paper with drak violet tissue paper lining.

I wrote the date across the top and then headed the let e—

"My Dear Mr. Fairchild:—

Business takes me into the city on Wednesday next. If you are disengaged and can think up something entertaining you can get me on the telephone any ime after 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Sincerely yours,
N. A."

I addressed the envelope and before sealing it let two or three drops from a choice bottle of perfume fall within its folds.

SUGAR SHORTAGE

Washington, May 11.— Canadian Press) —Howard W. Adams, representative of the U. S. Department of Commerce, reports from Berlin that is estimated that the German sugar production for the 1920-1921 period will reach a total of 970,000 tons. It will probably be necessary to supplement this amount by an importation of 20,000 tons. The retail price of sugar during the current production year has averaged 8 paper marks per kilo (2.2 pounds), and the average price for imported sugar has been about 12 paper marks per kilo.

Clogged With Gold

New York, May 11.—Deluged by gold shipments amounting to more than $40,000,000 since April 1, the government assay offices in Wall street have become so clogged with the precious metal, that approximately half of it has been transferred to Philadelphia to relieve the congestion here.

Long-Lived Family

Eastford, Con, May 11.— Mrs Sarah Bosworth Bradway, has just observed her 103rd birthday, at her home here. Among her visitors was Donald Clark, a great grandson, who has two great grand mothers, two grand mothers and two grandfathers living. Mrs Bradway is in excellent health.

Outrageous Profits

Washington, May 11.— Women with "positive conversational powers" can make a bigger dent in retail prices than the whole department of justice machinery, in the opinion of Attorney General Daugherty. A squad of women so armed could do more with a dealer than the government, he declared recently, adding that retail prices remained up despite the slump in wholesale figures, leaving profits in which he could see no reason, for meats and other household commodities.

DAVIS CUP MATCHES

Melbourne, Australia, May 11 (Canadian Press). — Norman E. Brookse, captain of the Australasian Davis Cup team, has selected J. O. Anderson, one of the Australasian players in 1920, J. B. Hawkes, and R. W. Heath, to represent Australasia in the coming Davis Cup matches.

His 18th Baby

Ironwood, Mich., May 11.— Canadian Press) —When a physician went to a home recently in response to a call, he found John Mattson, pondering over a list of names. He was looking for a name for the 18th baby in the family, a girl. Fifteen of the children are living. The mother is 44 and the father 46.

CIVIL SERVICE TAKES CARE OF RETURNED MEN

SO FORAN TELLS COMMITTEE ON SPINNEY BILL, REPLYING TO CRITICISMS.

9,000 MEN PLACED

OTTAWA, May 16.— (Canadian Press.)—William Foran, secretary of the Civil Service Commission, was called before the special committee on the Spinney Civil Service Bill to-day. Answering criticisms from Col. J. A. Currie, he said that approximately nine thousand returned soldiers had been placed in permanent positions. Some of the positions were of great importance. Qualified returned soldiers were retained to the last, all other employees being discharged before them. He emphasized the point that the Commission had nothing to do with removals. Mr. Foran denied that veterans "got the worst of it from the beginning." They were very carefully taken care of.

Answering General Griesbach, Mr. Foran stated that the commission did not consider itself qualified to make appointment in all branches of the service The Secretary said there was nothing in the Civil Service Act to prevent any member of Parliament communicating with the commission on any matter within its jurisdiction Recommendations of members were carefully considered in making appointments in their constituency

Col Currie—"Then you're back at the old game".. Mr Foran replied that this was not so The idea was that members had as much right as any other citizen to make suggestions.

WOMAN LEAPS FROM A CLIFF

THREE SURVIVORS

BROCKVILLE, May 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Mrs. Jessie E. Halleck, of Ottawa, a patient at the Ontario Hospital for the Insane, committed suicide between midnight and one o'clock in the morning by leaping over a cliff near the hospital into the St. Lawrence.

Mrs. Halleck had been a patient at the hospital for a month and late last night was missed. Attendants and nurses who started in pursuit heard the woman jump into the river and a few minutes afterwards recovered her body from the water.

An inquest is being held this afternoon. The woman was 49 years old and leaves a husband, one son and one daughter in Ottawa.

M'FADDEN ON TRIAL TO-DAY

CHARGED WITH MURDER OF CECIL SABINE ON MARCH 5 IN TORONTO.

HOTRUM CHIEF WITNESS

TORONTO, May 16.—(Canadian Press.)— Following the conviction late on Saturday night of Roy Hotrum for the murder of Cecil Sabine during a raid by auto bandits on his drug store, on the night of March 5, William McFadden was brought from jail to the Civic Buildings today under a strong guard to stand trial before the Assize Court jury for the same crime. Hotrum and McFadden were members of the same robber gang. In his own defence last week Hotrum swore that McFadden fired the shot that killed Sabine. McFadden declared that Hotrum did it. At the trial of McFadden this week it is expected that Hotrum will be the chief witness for the prosecution.

So far from having been any abatement of interest in the Sabine murder trial, Saturday's verdict against Hotrum has but served to whet the public curiosity. One of the largest crowds which has yet assembled for the trial was lined three and four deep outside of the court room an hour before the opening of the case. While Roy Holtum appeared before Justice Kelly, McFadden is arraigned before Justice Logie, the High Court Circuit having involved this change.

On the suggestion of Crown Prosecutor Waldron, Justice Logie absolved the jurors who served in the Hotrum trial, from serving in the preseent case.

When McFadden was led into the court he appeared stolid and unaffecetd by the ordeal through which he has passed, being if anything more composeed than when first arraigned before Justice Kelly when he pleaded "not guilty."

BOOKBINDERS WILL JOIN IN TYPO STRIKE

MAKE 10 PER CENT. LEVY IN PREPARATION FOR TORONTO JOB PRINT BATTLE.

SITUATION UNCHANGED

TORONTO, May 16.—By almost an unanimous vote, Local 28, International Bookbinders' Bindery Women's Union, which met yesterday afternoon in the Labor Temple, agreed to a 10 per cent. assessment of the wages of the membership of the union, retroative to May 1, to meet any levy which may be necessary if bookbinders are forced to strike to obtain the 44-hour week and wage increases.

This was the only development over the week end in the relations between the members of the Toronto Typothetae and their employees. The action of the bookbinders was similar to that taken recently by other utions of the printing trades.

"There have been no overtures from the employers There is no change in the situation," said Organizer Sullivan "Bookbinders are unanimous in their decision to obtain the 44-hourweek".

The meeting yesterdy was well attended.

"Officials of Local 91, International Typographical Union, are satisfied the union will be abe to secure its demands. "We have only a small portion of our membership on strike," said one of them. "We have a large sum in our treasury to finance these strikes; also the 10 per cent. strike levy. Printers who are working can carry striking members almost indefinitely"

A MUSICALE

Under the auspices of the Women's Art Association, a musicale was given on Saturday afternoon at the Conservatory of Music and those present realized what a privilege it is to have in Peterborough such a gifted musician as Miss Edwina Palmer.

She has studied under great teachers abroad and possesses a technique of sufficient ease and finish to enable one to forget that side of her art and to enjoy the message that she conveys through her music. Miss Palmer impressed her hearers as having acquired all that good teaching and practice can give and few musicians reach the heart-strings as Miss Palmer does.

When she touched her beautiful violin—a genuine Amati—interpreting the great masters, she also played on the emotions of her hearers and carried them whither she would.

Miss Agnes Logan possesses the remarkable gift of sympathy in accompanying and is a charming pianist.

The delight which the musicale gave was very evident. The programme was as follows:

Programme.

Violin— Lalo Symphonie Espagnole (a) Andante, (b) Scherzando.
Piano—Debussy—Agnes Logan.
Violin— (a) Boccherini-Kreisler, Allegretto; (b) Francouer-Kreisler, Sicillienne and Rigandon.
Reading—Miss Morrison.
Piano—Cyril Scott, Valse. Agnes Logan.
Violin—(a) Debusy, En Bateau; (b) Kramer-Brown, Dondino; (c), Schumann, The Walnut Tree; (d) Chopin, McMillan, The Maiden's Wish; (e) Sarasate, Spanish Romance.

NORTHERN LIGHTS WERE OUT AGAIN LAST NIGHT

The northern lights held high carnival again last night along the milky way and in the star-strewn by-paths that reach out across the sky. In their restless, shifting movements these pale greenish beams and sheets might have been regarded as a troop of luminous wraiths from the Twentieth Plane, sportive spirits on a night out. They wandered singly and in groups, passing swiftly across the heavens far below the zenith until one watched them with the danger of needing an osteopath to work on a stiff neck. The eerie light that gloomed brilliantly just above the west and east horizons like two fading suns made one of the most beatutiful auroral displays seen in a long time.

WIRE TRANSMISSION IS BADLY DELAYED

LONDON, May 16.—(Canadian Press)—Telegraph and telephone lines in the British Isles and throughout all northern Europe have been seriously interrupted by a great magnetic storm which virtually paralyzed wire transmission in Canada and the United States Saturday night and Sunday. Cables between England and the United States were affected early this morning and transmission was badly delyed.

LLOYD GEORGE MAKES ADVANCE

REPORTED IN DUBLIN HE HAS OFFERED TO MEET IRISH LEADER.

NO CONDITIONS NAMED

DUBLIN, May 16 (Canadian Press). — Premier Lloyd-George, says the Freeman's Journal, has offered to meet Eamonn DeValera or other Irish leaders, without conditions.

DeValera, adds the newspaper, replied that if the Premier made such a statement public, he DeValera) would give a public reply.

CONCERT PARTY REACH CITY

Distinguished Concert Party at the Conservatory Hall To-night under the Auspices of Major Bennett Chapter I.O.D.E.

The appearance of Alice Baroni, coloratura soprano, and Robert Armour, lyric tenor, in song recital at the Conservatory of Music auditorium this evening, promises to be of unusual interest offering a programme showing the development of opera and song form through the various periods of musical composition since the 16th century to the present day composers.

Madame Baroni though born in this country, has sung in the various capitals of Europe, and has appeared in opera with the Boston Opera in this country, and also with the San Carlo Opera Comany. At the completion of this concert tour Madame Baroni goes to Boston for a season of opera for which she has been especially engaged.

Robert Armour, who possesses a lyric voice of universal range and quality, prior to devoting himself to recital work, was for a number of years the tenor soloist of the Cathedral of St. John, the Divine of New York City.

Mr. Armour has been heard in all the leading cities throughout the States.

These artists are ably supported by F. Dudleight Vernor, an accompanist of rare attainments, who comes from the Frank LaForge Studios, New York City.

EVANGELIST GEORGE BENTLEY

Conducted the service last night at Gospjel Hall. He will speak tonight and leave to-morrow for New Liskeard for the summer The hall was packed to its utmost last night. His subject was "A Sure Refuge", and in an eloquent appeal he showed Christ to be a safe refuge for the sinner and from judgment also to the Christian the Lord Jesus was a refuge in time of trouble.

NO FAULT OF CALEDONIAN CLUB

It was through no fault of the officers of the Caledonian Club that the Caledonian Pipe Band did not take part in the opening ceremonies of the City and Mercantile Baseball Leagues. Arrangements for the appearance of the Pipers were not made with the Club's officers, and this coupled with the threatening weather was responsible for the non-appearance of the band.

DONATIONS OF CLOTHING FOR GRENFELL MISSION

The committee wishes to receive donations of used clothing in good condition for the bale which is to be packed very soon.

Those having articles to donate please telephone Mrs. Jas. Wood, (1w) or Mrs. W. R. Morris (1095J) and parcels will be called for.

Strike in Peterboro Printing Offices Is Settled On Saturday

MEN RETURNED TO WORK THIS MORNING UNDER THREE-YEAR CONTRACT, WHICH PROVIDES FOR 48-HOUR NEWSPAPER WEEK AT $31.50 AND 44-HOUR JOB PRINT WEEK AT $30.

CAN OPEN UP CONTRACT EACH YEAR

The Examiner printers, who have been on strike for the past two weeks, returned to work this morning as the result of the signing of a temporary agreement Saturday by the publishers and the employees. The new contract provides for a 48-hour week in newspaper plants at $31.50 a week, and a 44-hour week in job plants at the former wage of 3$0 a week. The contract is for three years, but may be opened up by either party at the expiration of each year on the question of wages—business conditions and the cost of living to be the basis for negotiations.

The demands in support of which the printers went on strike were a 44-hour week in both job and newspaper plants, and a wage scale of $38 a week. The new agreement is entirely satisfactory to the employing printers. This raises the Peterorough scale from $30 a week for linotype operators, compositors, stone hands, etc., to $31.50; for machinst operators from $31 to $32.50, and for foremen from $32 to $33.50.

A few minor points which must be settled before the permanent contract is drawn up are still to be negotiated, but the foregoing terms have been agreed to by both parties as the basis for the new contract.

The settlement came suddenly Saturday morning, following nearly two weeks of vain negotiations.

CASES HEARD IN COUNTY COURT

Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning convicted William Chesney of North Monaghan on the charge of assault laid by his wife on which Chesney faced the Magistrate one week ago. Ten days in the county goal was given Chesney with brief and pointed advice upon the subject of 'love and honour and obedience" Mrs. Chesney was represented by V. J. McElderry, and the accused by J. Wearing.

Another case was proceeding before the County Magistrate to-day. Babe Anthony of Peterboro was charged with reckless driving on the night of Sunday, May 8, when a car driven by him struck a runabout buggy driven by Wilbert Bertrand of Ennismore, on the Chemong Bridge, badly damaging the buggy and precgipitating Mrs. Wilbert Bertrand into the lake. Anthony pleaded not guilty. J. Wearing defended him, V J. McElderry representing the Bertrand's. Plaintiff said the accident occurred about 10.30 when they were returning home from the city. The buggy belonged to his employer Wilton Clarke and he estimated the damage at $25. Besides this he had other expenses, doctors and hospital bills due to the shock received by his wife. Plaintiff claimed the accident was caused by Anthony not waiting at a turning-out place on the bridge, and holding the centre of the bridge. The collision occurred just past the swing, Bertrand stated.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, May 16.—(Canadian Press).—The dealings on the Stock Exchange in the First half hour of to-day's session pointed to a continuance of the recent reactionory movement. Sumatra tobacco opened at a further recovery of three points, but this was promptly cancelled. Mexican Petroleum's first quotation showed a large fractional gain, but this was immediately forfeited. Other rails as well as motors and equipments, reflected similar tendencies. Among the less distinctive issues New York air brake and Sears Roebuck at declines of two and two and a half points respectively were distinctive features. Early rates of London were not affected by the latest exchanges between the British and French governments over the Silesian situation.

Oils, Motors an Specialties, as featured by Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt, International Paper, Montreal Leather and Chandler, led a covering movement later. The closing was steady.

Shippings, Equipments and Coppers were included in the varied list of heavy stocks at mid-day. Oats and Steels extending their declines. International Paper and a few of the utilities, notably Gas shares, were strong, but Rails made further recessions.

Offerings were perceptibly reduced after early selling, but the tone of the market remained nervous and unsettled. The least support was shown by Oils, Motors, Independent Steels and Food and Leather shares. Mexican Petroleum, common and preferred, Pan-American and Pacific Oil lost one to two points. Studebaker, Pierce Arrow, Stromberg Carburator, Roch Magneto and Stewart Warne fell one to thee points and Crucible, Baldwin Locomotive and Gulf States Steel one to 2 1-2. Corn Products and Endicott Johnson were among the heavy specialties. Rails were sluggish and conflicting. Chesapeake and Ohio and Western Pacific Preferred falling back moderately, while Texas and Pacific and Del. aware. Lackawanna and Western were firm to strong.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, May 16.— (Canadian Press.) — Sterling Exchange easy, demand 3.99 1-4. Canadian Dollars 10 11-16 per cent. discount.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

TORONTO, May 16 (Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts heavy, and trade was weaker. Quotations:

Heavy beef steers, $9.50 to $10.25; butcher steers, choice, $9.00 to $10.00; butcher cows, medium, $5.00 to $7.50; calves, $11.00 to $13.00; lambs, $11.00 to $13.00; hogs, fed and watered, selects, $10.50.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, May 16.—(Canadian Press.) — Considerable activity in Brazilian Traction was about the only noteworthy feature of the market on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Transactions amounted to over five hundred shares, but the price showed a difference of only one-quarter of a point at the noon close. Canada Steamships Preferred lost a point through profit-taking at 57, while F. N. Burt advanced a similar amount to 105. Spanish River was weak at 73 and Canada Bread was also fractionally lower.

MONTREAL, May 16.— (Canadian Press.—The morning's session on the stock exchange was dull and uninteresting and very few changes occurred. Atlantic Sugar strengthened three-quarters of a point at 31 3-4. Brazilian was also slightly stronger at 30 1-2. Brompton closed unchanged at 36 1-2. Laurentide was stronger by a quarter of a point at 92 1-4. National Breweries went to 13 3-4. Neither Spanish River nor Riordan changed. Wayagamack dropped fractionally to 69 3-4.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 16.— (Canadian Press.)—Frost reports from various sections strengthened the wheat market to-day after an easy start. There was a disposition also to take a less bearish view of the pending legislation. In this connection it was pointed out that under any circumstances, six months or more would be required for the proposed laws to become operative and that former controlled not empty and decline in values. Opening quotations which varied from unchanged figures to 1-2 lower were followed by a slight further sag and then by material gains all around.

Corn sympathized with Wheat. After opening unchanged to 3-8 lower the market scored a general advance. Oats were governed by the action of other cereals, starting a shade to 3-8 lower and then hardening somewhat. The weakness in hog values tended to depress provisions.

Commission house selling on upturns in Corn counted against the bulls later. The close was heavy, with July 61 1-2 to 61 1-2 to 5-8.

Subsequently word of rains in Texas and Oklahoma, together with better crop reports from parts of Kansas, tended to ease July Wheat delivery, but May continued in persistent demand, with country offerings light. The close was unsettled. May 1.46 to 1.46 1-4 and July 1.15 1-4 to 1.15 1-2.

QUESTIONS FOR MOTOR OWNERS

The Automobile Association meeting at the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow night promises to be decidedly interesting. President Cotton has several matters of importance to lay before the members. Local traffic regulations and the erection of necessary signs at certain corners will be discussed. The adoption of permanent number plates with interchangeable year numbers, will be brought forward, and if the local Association is favourable to the idea, the co-operation of Associations everywhere will be sought to get the Government's approval of the plan. Arrangements for the outing and dance to Chemong Park pavilion at an early date will also be made at the meeting. These and other topics of interest assure a record attendance to-morrow night.

Police See Attempts to Terrorize London In Recent Outbreaks

VIOLENCE, INVOLVING BLOODSHED, ON SATURDAY NIGHT, THOUGHT TO BE SINN FEIN PLOT.

SEVERAL LIVES LOST

LONDON, May 16. — Canadian Press. — Violence involving bloodshed and which the police attribute to a Sinn Fein campaign to terrorize London, commenced at midnight on Saturday in various suburbs of London and also at St. Albans, two miles north west of London. Several of the suburban towns were visited by men whose primary object appears to have been arson, but who, when interrupted, resorted to shooting. Three persons were wounded one of them fatally. A man and his wife in St. Albans were shot.

In the majority of cases the houses set on fire were occupied by persons connected with the Royal Irish Constabulary.

The police assert that for some days there had been rumours that raiders were planning a campaign in London. The band of raiders who set fire to the house of one member of the Irish constabulary, also shot and critically wounded the tenant of another member of the constabulary.

At Tooting the raiders set fire to the residence of the father of a member of the constabulary.

Similar acts of incendrianism were carried out in West Kensington.

The police yesterday raided a nd searched seven places in London connected with the Sinn Fein organization. These included the headquarters of the Irish Self-Determination League. A quantity of documents was seized and one arrest was made.

LIVERPOOL, May 16.— (Canaian Press.)— Six houses in widely separated parts of this city were raied and set on fire by Sinn Feiners last night. The occupants of every house thus visited have relatives serving in the Royal Irish Constabulary. The inmates were in some cases gagged and bound, the furniture soaked with kerosene and set on fire, and in some instances helpless people were left to the mercy of the flames by raiders, who fled in automobiles. The raids were in all ways similar to those made in the suburban districts of London and in this city Saturady night. The police declared yesterday that the raids on Saturday were apparently well organized and that in most cases the men engaged in them were disguised.

CHILDLESS WOMEN

Please Read This Letter And See What Normal Health Will Do For You.

Berwick, Ont.—"I had organic trouble, and after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Medicine all my troubles passed away. I was made strong and well and have been ever since. Now we have a fine baby boy six months old, and I know that I would not have this baby and would still be suffering if it had not been for your remedies. My husband and myself say that your remedies are worth their weight in gold, and I recommend them to my friends. One of my aunts is taking them now."—Mrs. NAPOLEON LAVIGNE, Berwick, Ontario, Canada.

Among the virtues of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is its ability to correct sterility in many cases. This fact is well established as evidenced by the above letter and hundreds of others we have published in these columns.

In many other homes, once childless, there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

IGNATIUS LINCOLN, SPY, IS ACQUITTED

VIENNA, May 16. (Canadian Press.) — Ignatius Tribitch Lincoln, notorious as an "international spy," on trial before the Central criminal court of Vienna on a charge of high treason and forgery, has been acquitted. It is reported that he will sail for America.

CAMPBELLFORD DEFEATED THE MADOC OUTFIT

NEWS OF INTEREST—SIR ADAM BECK WILL VISIT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 16.—The Campbellford Intermediate Lacrosse Team defeated the Madoc team in an exhibition game in Campbellford, on Friday, May 13, by a six to three score. The game which was called for four-thirty and consisted of four fifteen minute periods was very close and interesting. The Campbellford line up was as follows:— Goal, C. Long; Point, T. Thomas; Cover Point, A. Jacobs; Third Defence, Chas. Montgomery; Fourth Defence, Edwards; Centre, Hartt; Inside Home, Jas. Kerr; Outside, Jas. Blute; 3rd Home, Peter Thomas; 4th Home, D. H. Graham. Manager R. H. Cole also tried out E. Labrash, D. Mitchell, V. Farre, L. Reynolds and J. Brown.

Every person was thoroughly convinced that Campbellford has a winning team and the large crowds were entirely satisfied with the game.

Personals.

Mrs. L. J. J. Commisky, Miss M. Black and Mr. D. Black Jr., of Brooklyn, N.Y., are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Black.

Mr. and Mrs. Little of Port Hope, were visiting in town on Sunday.

Mrs. John Harris, formerly of town, but now of Toronto, is visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. Geo. Mason, and other friends in town.

Give an Address.

Miss Nellie Turner, who has just returned from California will give an address at the District Woman's Missionary Convention to be held in Norwood on Wednesday of this week. Miss Turner will also address the Epworth League to-night.

Friends here will be pleased to learn that Miss V. Harris, B.A., has successfully completed her third year at Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

Mr. Frank Linton of Peterboro. spent the week-end at his home in town.

Mr. Geo. Osterhout spent Thursday and Friday of last week in Toronto.

Mrs. Clark Johnston has been ill for the past few days of pleurisy.

Dr. E. J. Free is in Toronto, attending the Medical Convention held in Toronto this week.

Attend Convention.

A large number of the ladies of town will attend the District Woman's Missionary Society Convention to be held in Norwood on Wednesday. Quite a number of men have volunteered the use of their cars for the day and it is expected there will be accommodation for all who may wish to attend.

The play entitled "Nothing but the Truth", given in the Opera House on Friday evening, by the Bellevile Dramatic Club under the able leadership of Miss Jessie Quite teacher of elocution at Albert College, was an unqualified success, each of the players taking his or her part exceptionally well the whole being filled with humour and wit. The hall was crowded to the doors and the principal and staff of the Public School are to be congratulated upon the success of the evening. It is seven years since the Public School has given an entertainment and the crowd of parents and children evinced the great interest in our Public School. The proceeds will be used to defray the cost of pictures procured for the school.

Celebration and Entertainment

All roads will lead to Campbellford on May 24th and no pains are being spared by those in charge to make the day a huge success. Sir Adam Beck, "the Power King", will be present and deliver an address, horse races and lacrosse match will be played and in the evening in the Opera House a most unique concert entitled "A Gypsy Carnival", will be given under the competent leadership of Mr. and Mrs R. Cowell. Over one hundred children will take part in this programme, suitably costumed and those who attend we feel sure will be delighted as Mr. Cowell is a master in the training of young people along musical lines.

Wedding Bells.

The marriage took place at the Methodist Parsonage on Wednesday of last week, of Mrs. J. Liberty of Trent River, to Mr. Claude H. Ennsley also of Trent River, with Mr. P. Tarneau and Miss Rittan as attendants.

Greek Wedding

Mr. Jas. Kachafanas and Miss V. Chrisovergi were united in the holy bonds of matrimony on Thursday of last week by Rev. Seraphim Stelides of Toronto. Mr. Kachafanas is well and favorably known as he has been in business here for some time.

ABANDON HOPE FOR LOST MEN

CREW OF MISSING BARGE BELIEVED DROWNED IN LAKE SUPERIOR.

SOO, Michigan, May 16. — Canadian Press.—All hope has been abandoned for the captain and six members of the crew, including one woman, of the barge Mitzec which broke from the steamer Zillias, of the O. W. Blodgett Company, of Bay City, Michigan, off Whitefish Point, Lake Superior, during the storm on Saturday morning.

Those missing and believed to have been drowned are, Captain K. Pederson Buffalo; Florence Pederson, cook; Mate Robert Campbell, Tonawanda, N. Y., Seaman Eric Johnson and Louis Florence, Bay City, Michigan; Samán John Drecker, Titusville, Pa. and an unidentied seaman who shipped from Port Huron Mich.

OTTAWA HOUSE NEARING GLOSE

Unless the Unexpected Happens Ottawa May Prorogue This Month.

OTTAWA, May 16.—The preliminary sizing up of the Budget debate indicates that it will wind up by Monday or Tuesday of next week and concevably before, and so on both sides the possibility of prorogation by May 24th is being canvassed. It is largely contingent upon what legislation is yet to come, but the Government side say there is pracically nothing apart from supplementary estimates. On the whole, if the session does not conclude by the 24th, it should by the 28th anyway.

The bye-elections on the latter date in York, N. B., and Yamaska are being watched as influential upon the general situation.

If these seats are won, presumably the other bye-elections will come on in the late summer. If they are lost, some advisers of the Government are counselling a general election, with a campaign initiated after the Prime Minister returns from England.

A REMEDY FOR THE BLUE DEVILS

We all have them—the richest, the poorest, the highest and the lowest. Those hated blue devils will come back no matter how we guard against them. And if we treat them well, feed them up with a lot of unhappy thoughts, overwork, lack of sleep and stuffy rooms, they are going to stay. Unless you want them for household pets, get out doors and lose them. The fresh air is the one thing the blue devils are afraid of. Sometimes it takes a half hour or so to walk them off but you'll win out if you stick to it. And when you walk, don't go along with your head down, your hands in your pockets and a frown on your face. Hold your head up and get full value from your exercise. Just try this recipe and see if it doesn't work.

THE HOME CIRCLE

HAPPINESS.

Talk happiness!
Not now and then, but every Blessed day,
Even if you don't believe
The half of what
You say.
There's no room here for him
Who whines as on his Way he goes;
Remember, son, the world is Sad enough without Your woes,

Talk happiness each chance
You get—and
Talk it good and strong;
Look for it in
The byways as you grimly
Plod alohng;
Perhaps it is a stranger now
Whose visit never Comes;
But talk it! Soon you'll find
That you and Happiness
Are chums.

Too many of us are looking forward to happiness in the future years instead of getting all the enjoyment possible out of the present. It is well to remember that the time never will come, in this world, when we shall have everything we want just where and when we want it. The only way to be happy is to enjoy all we have to the utmost as we go along. It is right to lay up for old age in youth; right to prepare for a rainy day, but it is not right to bend all our energies to this end and put off until the future the happiness we might enjoy every day. It is very common to see people working and saving, denying themselves all recreation and many comforts, to lay up money to buy more land, to enlarge their stock (to save for their children) thinking that when they have accomplished this they will be happy and begin to take comfort. The hoped-for point may never be attained, or if it is, sickness or death may have come first and the dear ones whom we expected to be happy with may be gone forever.

A man who sits shrunk up and worthless in a little place, because he thinks it is not worth while to grow enough to fill that, has little prospect of getting into larger ones. Fill the place that you are in. Fit yourself for higher usefulness. To do that you must do something besides play, though that may be innocent in itself.

"The beginning of strife is like the letting out of water," says thw wise King, and in no case is this truer than in the case of family quarrels. The little breach, no larger at first than a child's finger could stop, but through which comes the continual dropping, if not attended to in time, will widen and stretch, till one fine day there is a waking up to find the angry waters surging around, sweeping in and overwhelming all the sweet peace and love and harmony of home. There is no greater fallacy than to suppose that because people are relatives, there is less necessity for the common courtesy that is willingly extended to a stranger.

Some of the people who are the most anxious about the recognition of friends in heaven are the ones who shake hands with two fingers in church.

Good wives are better conservators of the public peace and morality than policemen, prison statutes, and all the terrors of the law. Let a man be thus home anchored, and have an interest in a house and lot, and except he is radically bad, he becomes a self-appointed guardian of the peace and of public morals.

The carpenter is abroad in the land and many new houses are going up. Not a few of them are to be occupied by young people, who have lately gone through the ordeal of a wedding march and marriage ceremony. As a maetrt of course there has been a great deal of talking "under the roses" about the location, the style of archietecture, the quality and quantity of furniture to be purchased, and how they intend to live when they take possession of this modernized Eden. Oh, we wish we could impress it on their minds that it doesn't matter so much whether the house be built after Gothic or pioneer style of architecture, whether the furniture is of fashionable make or home manufacture; whether the walls are hung with costly tapestry or with family wardrobe; if love and virtue cement the family circle, it w will be home in the truest sense of the word. The body is but the dwelling place of the soul, so, likewise the house is but the tenement of the home. We cannot all have perfect forms, and classic features, but we can have pure, beautiful spirits, we cannot all have elegant, richly furnished houses, but we can have sunny, pleasant homes.

Courtesy, like charity, should begin at home. Of course one does not expect to find the same degree of ceremony practiced there as the formalities of mere acquaintanceship exact, but there certainly should not be less respect and deference paid to those who are nearer and dearer to us, than to outsiders. The man who is a gentleman in his home and among those who comprise his immediate household, can be trusted to do nothing unbecoming to a gentleman when beyond the precincts of home; but the man who is courtesy itself when abroad is oftentimes the veriest boor within the confines of his own dwelling place. Such a man may pride himself on being a gentleman; but he is deficient in the elementary instincts of the true type, and is consequently somewhat akin to a counterfeit that has obtained more or less circulation among the unitiated, but is nevertheless a spurious coin, the worthlessness of which will be discovered sooner or later.

HOTRUM FOUND GUILTY; ASKS STATED CASE

CONVICTED OF WILLFUL MURDER OF CECIL SABINE—COUNSEL APPLIES FOR STATED CASE,

SENTENCE LATER

TORONTO, May 16. Canadian Press. — Roy Hotrum stands convicted of the wilful murder of Leonard Cecil Sabine, the druggist who was shot down in his stors on the night of March 5th.

The end of the trial, which lastde since Wednesday afternoon, came on Saturday night at 6 o'clock. The foreman announed his verdict in a clear voice. Hotrum, save by a tightening of his jaw and an accentuation of pallor, gave little outward sign of his feelings. He smiled slightly.

Immediately upon receiving the verict Mr. W. K. Murphy, counsel for Hotrum, asked for a stated case upon several points of law.

It is understood that the question of McFadden being called to the witness stand to give rebuttal evidence, and also that other phases of intent to murder, are involved.

Hotrum will not receive sentence until later in the week but he will be called as a witness against his companion, Wiliam McFadden who faces his trial to-day.

THE WEATHER

The temperature was down below the freezing point last night. This morning at 6 o'clock the thermometer was at 33 degrees. During the night it had been down to 31, notwithstanding a cloudy sky and a brisk breeze blowing. The maples are now in full foliage, and are at least ten days ahead of their usual date for summer attire.—W.P.

PROBABILITIES.

Moderate winds, becoming variable, fair and cool. Tuesday, fair with a little higher temperature.

One sure way to get into heaven for a day at least is to do a kind act to some one who does not like you.

Fear Plot to Blow Up the Welland Canal in Theft of Explosives

"INTERNATIONAL SPY."

Ignatius Trebich Lincoln, self-confessed spy, acquitted at Vienna on charges of treason.

TWENTY-EIGHT CASES OF DYNAMITE TAKEN PROM GOVERNMENT STORES BY REDS, IT IS BELIEVED.

GUARDING THE CANAL

WELLAND, May 16.— (Canadian Press).—Twenty-eight cases of dynamite, fourteen hundred pounds are missing from the Dominion Government stores near Allanburg. The loss was discovered late Friday night. The explosive is believed to have been stolen by "Reds" among the unemployed of the vicinity. Convinced that the theft was the initial step in a plan by unemployed 'Reds' to blow up the Welland Canal, the Police of Welland and Niagara Falls, Ontario, are actively co-operating with the Federal authorities in an effort to locate the stolen explosive and round up the principals in the crime. The guard on the completed portion of the Welland Ship Canal is on the qui vive, lock tenders are on the alert and citizens of the village and country side are also aiding to solve the mystery.

PEACE MAKER IS MURDERED

WOMEN WHO ATTEMPTED TO PROMOTE IRISH PEACE SHOT AND KILLED

BELFAST, May 16.— (Canadian Press.) — Miss Barrington, only daughter of Sir Charles Barrington, former high sheriff of County Limerick, and who has been interested recently in endeavoring to promote a peace settlement between the discordant factions in Ireland, was shot and killed yesterday in an attack upon a party with which she was travelling.

Nine policemen, two soldiers and a number of other persons were killed Saturday and yesterday in attacks and counter attacks at various places. Numerous persons were wounded. For general and organized violence Saturday and yesterday probably were the worst since shootings on a large scale were inaugurated in January, 1919. All casualties except one occurred in the area covered by the Southern Parliament.

LOSS BY FIRE IS $500,000

WOOLLEN MILLS AND TOBACCO BARNS AT KINGSVILLE ARE DESTROYED.

KINGSVILLE, Ont., May 16.—(Canadian Press.)—Fire of undetermined origin Saturday afternoon destroyed the Brown-Wiggle woollen mills and the tobacco barns of Ben Jasperson, causing loss estimated at half a million. Fifty men who were working on the second and third floors of the main building, escaped with difficulty, most of them using hastily made rope ladders. More than four hundred men and women were employed in the mills. The women employees quit at noon.

We Give

A 10-Day Tube to anyone who asks. Send the coupon and watch the delightful effects.

You Will Enjoy

This new teeth-cleaning method

Brush teeth for ten days in this new way. We supply the test. See and feel the good effects. Compare them with the old ways.

It will be a pleasant test. And it may bring to you, as it has to millions, a new conception of clean teeth.

Whiter teeth

One great object is to fight the film—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

Old brushing methods do not effectively combat it. Much is left intact, forming a dingy coat. And most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

Film is what discolors, not the teeth. It forms the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Fight it daily

Dental science has found two methods to effectively fight film. Many careful tests have proved them. Leading dentists everywhere now advise their daily use.

Both are combined in a tooth paste called Pepsodent—a scientific product. And to millions of people it is bringing whiter, cleaner, safer teeth.

Acts like fruit acids

Pepsodent also brings three other effects, such as fruit acids would bring. It brings them regularly and at proper times.

It multiplies the salivary flow — Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize mouth acids which cause tooth decay.

Modern diet, rich in starch, makes these things essential.

Quickly seen

The effects are quick and apparent. No one can doubt the benefits when they are explained.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Feel and see these good effects, then judge if you always want them. They are vastly important Cut out the coupon now.

AN UNLUCKY DEBUT.

The first appearance on the political stage of Hon. K. Spinney and Hon. R. W. Wigmore cannot be described as a glittering success, and neither Premier Meighen nor his two new Cabinet ministers have any reason for feeling elated. Mr. Spinney has been unlucky enough to have his initial introduction to the critical eye of the public consist of the bringing down of a retrograde measure calling for a return to the spoils system in the making of Civil Service appointments—not a very auspicious start. His fellow novice has been even more unfortunate, for the disclosures made by Hon. Rodolph Lemieux, that Mr. Wigmore has been guilty of using the official paper of his department, and the mention of his position in the government in an attempt to secure business for the firm of which he is a member, furnishes a rather unenviable commencement for the career of a Cabinet Minister.

THE SPINNEY BILL.

The whole tenor of the evidence offered by witnesses called to testify before the Special Committee of the House of Commons, which is investigating the question of Civil Service appointments, is against the Spinney Bill. The heads of various departments of the Civil Service are almose unanimous in the belief that there has been a striking improvement in efficiency since the power of recommending appointments was taken away from the private members and entrusted to the Civil Service Commission. It is agreed that a better class of men has been brought into the service, and that better work is being done. Some witnesses declared that under the old method men were appointed who were a disgrace to the Civil Service, and the concensus of opinion is that the princple of promoton has improved the various departments and given Civil Servants something to look forward to, and to work for. The Spinney Bill has no friends except among some of the members of the Government side of the House who were responsible for its being brought forward. It should be quietly taken out and buried, in the public interest.

RIVERSIDE PARK.

The decision of the City Council to expropriate Riverside Park, as well as the other property between the park and the new bridge, will be pleasing to the majority of the ratepayers who have been somewhat mystified at the attitude of the aldermen towards this project. The securing of the whole block of land south of the bridge will eventually mean a most beautiful park, that should be a source of pride and pleasure for the whole community. It is an important undertaking that should be carefully planned and executed. The expenditure involved will be amply justified by the results, if vision and foresight are employed in the preparations for converting the property into a beauty spot. Nothing will be done this year in the way of actual work but the advice of experts should be secured and plans arranged that might be commenced next year, if conditions justify such a step.

ARE WE CHEAP SKATES?

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, our gallant Minister of Militia, made out a wonderful case for Canada yesterday in this piffling business of "defence." He proved to the hilt that we are getting off cheaper than anyone else. So low, indeed, is our per capita expenditure for defence — it is only $1.80 per capita — when compared with the expenditure of other nations as reported to the Brussels Conference, that Mr. Guthrie was able to declare with great unction that "Canada's figures for defence were so low as to make other countries look rather ridiculous."

Among the "other countries" which are thus "made to look rather ridiculous" is the United Kingdom, which is silly enough to spend $23.35 per capita on defence. Isn't it just grand how we young chaps in this happy and prosperous new Canada are able to hoodwink and make a laughing stock of the effete Mother Country, slipping out of the defence obligations of our common Empire on the delightfully cheap basis of $1.80 per Canadian head, as against $23.35 per British head?

Of course, there are always captious people who would criticise the slickest bargain. There are men, we are quite ready to believe, who would be stupid enough to inquire whether we really get an adequate amount of defence for our little $1.80 per head. After all, you know, national defence is not a luxury or an ornament, but an exceedingly vital necessity. It will never do for us to pile up the money we save by slipping neatly out of our defence duties, only to lose it because when the test comes we are not effectively defended. So we must make sure that our money buys enough "defence."

But—just between ourselves—one need really worry about that. We are magnificently defended. And that is where the cream of the joke come in. We are defended by the "rather ridiculous" British people who are putting up their $23.35 per capita to maintain a defence organisation behind which we sleep in security. "It is to laugh." It was not for nothing that Sam Slick was written by a Canadian author.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The decorations on the Ashburnham bridge are symbolic of the language of some of the taxpayer when they realize what the structure cost.

Mr. Edison's now famous list of questions seems to be far from complete. He may with our permission include the following in his next list:

"What is Babe Ruth?"

"What are the principal ingredients in a modern complexion?"

"Where is the Ashburnham bridge—and why?"

"Who won the war?"

"Where do the flies go in the winter time?"

"Why is the Spinney Bill?"

"What is the diference between a run-runner and a bootlegger?"

"Sweet and low" is the favorite melody of the confectioner, now that the luxury tax has been lifted.

PILES

ARE GENERALLY CAUSED BY

CONSTIPATION

There are few, if any, complaints more common than hemorrhoids, or piles, as they are commonly called, and scarcely any which cause more trouble, annoyance and misery.

Ninety per cent. are troubled with them at some time or other, owing to allowing the bowels to become in a constipated condition.

Piles are classed under three headings, i.e., itching, bleeding and protruding, and the excruciating pains which accompany them cause misery wrich is beyond description.

Ointments and suppositories may help and relieve for a while, but to get rid of them, it is necessary to have a free, easy and natural motion of the bowels, at least once or twice a day, and by doing this the cause will be quickly removed.

Milburn's Lava-Liver Pills regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the liver and bowels, thus removing the constipation and all of its allied troubles.

They contain no calomel or drastic mineral ingredients, being purely vegetable. They are small and easy to take and do not gripe, weaken or sicken.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

"The Moping Owl Does to the Moon Complain----"

Many of those who wallowed in the fleshpots of prosperity are moping during these days of revision.

They are wondering whether the world is still revolving and whether they will buy anything any more.

They remind one of Gray's lines—

"The moping owl does to the moon complain
Of such as, wand'ring near her secret bow'r,
Molest her ancient solitary reign."

Now, one must buy in order to sell. The axis of progression is industry. But industry can only flourish when people buy normally.

Supposing you or any member of your family is engaged in a business or profession.

Suppose people refuse to buy the goods or services that they take part in producing or selling.

It makes no difference whether the goods are foodstuffs, or for raiment or shelter or articles of luxury or professional services (as those of a lawyer)—the principle is the same.

If people cease buying these goods or services your prosperity and the prosperity of your family becomes seriously impaired.

The sensible thing for all to do is to continue normal buying. Not only of the things one must have in order to live, but of those things that add to the refinements of living.

But—and this is very important—give preference when you buy to the merchant who advertises in daily newspapers and buy advertised goods.

The local merchant who advertises and the manufacturer who advertises are doing more to bring about a return to normal prosperity than any other trader.

For this reason they have first claim upon your patronage.

ADDRESSED LOCAL U.F.O. MEETING

COURSES OPEN FOR PETERBORO COUNTY FARMERS.

On Wednesday May 11th., the Peterborough Branch of the United Farm Young People of Ontario, held their regular monthly meeting in the U.F.O. rooms, with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Shields and Mrs. H. Milburn as chaperons. There was a good attendance and ten new members were registered.

Mr. F. C. McRae, district representative of Agriculture, addressed the young men outlining the county competitions open to them, also the Special Winter Course and the Live-stock Judging Course. A number of the young men intend to avail themselves of the opportunities presented and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. McRae.

An able address on "Debates" was then given by Mr. Harry Jackson, of the champion debating team of Emily.

This was followed by an interesting debate on "Resolved that the Automobile is a hindrance rather than a help to the farmer", the affirmative being upheld by Mr. Frank Sullivan and the negative by Messrs. Roy Sanderson and Rae Hetherington. The judges after complimenting the debaters, brought in a decision in favour of the negative.

A very much appreciated communication from Mr. W. H. Merrill was read by the secretary, telling of his cash prizes for the best decorated sheaf of oats exhibited at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition by a farmer's daughter.

The executive are arranging a good programme for the next meeting of the Peterborough U.F.O. which will be held in the U.F.O. rooms on June 8th at 8.15 p.m.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

Chapter 6.

On Tuesday morning when Alvah Fairchild had called me on the telephone my answer had come from the genuine depths of my heart. At the sound of his voice I had abruptly turned from my former plan of making a date with him in New York to a positive decision against it. The idea suddenly became repugnant to me. I wondered why I had ever been flattered by him. I was contrary to, to my true self.

When I went back to my room I saw the spool of white thread where it had rolled under the edge of the bed. I caught hold of it and started winding back again the long trail of thread which it had left in its wake, when it fell from my lap. It was as if all the flighty, loose ends of thought that had predominated me ever since my eventful fatal meeting with Thierry, were being rolled up and placed carefully out of harm's way. For hte first time after its terrible racking, my brain functioned early.

I took from my sewing table Leonard's unmended socks which I had placed there the day before, sat down and put them in my lap. It was going to help me to think more correctly and be more honest with myself to have them near. I had always said I could do a lot of deep thinking when I had darning to do.

In the first place I had decided definitely that I had no desire to bring Leonard back to me through jealousy. That was final. If I had not loved him it might have been different. But I did. Therefore, any forced flirtation on my part was distasteful to me. I loathed the thought of it. If Leonard did not love me that would not make it easier for me to love someone else. It would make it much harder. In fact, it would make it impossible. If he did not love me then half of me was dead. I had no heart for anything.

I picked up the black silk sock that I was sewing on and wiped a tear away from my eye with it. I mustn't get weepy or I couldn't think—and I had to think.

There was one thing certain. If Leonard still had any love—that old wonderful love of his—leit in his heart for me, then I was not going to sit back and see another take him away from me.

I started to think back over the many things that had happened in the past eight months. I got as far as Thierry Brunswick and what he had told me. Then my mind suddenly grabbed at a thought and held it. I thought over again of that evening at Atlantic City when Thie and I had gone to "movies" together. I remembered how his ardor and youthful flattery had stirred my emotions. My cheeks burned guiltily as I thought of how we had held hands there in the darkness of the theatre.

After it had happened I wondered how I had been so susceptible. It had bothered me, but the fact had remained that I had been moved unduly by another—someone who wasn't my husband.

Now the memory of it brought a little comfort to my heart. Not because it tickled my vanity, but because it brought a terrible revelation to me. As terrible as the thought was, it had stirred a hope within my breast.

I was looking a new thought in the face. It had taken four years of married life for me to discover it. It was this—you might love your husband or wife whole-heartedly and still be susceptible to the fascinations of another without lessening the loyalty of your real love.

When Leonard reached home that night the soft shirt lay on his bed where he could see it. It was mended and laundered, white and silky.

"Gee! Is this the shirt I gave you this morning?" he called to me as he discovered it "It looks like new—how'd you ever do it, Noreen?"

"It was easy, dear," I called back. And so it was—love had done it.

MOTOR BUS VERY POPULAR IN LONDON

(By Austin West.)

LONDON, May 16.—Millions of Londoners start week-end trips these days, using the greatest city's greatest transport system—the omnibuses. Everyone scrambles to find a seat "on top."

Enormous week-end traffic and extension of bus-lines into suburban areas has increased bus business until some amazing comparative statistics are possible. For example, the London omnibuses today carry far more passengers than the combined subway and surface railways in the London district.

Buses, 2,500,000 persons.

Wherefore London is rejoicing becaus these figures indicate the bus busines has more than regained pre-war volume and efficiency.

Incidentally, the Londoner today can hop a bus at his very doorway and ride scores of miles into the verdant countryside far from the smoke and grime of the city.

All the Way to Brighton.

By making a couple of changes Mr. Londoner can ride all the way to Brighton and spend a day by the sea.

But it's the fifty odd excursion bus routes that form the main-stay of this great business; it's the steady day-in-and-day-out volume of millions of and-day-out volume of millions of workers gong to business every morning and returning at night and throngs of shoppers that keep the great vehicles loaded earning tons of copper coins.

Nearly 150 separate bus-lines thread their way through London, connecting the busy down-town sections with the suburban redsience sections, and interlinking the various suburban communities with one another. Some 616 miles of road are "worked" in this manner.

Recently some marked improvements have been made in the type of omnibuses used. Today the popular "S" ype, carryng 54 persons inside and out, of which a large n mberare operating, is a far cry from the first horse omnibuses that started operating ninety years ago.

The 2,600 omnibuses in operation today under one management represent an amalgamation of the numerous smaller lines that were in existence some years back.

Cheaper Than Railway.

England has awakened to the fact that country travel by motor bus is cheaper than railroad travel, wherefore flocks of specially chartered omnibuses and a more luxurious type of motor bus known as the "charabanc" cover the country and seaside every week end.

London buses are operated on a very accommodating programme. If you live five or six miles from the theatre district you can charter a bus, go down town for dinner, and ride home after the show, together with 53 neighbors, for a total cost for the lot of about $12.

Ordinary bus fares are comparatively cheap, even though they were advanced 30 per cent. last September. Very short rides cost about three cents in U. S. money and the usual suburban fares average around a dime. A two-hour ride into the country costs about 25 cents.

During the war London's bus traffic was suddenly knocked out when 5,300 of the big vehicles were bundled off to France to haul soldiers and help block the great German advance.

HERE'S A BOON TO MOTORISTS IN TROUBLE

S. O. S. for help—The auto radio is here. First test of the new auto radio apparatus being made in San Francisco. The poles can be folded when not in use and carried on the sides of the car. After the "Flu"

Four Children Had

Whooping Cough

Whooping cough, although specially a disease of childhood, is by no means confined to that period, but may occur at any time of life. It is one of the most dangerous diseases of infancy, and yearly causes more deaths than scarlet fever, typhoid or diphtheria, and is more common in female than male children.

Whooping cough starts with sneezing, watering of the eyes, irritation of the throat, feverishness and cough.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is highly recommended by mothers everywhere for the relief of this trouble as it helps to clear the clogged-up air passages of the mucous and phlegm that has collected, and in this way bring on the "whoop," which brings the so-much-sought for relief and heals and soothes the lungs.

Mrs. J. M. Rouse, Imperial, Sask., writes:—"After the 'flu,' last fall, my four children took whooping cough and one of them developed bronchitis. After using two or three botles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup they were greatly relieved of their nasty coughs. It is an especially good remedy for children, and is so nice they take it readily, and ask for more."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is 35c. and 60c. a bottle at all dealers. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

DON'T SPIN WHEELS TO EXTRICATE CAR

Once a car is stuck in sand it is useless to try to get it out by spinning the rear wheels. If no progress is made on the first trial, shift to neutral, and get busy at the rear wheels. Boards, if they are obtainable, ar eexcellent in allowing the rear wheels to grip. The boards should be placed at the rear of the tires, an car reversed out of the difficulty.

In approaching a sandy spot, it is bes no speed up a little holding the steering wheel firmly, so as to be prepared for an emergency. In sand the steering wheels are a little hard to control.

Muddy roads are negotiated in the same way as sandy ones, though usually tire chains will pull a car through mud that is not too deep.

THAT SUDDEN Sharp Pain which you experience at times can be removed. No woman has the right to suffer when she can obtain relief safely, certainly and promptly. Suppose you do have headaches, backaches, extreme nervousness, low spirits and general good-for-nothing feelings at times? Your case is not hopeless. Try Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Sold by druggists in liquid or tablets, or send 10c. to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for a trial package.

Read what this woman says:

LONDON, ONT.—"In my early married life I was very frail and delicate. I was feeling exceedingly weak and miserable when a friend advised me to take a bottle of Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription. From the very start I felt new strength and vitality. I am always grateful for what Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for me and will always be pleased to recommend it."—Mrs. JOHN DANBY, 139 Ann Street.

THE FASCISTI HELPING ITALY

LONDON, May 16.—What the Vigilantes did for California in the lawless '50's, the Fascisti is doing for Italy now. It is an organization of public spirited, well meaning citizens which has grown during the last few months of social unrest throughout the country. Today it has a membership of 3,500,000, and to a large extent keeps he law, preserves peace and suppresses the more radical elements that once so darkly threatened Italy with Bolshevism.

One of the leading spirits of the Fascisti is M. Constantini, who stopped here for several days on his way from Rome to Washington. He is on an important diplomatic mission, but refuses to divulge its nature.

"The preservat'on of law and order, and the maintenance of the authority of the Government, is the aim of the Fascisti," he said. "The name Fascisti is derived from the Fasci, meaning bundle of rods, the name being used to apply to the implements carried by the lictors in frout of the consuls in the days of the Roman Empire as indicative of the authority of the state. The organization was founded as a result of the Socialist outbreaks last autumn, when the workers seized the factories and also, in some sections, the land."

Originally founded by Professor Benito Mussolini, the proprietor and founder of the Popolo d'Ilatia, the organization is directed today from Milan by Tomaso Torrigiani. He is assisted by a secret council, representative of all parts of the country, which is divided into areas conforming more or less with the provincial divisions of the country, though in the more populated industrial districts the areas are subdivided according to the townships of greatest importance. In the organization are all the principal leaders of industry and agriculture throughout Italy, who, according to the extent of protection which they ask from the Fascisti, contribute to the funds of the movement. If a landed proprietor owns 1,000 acres of land he subscribes to the fund of the local committee 10 lire per acre and in return he can ask for protection and help if the peasants refuse to do their work.

How It Works Out.

Near Ferrara, for instance, the peasants refused to reap the crops. The proprietors called on the Fascisti for help. Two camions laden with members fully armed were sent to the district and the crops harvested. When the work was done the Fascisti leaders went into the village and posted a notice on the church door, stating that the crops had been gathered by the Fascisti and that if any reprisals were made on the landowners as a result the leaders of the Socialists and Anarchists, together with their families, would suffer for it. The Fascisti then withdrew to their headquarters. No reprisals were attempted.

During the electrical strike in Florence, four Fascisti presented themselves at the electric light works and interviewed the leader of the engineers. They informed him gently but firmly that he was sresponsible for the strike, and that unless the town was fully lit in one hour he and his family would suffer. The man denied that he was responsible and pleaded for mercy. He offered to put the Fascisti in touch with the leader—the chief engineer—who in turn was interviewed and given the choice of "light or death for himself and family." He was soon frantically telephoning to get to work at the generating station. The Fascisti then sat down in his room and watched the pressure gauges gradually rise until, like a fairy-lan, all the lights burst out along the vanks of the Arno and across the river at Fissoli. The strike was thus ended and later a conference between the municipality and the strikers ended the dispute in a satisfactory manner.

In the same manner, when the municipal employees went out on strike in Florence, the Fascisti organized their own partisans and kept the streets clean and attended to the public services. The Fascisti leaders patrolled the streets to keep order, and very soon the strikers were back at work.

Came From Every Class.

The Fascisti are enrolled from every class of the community, but they wear no badge. Their ranks are continually increasing as the people get tired of extreme socialism and anarchy such as that witnessed last fall. As no badges are worn no one knows exactly who belongs to the party. The tactics of the leaders are based on "surprise." In consequence the Socialists are always guessing as to where the Fascisti will strike next. The link between the Government and the Fascisti is the intelligence services, although the Fascisti are not recognized as a social body. If a certain district is particularly "bad" the Fascisti take over control and break up the Socialists and anarchists. Then the Government steps in and carries on where the Fascisti stops.

On some occasions where they think there is the possibility of trouble coming they step in ahead. At the Socialist Congress at Leghorn the leaders were warned by the Fascisti that any excess would not be tolerated and the leaders themselves, not their followers, would pay for them. As a consequence the congress went off quietly. Signor Bombacci, the Socialist leader, who is supposed to hold sway over his followers by the fascination of a magnificent full beard, was warned that his punishment would be a quick shave.

The Fascisti insist in their punishments that it shall be the leaders and their families who shall suffer. They say that the leaders always shirk their responsibility when trouble comes and the only way to break anarchy is by enforcing responsibility on those leaders. The result has been surprising, and the Italian anarchist leaders are beginning to find out that they cannot escape punishment.

Of course, this rigorous method of restoring order is not done without bloodshed now and then. But all the Fascisti are ex-soldiers, who behave toward anarchy as they did toward the enemy on the Grappa and the Carso. Every Fascisti centre has its own arsenal, motor transport and commissariat. In every village in Italy there is a representative in touch with the groop centre. At the first evidence of trouble he sends a messenger to the centre, and within a few hours convoys of Fascisti have arrived and taken over the positions. It is noted that the Prefect or other Government representative seldom reports to the ministry of the interior until the situation is returned to the normal and he is in a position to resume his ordinary routine.

The movement of the Fascisti is a extraordinary one, justified perhaps by the position in which Italy found herself last fall when the anarchist mob was threatening to destroy the whole social structure. Premier Giolitti is a man who believes that if you give a dog enough rope he will hang himself. He refused to turn the artillery against the Socialists when they seized the factories, saying: "It's just as well that they should find out for themselves the difficulties of a factory owner." And very soon the workers had learned for themselves the difficulties of credits, raw material and other questions and were only too keen to hand the factories back to the owners. In the same way, although he invited D'Annunzio to leave Fiume quietly, the premier was probably glad he refused and stayed until he was finally turned out. For D'Annunzio back in Italy before it was shown that he was disobeying the authority of the crown would have been as a martyr with a tremendous following, and with his temperament would have possibly created great trouble for Italy in other quarters as, for instance, Malta.

In this question Giolitti knew that the Socialists by their excesses would ruin their own cause. The result was the Fascisti held the whip to cow them with. Giolitti saw the salvation of the situation in the revulsion of feeling among the population. He, therefore, gave the Fascisti a more or less free hand.

It remains to be seen, however, how the movement will develop or be controlled. There are not signs wanting to show that, while today it is nonpolitical, certain elements threaten to consolidate the movement into a party move and through the Fascisti form a great national party. This would probably suin the whole movement, since Italy has never maintained a national party except under conditions similar to those which imposed the necessity of forming the Fascisti, namely, a national necessity. And the organization is bound to lose its force and strength when the necessity for it passes.

As a party the movement, born for the preservation of the purity of the nation, would almost certainly crumble under the acid test of Italian internal politics. So the Fascisti will probably not live long.

Your Car Can't Ride on Faith and Hope

Is he still in business? Has he been in business ten years? Or even five years?

Why don't the manufacturers of "cheap" tires stay in business longer?

Because their market is soon exhausted. The maker of cheap tires soon covers the entire list—and then he must quit.

But another similar maker springs up in his place—and the merry game goes on. Faith and Hope are beautiful things in this dull world—but the faith and hope of some men in "cheap" tires is really pathetic.

Goodyear is the world's largest maker of tires. Goodyear owns rubber plantations, cotton plantations and fabric mills. Goodyear enjoys the economies of years and years in tremendous production and sales. And a tire good enough to carry our name is at all times the economical tire for you to use.

The car manufacturer who uses thousands of tires a year knows. And Canadian automobile makers over a period of ten years have sold half their cars with Goodyear tires.

The tire dealer knows. And the best 4000 of them in Canada sell Goodyears.

This is a year to put your motoring on a careful basis. It is a year to watch your gasoline consumption, to take care of your car—and to use Goodyear Tires.

PEORLE OF EVERY TYPE FOUND IN INDIA

People of every human type throughout the earth are found in India—the population is what may be termed "an immense mixed multitude," consisting of an extraordinary variety of peoples, creeds and customs. As many as 185 different languages have been listed by the British government. The languages of the Aryan people of the North are for the most part of Sanskirt origin. In the South of Dravidian languages are chiefly spoken. These have sprung from the Romanese languages: the ancient Latin, the French, Spanish and Italian. Then there are the languages and dialects of the Mongols. Hindustani, or Urdu, which is the common dialect of the Mohammedans all over India, is a mixture of Arabic and Persian on a Hindu base.

Each of the native states of India has its own language, together with a variety of dialects. When the National congress of India meets to discuss the problems and needs of the peoples of these native states, the only practical means of communication at hand is in the language of each of these native states.

India is a densely populated country. There the people are crowded more closely than in any other country in the world, with perhaps the single exception of China. The United States and Canada could add to their combined populations the entire population of Africa and South America, and still fall short of the population of India, 318,901,091.

At least two-thirds of the people of India are engaged in agriculture. For a country as extensive as India there are few really large cities, only about eight the population of which exceeds 200,000. The largest are Calcutta and Bombay, the former with a population upwards of a million, and the latter three-quarters of a million. The other cities of importance are Madras, Delhi, Lucknow, Lahore, Ahmadabad and Benares. In these cities, especially Calcutta and Bombay, there is considerable wealth, much of it in native hands. There are also, principally in Northern India, many extensive estates or ranches, a number of them with native owners. It is for the most part the output of these great estates that has brought to India the credit of "supplying the whole world with jute," and of annually producing "a cotton crop the second largest in the world."

Yet despite this great wealth, in the hands of the few, the masses of the people are miserably poor. Famines are of frequent occurrence and people die by the millions. During the past 50 years 22 famines have swept away 28,000,000 of the people of India.

The people are so crowded together and generally the allotment of land for each family is so small, and in India, as perhaps in no other country, the crops are so dependent on weather conditions, it is no wonder the people are in the grip of wide-spread poverty.

In India the people do not usually live upon the little farms but cluster together in small villages. These villages, often placed in the most desolate spots, are but a forlorn aggregation of straw-thatched mud walls. There are no tables or chairs in most of these homes, and no beds. The members of the family squat upon the floor, and at night they lie down upon the floor, thankful if there is a pile of straw upon which to sleep. When there are beds in these homes, they are queer-looking affairs, a clumsy frame of wood with a net-work of ropes stretched across it, and with a rough wooden leg at each corner. The most of these beds are quite short and narrow, no more than three feet wide by four feet long; but grown Hindu, who sleeps with his leg drawn up or doubled under him.

An exciting time is when the toddy seller comes to the village. Intemperance, however, is not widespread in India. The Mohammedan religion prohibits the use of liquor, and there are many sects of Hindus also among whom the use of intoxicants is forbidden. Yet in some parts of India there is a good deal of native liquor used, but only among certain castes. The native li—or is said to be very strong and power—l. Children are not only sent to buy it, but are allowed to drink it.

MAKING OVER A BOY.

Many fathers are prone to want their boys to grow up to be the man they want rather than the man the boy wants to be. So many young men's careers have been greatly retarded or lost entirely simply because the fathers have insisted upon planning that career themselves. Parents make a grave mistake in laying out plans as to the method their boy shall make his living until the boy is old enough to indicate a choice himself. The boy is the one most affected by his choice and why shouldn't it be as he wants it? Of course, it's hard if you planned him for a doctor to have him turn out a civil engineer, but no one can help it.

Early in life a child's tendencies should be watched. Children very often at an early age show what their choice of vocation is going to be. As soon as this tendency becomes marked it should be carefully fostered. Don't think you can change the trend of the child's nature because it will prove a vain hope. If he wants to be an architect or an electrician better give him a good start now than wait ten or fifteen years and delay his progress.

"Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose."
Has earned a night's repose."

Only the person who each day sets for himself a definite task and accomplishes it can know the real satisfaction in that quotation. If you want to find yourself satisfied with life, set a task for yourself satisfied with life, set a task for yourself each day and then do it. When you lay your head on the pillow at night you will feel you have earned your rest and it will be much sweeter for the earning.

STATISTICS PROVE NINETY PER CENT. OF DISEASES INFECTIOUS

HOMES THREATENED BY INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

The health of the home is threateedn by infectious diseases more than from any other source; in fact, statistics prove that fully 90 per cent. of the diseases are infectious, or, in other words, are caused by germs which may be transmitted from one person to another by direct contact or by other means. You would not knowingly allow a person from a house in which there was typhoid, yellow or scarlet fever, consumption or smallpox to carry the germs of these diseases into your home. This fact is so vastly important that laws have been made governing the isolation of people suffering from these and other infectious diseases, yet no law can govern other common carriers except the science of sanitation, which reaches the real seat of trouble—the germ of disease.

These germs of disease are brought into the home by common carriers, such as dust, dogs and cats, and the common house fly. The dust blowing into the house brings with it countless germs collected over a wide area.

The common house fly carries as many, if not more, than all other carriers combined. A prominent authority states that the diseases resulting from the GERMS CARRIED BY THE HOUSE-FLY CUT SHORT THE AVERAGE SPAN OF LIFE TWO YEARS. The ordinary house-fly —the dirty fly—is closely related to the dreaded typhoid fly. It is known to be the cause of typhoid fever, consumption, summer complaint and other diseases without number.

In the science of sanitation DISINFECTANTS play the most important part, and because they destroy the disease germs, they are the greatest aids in preserving good health in the home.

The druggists and grocers listed below recommend Deoxide Disinfectant. If you are not satisfied after trying it your money refunded: Warne Drug Co., J. Lynch, Druggist, P. S. White Co., W. J. MOTHERS' DAY AT GEORGE STREET

Owing to the Social Service Council occupying the pulpit at both services last Sunday, Mothers' Day was celebrated yesterday. Impressive and inspirational were the messages brought by the pastor, Rev. W. Harold Young.

Morning Service.

In the morning Mr. Young first spoke to the children, bringing them a little sermon on tne love of mother in story form. At the conclusion, while the choir sang "Home, Sweet Home," two little girls brought forward baskets of beautiful flowers as a tribute to our mothers. The theme was continued in a sermon to the adults.

Choir Leader's Anniversary.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. John H. Renwick, organist and soloist of the church, completed their tenth year of service. As a fitting climax, the evening service was largely musical, the choir being augmented for the occasion. Solo parts were taken by Mrs. J. H. Renwick, Misses Doris Rathbone, Elva McIntyre, and Myrtle Succe, and Messrs. E. Jones, C. Thorpe, and A. Barton. A special feature of the musical service was a male chorus of some twenty-five voices.

"The Faith the World Needs" was Mr. Young's subject at the evening service, the text being taken from John 19, 25, "Now, there stood by the cross of Jesus, his mother." "What is in our minds to-night," said Mr. Young, "is that if the world is to reach the heights which are possible, then we must have more and more in our lives the spirit of the mother of Jesus as she stood on the crest of the hillside that first black Friday. It is the spirit which is in the heart of every mother worthy the name." Mr. Young brought out three points in connection with the attitude of the mother of Jesus at the cross to emphasise the spirit which will be required to be found in the hearts of men if the things of which man is capable are to be realised. In the first place as we scan that figure of Mary standing in her sorrow and anguish of heart, there surely is written for everyone to see, her personal loyalty and faith in the heart of man. She saw Jesus as her son. She believed in Him and nothing else mattered.

Spirit of Loyalty Necessary.

"Isn't that the thought in the hearts of all of us to-day—the loyalty of our mothers?" said Mr. Young. "This loyalty has been one of the mighty forces that has made us what we are to-day. If the world is ever to realise its fullest possibilities, that spirit of loyalty must be found in other hearts than that of our mothers." The spirit of disloyalty and the cynical lack of faith in man which condemns before he has an a chance, are two great curses in the world to-day.

Another point in connection with that figure of Mary at the cross is that she was there in a spirit of service. She may have had a wild hope in her heart that she might be of some help to her son.—What the world needs is more of the spirit of service—the endeavour to give ourselves to some great end for those around us. We require the great yearning mother-heart for men in their need.

The Cost Not Counted.

In the third place, Mary counted not the cost. She followed Jesus because she believed in Him. What the world needs, declared Mr. Young, is a whole-hearted commitment of men and women to the cause of truth. We are too prone to coldly calculate the whys and the wherefores of things. We need men and women who are enthusiastic about the big things in life. I can think of no cause greater than the cause of Christ, Mr. Young concluded. Let us consecrate ourselves to His cause, caring not what the cost may be. Then shall we do something worthy for Him.

EDDIE GETS YOUTHFUL ROLE AFTER MANY CHARACTER PARTS

For the first time in a number of pictures, Eddie Barry has a youthful role—that of a college boy in "Mr. Fatima" at the Allen Theatre to-day. Because of his cleverness in character roles, Barry is generally cast as an elderly mn in the two-reel Christie comedies, in which he is so popular. In "Out for the Night" he was a hen-pecked college professor and then in "Shuffle the Queens" he was nervous father of a grown son. In "Mr. Fatima" he shows his agility by impersonating a dancer in a travelling show.

TALMADGE SISTERS BEGIN BRIGHTEST YEAR OF CAREERS

Norma, Discussing Plans, Says She Wants to Play Strong Dramatic Emotonal Roles.

Norma and Constance Talmadge have begun an extraordinarily Happy and Prosperous New Year, because 1921 finds them in possession of a contract to continue under the Associated First National banner for another three years, under terms so remarkable that it is said to be the largest individual transaction in all firm history to date. With a deal involving twenty million dollars, Mr. Joseph Schenck can naturally afford to give his stars bigger and better features than ever before, and has already bought no less than eight successful Broadway productions, paying anywhere between forty and seventy-five thousand dollars each for the picture rights alone. One of these is Jacinto Benavente's "The Passion Flower", in which Nance O'Neil starred on Broadway last season. This has been produced with Norma Talmadge as the star, under the direction of Herbert Brenon, and will be shown at the Allen Theatre beginning to-day.

When asked about her plans for the future, Norma said she wanted to play strong, dramatic, emotional roles, which have in them something more than just the opportunity to act, and which besides being true characters portrayals, would at the same time be helpful.

"I have turned down a number of good stories," she said, "because I am not satisfied to have people see in my pictures entertainment only. I want them to alway feel an underlying psychology in what I do, and I like a story with a purpose, a story that gets somewhere, a story with some sort of new idea, or an old ideal. I don't mean to make propaganda pictures or to tack an obvious moral on everything I do, but I believe the morl can be brought out subtly and be so cleverly interwoven in the story that it becomes the very soul of the character and play."

DEMILLE MAKES ENDS "MEAT" IN PICTURE

First Scene of "Forbidden Fruit" Filmed Proves to Be the Last

Making both ends "meat," as a Lasky studio wit has it, has been Cecil B. De Mille's experience in the filming of "Forbidden Fruit," his new Paramount picture, which comes to the Capitol To-night.

As originally planned, the story of "Forbidden Fruit" opens with a scene between the principal feminine character and a butcher. The local is a real, high-priced butcher shop.

This scene was filmed as number one of the picture. Then came a change in the cast. After some delay, the production work continued with numerous retakes. In this retake process, one scene was left for the last. That scene was the one which had originally been filmed first, and it was located in a butcher shop. And so it happened that "the last was first and the first was last."

However that may be, the studio wags had a great time. Such contributions as the following were the order of the day:

"Here's hoping Mr. De Mille makes a 'steak' out of this picture."

"Let's hope there won't be any 'cuts' necessary."

"He makes no bones about this being a meaty picture."

And so forth ad lib.

Agnes Ayres has the leading feminine role. Others in the cast include Clarence Burton, Theodore Roberts, Kathlyn Williams, Theodore Kosloff and Forrest Stanley.

The excellent musical settings played by the 8-piece Capital Concert Orchestra and the balance of a big program promises much in the way of entertainment at the popular prices in vogue at this rightly named— Theatre Beautiful— The Capitol. —Fan! Fan!

"LAST OF THE MOHICANS" NOW A LIVING HISTORY

Critics have placed Maurice Tourneur's new pitcure, "The Last of the Mohicans," by J. Feinmore Cooper, in a new category of film productions. It is called a permanent photoplay classic, which means that it will live when the ordinary entertainment film has passed on. This is for several reasons, the first being that Tourneur proved he could make an absorbing entertainment out of Cooper's famous story, and at the present time preserve the historical and educational values. The Regent Theatre offers his extravagant production, starting to-day.

"The Last of the Mohicans' is a story too well known to need repetition, but the sweet love tale, with the humor and pathos thrills and exciting moments, is one that will cause every beholder to gasp—then laugh, then gulp—for it is intensely human, intensely real, and replete with historical events that thrill.

All the ability and knowledge of the great Tourneur has gone into this production, which comes as his first through the new Associated Producers of which he is a member with Thos. H. Ince, Allan Dwan, Marshall Neilan, Mack Sennett, George Loane Tucker and J. Parker Read, Jr.

An all-lead cast especially selected by Tourneur, appears in this story. The scene backgrounds are exquisite in their rugged beauty.

MRS. CHARLES GREEN GAINS TWENTY POUNDS

"I'll Praise Tanlac Long As I Live," Says Hamilton Woman—Was Dreadfully Run Down and Weak.

"I was sick in bed when I started taking Tanlac, but I never felt stronger or better in my life than I do now," said Mrs. Chas. Green, of 69 Campbell Ave., Hamilton, Ont., wife of a well known railroad employee.

"Why, Tanlac has built me up twenty pounds in weight, and I'm just as healthy and happy as I could want to be. A severe illness of seven years' standing put me in the hospital for an operation, and it left me in a very weakened condition. Then last winter I had such a severe attack of pneumonia that it nearly cost me my life. I went down from one hundred and thirty-five to one hundred and twenty pounds in weight and had no strength at all. I was so nervous I could sleep but very little and I felt miserable all the time. I had been in bed for two solid months, aind was so sick I hardly expected to get well again.

"A friend got me to try Tanlac and the medicine proved such a God-send to me that I was up and about the house in two weeks' time. My appetite became ravenous, and it wasn't but a little while until I was sleeping liek a child at night. As I said, Tanlac has built me up twenty pounds in weight and I have never been in better health than I am now. I have already recommended Tanlac to lots of people and I'll praise it the longest day I live."

CHILDREN GAVE AN INTERESTING PROGRAM

St. Paul's Junior Guild Concert Given by Little Folk.

A thoroughly delightful program was presented in the Sunday School Hall of St. Paul's Church, on Wednesday evening by the small members of the Junior Guild. Especially interesting was the play "The Forest of Every Day" portraying the adventures of the princess in search of happiness and her finding it where she least expects to. Miss Gladys Tattersall made a charming princess. A vote of thanks was rendered Miss Helen Morrison and Mrs. Ashley for the sacrifice of time and energy in training the little folk to the state of perfection they displayed during the performance. The program was as follows:

Opening chorus—Members of the Guild.

Recitation.— Margaret Mason.

Violin Solo, Minuet in G., Beethoven—Donald Morrison.

Missionary Reading— Gwen Anderson.

Song, Sweet and Low. — Jack Clayton.

Address—Rev. Mr. Pogue.

Girls' Chorus—Guild Girls.

Recitation—Miss H. Davidsonu.

Piano Solo—Gladys Miles.

LUCKY BONANZA FOR SHOPPERS THIS WEEK

GREAT SLUMP IN PRICES AT M. FINE'S DRY GOODS STORE.

Some of the greatest snaps offered for years will be handed out to shoppers at M. Fine's store, 432 George street, all day this week. Mr. Fine has been visiting the wholesale markets during the past week, and was very fortunate in picking up several thousand dollars' worth of strictly new merchandise at surprising reductions. Manufacturers in need of money were willing to make heavy sacrifices on goods for the ready cash, and Mr. Fine took advantage of many job lots, which he secured at half and less than half prices. Various classes of goods are included, such as Ladies' Ready-to-wear, Dresses, Coats, Suits, Skirts, Waists, Underwear, Hosiery and Small Wares, as well as Men's Clothing and Furnishings. Shoppers at Fine's this week will buy goods at prices so low down that they can afford to buy in large quantities without giving much serious thought to cost. 1d

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Backache or Bladder trouble.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

MONSIGNOR CASEY, FORMER RECTOR OF ST. PETER'S, DIED SUDDENLY

PASTOR OF ST. MARY'S CHURCH, LINDSAY, HAD BEEN 49 YEARS IN PRIESTHOOD, SERVING IN PETERBORO AND KINGSTON DIOCESES.

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

The Right Reverend Monsignor Dominick Jeremiah Casey, parish priest of Lindsay, died suddenly of heart failure on Saturday afternoon at his residence, the rectory of St. Mary's Church, in Lindsay.

During the morning he had performed his usual duties and made several calls about town apparently in good health. About two o'clock, when preparing to leave for the church to hear confessions, he was seized with a spasm of coughing, and went to his room to rest. His curate, Rev. Michael O'Brien, quickly realised that death was near, and at once administered the last sacrament. Within ten minutes after the first sign of distress, Monsignor Casey was dead. Death had come swiftly and lightly, and with but a brief warning.

Dr. Blanchard was summone immediately, but his prompt arrival was too late to render any aid. Bishop O'Brien was called from Feterborough, and in this connection it is remembered that as Rev. Dr. O'Brien he accompanied Monsignor Casey, then Archdeacon, to Lindsay when in 1902 he was installed in the pastorate of St. Mary's, which he held continuously until his death.

On Saturday Bishop O'Brien's trip was futile, and there remained for him but to depute to Monsignor McColl, of Peterborough, the arrangements for the funeral, which will be held on Wednesday morning.

Bishop O'Brien will cnaut the requiem high mass, at which it is expected the clergy of the diocese will be largely represented. It was reported last night that Monsignor Hartington, of Deseronto, would preach the sermon.

Monsignor Casey was 72 years of age, and with the exception of Monsignor Murray, of Cobourg, he was the oldest priest in the diocese of Peterborough, of which he was the Vicar-General. Next Sunday, 22nd May, he would have celebrated the forty-ninth aniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. He was the only surviving priest of the old archdiocese of Kingston before part of it was established as the diocese of Peterborough. Virtually all of Monsignor Casey's priestly labours were spent in this district, first in the parish of Campbellford, where he remained thirteen years and a half, then eight years as rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, and lastly, nineteen years in Lindsay.

His death will be deeply and generally regretted in these communities. For Monsignor Casey had ereplified throughout his life the fundamental commandment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself." And loving and sympathising with others, not alone those of his own flock, won for him in return the affection and respect of hosts of his fellowmen. Charity was one of his outstanding qualities, and it was a charity warmed with that largeness of heart, understanding, and sincerity that were the essence of his fine personality. The news of his death was announced in the Catholic churches of the city yesterday morning with tributes that aroused in those members of the old parish of St. Peter's recollections of the priest who had given many of his best years in unremitting solicitude for their spiritual welfare, who had frequently visited their homes, the sick in the hospital ,the orphans and the aged, and often, too, the children in the schools to encourage them in their studies, and gently to counsel them in those things that make for character. Education always claimed his interest, and in several of the towns where he was stationed he was a member of the School Boards. Although piety and charity were special attributes of Monsignor Casey, his administrations were not lacking in what might be called the material affairs he had to attend to. His work on that side was everywhere successful. The late Bishop O'Connor placed large responsibilities upon him. He occupied a prominent position in the diocese of Peterborough, and last June, at the request of Bishop O'Brien, he was made a Prothonotary Apostolic by Pope Benedict, the investiture being performed in Lindsay last September on the return of His Lordship from Rome.

Monsignor Casey was always interested in public affairs, and in Lindsay, where he enjoyed the esteem of his fellow-citizens generally the flag on the Town Hall was flown at half-mast on Saturday as an evidence of the community's respect and regret.

He is survived by three sisters, two of whom live in Ottawa. The third is Miss Hannah Casey, of Lindsay.

A Sketch of His Life.

Monsignor Casey was born at Smith's Falls, Ontario, on 5th March, 1849, where he received his primary education at the old Public and Grammar School. He continued his stuies at Regiopolis College, Kingston, an took his course in theology at the Grand Seminary, Montreal. On 29th May, 1872, Monsignor Casey was ordained to the priesthood at Smith's Falls by the late Bishop Horan. His first assignment was to Erinsville, in Addington County, where he assumed the duties of Rev. Father Stanton for three months. He was then sent to Peterborough as curate to Rev. Father Lynch, arriving here on 1st November, 1872, the festival of All Saints, on which day he celebrated his first mass at St. Peter's, at that time a parish church in the diocese of Kingston. He remained in Peterborough until 1st June, 1874, when a period of illness required the temporary relinquishment of active work. Recovering shortly, he was appointed chaplain of the Penitentiary at Kingston, a position he occupied until 1st February, 1875.

Monsignor Casey was next appointed parish priest of Gananoque, in the administration of which he gave evidence of the abilities that marked him for early promotion to the parish of Campbellford, which he took charge of on 1st July, 1879. This parish was new and only partly organised. The church building consisted principally of the walls, but in a short time a transformation was effected under the direction of the young priest, a vestry was added, and the conditions of the parish were greatly improved and advanced. Monsignor Casey spent fourteen years and a half in Campbellford. Meanwhile, in July, 1882, the diocese of Peterborough was organised, including the parish of Campbellford, which was extended by the addition of territory previously attached to Trenton. Monsignor Casey had also to visit Havelock until it was combined with Norwood under the pastorate of Rev. Father Conway.

On 1st February, 1894, Monsignor Casey was made rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, Archdeacon of the diocese of Peterborough, and a member of the Diocesan Council of Bishop O'Connor, and on 2nd February, the feast of the Purification, he was installed in his new position. After eight years of service in this city, Monsignor Casey was transferred to Lindsay, succeeding Monsignor Laurent and Rev. Father Phelan. His departure from Peterborough on 18th January, 1902, will be remembere by many of those who attended the farewell at the Cathedral. The congregation of St. Peter's ,showed their respect and affection for Monsignor Casey by presenting him with an address and purse of gold. The nineteen intervening years have brought their inevitable changes to the parish of St. Peter's, but the memory of Father Casey has been cherished not only by his former parishioners, but also by other old friends who had met him in the everyday affairs of fellowship and citizenship, and who were attracted by his sterling qualities of heart and mind.

CHEAP POTATOES MAY LIGHTEN CROP

Farmers Reported to Be Planting Only For Own Needs.

"Cheap seed makes dear potatoes and dear seed makes cheap potatoes" This aphorism expresses Johnny Williams' attitude toward the planting of this season's crop. From reports he has received many farmers and gardeners are planting only for their own needs. "We refuse to grow potatoes for 50c a bag", they say with the result that the entire crop will likely be much ligher than last year's. In other words, seed potatoes have seldom been cheaper than they are this spring. Following the usual experience this will probably discourgge the farmers and the resulting light crop will make dear potatoes next October, and throughout the winter. Then with dear seed everybody will begin planting bringing in a heavy yield that will cheapen the seed and the potato cycle will again be complete. Mr. Williams has most of his crop in. When his planting is completed the acreage will be as extensive as in normal years.

MIDLAND COUNTIES' PUBLISHERS MEET

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT PETERBORO MEETING—OFFICERS ELECTED.

The annual meeting of the Midland Counties' Press Association was held Friday in the rooms of the Board of Trade at Peterboro. A fine programme was provided and the meeting was ably presided over by the President, Mr. D. D. C. Dawe, of the Peterboro Examiner.

The chief speaker was Mr. W. J. Dunlop, Director of Extension Work of Toronto University, who told of the work of his department for men and women not taking regular university courses. Mr. Dunlop spoke particularly of the new short course for newspapermen that had been arranged for September 12th to 17th this year. In the preparation of this course the university has acted at the request of and in cooperation with the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, which now has 460 weekly newspapers all over Canada included in its membership.

Such subjects as "Editorial Writing and Newsgathering", "English Literature and Composition," "Canadian Constitutional History," and "Newspaper Jurisprudence," will be discussed and lectures given by specialists in each subject. It is likely that a large number will take advantage of the course.

At the meeting there was considerable discussion on job printing prices and a committee was appointed to draft a revised schedule of minimum prices for the staple lines of work. Mr. E. Roy Sales of Toronto, manager of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association, was present and assisted greatly in this discussion. Mr. Sayles also told those present of the trip to Vancouver of the Press Association next month the details of which have been practically all been arranged. The eastern party will leave Toronto by special train on June 2nd, and will be back June 20th. The association's annual meeting will be held at Vancouver.

The officers elected were D. D. C. Dawe, Examiner, Peterboro, Hon. President; J. W. Deyell, Lindsay Warder, President; Geo. W. James, Bowmanville Statesman, Vice-President; I. H. Keefer, Norwood Register, Secretary; W. H. Kellar, Uxbridge Journal, Treasurer.

Those present from Oshawa and district were G. M. Goodfellow, Whitby; George W. James, Bowmanville; B. C. Colpus, O. M. Alger, C. M. Munday and A. R. Allowav, Oshawa.

BODY RECOVERED FROM OTONABEE

The body of Enid Mary Packenham, who was drowned on Feb. 5 off Inverlea Park, was found by Leonard Minicola, 189 Stewart street, and Vincent and Earl Guerin, 81 London street, at noon yesterday, below the London street dam, washed high above the present water level. The police and Coroner Dr. Greer were notified and the body was removed to Comstock's, from where the funeral took place at 11 a.m. today to Little Lake cemetery. Enid Mary Packenham was the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Packenham, 737 Water street, and by the finding of the body a cloud of anxiety and uncertainty has been lifted from the home. Rev. R. C. Blagrave conducted the burial services this morning.

CITY AND MERCANTILE LEAGUERS OPEN SEASON

C.G.E. DEFEAT WM. HAMILTON'S AND WEST CLOX BEAT LOCK WORKS IN JOINT DOUBLE HEADERS AT RIVERSIDE PARK ON SATURDAY.

The City and Mercantile Baseball Leagues got away to a good start on Saturday afternoon when the two organizations pried the lid off the season with a joint double header at Riverside Park. In the City League the Canadian General Electric team defeated the William Hamilton outfit by 5 runs to 4, while in the Mercantile circuit the Westclox crew tucked the Lock Works away to the tune of 5 to 1. The games were 7 innings affairs and both were quite interesting and revealed the presence of much baseball talent.

The City League fixture was the opening event on the programme, being preceded by a motor car parade of the players and the officials. Mayor McIntyre pitched the first ball with Mr. H. B. Cowan as the batsman and Dr. A. W. McPherson, president of the P. A. A. A. behind the bat.

The C. G. E. Hamilton clash was a pitchers' battle between Bob Carson, the southpaw twirler of the Electricians and Eddie Cousins, for Hamilton's. Both of the box artists had a big edge on the batters, with the honours going to Carson, who allowed only two safeties. In fact Hamilton's succeeded in hitting only two balls out of the infield, and one of these was caught, and with perfect support the big left-hander would have had only one run registered against him, the C.G.E. team being guilty of five mishaps while the losers only slumped once.

Cousins, who hails from Windsor pitched fine ball too, holding the C. G. E. to five hits but the Electricians succeeded in bunching two doubles and a single with a hit by pitcher in the fourth innings, and this rally aided by Hamilton's one error and good base running by Walter Jackson's crew gave them five runs, and victory. Cousins held them scoreless outside of that one flurry.

Hamilton's fielding was steadier than that of the losers but at that the defensive features were contributed by the C. G. E., a fast double play in the first innings and two or three nice stops by Barrie being especially noticeable.

The margin the twirlers had on the batters is shown by the fact that only five men succeeded in getting their names in the hit column. Soden led with two doubles while Barrie also hit safely twice for the Electricians. Carson for the winners, and Morse and Kennealley for the losers, were the only others to come through.

Hamilton's were the first to score, getting an easy counter in the second when Morse led off with a clean single to right and completed the circuit when Soden threw high to second base to stop him stealing, and Foley let the return peg from the outfield get away from him.

There was no further scoring until the fourth when Hamilton's scored. Kennealley beat out an infield hit stole second, went to third on a wild pitch, and scored on Helson's bad throw on Callaghan's grounder.

The Electricians scored all their runs in their half of that session. Jackson was hit to start with and Barrie combed a single to centre on which Jackson went around to third while Barrie reached second on the throw to the difficult corner. 't was good base running. Foley hit to Lipsett, who threw low to third to get Barrie, and everybody was safe, Jackson scoring. Helson hit a roller to Cousins, whose throw home was too late to get Barrie, and all hands were safe. Carson helped to win his own game by doubling to right centre scoring Foley and Helson.

That left it 5 to 2, but Hamilton's got one back in the sixth on a pass to Kennealley, his theft of second, a wild pitch and Morse's fielder's choice.

In the seventh with one gone, Hatrick walked Cousins hit to Carson and was out at first but Corrin made a wild heave to third in trying to double Hatrick, and the runner scored. Russell fanned for the third out leaving the Electricians one to the good.

THE MERCANTILE LEAGUE

The Mercantile League opening ceremonies were brief, Mr. Verner of the Westclox Company throwing the first ball to Mr. E. H. Howson of the Lock Works.

Westclox won this game because they both outhit and outfielded the Lock Works, although the latter led by 1 to 0 until the third and the teams were even until the clock men went ahead by one run in the fifth. The winners finished strong by scoring three runs in the last two innings.

Both H. Wolfe and C. Wolfe pitched fine ball for the Westclox crew. The former a right hander, allowed only three hits and one run in the three innings he worked while his brother held the Lock Works scoreless for four innings, and gave them only two hits. He is a left hander. Connors who also pitches from the port arm side, kept the Westclox hits scattered, but his support was shaky.

The Lock Works then got off to a good start by scoring in the first. With one out Jobbitt was safe on Walker's miss of Wolfe's throw and made the circuit on singles by Hill and Neary.

Westclox tied it up in the third on H. Wolfe's single, Hill's error on Prosser's tap and C. Wolfe's safety.

In the fifth the Big Ben crew took the lead. Walker was safe on Smith's error and after stealing second came home on Baptie's single.

The clock men added another in the sixth. Lundy was safe on Burke's fumble, but was out stealing. Shannon singled to third and two errors by Smith and Proser's single sent the run over.

In the seventh the winners made it safe by scoring twice on hits by C. Wolfe and Shannon, and errors by Black, Neary and Hill.

BASEBALL COMMENT.

The Peterborough Central League team will practise to-night and Wednesday night, at 6 o'clock, at Riverside Park.

The Central League season opens a week from to-morrow, with the Petes playing in Cobourg. The first home League fixture will be a week from Saturday, when Oshawa will be here.

With Lornie Rose, "Hap" Harrison, "Lefty" McElroy and Howard Kirn available, Manager Solomon should worry about his Central League pitching staff.

There is evidently no lack of southpaw pitching material in Peterborough. Three of the five twirlers who performed at Riverside Park on Saturday were portsiders.

The Y.M.C.A. City League team will practise at Riverside Park at 5.45 o'clock to-morrow (Tuesday) evening.

BANKERS LEAD JUVENILE SERIES

PARRINGTON PITCHED GOOD BALL FOR THE WINNERS

Playing snappy ball behind the steady pitching of Parrington, Louis Yeotes' Bankers easily defeated St. Peter's school by 8 to 2 at Riverside Park Friday night and took the lead in the juvenile series of the City League.

Parrington held the students to two singles, while his team mates gave him great support throughout, two pretty double plays killing chances for St. Peter's runs. The Bankers' outfield were especially in the limelight. McLean had three running catches, one of which he turned into a double play by a great throw to first base. Jeff Hardill in centre pulled in two nice drives, and Johnston in right cut off a sure hit and at least one run by a quick throw to first on Sheehy's drive to the garden. The fielding feature for St. Peter's was contributed by Milloy, who made two fine catches of foul flies.

Sheehy pitched nice ball for the losers, allowing only six hits, but misplays by team mates were costly, three errors by Killoran in the third giving the Bankers a lead which they easily held to the finish.

St. Peter's scored in the first on a pass to L. Collins and two errors by Hopkins, which filled the bases, after which Collins counted on Killoran's infield out.

In the third the Bankers took the lead on three errors by Killoran, two infield outs and "Hap" Wilgar's double down the left field foul line.

They made it safe in the fourth on singles by Jack Hardill, Hopkins and Wilgar, a pass to Johnston, McLean's sacrifice bunt which Sheehy fumbled and N. Collins' error.

St. Peter's got one back in their half on Sheehy's single, his theft of second and Milloy's safety to right.

OSHAWA WON FROM PETERBORO

OSHAWA, May 16.—Oshawa O. A.L.A. intermediates completely outclassed the Peterborough representatives in the intermediate series in an exhibition game of lacrosse here Saturday afternoon by running up a score of 18 goals to 3. At no time were the visitors able to stop the rushes of the local players, who had lots of speed and a fast combination working all the time. The teams lined up as follows:

Oshawa—Goal, Jocques; defence, Beecham, Cooke and Clapper; centre, McKinnon; home, Lovegrove and Ganton; outside home, N. Irwin; inside home, Oliver; spares, Sales, C. Irwin and McDonald.

Peterborough—Goal, Scriver; defence, Goodfellow, Donovan, Tudhope and Creighton; centre, Thirnbeck; home, Nattress and Lawson; outside home, Halpin; inside home, Todd; spare, Johnston.

Referee—Nixon, Oshawa.

GOLF

A sweepstake competition was played at the Golf and Country Club on Saturday afternoon.

In all there were thirty-five competitors, of which number twenty-eight turned in scores. The score given below represents the net medal score, the handicap of each player having been deducted.

The first prize, a golf club, was won by Mr. B. D. Hall, and the second by Mr. Robt. Abbott.

WANTS ART IN JAIL.

Claims Prisoners Would Be Cured By Beautiful Pictures.

CHICAGO, May 16. — A jail should be a "thing of beauty," if not a "joy forever," in the opinion of Nicholas K. Roerich, Russian painter, whose exhibit now hangs in the gallery.

Roerich believes that as criminals and other "jail birds" look at real art day after day, they will forget their evil ways and become assets to society.

"Jails should be filled with beautiful paintings and objects of art," he said. "If the culture of the spirit is to win, beauty must invade new regions, regions where now there is only ugliness."

Members of the county board of commissioners, who are considering a new jail for Cook county, doubted whether appropriations will be available to decorate the interior of the bastile with "high art."

"It is possible that the inmates will be forced to worry around with whitewashed and painted walls for a time," said one official.

Civic organizations have attacked the present county prison as "a disgrace to civilization."

AUTO RIDE ENDS IN TRAGEDY

SIMCOE, May 16.— Mrs. S. P. Harding, wife of the editor of the Port Rowan News, and a most talented woman, came to a sudden death Friday afternoon while out for an auto ride with Mrs. W. N. Buck and Mrs. O. P. Rockefeller in a car driven by the latter. The car stalled on the hill at Forestville and was backed against the embankment on one side of the road quite skillfully, but unheeding the assurance of Mrs. Rockefeller that there was absolutely no danger, the other occupants jumped out of the car as it was backing up. Mrs. Harding dislocated her neck in the fall and death was instantaneous.

GIVES LIFE TO LEPERS

English Woman, Herself Afflicted, Helps Suffering in India.

LONDON, May 16.—A story of heroic self-sacrifice and devotion has reached England from the leper village of Chandag, India, where Mary Reed, a solitary white woman missionary, is giving her life to minister to the sufferings of her fellow lepers.

News of her isolated life was brought back by Mr Oldrieve, organizing secretary of the mission to lepers, who has just returned from a 70,000-miles journey, visiting all the leper colonies in India.

Thirty years ago Miss Reed went into this desolate spot in the Himalayas, 6,000 feet above the sea level, offering herself to the leper cause. Although a victim of the malady, she is still able to carry on her spiritual work among those afflicted like herself.

Miss Reed seldom sees white people, for her station is 80 miles from the nearest railway line. There are 46 women lepers in the community, and 19 men in the men's refuge a short distance away.

According to Mr. Oldrieve, there are 200,000 lepers in India. "At present," he declared, "it is not right to say that any cure for leprosy has been found."

ARE GIVEN SPECIAL TRAINING

Once every six weeks there is staged at police headquarters in London an atrocious murder which presents many problems that will remain unsolved according to human possibilities. The realism of the crime is such, writes the able criminologist, G. T. Crook, in the London Mail, that one can almost hear th the inevitable dull, sickening thud. It is a fine piece of acting, we are assured, and is all part of the systematic training that every detective undergoes before attached to the criminal investigation department of the London police.

"Lying on the floor of a room is the victim, fully dressed. There are ghastly wounds (painted) on his head and face. Tables and chairs in a state of disorder and a broken bottle and broken glasses speak of the intensity of the struggle, and an unfinished meal of its suddenness. A letter which might (or might not) be written by a woman is near the fireplace. Finger prints, some clear and some blurred, are on a dusty bent poker splashed with red paint. At any time in their career these young students of crime may be called in to such a scene as this, and it is essential that they should know precisely what to do. They are marshaled into the room, and allowed to remain three minutes. Then they devote the next half hour to writing a description of the room and its contents and detailing everything that has come under their observation."

It is an excellent test of a man's ability to use his eyes and to report promptly and accurately what he has seen for the benefit of his superior officer. What he must do and (more important yet) what he must not do are fully explained by the "professor" whose specialty is murder and upon whom rests the responsibility for the object lessons in murder:

"The faculty for seeing is developed to the utmost during the course of instruction. For example, a detective officer, who is unknown to the candidates walks past them in the yard. The candidates are then asked to supply a full description of the officer—his dress, height, complexion, hair and any peculiarity of walk or mannerism which he may have assumed.

"Forty men are in the yard. Some are sitting, some lounging and others are walking about. A vague description of one is given to the candidates, and one by one they go into the yard and within three minutes are expected to identify the man whose meager description has been furnished to them.

"The famous detective of the old days had an uncanny genius for picking up 'wanted' criminals in the street even without knowing them. It was a seort of second sight with him. One night a message was received that two armed men wanted in Paris for murder were velieved to be in London.

The detective, Con Sexton, went straight to Soho. He saw two men walkking in front of him. 'Those are the fellowrW e are after," said Sexton his surprised comarde. Both were pr promptly seized. Sexton was right."

ROCHESTER BRIDGE TO HAVE LONGEST CONCRETE SPAN.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., May 16. — That Rochester will have longest concrete single-span bridge in the world is indicated by figures submitted to the Engineering Society by B. F. Davis of New York.

It will be the bridge planned across the Genesee River Gorge connecting the east and west ridge roads. Its long span will be 450 feet long.

SAVED BY WIRELESS.

Fifteen Thousand Mariners were Told their Location in Fog.

BOSTON, May 16. — Radio compass stations, maintained by the United States navy at more than 100 places along the Atlantic, Pacific and Great Lakes coasts as aids to mariners in foggy weather have robbed the sea of many of its victims, say New England seafaring men.

Last year with with 29 stations in operation the naval men informed the captains of 15,374 fog shrouded vessels of their location and thus enabled them to lay their courses to their ports of destination. An average time of four to six minutes was required to make the calculations upon which this information was based.

CHOICE RECEPIES

Bran Muffins.
Mix two cups of bran, one cup of flour, four teaspoons of sugar, three teaspoons of baking powder, a tablespoon of shortening, one egg, a little salt and a cup and a half of milk. Bake in gem 0pans in a quick oven.

Kidney Bean Salad.
Boil kidney beans until tender and drain. Chop them with three sour pickles, six olives, a teaspoon of chopped onion and one hard boiled egg. Pour over a dressing made by beating one egg until light, adding half a cup of vinegar and a tablespoon of butter. Boil until thick and when cold pour over the salad.

Chicken Shortcake.
Mix half a cup of butter and half a cup of butter and half a cup of flour, one beaten egg, a little sugar, three teaspoons of baking powder and just milk enough to take up the flour so it can be shaped into a round cake. Bake in a quick oven and break open. Spread with butter and creamed chicken.

Rhubarb Pudding.
Peel and chop enough rhubarb to make two cups. Sprinkle well with sugar and a little salt. Make a batter of one cup of milk, two beaten eggs, two teaspoons of baking powder and flour enough to make a batter as thick as for cake. Spread over the rhubarb and bake. Turn upside down and spread with whipped cream. Or serve with milk and sugar.

It sometimes seems that it would be wise to have in our grammar grades a course on the value of an education. If it were made really practical and not merely theoretical it would do no end of good. Show the youngsters just how they are really going to profit by the much-hated grammar and "readin', ritin' 'n 'rithmetic." You know when you were a boy how you hated to study and how useless it all seemed. Then you hated worse than all the men who used to come and make speeches and tell you all about how fortunate you were able to get such a fine education, how your grandfathers had to go without such wonderful advantages, etc., etc., ad infinitum. All the time you were envying your lucky grandfathers and wishing you could get out and play ball.

If a practical course could be given on this subject which had a lot of interesting examples and incidents in it, it would be sure to gain the child's attention since he would have to study it. If he could once get through his cranium the real value jof all those hated studies he would see them in a different light and attack them with renewed zeal.

TWO-THIRDS OF EUROPE ARMIES UNDER FRENCH

OF SLIGHTLY MORE THAN 3,000,000 UNDER ARMS FRANCE CONTROLS THIS NUMBER.

HUN FORCES SMALL

WASHINGTON, May 17. (Canadian Press.) France and Poland lead by large majorities the other continental nations of Europe in military effectives now under arms, according to the British statistics received here to-day. The table of continental armies follows:

Austria, 30,000; Belgium, 105,000; Bulgaria, 33,000; Czecho-Slovakia, 147,000; Denmark, 15,000; Finland, 35,000; Greece, 250,000; France 809,000; Germany, 100,000; Hungary, 35,000; Italy, 300,000; Netherlands, 21,000; Norway, 15,000; Poland, 600,000; Portugal, 30,000; Roumania, 160,000; Spain, 190,000; Sweden, 56,000; Switzerland, 200,000; Serb. Croat, Slovene State, 200,000.

France controls aproximately two thirds of the slightly more than 3,000,000 men reported under arms in Europe by her understandings concluded with Belgium, Czecheco, Slovakia, Poland, Roumania and Jugoslavia.

PLANTS DAMAGED BY LATE FROSTS

PETERBORO MARKET GARDENERS SUFFER HEAVY LOSSES.

Extensive damage to the potato and bean crops was done by the frost on Sunday night and last night, prominent market gardeners informed the Examiner to-day.

The frost on Sunday night came without warning to many of the gardeners, who left their hot beds uncovered. In the morning blackened tomato and other plants resulted. One gardener who little suspected a frost had 2000 tomato plants destroyed.

The potatoes and beans were touched on Sunday night but suffered more severely last night, and the beans that were up were totally destroyed, the Examiner was informed. The potatoes will recover, it was stated, but will be considerably set back.

The fruit trees suffered very considerably and it was stated that much of the bloom which till now looked so promising, would be killed. What is true of the cherry and apple trees,the Examiner's informant said, was also true of the strawberries just breaking into bloom, and for this reason he predicted a poor strawberry crop.

INTERESTING DEBATE ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

George Street Delegation Carried Off the Honors.

A very interesting debate was held last evening in St. Andrew's Sunday school hall, on the resolution that, "More Good Than Evil Has Come Out of the Great War," between the Young People of St. Andrew's church and of George street church. Both sides were so excellently upheld that the judges had great difficulty in awarding the decision, which finally went to the visitors from George street, who spoke on the affirmative, with Miss Thelma Paxman and Mr. C. Armstrong as contestants, while the negative of the question was taken by Miss Grace Allen and Mr. Norman Brand, of St. Andrew's. Messrs. H. B. Cowan and Frank Kerr acted as judges.

During the evening an enjoyable programme was rendered by Mr. Byers in a vocal solo, recitations by Miss Grace Evans, banjo selection by Mr. Frank Clark and a Highland dance by Miss Peggy Hardie, tripped to the music of the bagpipes.

WILLIAM McFADDEN,
On trial to-day for the murder of L. C. Sabine, druggist, in Toronto, March 5, during an attempt to rob Sabine's store. His fellow robber, Roy Hotrum, convicted of the murder Saturday, declares McFadden fired the shot which killed Sabine, while McFadden denies this.

M'FADDEN THE SLAYER, AVERS HOTRUM AGAIN

IN A PITIABLE STATE

TORONTO, May 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Roy Hotrum, convicted on Saturday in connection with the death of L. C. Sabine, druggist, on March 5, took his stand in the witness box this morning to testify in the trial of his fellow robber, William McFadden ,who is being tried before Justice Logie, on the same charge. The convicted youth is in a pitiable state of nervousness and his indifference has given way.

Telling of the events leading up to the shooting of Sabine, Hotrum's evidence was substantially the same as given previously. He claimed McFadden had a large black revolver. He claimed he warned McFadden to be careful and not use his gun. The prisoner seemed nervous and replied, "don't worry," said Hotrum. When Sabine grappled with McFadden, Hotrum said he heard the shot, but he did not know whether it was Sabine or McFadden who fired. Witness said he was at the door and ran, followed by McFadden.

OBITUARY

DIED AT MEDICINE HAT.

The funeral of Edward Fitzpatrick, brother of Rev. F. M. Fitzpatrick, former parish priest of Ennismore, took place in Medicine Hat, Alta., on Monday, May 9, at St. Patrick's Church. Requiem high mass was sung by Rev. M. J. Fitzpatrick, nephew of the deceased. The last prayers at the graveside were recited by Rev. F. M. Fitzpatrick.

WILLIAM HAMILTON.

A resident of Peterborough for over 30 years died yesterday at the Nicholls Hospital after several weeks' illness, in the person of William Hamilton. Deceased was 78 years of age and was well known in East City, where he had lived since coming to Peterborough.

William Hamilton is survived by three sons in Peterborough, Albert, Thomas and Fred, and Alex. of Nova Scotia. Two daughters, Mary and Gertrude, reside in Calgary. In religion deceased was an Anglican and a member of St. Luke's church.

The funeral will take place tomorrow at 2.30 p.m. from the residence of his son, 257 Wolfe street, to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. R. B. Grobb will conduct the service.

IN REGARD TO THAT PIPE BAND

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Re failure of pipers to appear at the opening of the Baseball League, permit me to correct your explanation on the front page of yesterdays Examiner.

The parties with whom the executive of the Baseball League dealt have absolutely no connection with the Caledonian Pipe Band, nor with the Caledonian Society. If they used the name of either or the above organisations they did so without any authority. The Caledonian Pipe Band are ready to fill any engagement.

TENSION WHICH THREATENED IN ENTENTE EASES

CRISIS APPARENTLY AVERTED OVER SILESIAN SITUATION—UNDERSTANDING EXPECTED.

BRITISH REASSURED

LONDON, May 17. — (Canadian Press.) The tension over the Polish revolt in Silesia, which over the week end threatened a crisis in the ranks of the entente, seemed to-day to have passed for the moment at least.

An exchange of views on the subject has been proceeding between London and Paris, and there seems to be a confidence that Lloyd George and Premier Briand would reach an understanding when they meet. It appeared probable that the two premiers would hold a conference early next week.

It is possible that the Silesian situation will be before the meeting of the Supreme Allied Council. It was believed that M. Briand would appear before the French Chamber on Thursday, make a statement of his views and demand a vote of confidence. Should he receive this he would be in a strong position in urging a compromise settlement of the Silesian question before the supreme council.

Berlin and Warsaw despatches have served to reassure the British public.

COMPETITION OF GOVT. SHIPS NOT FAIR TO OTHERS

SO G. W. HENSLEY, HALIFAX TELLS NATIONAL RAILWAYS COMMITTEE.

OTTAWA, May 17 (Canadian Press).—George W. Hensley, of Halifax, told the special Parliamentary Committee on Canadian National Railways this morning that he did not think the Government ships should enter into competition with privately-owned vessels unless the demands of trade necessitated their so doing.

Answering the question, he said it was good business for the C.P.R. to have steamers which would bring traffic to its own lines. He did not agree with the Canadian National Railways having steamship connection, however. He was opposed to public ownership of steamship lines.

CROSSING RIVER TO FIGHT FIRE, 4 DROWN

THREE RIVERS, Que., May 17.—(Canadian Press). — Four men in the employ of the St. Maurice River Boom and Driving Company, were drowned Sunday at Montschaine Rapids two hundred miles from this city, while attempting to cross the river to fight a forest fire, according to a telegram received here this morning. The victims are :Henro Lapolice and Donal Villemure of Three Rivers; Noe Hamelin of Becancourt and Henri Brousseau of Cap De La Madeleine.

DEEPENING OF ST. LAWRENCE

LOCAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO HAVE ADDRESS BY SECRETARY OF WATERWAYS ASSOCIATION.

CITY COUNCIL PRESENT

At the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce which will be held on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, Major Alex. Lewis, Secretary-Treasurer of the Deep Waterways and Power Association, will address the members on the deepening of the St. Lawrence River. Major Lewis is a capabe speaker, being thoroughly familiar with the problem. At present the International Joint Commission is investigating the economic and commercial featurse of the proposed Great Lakes—St. Lawrence deep water route to the sea. If their report is adverse, all possibility of any deep waterway connection between the Upper Lakes and the Atlantic will be destroyed for a considerable time to come. On the other hand, a favorable report would result in the Governments of the United States and Canada joining forces in commencing the actual work. The whole of Canada is affected by the problem. Quebec is interested in the power development; Ontario not only wishes to convert her lake ports into ocean ports, but she desires particularly to secure for Eastern Ontario the same advantages of cheap power that Niagara provides for Western Ontario the Canadian West would benefit immensely by being able to ship grain overseas by lake carrier from the head of the Great Lakes. A project that would be such a boom to our district deserves our support, and the Chambers of Commerce of the district are making strong representations to the International Joint Commission to secure a favorable. Major Lewis will doubtless have first hand information on this important subject.

One of the objects of the Chamber of Commerce is "to advance the commercial agricultural, industrial and communal interests of the City and County of Peterborough." It is felt that to the present time sufficient effort has not been made to interest the rural sections of the County in the work of the Chamber of Commerce. Accordingly an invitation has been extended to the members of the County Council to be present at the meeting on Thursday night. It is hoped that by securing the co-operation and interest of these representative men, the objects for which the Chamber of Commerce was organized can be more fully realized.

Several matters of importance are slated for discussion, and an enthusiastic meeting is assured.

NOTICE OF REGISTRATION OF BY-LAW

Notice is hereby given that a by-law was passed by the Council of the City of Peterborough on the 2nd day of May 1921, providing for the borrowing of Ten Thousand dollars for the purpose of paying for extensions made in the waterworks of the City of Pterborough in the year 1920 and that such by-law was registered in the registry of the County of Peterborough on the 3rd day of May, 1921. Any motion to quash or set aside the same or any part thereof must be made within three months after the first publication of this notice and cannot be made thereafter.

Jeanne has put forward the plea that many other Frenchmen and Belgians have been identified by numerous witnesses as denouncers of Nurse Cavell.

URGES MINERS TO DROP WAGE POOL DEMANDS

LANCASHIRE MINERS' REPRESENTATIVE COUNSELS A COMPROMISE ON THIS POINT

GENERALLY UNCHANGED

LONDON, May 17. —(Canadian Press.)—The industrial position in Great Britain is little altered, the most notable pronouncement being that of Mr. McGurk, Lancashire, the miners' representative, who declared that the Miners' Federation should realize that some attendant must be given to the idea of dropping the demand for a national coal profits pool. He added that the strike would last until Christmas before the owners or government would concede the demand for a pool.

Efforts to induce continental workers to refuse to handle coal for England have seemingly been abortive.

The recent statement by Frank Hodges, miners' secretary, that no good purpose would be served by direct action has checked the railway extremists. Disorders of a minor character continue to be reported, but they are occurring mostly in the Scottish districts only. Public utilities are keeping in operation. n London the tramways power house is being operated by naval ratings on account of the electrical workers strike in sympathy with the miners. At Newacstle trams are being run with machinery operated by oil fuel. It is announced that it is unlikely that coal will be reverted to.

NEW BUILDINGS GOING UP HERE

BUILDING OPERATIONS ARE WELL UNDER WAY THROUGHOUT THE CITY.

Building is evidently out of the doldrums where it has been located during and since the war, and throughout the length and breadth of Canada, building operations are resumed once more.

In Peterboro there are at present many more works under way than there were last year. Besides several large building jobs, such as the filtration plant, the remodelling of the Bank of Toronto building and the completion of the Ashburnham bridge, there are many dwellings being erected, and untold numbers of garages and alterations to houses.

During the last three days three building permits, totalling in value $3360, were issued at the City Hall. One permit was to F. Pitchford, 382 George street, for a garage, $60. The others, for two dwellings, were issued yesterday. These were:

John Menogue, brick dwelling, 495 Rogers street, six rooms, two stories, estimated cost $1800.

W. Percy Stave, dwelling, Maude street, 20 ft. x 35 ft., six rooms, two stories, estimated cost $1500.

FUEL PROBE A LIVELY PLACE THIS MORNING

DECIDE TO CALL WESTERN COAL OPERATORS AFTER CHAIRMAN THREATENS TO RESIGN.

EASTERN MEN DELAY

OTTAWA, May 17.—(Canadian Press).—The non-appearance of the expected head officials of the Dominion Coal Company and the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, an explanation from a representative of the companies that they would be present on Saturday morning the carrying over the official ruling of Chairman Dr. Michael Steele of the motion authorizing the calling of witnesses as to the cost of coal in western mines and the tentative threat of the chairman to resign and the refusal to put the motion featured the lively meeting this morning of the Parliamentary Fuel Committee.

The trouble which commenced at the committee meeting yesterday when Dr. Steele ruled out of order a motion to call certain western operators that more time would be receipt of telegrams from eastern operators tht more time would be needed to secure the information desired. The motion to call the western men was eventually put and carried after some discussion.

JOHN DOUGHTY DIZZY; GIVEN BROOM TO USE

ON ARRIVAL AT "PEN" LOSES NAME AND GETS NUMBER AND COMMENCES PRISON ROUTINE.

IN CLEANING GANG

KINGSTON, May 17. — John Doughty, the Toronto theatrical man, who was sentenced to six years ,at Toronto, upon conviction of the theft of $105,000, in Dominion Government bonds, the property of his employer, Ambrose J. Small, was brought to the Portsmouth Penitentiary on Saturday, Seven other prisoners were brought down the same day, but Doughty was brought down separate from the others by Deputy Sheriff Brown and a constable, both of whom were armed.

Direct to Prison.

They took the first morning G.T.R. train out of Toronto, and reached Kingston Junction at 12.25, where they were met by James McFadden, taxi driver, and conveyed directly to the big prison in Portsmouth. The remaining prisoners came on the train following, and were in the custody of Deputy Sheriff Seavers and several other constables.

Deputy Sheriff Brown delivered Doughty over to Warden Ponsford, together with the certificate of conviction and sentence, and the jail surgeon's certificate of health. Doughty looked well, and appeared even to be relieved at his removal from conditions in Toronto.

Doughty's Compulsory Bath.

Theformalities of delivering the The formalities of delivering the were very simple. Warden Ponsford examined the commitment and accepted Doughty's acknowledgment of his identity. He was then taken over by a guard in charge of the barbers and newcomers' outfits, and was shown into the shower baths adjoining the chief keeper's office, which every newly admitted prisoner must take whether he protests that he had a bath before taking the train in the morning or not. Doughty took the bath and found waiting for him the prisoner's uniform, bearing the number by which he will be known for the next six years.

His Convict Crop.

He passed next to the barber, who gave him the real convict's shave and hair cut. Thus duly initiated, he was taken to the guard in charge of identification, was photographed, and had his finger-prints taken on a statement containing the data respecting his antecedents and descriptive record which, together with his photograph, will be forwarded by Warden Ponsford to the chief commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Ottawa, where the official records are kept.

Doughty Got Dizzy.

Guard Matthew Walsh had charge of Doughty's reception, and after the record was completed, he took him to the cell dormitories, where a fellow prisoner led him up over the stairs and galleries to his cell. Doughty is said to have become very dizzy when he reached the galleries and completely lost his nerve, but this is a common thing with newcomers. Arriving at his cell, Doughty deposited his soap, towel and blanket on his bed, which he unhinged from the wall, and sat down upon it for a moment to collect himself and get his breath. He was just about fagged out at this stage.

No Rest For the Wicked.

But he was not allowed to remain there, for having been shown the way to his sleeping quarters, he was at once led back again to the ground floor and assigned to the gang of cleaners for the remainder of the day, and was given a broom, with which he swept the floor. t is understood that Doughty will be put to work with one of the shop gangs.

REAL ESTATE RECORD.

COCHRANE, Ont., May 17.—(By Canadian Press.— What is believed to be a record for local real estate is the price of $250.00 per foot just paid for a lot on a Sixth Avenue corner. The site is that formerly occupied by the Cedric Hotel, and the purchaser gave $10,000.00 for the property, which has a 40 foot frontage. There is considerable activity in real estate here at present.

GLOBE FIGHTS PAPER MAKERS

NEW YORK PAPER SUES ALLEGED COMBINE IN RESTRAINT OF TRADE.

ASKS $1,500,000

NEW YORK, May 17. — The Commercial Advertiser Association, publishers of The New York Globe and Commercial Advertiser, have filed in the Federal Courts, a suit for $500,000 damages, for alleged loss of circulation and advertising, against the International Paper Co., Philip T. Dodge, President of that concern, and George F. Steele, who was Secretary of the Newsprint Manufacturers' Association.

The loss, the complaint says, was undergone during 1915-16-17, when, it is contended, American and Canadian manufacturers formed the Newsprint Manufacturers' Association, and eliminated competition, curtailed production and charged excessive prices for newsprint paper. The plaintiff holds this to be a combination in restraint of trade. Under the Clayton amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust act, punitive damages totalling $1,500,000 and costs are demanded.

The complaint, which was filed by Kellogg, Emery & Cuthell, attorneys for the plaintiff, sets forth that The Globe is one of the leading afternoon papers of the country with large circulation and advertising contracts and that it requires for publication from 9,000 to 12,000 tons of newsprint paper a year.

It is alleged that the Newsprint Manufacturers' Association, formed in 1915, controlled 80 per cent. of the newsprint paper output of the continent.

The association operated until late in 1917, says the complaint, and had neither constitution nor by-laws nor minutes of its meetings. The Executive Committee of this organization according to the plaintiff, was Philip T. Dodge, one of the defendants; George H. Mead, of the Spanish River Pulp & Paper Co., Frank J. Sensenbrenner, of the Kimberly-Clark Paper Co., and Alexander Smith, who was described as the leading banker in the United States in financing paper manufacturers.

It is alleged that the committee of this association dominated the trade in news print between 1915 and 1917. This, the complaint argues, was a "conspiracy and plan to monopolize business in newsprint, and the necessary effect of all the foregoing was to restrict the output of newsprint paper in the United States and to destroy a n open and competitive market therein, and to enhance the price thereof to consumers beyond a fair and reasonable price.

The Globe's newsprint paper, the plaintiff says, was purchased from the International Paper Company, one of the defendants, at a price ranging from 2 cents to 2 1-4 cents a pound, from 1915 to 1917.

It is contended that customers of members of the Newsprint Manufacturers' Association were allotted to manufacturers and that "each member of the said association agreed with all the other members thereof not to interfere between a manufacturer and an allotted customer, and not to make contracts with nor entertain offers from the customers who were allotted to other manufacturers."

This meant, says the complaint, that the Globe could not have purchased paper for its requirements in any larger quantity or at any better terms than through the International Paper Company, one of the members of the Newsprint Manufacturers' Association. An open and competitive market was essential to the plaintiff, the complaint says, and its absence was solely because of the "corrupt and unlawful contract combination, conspiracy and monopoly in newsprint paper."

By reason of this contract, it is alleged, the Globe was unable toobtain the quantity of paper reasonably required in the conduct of its business, "and that it suffered a loss in circulation of a large number of copies per day, and a consequent loss in the value of the newspaper business, and likewise suffered a loss in advertising rates which it was able to charge, and was also prevented from printing large quantities of valuable advertising which was offered to or obtained by it, solely by reason of its inability to procure a sufficient supply of paper."

GOVT. RAILWAY CONTROL COST TWO BILLIONS

U.S. GOVERNMENT LOSSES NEAR THIS FIGURE, THOUGH NOT DEFINITELY TOTALLED YET.

PERIOD OF 26 MONTHS

WASHINGTON, May 17. — The loss which the government will sustain because of the 26 months of Federal control of the railroads was estimated at $1,800,000,000 by Senator Cummings, the chairman of the International Commerce Committee during his cross-examination of Julious Kruttschnitt, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Southern Pacific Railroad

James C. Davis, Director General of Railroads, recently submitted an estimate that the loss would be $1,-200,000,000. This, said Senator Cummings was based on supposition that the maintenance and other claims would be adjusted with the railroads along the line of the railroad administration's theory.

"But," he said, "if the claims are settled on the theory advanced by the railroads as to maintenance, then it is estimated that the loss to the government for the 26 months will be not less than $2,500,000,000. If adjusted between these two extremes I think it is safe to say that the loss will be in the neighborhood of $1,800,0100,000."

Senator Cummings added that unless some means were found of increasing revenues or decreasing operating expenses, the continued deficits would also "have to be met from the Treasury."

"That situation challenges the permanency of private ownership," he continued.

Mr. Kruttschnitt remarked that the growing claims for money under the guarantee was the result of "the neglect of maintenance which characterized the Federal Railroad Administration."

Asked whether he thought the transportation act was a failure, Mr. Kruttschnitt said that the act was not a failure but the abnormal conditions in 1920 prevented the carriers from receiving what Congress expected when the bill was passed. He intimated that the law had not had a fair chance.

"Do you think the law has failed so far as the Labour Board is concerned?" Senator Cummings asked.

Mr. Kruttschnitt said he believed the Labor Board's proceedings had been too protracted and its decisions delayed too long.

Senator Cummings asked what would have happened if the law had not set up the board at the time of the labor troubles which followed the relinquishment of Federal control. Mr. Kruttschnitt thought a strike of the employees would have resulted.

He added that the present delay of the Labor Board was costing the roads $500000 to $600,000 a day because its decision could not be made retroactive.

SASKATCHEWAN HAS ELECTION IN JUNE

REGINA, May 17. — (Canadian Press.)—Provincial election will be held in Saskatchewan June 9th. This announcement was made yesterday by Premier Martin in a statement in which he said that the "most important reason for the holding of an election at the present time is the desire of the Government that the business of Saskatchewan should be dealt with on its merits and not confused or affected by issues which affect the whole of Canada, and questions which are of Federal jurisdiction."

The Government pledges itself to many reforms if elected.

PAY BEEN CUT 6.4 PER CENT

AVERAGE DECREASE IN WAGES DURING PAST YEAR COMPILED IN U.S.

EMPLOYMENT REDUCED

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The average decrease in pay per employee in leading industrial plants throughout the country during the past year was 6.4 per cent., according to results of a general survey of the labour field, announced by the Federal Reserve Board.

Plants which a year ago employed 1,70,000 workers, the Board said, showed a decline of 25 per cent. in the numbers employed. The reduction in the weekly payroll was found even greater, amounting to 29.8 per cent.

The inquiry covered establishments reporting 1,303,792 employees on 1st April, 1921, with a weekly payroll of $36,726,380, as compared with 1,737,717 employees and a payroll of $52,286,463 on 1st April, 1920.

To some extent reduction in the payroll was attributed to the fact that last year many plants were working longer hours and often overtime. Supplementary information, however, the Board declared, indicated that the actual rates of pay had been reduced, especially in the case of unskilled labour. In some instances, particularly in the Southeast, the Board added, unskilled labour had been reduced fully 50 per cent. in wages.

In three Federal Reserve districts, however, increases in the average pay of workers was reported. In Dallas an increase of 6.4 per cent. was noted in the average pay of employees, and in San Francisco one of 12.3 per cent., coupled with decreases of employment of 16.8 per cent. and 6.2 per cent. respectively. In New York there was an average increase in pay of .5 per cent. and a decrease in employment of 18.1 per cent.

Decreases in the number of workers and their average pay for the other districts were: Boston 17.5 and 6.2 per cent. respectively; Philadelphia 23.2 and 14.4 per cent.; Cleveland 43.8 and 18.2 per cent.; Richmond 22 and 17.7 per cent.; Atlanta 35.7 and 24.1 per cent.; Chicago, 32.9 and 5.5 per cent.; St. Louis, 21.9 and 17.6 per cent.; Minneapolis 29.7 and 5.8 per cent.; and Kansas City 52.5 and 8.4 per cent.

Reductions in the number on the payroll were made in all industries covered in the Board's survey except oil. The reduction was smallest for public utilities with 6.4 per cent., and largest for the rubber industry with 64 per cent.

Among the highest percentages of reductions in employment were: Automobile industry, 52.2 per cent.; the building industry, 60.4 per cent.; and iron and steel, 41.5 per cent.

Decreases in the average earnings per employee varied from 2.4 per cent. in the boot and shoe industry to 40 per cent. in the rubber industry.

MAKE IRELAND KINGDOM WITH ENGLISH RULE

WOULD ALLOW ARMY

BELFAST, May 17.—(Canadian Press).—Lord Hugh Cecil, member of the Privy Council of Great Britain, who is a guest of Lord London derry's family in Mountstewart County Down, has suggested a scheme by which Ireland would be made an Independent Kingdom, its King to be a member of the Wjndsor family, probably the Prince of Wales, to be appointed by the King of England. Under the scheme, there would be two small parliaments, one to be located in Belfast and the other in Dublin and in addition a "House of Estates", of hundred members. Complete fiscal autonomy would be given to Ireland but there would be a levy imposed for imperial defense in proportion to the sum contributed by Great Britain for that purpose. Ireland under the plan would be allowed to have an army but no navy and in event of war the King of Great Britain could suspend the Irish constitution Irishmen in the colonies would have the right to choose whether they should be subjects of the Irish or English King.

If favorably received by the Irish leder, scheme would be submitted to the constitutional assembly. Some of the southern Irish leaders including John Dillon to whom the scheme was outlined described it as "preposterous."

TO RATION LIQUOR.

COPENHAGEN, May 17.—(Canadian Press).—The Norwegian Government, says The National Tidende, will shortly introduce in Parliament a bill proposing to substitute the present temporary system of absolute prohibition with a system rationing similar to that adopted in Sweden. The measure also will provide that all profits derived from the sale of alcohol will be employed for the furthering of social reforms.

CAMPBELLFORD CHURCH LEAGUE HELD MEETING

ADDRESS BY THE MISSIONARY PRESIDENT---ACCIDENT NEAR HAVELOCK.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 17. — A very interesting and profitable programme was rendered last evening at the Epworth League, the meeting being in charge of the missionary president, Miss Leeta Chaplin. Duets were charmingly rendered by the Misses Ruth and Jennie Taylor and Misses Dorothy Heath and Myrtle Forde. Miss A. Rutty and Miss Bertha McConnell, delighted the audience with readings. Then followed a soul to soul talk by Miss Nellie Turner, who has recently returned after eight months absence in Chicago. and California. Miss Turner spoke of her work as a missionary in California, and urged upon all the necessity of living the Christ-life and practising Christianity in our daily life.

The annual election of officers then took place and the following were elected.

President Mr. C. A. Wilson.

1st Vice-Pres., Mr. C. A. Moore.

FICTION IN LIBRARIES.

A Toronto Alderman declares that all books of fiction should be taken out of the Public Libraries, declaring that "there is nothing so destructive to our civilization as the trashy literature we are getting." That there is "trashy" literature in circulation is not to be denied, but Ald. Baker has the wrong remedy in advocating the removal of volumes of fiction from the shelves of our libraries. The Public Library should be a safeguard against the kind of reading the Toronto Alderman deprecates by encouraging a love of the better type of fiction and developing in the minds of its patrons a taste for the superior novels that will drive out the yellow sensational magazines and stories that seem to be getting a firm hold upon Canadians. To banish good fiction from the libraries would undoubtedly stimulate the circulation of the pernicious literature of which Ald. Baker is complaining. Fortunately, Public Library Boards are not likely to pay much attention to the Toronto Alderman's suggestion, which is so far off the mark as to merit scant consideration.

THE TOURIST HUNTER.

Complaints made against the new regulation in regard to the carrying of firearms by aliens that they will interfere seriously with the tourist traffic during the hunting season are undoubtedly justified. There should be no difficulty in amending the law so that bona fide tourists from the United States will not be deprived of the pleasure of hunting in Canada. It is rather ridiculous to exact the fee for a hunting license from such visitors and then refuse to allow them to use a shotgun or a rifle. This point was apparently overlooked in the drafting of the regulations, and it is to be hoped that the lawmakers at Ottawa will recognize the desirability of correcting this injustice. While technically "aliens," these tourists are not the class aimed at by the Act and there should be no objection to a re-wording of some of the clauses of the measure so that they will be able to hunt here as usual. They are a source of revenue to the Dominion and their coming should be encouraged rather than made impossible.

NEGLECTING BUSINESS.

The reports from Ottawa declaring that members of Parliament are not taking very kindly to the Saturday sittings of the House will receive ready credence throughout the country. Many of the members do not seem to have a very serious conception of their duties as representatives of the people, and it is claimed that there were more of them to be found on the golf links last Saturday than there were in the House listening to the debate on the Budget. In fact, at one stage only sixteen constituencies were represented, and it became necessary to adjourn. The manner in which public business is being neglected and time is being wasted by many of the members at Ottawa is not a very creditable commentary upon Canadian efficiency. Why it should be necessary to drag out the session month after month and then finish with a wild rush is something that the average citizen has difficulty in understanding. The performance is repeated session after session, and the Ontario Legislature is invariably guilty of the same offence. Business methods seem to be laid on one side when the House opens, and the result is a long drawn out session, in which to the outsider at least it appears as if there is much valuable time needlessly wasted.

MAKING APPOINTMENTS.

Col. J. A. Currie, M.P., complains that a section of the Press had thrown mud at members of Parliament in regard to civil service appointments and had given the country the impression that they were worms. The Examiner has had considerable to say upon this question, but has never gone to the length Col. Currie describes. Members of Parliament are like other human beings, and it is because of that fact that it is just as well that their recommendations should not be final in the matter of appointments. Their opinion as to the qualifications of applicants for positions should be sought and given full weight, but it is not in the public interest that the whole responsibility for the selection of such men should be laid upon their shoulders. Being human, it is difficult for them to get away from the claims of party friends and rewarding the faithful workers is not always a sure path to efficiency. Many good men, of course, were appointed under the old patronage system, but many others were far from coming up to that description, and, on the whole, the country is bound to get better service from the present method than from the former plan. But in expressing that opinion, The Examiner has no intention of "throwing mud" at members of Parliament. They throw enough at each other to render any further attacks unnecessary.

SALES TAX EXPERIENCE.

The critics and opponents of the sales tax would win a better hearing if they offered any preferable alternative and if they did not claim too much in their favor from the experience of other countries. It approaches false witness to say that the sales tax is disliked or is unsuccessful in the Phillippines. All taxes are disliked everywhere, and it is possible to imagine a perfect substitute; but in the Phillippines the sales tax is liked better, or rather is disliked less, the longer it is collected. France is not collecting what was expected from its sales tax, but it is retained in the Budget, and it is not criticized there on the points which its opponents make much of here. The fault may lie equally with an optimistic estimate of the yield of an untried and novel tax, or with depression of trade for reasons effective everywhere, and not particularly where there is a sales tax. Too many French taxes are disappointing under present conditions to condemn any one tax in particular because of its specific defects. The introduction of the Canadian Budget is particularly embarrassing to those who have emphasized the Dominion sales tax experience as a warning against our following the example.

Canadian Budgeteers think so highly of the sales tax that they increased it in their Budget this week. The Canadian sales tax is not a general turnover tax, but is confined to traders—manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers, importers, and not including retailers. The inter-traders' tax of 1 per cent. is increased to 1½ per cent. The 2 per cent. tax on sales by manufacturers to retailers, or directly to consumers, is also increased by half to 3 per cent. Exemptions are foodstuffs in natural state and first sales of products of farms, fisheries, mines and forests. As Canada produces many articles which also are imported, the customs is made 1 per cent. above the sales tax. In presenting the Budget Sir Henry Drayton did not even refer to objections to the sales tax and was rather apologetic that he did not accept many suggestions by Boards of Trade and commercial bodies to make the sales tax of broader application. The Budget speech does not itemize the sales tax proceeds, but the Dominion Press mentions $100,000,000. A good epitome of Canadian opinion was given by a Canadian, J. F. M. Stewart, at the recent meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Atlantic City:

> 'The sales tax was well received by the people of Canada. It has not proved burdensome, nor an undue handicap on our commercial activities. It is simple in its application, easy and cheap to collect, and it is productive of substantial revenues."

Senator Smoots' Sales Tax Bill is so much more inclusive than the Canadian bill, and our volume of trade is so much greater, that his estimate of a yield of $1,250,000,000 is reasonable, even moderate. The exemptions in our proposed sales tax include all businesses of less than $6,000 a year. Below that the tax would be small and disproportionately difficult of collection. Above that better accounts would be kept. Of course, everybody would prefer that there should be no sales tax, or that there should be a better tax. Who suggests one, or doubts that there must be a tax to support the nation's expenditures? What tax could be expected to enjoy a more general endorsement by business men than the sales tax has received? And when the interested opposition is separated from the rest, how small and theoretical is the remnant!—New York Times.

WOULD TEACH RED FLAG DOCTRINE IN SCHOOLS

LONDON, May 17.—(Canadian Press).—A proposal at the Northampton Education Committee not to celebrate Empire Day in the elementary schools of the town was defeated.

Councillor Len Smith asked if head teachers were to give lessons on the beauty and glory of the Empire.

Mrs. Milton Powell: "The greatest Empire of brute force ever known."

Alderman Whiting said that, knowing the diverse views held by head teachers, he thought some would teach the Red Flag doctrine, some ultra patriotism, and others would go on the Labor Party ticket. Some guidance should be given to the teachers as to the nature of their address. Councillor Smith replied that if the committee had to decide the nature of the address they might get through the business by ten at night if they started at ten in the morning.

FARMERS SUFFER LOSS.

SASKATOON, Sask., May 17. —(Canadian Press).—A number of farmers in Saskatchewan have suffered a loss through the careless handling of poisoned bait used for the grasshopper campaign. Instead of putting it away in a safe place for use the following year, the bait, which is very attractive to cattle owing to the use of molasses and bran in the mixture, was thrown outside, as a result between 40 and 50 cattle have been poisoned since last fall. hTe poison is very potent, and in nearly every case where the bait was eaten it proved fatal.

BOUGHT WAR MATERIAL

Englishman Hopes That He Can Prevent More War.

War-loving Mars has had things all his own way long enough, thinks F. N. Pickett & Son engineers, an English firm located in France, so F. N. has butted in and collared all the British surplus ammunition for twelve million dollars, having already bought up the French and Belgian stores for a like sum. He got everything from revolver bullets to 16-in. shells; five hundred million dollars' worth for ten million.

F. N. Pickett, a keen-faced, clean-shaved man of 34, belongs to Devonshire, and the "Son" of the firm is five years old. This ammunition king is a keen supporter of the League of Nations, and not a scrap of the stuff he has bought will be used for warlike purposes, but will be broken up at once. The explosives will be taken out, the steel will be sold to manufacturers, the brass and the lead will be saved and reused, the ammunition nitrate from the high explosives will be sold as fertilizer.

Mr. Pickett said: "We have found the best means in the world of breaking the stuff, and have spent immense sums of safety devices to protect our employes. It will take two years to complete the job, and we have technical experts from all over the world to help us. The work will be done in France, but foremen and many of the workers will be English. I hope soon to be supplying manufacturers with 10,000 tons of steel a week, and so easing the shortage that has crippled industry for some time. And I am selling to British only."

Mr. Pickett is supported by some of the big steel interests, and he is living at Wimereux in the centre of the dumps.

The British Government looked into his character very carefully before dealing with him, as they were not risking the stuff getting into the hands of the Bolshevists, and the prompt breaking up of the stuff was a condition of sale.

Are You in a Treadmill?

The man who spends all the money he makes is like a horse in a treadmill. "TRAVELLERS MONEY" FOR USE IN AUSTRIA NOW

VIENNA, May 17.—(Canadian Press).—The Tyrol has introduced "travellers money," as a novel attempt to solve the local economic problem. An Act passed by the Diet provides that a non-resident of the Province shall pay ten times more than a native for everything. The non-resident must buy special money on the basis of the German mark; the exchange rate being at the ratio of ten to one, and compelled to use it instead of crowns. Half the profit of this transaction will go to the Government.

Smith Calls No. 824 Instead of "Mrs. Smith"!

John Smith is a travelling salesman.

In placing his call, he says, "I want to talk to Number 824, Blankville."

He uses this method instead of saying, "I want to talk to Mrs. Smith at Blankville," because it costs less and is just as satisfactory.

Smith uses what is called "Station-to-Station" service, which means that he is willing to talk to anyone at his home telephone.

"Station-to-Station" service is furnished at a lower rate than "Person-to-Person" service because it costs less to provide it than when a particular person must be called to the telephone.

By careful study of your needs, you can ensure profitable use of Long Distance Service.

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

THIE SENDS ME ROSES.

Chapter 52.

Each day as it went by brought me a little happiness, but there was plenty of anguish and sorrow, too. At times my soul would be torn with injustice. The terrible demons of imagination and jealousy were hard things to stifle.

One day would be all kindness, and the next night he would not get home until some small hour of the morning. At times it was all I could do to hold back the terrible passions which had racked my soul at first. When my heart was thrown into these wild fits of hopelessness, I would get out something of Leonard's that needed mending, and the touch of his nearness would calm and steady me.

I did a lot of thinking about Mrs. Darwood during those days. As my love for Leonard became surer and steadier, my hatred for her became more venomous and overpowering. Sometimes it took shear force on my part to keep from doing something terrible.

I knew that she was a dangerous woman, and, true to that type, clever and artful to the last degree. She was using every means in her sordid power to interest and fascinate Leonard. Sometimes men are such blind babies. Knowing Leonard I could see exactly how she could get around him. I had done it myself, but not with such skill as Mrs. Darwood was capable of, or in such directions.

There is a worldly sportiveness flavored with a few degrees of faked innocence, that proves alluring to all men at sometime or other. Then, too, men like a dashingly dressed woman, and it is surprising how many fine men are a bit near-sighted when it comes to drawing the line between a sportily dressed woman and the type known in polite society as "fast." Every woman with an average amount of intelligence knows this, and it is the force that often pulls many of them down hill.

I remember how Mrs. Darwood had bamboozled Thierry's father. He was a big man in every sense of the word. This thought gave me a little comfort. It was not just the weaklings that succumbed to such a woman. It was the men with big minds and souls! The great danger, after all, lay in the fact that all men were more or less gullible. If men were as easily taken in in a business deal as they can be by the average woman, there would be a lot more bankruptcies, I thought. As it is, the smash-ups draw the biggest averages in the divorce courts.

As I was in the midst of such thoughts, Emma came in the room with a long box in her hands.

"Someone has just left this package for you, Mrs. Allen," she said, hesitating a minute at the door with the stamp of feminine curiosity written across her good-natured face. I knew the box contained flowers, but my mind could not connect them with a possible sender.

As I pushed back the tissue paper there lay a dozen of the most beautiful red roses. They permeated the air with vigor and passion. Inside of a small white envelope I found a card. On it was Mr. Thierry Brunswick, with a pen stroke crossing through all but the Thie.

Red roses—how suited they were to Thie, I thought. But how would I explain them to Leonard? Only my heart could understand the reason for their blood-red message.

To-morrow—I Learn to Keep Silent.

TENNIS CLUB IN LAKEFIELD OPENS THE NEW SEASON

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR THE YEAR —LAKEFIELD NEWS.

LAKEFIELD, May 17.— The Lakefield Tennis Club has been organized with the following officers:

President—O. A. Langley.

Vice-President—F. S. Brown.

Secretary—G. J. Elmsley

Committee—C. S. Tanner, J. C. Smith, and J W. Ridpath.

There are already forty-five members of the club and the members look forward to a very successful season.

Two courts on the grounds of the Lakefield house are being made ready by kind permission of Mr. A. G. Lawless.

The court at Dr. Smith's is being put in shape for the ladies.

Ladies Held "Bee".

On Saturday afternoon a "Bee" of ladies finished planting the hedge on the south side of St. John's Church. The teams were captained by Mrs. Langley, and Mrs. White, the wives of the church wardens and so diligently did both sides work that it made the judging a most difficult task. After the completion of the work both teams were refreshed by afternoon tea, provided by Mrs. F. J. Tate, served on the Rectory lawn. After all had been refreshed, the judge, Mr. E. R. Tate made a very diplomatic speech praising both teams impartially and commending the work of the ladies of the parish and announcing that the decision of which lady did best would be left to the goddess of chance, so it was decided to draw for the beautiful cake which was given by Mrs E. R. Tate as a prize. Mrs. White was the winner and responded suitably.

The affair was a pleasant gathering and aside from work done, it was the means of bringing the parishioners together in a social way which helps not only the church but the community.

Church News.

The children of St. John's Sunday School attended matins at 10:15 in a body and presented their yearly offerings of flowers which will be given to the old people at the House of Refuge.

Sunday being Whitsun Day there were celebrations of Holy Communion at 7 a.m., 8 a.m., and 11 a.m., in St. John's Church

Chimney Fire

The fire brigade was called out on Wednesday morning to a chimney fire at Mr A. L. Dunfords. No damage resulted.

Brotherhood Meeting.

The meeting of the Brotherhood held on Thursday evening was well attended. The programme was provided by a committee from the sisterhood with, Mrs. Nathan Payne as convenor.

Firemen Dance.

The second dance given by the Fire Brigade in the Community Hall on Thursday night was a success in every particular. About one hundred were present and tripped the light fantastic to the music provided by Gliddon's orchestra. The following were patronesses, Mrs. J. C. Strickland, Mrs. (Rev.) A. W. Mackenzie, Mrs. T. B. Marling, Mrs. A. E. Dawson, Mrs. (Dr) S. J. Gibson, Mrs. W. Sherin, Mrs. W. G. Morrison.

Council Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the village council was held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening last.

The members present were Reeve Strickland in the chair and Councillors Dawson, Marling, Spence and Morrison.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

A communication from the Chief Health Officer with regard to conditions at the village "dump" was read

Moved by Councillor Marling, seconded by Councillor Morrison, that the clerk insert a notice in the Lakefield News advising the public that the property known as "The Dump" is not intended for either animal or vegetable matter. That all material put on the dump must be cleared of germ breeding matter. That the roadway through dump from gate to gate must be kept clean as instructed by the Sanitary officer and all dumping done in the place he directs. Any offenders will be prosecuted. — Carried.

A communication was also received from T. H. Stenson re central Ontario power which was referred to the Hydro Electric Commission.

A petition for a concrete sidewalk on the north west side of Queen St., from the present walk ending at J. Payne's gate, to be continued northerly as far as Mr. Leggott's property, was received.

Moved by Councillor Morrison seconded by Councillor Dawson, that a cement sidewalk be constructed on Queen street as far as Mr. Leggott's driveway and that provision for same be made by including it in the By law now being drawn up referring to several other streets now under consideration.—Carried.

A By-law No. 590 entitled a By-law to declare it desirable to construct a concrete sidewalk under provisions of Section 97 Local Improvement Section of the Municipal Act in several streets or parts of streets in the village of Lakefield, received its several readings and was passed.

The Finance Committee presented a report and recommended payment of the following accounts:—

R. Graham wages, $72.00; B. Nicholls, wages, $30.00; A. Fairbairn, wages, $18.00; W. Chappell, harness $31.10; N. A. Moon, pumping and lumber, $11.68; Bell Telephone, account, 51 cents; J. A. A Laxative The Old Can Rely On

Let them take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin for Constipation. Mild and gentle. Never loses its good effect.

ELDERLY people know how much more difficult it is each year as they get older to avoid the ill effects of chronic constipation. The stomach and bowel muscles relax as age advances, and as you are naturally less active, in time they work only by stimulation. You try dieting and exercise, and then take medicine.

All medicines, however, are not suited to elderly people any more than to children, so you will be glad to know of a particular medicine that acts as near to Nature as has yet been found. It is a prescription written thirty odd years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, who is himself now in the 82nd year of his age and still active in his profession. It is known in the trade as Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and you can buy it under that name at any drug store. A sixty-cent bottle will last an average family many months, and all can use it.

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. It acts mildly, gently and without griping. It so trains the stomach and bowel muscles that in time medicine of all kinds can be dispensed with. When people learn of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin and see how wonderfully it acts they realize how unnecessary it is to use drastic salt waters, pills and powders, for these do but temporary good and are weakening to most constitutions. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, on the contrary, is so natural and safe, (it contains no narcotic or strong drugs), that two generations of mothers have given it to their babies.

Take a teaspoonful the next time you feel any distress of the stomach, liver or bowels, if you are constipated, have a headache, cold or fever, if you are bilious, dyspeptic, tired. If Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin should ever fail to do as claimed you can have your money refunded. More people use it than any other laxative in the world.

SIFTED ASHES FOR JEWELS ONE DIAMOND STILL LOST

R. N. Brown, With Only a Flour Sifter, Went Through More Than Two Tons of Embers for Lost Jewelry.

JACKSON'S POINT, May 17. — R. Norman Brown, of Toronto, whose summer home here was destroyed by fire last Tuesday, has busily engaged himself with sifting the ashes for lost jewelry in the last few days.

He bought a flour sifter at a little store here and sifted more than two tons of ashes on the site. In this way he recovered all Mrs. Brown's diamonds, with the exception of one.

Platinum, gold and silver, which were together in a box, were found fused together. Mr. Brown will have his home rebuilt at once.

TURN TO ELECTRIC STOVES.

New Houses in Outskirts Are Getting Modern Equipment.

TORONTO, May 17.— Owing to the unsatisfactory gas service of Toronto, the local Hydro Commission is now offering electric range installation on terms comparable to those in London and Hamilton. But, with "easy terms" granted for some time past in the majority of houses being built for owners' use in the outskirts, electric ranges are being installed. The Commission does not do wiring. Stoves are offered at from $65 to $175. Hamilton is installing ranges, wiring and all, for $200, while London prices run as low as $98.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT SMALL CHANGE

COINS IN CIRCULATION IN U. S. REACH MANY MILLIONS.

(By Ralph Ford Couch.)

WASHINTON, May 17.—"Small change" in use in the United States now amounts to 2$62,667,806, according to an official statement of the Treasury Department, or $2.43 for each resident. This sum represents the total of all the pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half dollars which are being carried around in pocketbook, in breeches pocket and which are kept on hand by stores and banks to make change.

The treasury statement supplies the answer to the oft repeated speculative question as to how much one's fortune would be were he suddenly to become possessed of all the coins in the country under the value of one dollar. Exclusive of $78,000,000 worth of silver dollars in circulation, which are not included in the small change total, the nation's entire stock of silver and copper coins could be packed in a box of 20 feet deep and 60 feet square and delivered in your front yard any fine morning, along with the morning paper and the bottle of milk. The entire sum would be not a large fortune, as fortunes now are rated in the United States.

The small change total is a comparatively insignificant sum if there is taken into consideration the entire amount of money in circulation in the United States. This totals $6,093,500,689, of which $4,763,179,399 is token money. Token money means gold and silver certificate. Treasury notes and notes issued through the Federal Reserve Bank system and by the National Banks, all of which are promises to pay issued by the agencies named. Were all the holders of these promises to request immediate payment, the Government and bank tellers probably would have to suspend all other business for a month to count the bills offered.

Taken by volume, however, all the money in the United States makes a rather insignificant showing. It could all be gathered together in an ordinary office of 200 rooms or so. Any building of six stories with a five-foot frontage and about the same depth would store all the token money, while four men, one at each corner, could easily guard it.

MAN'S FORM EXCELS, BEAUTY OF WOMAN'S, PROFESSOR DECLARES.

MONTREAL, —"Far from advocating any interference with women's dress at the present day, I would rather support a crusade in favor of open neck and short trousers for men," said Professor Ramsay Traquair, Professor of Architecture at McGill University, when asked for his opinions on the movement originated recently to correct the supposed indencencies of modern women's dress. "There never has been a time and never will be a time," the Professor said, when modern dress was not or will not be considered indecent. If young ladies of the present day were required to live in the society of their great-great-grandmothers or their great-great-great-grandmothers they would be greatly pained by the indecent dress of these ladies, for the dresses of this period were cut very low indeed. They would be even more shocked at their conversation. The idea that immodesty arrived with this generation and that all past genertions were distinguished by their modesty in an idea entirely false, but has been encouraged by parents and especially by grandparents of all ages. As a generation grows older, as it lose it attractiveness, it tends to become modest from natural causes and particularly it demands that the younger generation shall not make itself attractive, for obvious reasons. I believe," the Professor continued, "it is an accepted fact that the Duke of Wellington was refused admittance to Almack', a fashionable place of entertainment of the period, on the express grounds that he was wearing trousers and that these were not a proper dress for gentlemen. I believe it was also the case that the Roman Catholic Church towards the end of the 18th century or the beginning of the 19th century published a Bull denouncing trousers as indecent. This may seem strange, the Professor remarked, "to the present generation; but I can only express extreme agreement in that view as trousers are most indecently ugly and it seems a pity that this most important body, the Roman Catholic Church, has not maintained this principle more vigorously.

Dress Now More Beautiful

"Women' dress at the present day," declared Professor Traquair emphatically, "is not more improper or less improper than at any other period, indeed with a certain revival of love of beauty one might also say that it has become more proper in the sense of being more beautiful than it has been for some time past The charge of being improper could with much greater truth be brought against men's dress. It seems, for instance, most improper that ministers of a religion founded on joy and happiness should go about dressed in mourning and that civilized man on occasions of ceremony should attire himself in so grotesque a form as the modern tail coat."

Man More Beautiful

"Man, as distinguished from woman," said the Professor, "has, as will be acknowledged by all artists, a form more abstractly beautiful than woman. The Greek sculptor, who was distinguished by an exalted love of beauty, showed his appreciation of this by making all his women very mascuine in their proportion, and by emphasising in his female figures the resemblance to the more beautiful male." It seems a pity Professor Traquair commented that with these natural advantages men should condemn himself to wear his present insanitary, expensive and grotesque garments when there are so many ways in which he could make himself more interesting at much less expenditure.

Open Necks Advocated.

Coming to the subject of dress for men, Professor Traquair thinks there is something to be said in favor of open necks and short trousers. "Our gallant troops in Mesopotamia found the advantage of this dress," he pointed out, stating also his opinion that the only decently clad male creatures of the present day are possibly the Boy Scouts. Asked if he had any suggestion to offer as to an artistic dress for men, the Professor said that any scheme would have to be founded on traditional line, as anything absolutely new would never be considered. As it was he saw not the slightest chance of any change in male attire being adopted. The kilt, regarded not as uniform, but as a normal dress for ordinary life, as it should be regarded, was he thought, certainly more beautiful and probably more economical and comfortable than present day men's dress. Any scheme in this country would have to provide for a summer and winter form of attire, and those which suggested themselves to him were the kilt, made in all materials, or shorts worn with coats for summer and knickerbocker for winter with the kilt or knee breeches for ceremonial occasions.

AN EPISODE NOW CLOSED.

Dr. Watson Explains Withdrawal From "Twentieth Plane."

TORONTO, May 17.—With the May issue of the Twentieth Plane magazine, Dr. Albert Durant Watson withdraws from his editorial relationship with that periodical. In a statement issued this morning Dr. Watson says:

"I regard my psychic experience of the past three years as an episode now closed. I have drawn a circle around mediumship and stepped outside of it. I think trance addresses given on public platforms have little or no scientific value, but believe that whatever theory as to authenticity may be held, a firs-class psychic, if engaged exclusively in scientific research, might greatly further the advance of human knowledge.

"Personally, I hold that the two books reported by me have great interest and value as containing much truth of unusual significance. I will later have something to say as to my conclusions after these years, during which I devoted all my leisure to this investigation."

PICKPOCKETS ORGANIZE.

GENOA, May 17. — (Canadian Press.)—The Chief of Police of this city has received a letter signed 'The Tramways Pickpocket Association,' complaining that the persons from whom they abstract pocketbooks have "the dishonest habit" of invariably declaring to the police a much larger financial loss than they have really suffered. They cite specific cases where one man claiming to have been robbed of two thousand and five hundred lire, only lost fifty, and another one reporting a loss of eighteen hundred lire when his pocketbook contained less than 200 lire.

The letter argues that such exaggerations are likely to cause unfortunate consequences and strained relations among the pickpocket fraternity as when a member of the association turns in a few few hundred lire when the loser claims to have lost thousands, the pickpocket is suspected by his colleagues of having retained the difference. "Alleged honest people should be more delicate,' the letter ends.

THE HOME CIRCLE

BEAUTIFUL HANDS.

Such beautiful, beautiful hands,
They're neither white nor small.
And you, I know, would scarcely think
That they were fair at all.
I've looked on hands whose form and hue
A sculptor's dream might be,
Most beautiful to me.

Such beautiful, beautiful hands—
Though heart were weary and sad,
These patient hands kept toiling on,
That the children might be glad.
I almost weep, as I coking beck
To childhood's distant day,
I think how these hands rested not
While mine were at their play.

Such beautiful, beautiful hands,
They're growing feeble now;
For time and pain have left theirmark
Onhand, and heart, and brow.
Alas! alas! the nearing time,
And the sad, sad day to me,
When 'neath the daisies, out of sight,
These hands will folded be.

But oh! beyond this shadow-amp,
Where all is bright and fair,
I know full well these dear old hands
Will palms of victory bear.
Where crystal streams, through endless years,
Flow over golden sands,
And where the old grow young again,
I'll clasp my mother's hands.

Actions die—sometimes; words live "Be sure you are right, then go ahead!" was Davy Crocket's motto in life. Have a purpose in life—a right purpose—then press on! Success will finally crown your efforts. If the world despises you because you do not follow its way, if you are right show it by your life and finally the world will turn to your way of thinking and give you credit.

THE BLUES.

Got the blues, did you say? Sure enough! A genuine attack, and the sun shining bright in the heavens, and not a cloud to be seen. Well! Well! Come, my friend, shake yourself together. Go out into the sunshine and look about you. Is this a time for the blues? See how gleefully all nature is smiling. Don't be behindhand in being happy when everything else is rejoicing. This world is not a vale of tears. This life was not given to us as a time for weeping and wailing. Come, get yourself out of this Slough of Despond. This is a time for action. Never sit by the roadside and lament over by-gones, or despair because impossibilities are not brought to pass. There are just as grand opportunities perhaps before you as have ever been experienced. There may not be just as much prosperity an happiness for your future, if you so will, as there has been in the past.

And what a face! You'll spread horror by such a long-drawn countenance. Indeed it is enough to give a buffoon the blues, even to look at it. Go to the glass and get a glimpse of yourself, and then compare it with the looks of friends with whom you meet, but don't stand looking at yourself long, walk forth in God's pure atmosphere. Give a hearty good-day to every man and woman you meet; a smile and a nod to every child; chirrup or whistle to every dog, and there will be but little more trouble with the blues. The ailment cannot stand such treatment. It flourishes only on moodiness and dissatisfaction. Sunlight dispels the clouds of a murky sky, and so does a sunny disposition scatter the blues.

One drop of ink will blacken a whole glass full of pure water. So will one evil communication make the whole world foul. You might drop many, many drops of pure water into the tumbler, but it would have no perceptiole influence. So it will take thousands of good precepts and good instructions to root out this one evil word.

Let every mother remember that however humble her home, however monotonous her life, if she be patient in well doing her children will be better because she has lived. Over her self sacrifice, her love, her faith and courage they will enter the promised land that otherwise they might not have reached. And not her children only, but all with whom she comes in contact, will be uplifted and strengthened by her purity and steadfastness. Be content then, to live each hour, each day, "gathering up the fragments," giving the kind word, the loving thought, the tender sympathy, doing the homely duties that lie nearest as a daughter of the King, as queen in the royal line of motherhood, knowing that all these things are helping to make those who come after you "better because you have lived."

"Some women are always on the go," is the extravagant remark one often hears and it is not always the expression of envy. Strange to ay, these are those who think women do too much traveling. Bless our souls, they don't do half enough. The woman whose world is in the four corners of her house even though she be intellectually above the average and surrounded by evidences of wealth and fine taste, is necessarily more narrow minded and bigoted than her sister, whose mental vision has expanded under the influence of new scenes and balmier skies, free from mental perplexities and drudgeries. She who has been "on the go" occasionally is the better mother, the more intelligent helpmate and the sweetest companion.

GREATER CO-OPERATION IN FARM MARKETING

CALGARY, Alta., May 17.—(Canadian Press).—Greater co-operation in marketing and more efficient farming methods are two of the outstanding factors necessary for the successful development of agriculture in the West, according to an opinion expressed by Professor George H. Hutton, President of the Western Canada Livestock Union and Superintendent of the Agriculture and Animal Industry Branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in a recent interview.

There were, he said, two considerations which would help matters. They were that the average man could produce more efficiently than he was doing, and the other point was that the produce of the farm should be brought to market at lowest possible cost.

As an example of co-operation, he cited the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association, which last year paid all the wool producers of the West a price which was not only satisfactory to themselves, but also to the manufacturer. That, stated the Professor, had given a great impetus to business.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

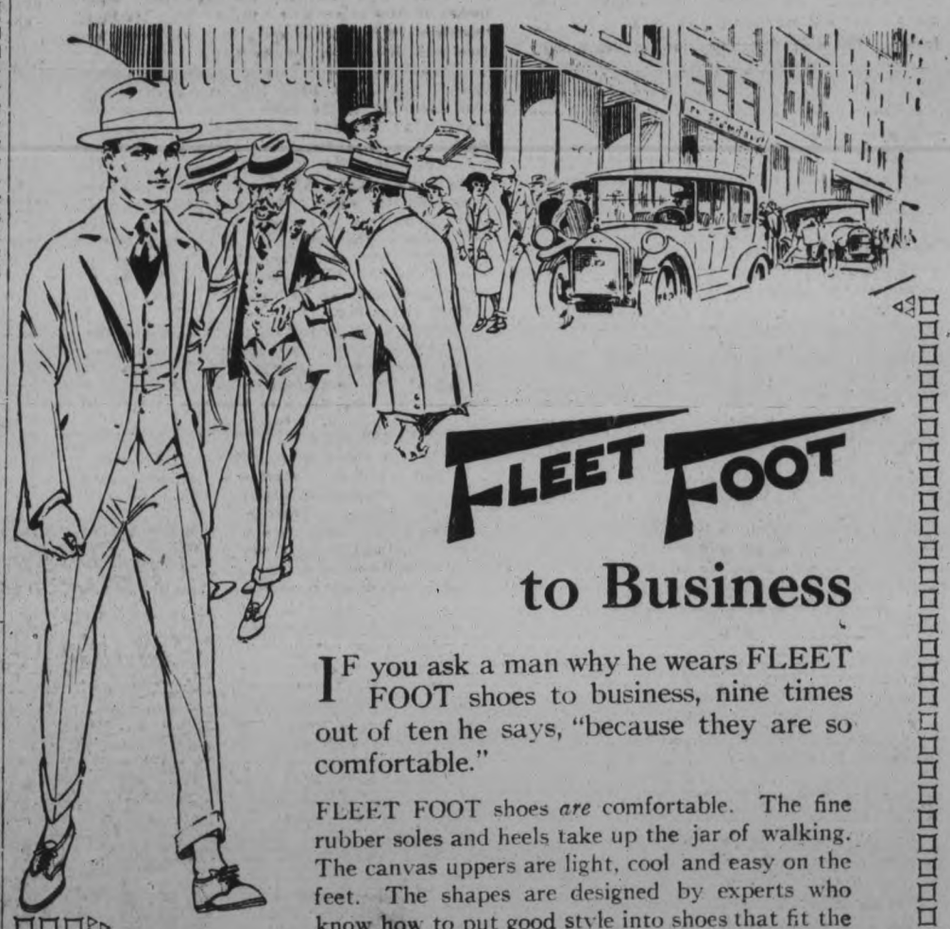
If Mixed With Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural colour and looks glossy, soft and beautful.

New York smart afternoon frocks feature pale grey, tan and mauve novelty crepe, crepe de chine, and canton crepe, trimmed with tinted laces and uncut fringes of moss braid also small flowers of the dress material, and wooden bead work in inset design.

At twenty success in love appears to consist, not so much in getting the girl you want as in getting the girl some other fellow wants.



FLEET FOOT to Business

IF you ask a man why he wears FLEET FOOT shoes to business, nine times out of ten he says, "because they are so comfortable."

FLEET FOOT shoes are comfortable. The fine rubber soles and heels take up the jar of walking. The canvas uppers are light, cool and easy on the feet. The shapes are designed by experts who know how to put good style into shoes that fit the feet snugly, yet are light and flexible.

Most men wear FLEET FOOT right through the summer. They have several pairs. Sensible oxfords for business—sport models for bowling, golf or tennis—a smart pump for evening wear—and perhaps heavy FLEET FOOT shoes for gardening or working around the house.

FLEET FOOT are so economical that you can have two or three pairs for the price of one pair of leather shoes.

Wear them this summer—put the whole family in FLEET FOOT.

The name FLEET FOOT in the style of lettering shown above, is stamped on every genuine FLEET FOOT Shoe—look for it.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

Is MAN Really REVERTING to the MONKEY?

The Gibbon, a Tree-Dwelling Ape of Southern Asia. It Has a Slender Form and Very Long Arms, Which May Reach to the Ground When the Animal Stands Erect.

The Chimpanzee Grows to About Five Feet in Height. It Has Large Ears, Distinct Eyebrows, Eyelashes and Whiskers. In Length of Arms and Number of Teeth It Approximates Man.

The Gorilla Inhabits Central Africa. It Is About Six Feet in Height, Massive of Body and Limb, and Is Greatly Feared for Its Ferocity and Strength.

The Orang-Outang, the Original "Wild Man of Borneo," Is Massive in Form, Weighs About 250 Pounds, and Reaches a Height of About 4½ Feet. It Has Been Taught to Imitate Man.

WHEN a schoolboy was asked to write a composition on "Man and Monkey," he said that everyone sprang from a monkey and the only difference today is that some didn't spring as far as others.

Recently a party of explorers came out of the hidden recesses of the unknown wilds of New Guinea bearing the report of the discovery of a most singular race of men that walks like apes. Living as they do in the marshes, these men have no need to walk, members of the exploring party report. On the other hand, the marshes are covered with a growth that prevents navigation in canoes. The monkey-men have built huts in trees, and as organs of prehension alone are useful to them, their lower limbs have almost atrophied. These natives have only feeble and withered legs and feet, while the chest and arms are of normal development. They can scarcely stand upright and they walk like large apes, giving the impresion of cripples who have been deprived of the use of their lower extremities.

This reported discovery of a tribe of apelike men is of particular interest in connection with the startling theory of Prof. A. Linckewicz, a noted savant of Vienna, who is the author of a remarkable book entitled, "The Beast in Man."

"Man is not only descended from monkeys," declares Prof. Linckewicz, "but monkeys are descended from a race of prehistoric men who, from being overcivilized, finally sank into barbarism and from thence into savagery, eventually becoming monkeys again.

"The world is now in the second stage of human evolution and, unless false culture is pushed aside and normality asserts itself over the modern tendencies toward destruction, the earth in another 2000 years will be again peopled by monkeys."

In explaining his "pre-Darwinian" theory Prof. Linckewicz, who is now in his 86th year, claims that archaeological discoveries in China, Egypt, Russia, Italy and elsewhere prove conclusively that a civilization older than the Atlantic Ocean existed when what is now the United States was a sea.

"The human race which inhabited the earth at that time," he says, "was the result of fifty centuries of evolution from the primeval ape, and was far more highly developed than is the civilization of today, although along different lines.

"At that stage, for instance, telephony had been replaced by telepathy, and it was possible for a business man in China to send an order to an agent in Scandinavia by simply concentrating the processes of his thought on the subject and transporting his mind for the moment to the other end of the earth.

"This faculty is at present retained only by a small group of Hindu philosophers in India, who have been remarkably successful in thought transference and in other directions, such as the ability to simulate death for a period as long as seventy years, after which they emerge with a completely new brain whereon are received impressions such as the brain of a year-old child would receive. These men are then practically reborn, and often live a normal lifetime thereafter. They cannot, however, repeat the experiment.

"The pre-civilized were in regular communication with certain of the stars, but it is not possible to say with which particular ones, although the Grecian legends surrounding planetary gods are undoubtedly founded on legends which have survived in the form of graven scriptures from the First Human or First Pre-Ape period.

"Finally this race became super-human and the limit of their brain capacity having been overreached their intelligence suddenly snapped. There is also reason to believe that they were steeped in debauchery and became non-procreative, so that when the final disaster came about their numbers were reduced to a few million, residing for the most part in the warmed climes.

"Following six or seven centuries, when the world was peopled by half-wits who destroyed the cities they had built, pulled down the mighty civilization their forefathers had raised, engaged in bloody wars among themselves, and finally became again what they had been in the beginning—a race of monkeys.

"To prove the truth of this it is necessary only to take a new-born infant and place it among monkeys for its first fifteen years. By that time it will have absorbed all the habits of apes and will be only half-human. It will never have learned the power of speech except insofar as it will chatter like a monkey. It will not be as agile as a monkey because it will have no tail, but should it be mated to an ape its children will be wholly apes.

Why More Male Babies Are Born After Great Wars

TO explain why after and during the war there should be a greater over-plus of boys born than is noticed in more normal times, George Whitehead, author of "The Psychology of the Woman Question," writing in The London Sphere, assigns the following reasons:

"The reasons for this apparent thoughtfulness on the part of nature in lessening the death rate after a heavy toll has been levied through an epidemic on the one hand, and in providing a greater number of male babies to restore the depleted ranks of adult males caused by war on the other, are that an epidemic naturally carries off the weakest infants, and those able to resist its ravages are thus of a relatively greater average stamina than is normal. Therefore, being stronger, they are more able to resist the subsequent attacks of ordinary childish ailments, and suffer less by death than would be the case among children whose numbers included the comparative weaklings carried off by the previous epidemic.

"Why male babies are born in greater numbers after a war can only be explained with less certainty. Reasoning from analogies supplied by the lower forms of life among insects, fishes and animals we know that lack of nutriment, greater hardships, uncongenial conditions suffered by the mothers as a rule result in greater numbers than usual of male births; while, as convincing experiments have demonstrated with rabbits, frogs and birds, a rich diet, etc., stimulates the tendency to female births in an astonishing degree.

"Males can be produced at will by relative starvation of a certain polyp, while rabbits fed with lecithin (a nutritive substance derived from the white of an egg) furnish a remarkably high percentage of female births. The tadpoles of frogs, usually yielding 57 females to 43 males in 100, when fed with beef yield 78 females per 100, when fed with fish 81 per 100 and when fed with frog-flesh yield 92 females per 100!

"Although one cannot, of course, reason strictly from animals to humans, it is indeed a fact that during a siege or at other times when food is relatively scarce or innutritious, or when a period of nervous stress obtains for the mothers, boys are born in greater numbers."

MARVELS You Can PERFORM With BUBBLES

SOAP bubbles, always regarded as an amusement of childhood's days, lately have been receiving the attention of scientists and many novel and marvelous results have been effected. The soap films are now so dexterously manipulated that they are made to present effects more spectacular than one ever dreamed of. Bubbles are built into all kinds of freak forms such as houses, bridges and even castles.

How wire frames, by being immersed in soap solutions, are made to produce the most unique and fantastic impressions is explained in Science and Invention by Joseph H. Kraus, who has experimented with films of this nature, the object being to produce a film which when formed, would last indefinitely.

At first, the experiments were rather discouraging, but finally the film was floated on water so that the delicate tissue could be lifted up on a wire frame. Here, after allowing it to stand for one week, it developed the most exquisite refraction effects imaginable, and the marvelous colors developed seemed to improve even upon nature.

This effect can readily be produced with a little care by any experimenter in the following simple manner: Three ounces of amyl acetate are purchased from the druggist and placed in a four-ounce vial. Ordinary celluloid which may be obtained by immersing pieces of camera film in boiling hot water to remove the emulsion, is then cut up into narrow strips and introduced into the vial, until the height of the liquid therein comes up to the neck of the bottle.

It is allowed to stand for 24 hours at room temperature with the bottle corked and then the supernatant liquid which is of quite a heavy consistency is poured into another bottle and is ready for use. The mode of procedure is to make a loop or circle three inches across by twisting a piece of copper wire together, leaving about eight inches of wire to act as a handle. This handle is then bent into such a shape that it will not interfere with the removal of the film.

A good way to do this is to place the circle upon a table and bend the handle downward over the edge of the table. This curve is then changed by twisting it outward and then upward. The wire circle is afterward immersed in a bowl of water and a single drop of the amyl acetate and celluloid solution is allowed to fall into the water; the drop instantly spreads over the surface of the water and forms a film and floats on the water. It will be seen that at first very pretty iridescent colors form near the edge of the film. These colors gradually spread, which spreading can be forced by blowing at the surface of the film.

After a short period the surface becomes serrated and the serrations become more prominent as the experiment proceeds. Finally, when the largest of these serrations has become about one-half an inch long, the wire frame is centred under the film and lifted carefully, in this way removing the film intact.

It will be found quite difficult to succeed at first, and it is best to start with smaller frames, but after a while quite large films can be removed without difficulty. These are suspended in some location free of dust and within a week the film will develop a very interesting effect which very easily can be projected through an ordinary stereopticon upon the screen.

A hole punctured in the film with a sharp needle also gives a very clever demonstration of the film tension. Films of this nature must, of course, be made in the flat form although they are capable of assisting in the regular experiments in surface tension. It has been found that a film of this form, if sprinkled with lycopodium or some other light powder, will show definite zones whenever a musical instrument is played in its vicinity, giving a Chladin plate effect. These areas are differently marked with each sound.

Now to the more difficult object, namely, that of blowing permanent soap bubbles.

The liquid will have to be made up in more or less of a haphazard manner as different soaps and different constituents cause different effects. The ingredients are readily obtained from any pharmacist. About six ounces of acetone is placed in a bottle to which is added enough celluloid film to make the solution quite thick. To a similar quantity of acetone, about one ounce of powdered white soap is added. The solutions are allowed to stand for 36 to 48 hours.

These solutions are then mixed together until of such a consistency that they can be blown with an ordinary clay pipe in the same manner as soap bubbles, a bubble about four inches in diameter being the maximum size produced.

The ends of the pipes are then stopped up with a wooden plug or with wax and the stems inserted into racks. It will be found that after allowing them to remain this way for 24 to 36 hours, a quick snap of the pipe will separate the bubble and the same can be caught upon a stretched cotton sheet.

Thereupon, the bubbles can be built into all sorts of fantastic forms. Houses can be erected, bridges built and castles permanently made as shown in the illustration. In order to do this with a marked degree of success, so that if the castle or the object built is to be moved, and not to break, it will be necessary to moisten the point of contact between two or more soap bubbles with a very little of either of the solutions just mentioned; either with the amyl acetate and celluloid solution or with the acetone-celluloid solution.

In this manner, the bubbles will last intact for upward of three years.

A Castle Built of Bubbles Which May Last as Long as Three Years.

SWEETEST FLOWER

OF the 4200 species of plants gathered and used for commercial purposes in various parts of Europe, 420 have a fragrance that is pleasing, and enter largely into the manufacture of perfumery, soaps and sachets.

There are more species of white flowers than of any other color gathered. The number is 1124, and of these 187 have an agreeable scent.

Next in order come yellow blossoms, with 951, 77 of them being sweetly perfumed. Red flowers number 823, of which 84 are fragrant.

The blue flowers are of 594 varieties, but only from 34 of them can sweet-smelling extracts be obtained. There are 307 different blossoms of violet hue, 13 of which are pleasantly perfumed.

It is not perhaps very generally known that the harvesting of certain species of wild flowers has developed into a regular seasonal industry in East Anglia since the war.

Cowslips, poppies, broom, elder flowers and other flowers of the kind are gathered by village children, the distillation being carried out in an old gray mill on the River Gipping at Blakenham, in Suffolk, England.

How the SENSE of SMELL SOLVED the SECRET of SILVER-PLATING

HAVE you ever looked at a silver-plated article and wondered how the silver got on to it? In the beginning it all came about through an accident.

Two famous scientists were one day in their laboratory, experimenting with electricity. What the particular experiment was is immaterial, but just after they had set up the whole of a complicated apparatus it was found that one of the wires leading from the electric battery had broken. It was necessary to put in a new wire.

But time was pressing, and it was essential to get the experiment done. Then one of the chemists remembered that acidulated water would conduct or carry electricity as well as a wire.

A drop of acidulated water was spilt so that the two broken ends were just poking into it. The switch was turned and the drop of water did its part well. Everything went splendidly.

After the experiment had been going for some time, Davy, who was one of the two chemists, thought he smelt that peculiar salty-sweet odor of a gas called hydrogen. Both men started to hunt for the origin of that unlooked-for gas—they knew that there could not possibly be a leakage of hydrogen from any of the retorts, and that the gas was not produced by the action of their machine.

At last they found it. One of them, bending low, had caught his nose just over that little drop of water, and there the smell was strongest. They examined that insignificant drop through a magnifying glass and saw hundreds of tiny bubbles literally leaping from the end of the wire.

These little bubbles rose to the top of the drop of water and there emptied their contents into the air. All the hydrogen they smelt was coming off from this place.

The two men then set up an apparatus resembling that of the water-drop—that is, they passed an electric current through a trough of water. Bubbles immediately sprang from both ends of the wires dipping into the water. They had made a great discovery. Water—which consists of hydrogen and oxygen—could be split up into its different constituents by electricity.

They improved their apparatus, and made experiments not only with water, but among other things with a liquid called silver nitrate, which is silver dissolved in nitric acid.

The silver nitrate was broken up in the same way that water was, and the wire by which the electricity ran from the trough was coated with silver. From this the great industry of electro or silver-plating has sprung up.

Nowadays, the article to be plated is connected straight up to the negative wire. It is immersed and a current passed. On taking the article from the solution it is found coated with a thin crust of shining silver.

Catching INFLUENZA from SHEEP

THERE is an interesting account of an epidemic of so-called "influenza" in the Journal of the Royal Army Medical Corps. The epidemic raged at Lahore in the Punjab in the end of 1919, among the 111th Madras Labor Corps, the men of the cattle depot, and the 14th (Madras) Labor Corps. The epidemic, according to The Lancet, appeared clinically to be a recrudescence of the influenza which had occurred in 1918, but this time there was no notable outbreak anywhere else in the Punjab, or, indeed, in the whole of India; further, it was confined entirely to units in the north end of Lahore cantonment. The cases were numerous and mortality very high.

The outbreak began gradually in the end of September, when the dry season commenced, and by Nov. 27 there had been 754 cases and 230 deaths (31 per cent.). The symptoms were influenzal, broncho-pneumonia was frequent, and the sputum contained pneumococci, diplococci catarrhales, staphylococci, streptococci, etc., but the influenza bacillus was never found.

On Nov. 19, 196 deaths having already occurred, the reporter, Maj. J. Mackenzie, R. A. M. C., who appears to have been the local pathologist, and who admits that the source of the infection had hitherto baffled him, happened to visit the cattle depot, where he heard of a mysterious unknown malady which was killing 100 sheep a day. He went to see the sick sheep, and found that as they died several ounces of fluid escaped from their mouths and nostrils and lay in little pools on the ground. He made two examinations of dead sheep, found they had broncho-pneumonia and pleurisy, recovered pneumococci in pure culture from their lungs, also from their heart blood. The flock of sheep was at once removed to a distance and dead sheep burned.

Two post-mortems on patients dead of "influenza" showed pneumonia and pleurisy (one had purulent pericarditis). In all the films and cultures pneumococci only were present, and pneumococci were also found in blood films taken from fingers of seriously ill patients.

The epidemic attacked the men of the cattle depot, also the 114th Labor Corps, whose camp was separated from the cattle depot only by a road; also the 14th Labor Corps a fortnight after it had sent 50 men to work in the cattle depot.

The disease was supposed to spread among the sheep by contact, but to have been carried to men by dust (it spread to them immediately after the commencement of the dry season in the end of September), by flies or by contact, and from man to man by coughing or sneezing. It seems surprising that so great a loss of sheep should not have been talked about and the moral would seem to be that any such mortality among animals should be reported to the medical authorities, particularly the army medical authorities in all garrisons, in case action on their part should be necessary.

CLEANING A CLOCK

WHEN a clock stops it is a mistake to suppose that it must at once be taken to the workshop for repairs. In most cases clocks cease running because of the accumulation of dust particles which clogs the bearings. It is not even needful to take the clock to pieces to clean it if a simple plan, according to the Scientific American, is followed which will be found to work very well.

Soak a piece of cotton wool in kerosene and place it in a small saucer, a canister lid, or anything similar. Then put this in the case of the clock under the works. Close up, and at the end of 24 hours examine the cotton wool. It will be found to be covered with black specks these are the dust particles brought down by the fumes of the kerosene. Wind the clock up and it will start away again.

Where the works of the clock are in an enclosed case a few drops of kerosene should be poured through the small hole which is provided in the metal covering. Turn the clock about a while so that the kerosene is distributed and after an interval, it is extremely likely that the works will commence their normal operations again.

HASTINGS AND DISTRICT NEWS

PLANNING TO ATTEND THE CONVENTION IN NORWOOD TOMORROW.

HASTINGS, May 17.—The local chapter of the I.O.D.E. held an afternoon tea in their rooms on Monday afternoon. A good crowd was in attendance and a pleasant time recorded.

Mr. John Armour of South Monaghan, has been renewing acquaintance in Hastings.

A large number of the ladies are planning to go to Norwood on Wednesday 18, to attend the annual district convention of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Campbellford district.

A number of cars will convey the passengers to and from the Convention. An excellent programme is in course of preparation.

Mr. Roland Jones is confined to his bed suffering from an attack of flu.

Mrs. Bonter of Marmora, a one time resident of Hastings, called here on Saturday.

Mr. Frank Runnels spent Saturday in Peterborough.

Mr. Palliser of Campbellford, was in town on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ireland of Roseneath, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Watson and children of Norwood, spent Sunday guests of Dr. J. H. and Mrs. Hess.

Mr. W. Atkinson of Dartford, was in town on Sunday.

The cheese factories have commenced the season's operation.

Mr. Wesley Montgomery is in charge of Hastings factory and Mr. Wellman in charge of Brickley.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Stinson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. V. German.

The heavy frost of Sunday night caused considerable damage to the garden stuff, early beans and corn being badly scorched.

Mrs. Foster of Belleville, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. E. C. Prentice.

Miss Moise of Millbrook, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. F. Hawkins.

Mr. Carlos Runnels has returned from a visit with Toronto friends.

The many friends of Mrs. C. E. Jones are pleased to see her around after her protracted illness.

2nd Vice-Pres., Miss Marion Moore.

3rd Vice-Pres., Miss Taylor and Claude Duncalfe.

4th Vice-Pres., Mr. S. A. Maguire.

Sec., Gerald Wilson.

Treas., (General Fund), Miss B. Airhart.

Treas., (Missionary), Ralph Stanbury.

Cor. Sec., Howard Wood.

Pianist, Miss Grace Payne.

Asst. Pianist, Miss J. Taylor.

The folowing committee was appointed to look after the tennis court, Miss H. Redden, Mr. Harry Kenney, Mr. William Hore and Mr. Carl Maguire.

Sad Accident.

Last week a very sad accident befell Mrs. Ashbury who resides near Havelock. Mrs. Ashbury was assisting her husband with the sawing machine when in some unaccountable way her right hand was caught in the saw, completely severing the thumb and parts of the other fingers. The patient was rushed to Campbellford. Mrs. Ashbury was able to proceed to her home on Saturday but it will be some time before she will be able to use her hand.

Personal Mention.

Dr. W. F. Loucks is in Toronto attending the Medical convention.

Mr .and Mrs. Alfred Dunk, who have been spending the winter in the United States have returned home.

Mrs. T. S. Porte and daughter, Mrs. Jessie Chase, leave this week to take up their residence in Toronto. Their many friends in town regret their departure but hope to see them visit the old home town often.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. Malhiot will regret to learn that their little three year old son is seriously ill of diphtheria.

Miss Edith Abar, who is teaching in Westwood, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Abar.

Mr. H. Meiklejohn, who is conducting a garage on Bridge street, now has Mr. Callahan, an expert mechanic of Toronto, working for him. Mr. Callahan has about eight years' experience in general motor work with various automobile factories in Toronto, including two years electrical work.

PRICE-CUTTING WAR IN AUTOS RUMORED

ALL EYES ON HENRY, WHO LED THE WAY IN THE LAST REDUCTION.

DETROIT, May 17.—Rumors of an extensive price-cutting war in automobiles are prevalent here. They were accepted in the Michigan motor field as another indication of the desperate efforts of the industry to return to normal.

Price-cutting began last winter with Henry Ford leading the way. He has been followed by other manufacturers, the Marmon, Jordan and Chevrolet being among the latest to reduce. Rumors of coming reductions included Studebaker, Hudson and Essex, although the companies did not confirm the reports. Lowering of prices on machines is being accompanied by reduced prices on raw materials and fittings.

Other indications of the industry's efforts to return to normal included a gradual increase in production with the hiring of more men and a number of sales and mergers. Among the latter is the sale of the Maxwell Motor Car Corporation which will be merged with the Chandler Co. Maxwell production has increased rapidly since the proposed merger was announced.

Approximately 80 per cent. of the men employed in making cars last year have been re-employed, a survey of seventy-nine plants in this region showed to-day. An average of 3,000 men a week is being taken back, the figures showed. There are now 160,000 men employed against the 200,000 a year ago.

The Ford company, watched carefully as a barometer of the business, was reported operating under nearly normal conditions. Its organization was said to be intent on setting a new record of 100,000 cars for the month of May.

BUDGET DEBATE BEGINS TO DRAG

YESTERDAY'S CONTRIBUTIONS TO DISCUSSION BROUGHT LITTLE NEW.

OTTAWA, May 17.— (Canadian Press.)—Although the close of the budget debate is perceptibly nearer as a result of yesterday's proceedings in the House of Commons, contributions to the discussion brought forth little that has not already been said. Opening with a speech by J. E. Armstrong, Government supporter from Lambton East, the debate was carried on largely by members of the Liberal Opposition.

J. E. Prevost (Terrebonne), Joseph Demers (St. Johns and Iberville), and O. Turgeon (Gloucester), joined in criticism of the government, while T. W. Caldwell, progressive member from Carleton, N.B., charged that the taxation measures were designed for the benefit of the Canadian manufacturer. H. B. Morphy (North Perth), defended the policy of the Government.

THE WEATHER

There was a sharp frost last night and it is altogether likely that considerable damage was done. This (Tuesday) morning at 6 o'clock the thermometer stood at 30 degrees or 2 degrees below the freezing point. It had been down to 28 during the night, or 4 degrees of frost. Ice was plentiful. It is likely that lower temperature was experienced on low-lying and more exposed sections. May 15th of last spring saw the last appearance of frost.—W.P.

CITY MANAGER PLAN BEATEN

FRENCH-CANADIAN VOTE OVERWHELMS SOLID ENGLISH-SPEAKING POLL IN MONTREAL.

20,000 MAJORITY

MONTREAL, May 17.—(Canadian Press).—The result of the referendum vote here last night is now known to be a majority in the neighborhood of twenty thousand for schedule "B". The exact figures are not, however, yet available. It is stated that the English speaking population polled almost as a unit for schedule "A" but were swamped by the French Canadian vote, the latter having been led to believe that schedule "A" would weaken their influence in the city.

Schedule "A" provided for a form of city government in which a council would be elected by proportional representation and a city manager administrate the city's affairs under the control of the council. Schedule "B" provided for the old ward system.

WRITS ISSUED FOR MEDICINE HAT, NO LIBERAL RUNNING

GOVERNMENT AND FARMERS TO FIGHT FOR SIFTON'S FORMER SEAT.

OTTAWA, May 17. (Canadian Press.)—The writ has been issued for the by-election in Medicine Hat formerly represented by Hon. A. L. Sifton. Nomination is June 13th, with polling on June 27th. There will be no liberal candidate, the contest being between Col. Ben Spencer M.P.P., Government condidate and a representative of the Agrarian party, both of whom are in the field.

Be Suspicious of Tender Gums

Be suspicious of any tenderness or bleeding of the gums. This is usually the first stage of Pyorrhea—an insidious disease of the gums that destroys the teeth and undermines bodily health.

Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame, then shrink, thus exposing the unenameled tooth-base to the ravages of decay. Tiny openings in the gums form gateways for disease germs to enter the system.

Medical science has traced many ills to these infecting germs in the gums weakened by Pyorrhea.

They are now known to be a frequent cause of indigestion, anaemia, rheumatism and other serious conditions.

So watch carefully for that first tenderness or bleeding of the gums. Try Forhan's immediately. It positively prevents Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) if used in time and used consistently.

And in preventing Pyorrhea—it guards against other ills.

Forhan's (For the Gums) cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps them white and clean.

If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes in Canada and U. S. If your druggist cannot supply you, send price to us direct and we will mail tube postpaid.

Dr. Harrigan's Advice to Thin, Nervous People

It's worth your while to read what a New York specialist has to say about the nerve and brain cell builder that McDermid & Jury and other leading druggists sell so much of these days. He writes:

"Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anaemic or run-down, take natural unadulterated substances such as Bitro-Phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy and strength of body and mind."

Bitro-Phosphate is a pure organic phosphate such as good physicians prescribe to increase weight and create abundant nerve force.

CAUTION: Although Bitro-Phosphate is an excellent aid in relieving weak, nervous conditions, its use is not advised unless increased weight is desired.

TO BE DYSPEPTIC IS TO BE MISERABLE

The poor dyspeptic suffers untold agony after every meal, and any one who has dyspepsia knows what joy it would give to eat three square meals a day and not be punished for it after. Nearly everything that enters the weak stomach acts as an irritant, and even the little that is eaen causes such torture and is digested so imperfectly that it does little good.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pick and choose your food, you must put your stomach into such a condition that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

For over forty years Burdock Blood Bitters has been toning up and restoring weak stomachs to a normal healthy condition so that the food no longer causes distress, but is thoroughly digested and assimilated, and enables one to partake of all the wholesome food required without fear of any unpleasant after effects.

Mrs. Alice Becknorth, Fesserton, Ont., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from indigestion and dyspepsia for several years. I could not eat anything without almost dying from the pain in the pit of my stomach. Seeing Burdock Blood Bitters highly recommended I tried a bottle, and can gladly say it relieved me. I can eat anything now, and am in perfect health."

B. B. B. is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TRENT RIVER HAPPENINGS

TRENT RIVER, May 17.—A business meeting followed by a social hour was held at the Methodist church here Thursday evening of last week. A goodly number of the congregation were present and a profitable time was spent.

Messrs. J. Townsend and E. Howse deserve credit for the tasty way they have fitted up 'Sedgewick's pavillion.' The floor is excellent and the pretty decorations suspended from the ceiling makes a fine display when the brilliant lights are turned on. The boys have been busy this week placing small evergreen trees in fancy painted jardinieres, and one of these will be placed on each post a few feet part, the entire circle of the hall, making the spacious interior of this building a "bower of beauty" and a "veritable summerland." Friday of this week there will be two prize dances and on the evening of the 24th a masquerade will be held. Dancing instructions are given nightly from 7 to 7.30 free of charge.

Mr. Fred Gain, of Toronto, was down over Sunday at the Christie cottage.

CANADIAN GIRL WINS MOVIE FILM CONTEST

TORONTO, May 17.—(By Canadian Press.) — From among 1,200 contestants in various parts of Canada Fern Thompson, 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Thompson, Brantford, Ontario, has won a unique drawing contest in connection with a big film concern. The prize is a trip to New York and the moving picture studios. Miss Thompson will go to New York May 19th accompanied by her mother, and will return May 22nd. During their stay, they will be treated to all the sights and there will be a theatre box party each evening except Friday when the young artist will be a guest of honor at the Annual Studio Ball in the Hotel Commodore. During her stay in New York, she will meet the movie stars, and will be given an opportunity to appear in a photoplay.

FEW CANCELLATIONS MADE.

Mothers' Allowances Board Investigators in Conference.

TORONTO, May 17. —The first conference of investigators has been in session at the Mothers' Pension Board.

"We are very satisfied in the way the mothers are assisting us in the carrying out of the act," says Chairman Bryce, "and only a few cancellations have been made in the 2,000 cases where allowances have been granted." Board are adding some $12,000 to $16,000 to their payroll monthly. The investigators were enthusiastic over the results.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES

Itched and Burned. Scarcely Slept. Cuticura Heals.

"Pimples affected my face. They were large and always festered, and they were scattered all over my face. They afterwards turned into scales and when they fell off they left big marks until my face was disfigured. They itched and burned so that I scarcely slept at all.

"I had been bothered for nearly two months before I started using Cuticura, and after I had used three boxes of Cuticura Ointment with the Cuticura Soap I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss L. Burns, St. Bazile, Que., June 6, 1916.

Bargain Annex
Registered

Wednesday, May 18th, 1921

Martin-Senour Paints and Varnishes—3rd Floor

50c Mid-Day Lunch Served in Tea-Room, 11.30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The Annex Is Progressing with Leaps and Bounds

MAY IS PROGRESSIVE MONTH and this store counts its progress by the number of new friends it makes and the old ones it retains. The Annex certainly must be retainingits old friends and making many new ones, for when we added up the long column of sales checks after last Wednesday we discovered that THE ANNEX HAD SERVED MORE PEOPLE ON THE PRECEEDING DAY THAN ANY OTHER IN ITS HISTORY

With This Wednesday's List of Values There Is Every Reason Why To-morrow's Sale Should Be Just as Great, If Not Greater

Women's White Underskirts and Nightgowns, 89c

We would certainly have to turn over many time-worn and discolored pages of advertisements to see such a price as the above.

The Skirts have an embroidered flounce ,and the Gowns are made "Mother Hubbard" style with fine lace trimmings. A good range of sizes in both lines.

Women's and Girls' Middies, $1.49

This is the second Annex Sale of these. They are this season's goods—crisp and new and well made, for they were manufactured to sell at from $2.25 to $3.00. When the Sale commences there will be a complete range of women's and girls' sizes.

Good Values, Everyone

Men's 50c Lisle Socks, 29c pair.

Heavy White Flannelette, 34 inches wide, 23c yard.

Special 50c Hemstitched Pillow Cases, 39c each.

Women's Over-all Aprons, 63c.

Women's "Snug-fit" Balbriggan Bloomers, 39c.

Boys' and Girls' Ribbed Hose, brown or black, 19c pair.

Children's White Cotton Drawers, 39c.

35c Lonsdale Cambric, 23c yard.

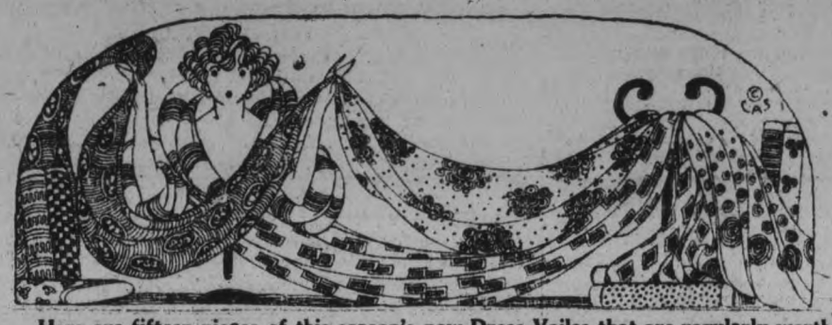
Women's Knit Drawers, lace trimmed, 67c.

"Gold" and "Sunlight" Laundry Soaps, 7 bars 49c.

Five-string House Brooms, 47c.

600 YARDS

Dress Voiles, Many Pieces, Only Half Price, 49c Yard



Here are fifteen pieces of this season's new Dress Voiles that are regularly worth up to 98c yard. You have choice of light or dark grounds and all-white. The patterns are polka dots and novelty floral and figured effects. About half the lot are less than half price. Widths, 36 and 38 inches.

ANOTHER CASE LOT

Yard-Wide Prints and Percales, 19c Yard

A mill cleared them at a price favorable to us. If you purchase on Wednesday you will share in our good fortune.

Every piece is a full yard wide and there is a splendid assortment of plain colors in light, medium and dark tones with neat figured and striped patterns. They were made to sell at 35c and 45c yard.

40c and 45c Galateas and Chambrays, 27c Yard

Best quality "Peggy" Chambrays in colors of grey and blue grey and "Gold Seal" Galateas in blue and wnite, brown and white and green and white striped patterns. Both lines are 32/33 inches wide and are fully guaranteed to wash and launder perfectly. Suitable summer garments for women and children.

75c Cambric Zephyrs Yard-Wide Shirtings, 39c Yard

These materials recommend themselves to many women because of their wearing qualities and also because of their pretty stripe patterns. They will make into excellent Shirts or Pyjamas for Men, or Sport Blouses for Women.

Standard Quality Awning Ducks, 57c Yard

Many people who had not intended to put awnings on their windows or curtains on their verdandah are doing so, because they can purchase this Duck for so little in the Annex.

It is a standard quality and you have choice of green or blue in broken or even stripes.

Yard-Wide Curtain Scrims, 19c Yard

This is the second Annex Sale of this line of Scrims. The centres are plain and the borders are open-worked. The former price for this quality was 35c yard. Obtainable in cream or ecru.

House Dresses, $1.49

They are made of Canadian percales in light and medium colors with stripe and figured patterns; have two pockets, belt, French cuffs and turn-down collar. All sizes.

500 PAIRS

Boys', Girls' and Children's Fleet-Foot Sports Shoes

The great outdoors beckons and the children's feet can be lightly and substantially shod with "Fleet-Foot" Running Shoes.

They have rubber soles and you have choice of black, brown or blue canvas uppers.

Lot 1—Children's sizes, 4 to 10, $1.29 pair.

Lot 2—Girls' sizes, 11 to 2, $1.49 pair.

A Splendid Chance to Purchase Your White Pique, 33c Yard

You have choice of three widths of cord in a fine quality Pique that is 27 inches wide. It is suitable for any purpose that any quality of Pique is used for.

Time Limit Sales

11.30 A.M. TO 1.30 P.M.

Two Hour Sale "Special" Toilet Paper, 12 Rolls for 65c

We have received another large shipment of this Paper. It is a crepe tissue. To-morrow's price is less than 6c a roll. Any quantity allowed to one customer.

NO 'PHONE ORDERS.

4.30 P.M. TO 5.30 P.M.

50c and 60c Plain White Dress Voiles, 29c Yard

A One Hour Rush Sale of about three hundred yards of Plain White Dress Voiles. They are from 36 to 40 inches wide and the everyday selling prices are 50c and 60c a yard.

As the price is so low, we will have to limit the amount to each buyer to not more than ten yards. No 'phone orders.

100 DOZEN

Children's 50c Colored Top Lisle Socks, 39c Pair

Often mothers admire little Socks like these, but the price prevents them from buying. This time things are different, because the price is very, very low.

There is an assortment of different colored tops and patterns and there is every size from 5 to 8½, inclusive. They are lisle with a mercerized finish.

Women's Summer Undervests, 37c and 49c

Good Undervests for such little money are rare indeed—except in the Bargain Annex. This lot came direct from a Canadian mill and, of course, for this reason the price is lower. In addition, we secured them at one-third off their regular price. THEREFORE, THEY ARE RARE VALUE.

A good selection of styles—"Opera Vests"—sleeveless and short sleeve styles. Obtainable in pink or white.

Lot 1—Regular 60c and 65c values, 37c
Lot 2—Regular 75c and 85c values, 49c

Women's Black Silk Boot Hose, 49c Pair, 2 Pairs 95c

These Stockings have a good appearance and quality besides. They are seamless and have lisle heels and toes and hemmed tops. Sizes 9, 9½ and 10. Worth buying in six-pair lots.

FIFTY PIECES

59c and 69c, 5 and 5½ Inch, Plain and Fancy Ribbons, 39c Yard

The Annex is noted for its Ribbon Sales, and after to-morrow this will be true more than ever.

There is a wide range of novelty fancy designs and plain colors, including navy, black, white, Copenhagen, pink, red and pale blue.

Every piece is from our Street Floor stock of regular up to 69c values.

300 YARDS ONLY

75c Shantung Raw Silk, 49c Yard

Raw Silk—it serves a multitude of purposes, from the extreme of being suitable for window curtains to its adaptability for men's shirts.

This is a very good quality and is 32/33 inches wide. Like all Shantung Raw Silk, it washes and wears well.

A Great Value in Flannelette Blankets, $1.98 Pair

Campers and cottagers, and those who stay at home, too, will be rejoicing that Flannelette Blankets are again so low, but they will have just one day to rejoice, for this very low price is for Wednesday only.

They are double bed size and there is choice of white or grey with colored borders.

EVERY PAIR POSITIVELY FIRST QUALITY

20c and 25c Guipure Lace Edgings, 9c Yard

LESS THAN HALF PRICE

As soon as you see these fine quality dainty Guipure Lace Edgings you will realize what an exceptional opportunity confronts you.

The Annex buyer cleared an entire lot from an import agency at less than half their regular values, and this piece of good fortune will be passed along to our patrons to-morrow. The colors are ivory, cream and black.

Men's 85c to $1 Porous Knit and Balbriggan Underwear, 59c Garment

We have quite an assortment of this Underwear in several acceptable brands—"Penman's," "Zimmerknit" and "Superfine." There is porous knit and balbriggan in white and natural colors; not every size in each line, but practically all sizes in the lot. The regular retail values run from 85c to $1.00 a garment.

The May Annex Shipment "Hespeler Grey" Granite Ware, 98c

A whole list of useful granite pieces that you are accustomed to paying $1.25, $1.35 and $1.50 for. The assortment includes straight Sauce Pans, London Kettles, Potato Pots, Rice Boilers and Covered Water Buckets. Every article is guaranteed to be "Hespeler Grey" first quality.

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

CONVICTED OF RECKLESS DRIVING

CASE CONCLUDED IN THE COUNTY POLICE COURT.

"A man should just crawl along that bridge at night. If this young man is driving around Peterborough County and injuring people it will cost him the limit." Whatever the limit was the young man referred to, Babe Anthony, thought he was getting hit hard enough as it was by Magistrate Langley when the latter followed up these words with a fine of $25. Besides this Anthony had to pay $11.05 costs. Magistrate Langley offered him the customary 30 days, but he declined. The charge against Anthony was that he drove an automobile recklessly on Chemong Bridge on Sunday, May 8. Unfortunately, another party was on the bridge the same time as the car with its party of two young men and two young women staged a dash across the structure. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Bertrand of Ennismore were returning to their pastoral abode after attending church, about 10.30, and when just past the swing saw the car upon them, so they stated in court. The runabout buggy, to further complicate things, was not owned by Bertrand. It was smashed up and Mrs. Bertrand was precipitated into the water. The plaintiffs gave evidence to this effect, but Anthony and the other gentleman in the car denied that Mrs. Bertrand was thrown into the lake. The car did not turn out as it should have done, V. J. McElderry, representing the plaintiff, alleged. On the other hand, J. Wearing, for the defence, claimed Anthony took every precaution and negligence for the collision was upon Bertrand. Although Anthony was found guilty of reckless driving by the Magistrate, tribute was paid to the defence. Quoting from St. Paul to Felix, Magistrate Langley said with a smile: "Almost thou persuadest me to be Christian."

SUN SPOTS AND COLD WEATHER

Not Directly Caused by Sun Spots, Says Weather Man.

TORONTO, May 17.— "No, the cold weather is not directly traceable to the spots on the sun," Sir Frederic Stupart said this morning. "I am inclined to believe that any effect would not occur until some time later, but there is undoubtedly a connection between electrical disturbances and spots on the sun."

The "spots" are about 100,000 miles long from east to west, and either of the two spots would engulf the whole world if they happened to fall. They are located south of the sun's equator. They were practically in the centre of the sun's disc on Saturday and will be visible until Friday before they pass around the west limb of the sun. The "spots" caused a beautiful display of Northern Lights, and magnetic instruments on earth were disturbed. It is because cold weather usually occurs with Northern Lights that the theory of colder weather through sun spots is founded.

The depression which moved from the Ohio valley, and taken in conjunction with the cold wave from the western provinces, caused the snowstorm about Lake Superior and in Northern Ontario, where temperatures fell to 16 above, and there was between four and five inches of snow. Storm signals were ordered out on Lake Superior Friday night. Through the west there is between ten to twelve degrees of frost. Here the low point is 2 above freezing.

QUEEN MARY HOME AND SCHOOL

On Friday evening, May 13, the Queen Mary Home and School Association held one of its usual delightful monthly sessions. Some routine business was attended to, and it was decided to give the children of the school a garden party at the end of the school year. One of these was held last year and proved to be such a success that it is being looked forward to with much interest by parents and children alike.

Stuart Widdis, one of Queen Mary School boys, opened the programme with a violin solo, much appreciated by everyone present.

Mr. Clark, the Principal of the school, then gave a talk on the life and work of the American poet, William Cullent Bryant. As may have been expected, Mr. Clark did not dwell merely on dates and enumeration of writings of this famous author. All went home with some real knowledge gained. Mr. Bryant lived a long and useful life, throughout which there were two outstanding characteristics—religion and love of nature. Both of these show their influence in all that he did and wrote. It is interesting to note that some of Bryant's best poems, in fact, his greatest, "Thanatopsis," were written when he was only about twenty years of age.

As is well known, much of Bryant's time was devoted to journalism, and it was during this time that he found the opportunity for championing many good causes, the greatest of which was the anti-slavery movement.

Being a great traveller, Bryant often visited Europe, and everyone he met was the better for the acquaintanceship. Though Bryant is not classed the greatest poet, nor even as high as Longfellow and Whittier, yet he fills a noted place, and a list of the finest American poets would not be complete without the name of William Cullen Bryant. In closing, Mr. Clark read "To a Waterfowl" and "Thanatopsis" in a most pleasing manner.

Mrs. Widdis delighted all with a quaint old lullaby, "Father Bless The Child."

The meeting then adjourned with the singing of the National Anthem.

AMAZON BASIN IS EXPLORED AT LAST

Traders, the advance agents of civilization, are starting to explore commercially a territory, covering hundreds of thousands of square miles, that is almost as totally unknown as if on another planet. It is the vast basin of the Amazon, in South America.

The chosen home of the long-tailed monkeys and of many other interesting forms of animal life, this region of great rivers and virgin forests holds out a seductive invitation to the investigative naturalist, while from the viewpoint of the anthropologist its human inhabitants afford inexhaustible material for study.

The most numerous and most warlike of the many native tribes of the upper Amazon and its tributaries are the Mundurucus, each of whose settlements has its own military organization, with barracks in which the fighting men sleep, their arms at hand, always ready for a battle.

The Mundurucus are the most expert feather-workers in tropical America, the warriors wearing beautiful garments of birds' plumage, with rosettes of brilliant feathers on the forehead, or sometimes diadems of alligator scales. The "sceptors" which the chiefs carry in their ceremonial dances are admirable works of art, being made by fastening upon a long wooden rod the white and yellow feathers from the breast of the toucan.

At its top such a "scepter" expands into a wide plume composed of the long tail-feathers of macaws and trogons. To preserve it from injury, the wand of authority is kept in a cylindrical case when not required for use on feast days. As a part of the costume, a crescent-shaped breastplate of turtle shell, so thin as to give out a clear note when struck, is worn.

Among the Mundurucus no youth is considered to have attained the dignity of manhood until he has endured the "ordeal of the gloves." In that country there is a kind of ant, as big as a wasp and quite as venomous; likewise another species, known as the "fire ant," whose bite feels like a red-hot needle piercing the flesh. Two bamboo tubes are closed at one end and into each of them a number of these poisonous ants are put. Then the tubes, called "gloves" by courtesy, are tied upon the arms of the young man whose fortitude is to be tested, and, wearing them, he goes about the village dancing and singing. If he shows the slightest sign of distress he is pronounced a failure and becomes an object of derision to the girls; but, if he endures the agony without wincing, his promotion to the rank of warrior is accomplished.

All over that part of South America the "blowgun" is the favored weapon of the chase. The stalk of a young palm, or a particular species, is taken, about ten feet in length, and split in two lengthwise, the pith being removed. Then the halves are securely bound together, providing an instrument of remarkable lightness with a smooth and polished bore. The projectiles employed are made from the leaf-stalks of another kind of palm, sharpened at the point and wrapped about the middle with silk-cotton, obtained from a tree.

The dart thus formed is introduced into the tube like a cartridge, filling the bore, so that a puff of breath sends it on its deadly mission. Like a rifle, the blowgun has a fore sight and a backsight. The darts are made sharp as needles by scraping them between the keen-edged sawlike teeth of the pirai fish, one-half of the pirai jaw being customarily attached for this purpose to the hunter's quiver.

Armed with this weapon, the aboriginal marksman is able to kill off a whole flock of birds at perch, dropping one after another without alarming them. Such blowguns, when used in war or for the killing of tapirs and other large animals, are commonly provided with poisoned darts, the "curari" poison employed for this purpose being widely known and manufactured among the tribes of the upper Amazon and tributary rivers.

Science today is not acquainted with the recipe for making "curari," the secret of its composition being handed down from generation to generation by the priests of the tribes. The basis of the mixture is supposed to be an extract from a strychnine-producing plant, snake-poison, venomous ants and other unpleasant ingredients being added. A slight wound from an arrow dipped in "curari" will kill a man in a few minutes.

The Botocudos wear wooden disks in their lips and ears for ornament. At seven years of age the lower lip and each ear are pierced, bits of wood being inserted to keep the wounds from closing; and, as time goes on, bigger and bigger plugs are substituted until they attain sometimes a diameter of four inches. When its disk is removed, the lip hangs in a hideous loop against the chin, displaying the teeth in a horrible grin.

When the Botocudo husband is out of temper with his wife, he goes after her with a knife, and it is rare to see a married woman of the tribe who does not bear scars of wounds thus inflicted. From seeds and fruits these people obtain brilliant dyes, with which they adorn their bodies, a favorite fashion being to paint the face above the mouth a bright red, the upper half of the body being stained black, and a red stripe encircling the waist. A naked warrior thus decorated presents a truly demoniacal appearance.

It may be said in a general way of all the savages of that vast region that they are the most primitive people in the world today, barring possibly the aboriginal blacks of Australia and a few African tribes.

SOLDIER FARMERS MAKE GOOD IN LISTER

CRESTON, B. C., May 17.—(Canadian Press).—It is expected that three-quarters of the one hundred farms in the Lister soldier settlement area, peopled entirely by veterans, will be producing before the end of the present season.

The area embraces seven thousand acres of land. Each soldier has a twenty-acre farm, and on most of these five acres has been cleared, stumped and "blowed," and is ready for seed. On each farm is a house built to the design of the owner, with suitable outbuildings. The large patches cleared and planted with fruit trees speaks volumes for the industry of the ex-soldiers.

IMPORTS TO SOVIET RUSSIA ON INCREASE

RIGA, May 17. — (Canadian Press).—Although the volume of trade did not reach the large proportions predicted from Moscow for the first month of open navigation from the Baltic ports, the imports of foreign goods in to Soviet Russia through Esthonian and Letvian ports in the month of April is estimated to have approximated 000 tons, the largest amount of goods to enter Russia in any month since the blockade was lifted. This estimate is based upon official figures of trade transit through the Letvian ports for the first twenty days of April, together with an estimate from the number of loaded freight cars travelling from Reval into Russia during the entire month. An officially informed Esthonian source estimates that to date 400,000,000 gold rubles from Russia have been sent abroad from Reval, upon which the Esthonian Government has taken a transit tax of 3,000,000 rubles. From all sources available here it is indicated that Soviet trade is springing into considerable activity. Moscow reports the arrival of five foreign ships at Novo Rossisk, three of these vessels being British, most of them laden with agricultural implements. So far virtually all this trade has been for cash, the gold reserve being utilized, as no exports have been officially listed by Letvia or Esthonia to date, although some flax and other materials are awaiting shipment.

Mothers--Be Careful

Much of the trouble in weaning the baby is developed by the use of a cheap and unsanitary nipple. The NOBILITY nipple is sterilized and is sanitary, transparent and non-collapsible. It is put up in a separate box with a red band on each nipple. You will meet with the doctor's approval if baby uses NOBILITY nipple. t t s.

DOG TEAMS OF THE NORTH

The first utilization of the sleigh dog is shrouded in mystery, but is thought to be of comparatively recent origin, it is known that prior to the coming of the white man the Indian were unacquainted with this mode of transport, and even in the early days of the Hudson Bay company it is recorded that the hardy men from the north of Scotland, in the service of the big company, pulled their own hand sleds, laden with furs. It is probable, therefore, that the introduction of the canine tribe to harness can be credited to some inventive Scot in the employ of the original overlords of the north:

The uses of the dog in the far north are manifold, but of course it is principally as a team animal that he in of the greatest value, although the Indians employ him for all manner of work, and during the open season, when moving camp, he carries packs on his back for long distances, the weight of the loads being out of all proportion to the size of the animal. In this connection, the writer remembers one lone Indian widow who, being of a solitary disposition, lived alone and hunted for herself; when moving camp the lady and one dog carried the entire paraphernalia of the hunt, together with all the household goods of the twain.

At the posts during the summer, when no hunting is afoot, the dogs are used to haul small wagons loaded with firewood and water, but as a general rule the Indian loafs all through the warm seasons, and the dogs are left much to their own devices, subsisting apparently on a diet of worms, insects, fish entrails and other unsavory odds and ends.

The dogs of the traders and the mounted police are fed on the usual diet of fish during the open season, in winter each dog being fed one whitefish at the end of the day's journey.

The log houses of which the forts are generally built, and the cabins of the traders and hunters are all hauled into place by the dog teams, while other loads of a more unusual nature are often allotted to them. During the past winter a team of dogs hauled a ship over the ice. The vessel in question, an auxiliary gasoline schooner, carrying the mail, was caught in the ice on the Great Slave Lake, and the services of a team of twenty-nine dogs had to be utilized before the boat could be freed. By means of the canines she was hauled upon the ice, loaded on an improvised sleigh, and hauled down the lake fifteen miles, where she was again launched in clear water.

While travelling in the winter, a load of about one hundred pounds is allotted to each dog, three or more short stops being made during the day to rest the dogs, allowing the humans to make some tea, and partially thaw out. When one of the party is ahead of the team on snowshoes, breaking the trail, the dogs accommodate their speed to that of the trail-breaker with a great degree of nicety, the slower the man goes the better the dogs like it.

When the camping place for the night is reached, under the spreading branches of some friendly spruce tree, the dogs receive their fish supper, and after the "musher" is sound asleep, will creep up and endeavour to obtain some warmth from the slumbering one's blankets. The real "husky," half-wolf and half-dog, is of a more independent breed, however, and will scrape a hole in the snow, and curl up independently therein.

The dogs are never tied up at night and make no endeavor to get away. This in part may be due to four-footed prowlers around the camp, but although they are faithful to their masters, they do not respond to kindness, and there is an absence of the amenities which pass between the city dog owner and his pet.

Instead of the teamster's "Gee" and "Haw," right and left to the dog teams are denoted by "Hee" and "Sha" which the dogs know and respond to promptly; likewise when addressed as Lion, Spotty or Snowfall, they pull lustily on the trace ropes to avoid the stinging lash of the driver's whip.

Contrary to the theory of the highly-colored novels, which are supposed to mirror the life of the northman the dogs never hearken to the call of the wild; the wolf-pack howling in the winter carries no sound to their ears but one of fear, so with their bells gaily sounding on the frozen air, the dog teams of the great lone land mush along the river ice intent on nothing more poetical than a few fish thrown to them at the day's end, and the opportunity of securing a little warmth around the camp fire during the long winter-night.

NEW YORK CONCERT PARTY DELIGHTED LARGE AUDIENCE

The song recital at the Conservatory of Music last night under the auspices of the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E., delighted an audience that filled the hall to its comfortable capacity. Madame Alice Baroni and Mr. Robert Armour of New York, who are making a short tour of whom sang with awless technic, leading cities, gave the entire programme, which in its arrangement alone, apart from the excellent treatment of the numbers, was replete with interest and educational features for the student of vocal music and also with charm for those concert-goers who seek chiefly to be entertained. It was a large and appreciative audience, although wildly demonstrative, and in complete rapport with the visiting artists, both of who sang with flawless technic. Madame Baroni is a coloratura soprano, richly gifted with vocal power and sweetness with a nice discernment of lyric and dramatic values. Mr. Armour, a tenor of wide range and purity of tone, strong and limpid, according to the demands of the selections he gave, made a splendid impression. Praiseworthy and delightful as was the recital from the point of the abilities and art of the performers. An exceptional and admirable feature of their programme was the novel and helpful arrangement already mentioned. A glance at the programme as given will indicate that phase of it:

Part One—Early Opera Form.
Caro mio ben.....Giordani, 1743-1708
Care Selve, from "Atalanta"..... .....Handel, 1684-1759
Mr. Armour

Mme. Baroni and Mr. Armour

Two of the numbers, it was announced, were sung for the first time in America. These were "Les Rondini," an Italian composition, and a Russian song, "Ya jdu tiebia" (I wait for thee), which Mme. Baroni recently received from Petrograd.

Mr. F. Dudleigh Vernor played the accompaniments with fine reserve and sympathy, and rounded out a concert party that will be welcomed upon any return engagement in Peterbrough.

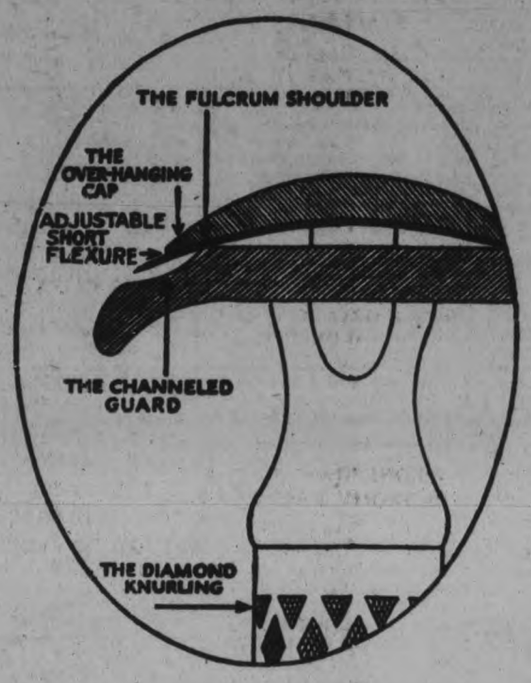
Gillette
Triumphs Again
The New Improved Gillette Safety Razor
PATENTED: CANADA, AUGUST 31st, 1920



The New Improved
GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR

Uses the same fine Gillette Blades as you have known for years—but now your blades can give you ALL the luxury of the finest shaving edge in the world.
Identify the New Improved Gillette by its Fulcrum Shoulder Overhanging Cap Channeled Guard
Micrometric Precision Automatic Adjustment
Diamond Knurled Handle
Diamond Trademark on Guard
Finer Shave—Longer Service
More Shaves from your Blades
In SILVER and GOLD Shaving Sets & Traveler Outfits
$5.00 everywhere
Patented in Canada, the United States and 36 other countries

The invention of the original Gillette Safety Razor marked the first great advance in the art of shaving in 5000 years.

Up to the present time, by the World's verdict, it has remained the most efficient shaving device known to men.

It is now superseded, under world-wide patents, by the New Improved Gillette Safety Razor—an advance so positive as to increase shaving efficiency more than 75%, and add to the daily comfort of men in every part of the globe.

The above diagram shows the epoch-making improvement in the New Gillette Safety Razor.

You see the Fulcrum Shoulder and Overhanging Cap.

You see how the blade is biflexed between Overhanging Cap and Fulcrum Shoulder.

It is flexed once into the inside curve of the cap; then again — more sharply and on a shorter radius—by the grip of the Overhanging Cap the whole length of the Fulcrum Shoulder.

This is the "adjustable short flexure" —a mighty advance, make no mistake about that.

It holds the blade rigid and flat the whole length of the shaving blade.

It gives exactness to 1/1000th inch—a micrometric precision impossible with the old type Gillette, and never even dreamed of with any other shaving device ever produced.

Gillette Channeled Guard

Follow the New Gillette over the face, and see the results of the Channeled Guard.

The skin lies flat against the tangent of cap and guard.

The beard springs upright against the shaving edge.

The edge comes automatically against the beard at the very surface of the skin. It cuts square across the hair—each hair slipped clean through.

Cut hairs and lather go into the channel. They cannot jam between blade and guard and cap. They cannot clog the shaving action. Your razor edge is free every inch of every stroke of your shave.

75% More Efficiency and Comfort—
More Shaves from Your Blades

Shave once over with the New Gillette and you'll find your face smoother, cooler, fresher than after going twice with any other razor, even the old-type Gillette. Adjustment is automatic—precise to 1/1000 inch.

Your wonderful Gillette Blades can now give you all the luxury of the finest shaving edge in the world. Better shave — longer service — more shaves from your blades.

MADE IN CANADA — Gillette — KNOWN THE WORLD OVER

NOTE — The Gillette Company assumes full responsibility for the service of Gillette Blades when used in any genuine Gillette Razor—either old-type or New Improved Gillette. But with imitations of the genuine Gillette it cannot take responsibility for service of blades.

ANNUAL MEETING KEENE SOCIETY

OFFICERS ELECTED FOR THE YEAR —KEENE NEWS.

KEENE, May 17. — The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, held their regular annual business meeting and election of officers at the home of Mrs. Rev. W. E. Honey, on Thursday afternoon of last week. The officers elected were:

Pres., Mrs. B. Kindred.
Vice-Pres., Mrs. W. Carter.
Sec., Mrs. G. Howson.
Treas., Mrs. R. Short.
Cor.-Sec., Mrs. R. Johnston.
Visiting Sec., Mrs. W. Wedlock.

A pleasant feature of the afternoon was the calling to the parlour of the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Honey, where Mrs. Harrison presiding, in a few well chosen remarks informed him that Mrs. Benjamin Kindred had made him an honorary life member of the society. Miss Brough also gave $30 to fit up a cot in one of the hospitals in China.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. Charles Mather, who has been seriously ill the past few days, is recovering nicely.

Mr. John Wedlock of Peterboro, spent Monday at the home of his brother, William, on Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry of Peterboro spent a few days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Weir.

Miss Katie Skinner, who has been ill with pneumonia, is now able to be up again.

Mr. Thomas Wedlock has returned to his home in Peterboro after a month's visit with Keene friends.

Mrs. Clifton Lower of Marion, O., is a guest at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Harry McLachlan.

The crop outlook in this section is promising and encouraging, and the seeding is practically all done.

Miss Laura Herr, of Peterboro, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. Harold Roche.

Mr. and Mrs. Sproke and daughters of Peterborough, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Burley.

Basket Social.

The concert and basket social given under the auspices of the Union Sunday School at Lang, last Thursday evening, was a splendid success in every way. The proceeds are to go to the purchasing of a library for the S. S.

The Keene baseball team are now busy practicing and getting in shape for the season's series of games.

The play "No Trespassing" will be given on Friday evening, June the third, under the auspices of the Social Welfare Club.

The Royal Scarlet Degree, was given to five members of L. O. L. 494 on Sunday afternoon, by the degree team of Chapter No. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Turner, of Peterborough, spent the week end with Mrs. Turner's sister, Mrs. Stanley Turner.

Miss Stella Ellis visited Peterboro friends Friday and Saturday.

Miss Mary Burley was home from Peterborough over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Rightmyer and son Grant and Miss Laura Walsh spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis.

Mr. Wiliam Kempt has purchased the farm belonging to the late Jas. McNeil estate.

A SMALL FIRE LAST EVENING

At 5.59 p.m. yesterday, just as Big Ben was ready to strike out six o'clock it was called upon to ring out a fire alarm from Box 27, Water and McDonnel streets. In putting out hot ashes T. L. Anderson, 516 Water street, had placed them against an old barn behind his house. This wood caught fire and the flames ran up into the loft, where some shavings became ignited. The shavings were burning fairly well when the firemen arrived, but the fire was quickly drenched out with a single stream of water. There was very little damage to the barn.

In his new opera, "The Little Marat," just produced at Rome, Mascagni has scored his greatest success since the early days of "Cavalleria Rusticana."

SOME OLD RECEIPES

By A. L. Wyman, Chef.

For the past week it has been my pleasure to have lunch at some out of the way tea room or cafe, and while I have not found any new recipes, I have found some very good old ones that we seem to save overlooked in our rush to find something new.

Lobster Baked in Shell.

Lobsters are in season and are served at one of the popular tea roomsbaked in the shell. They are prepared by removing the meat from the shells of three medium sized lobsters and saving the shells. Cut the meat in half-inch cubes and place in a saucepan with four tablespoons of butter, season with salt, paprika and currie powder. Shake over the fire for a few minutes, then add four tablespoons of orange juice and cook until nearly dry. Add one cup of medium cream sauce and boil up once. Fill the lobster shells with the lobster mixture, cover with fresh bread crumbs and small bits of butter, place in the oven and brown. Serve on hot plate and garnish with parsley and lemon slices.

Sweetbreads Country Club Style.

Sweetbreads served at one of the and oysters and make a very tasty dish for luncheon. Remove the skins from one pound of parboiled sweetbreads and cut them in quarter-inch slices. Peeel half a pound of fresh mushrooms and place them in a saucepan with the sweetbreads a quarter of a cup of butter. mer for ten minutes. Add one cup or drained small oysters and suimmer for five minutes. Mix the yolks of three eggs with one and a half cups of cream and stir into the sweetbread mixture, stir until thick, do not let it boil. Serve in ramikins or large pattie shells.

Lamb Hash with Fried Cucumbers.

Lamb hash with fried cucumbers is another nice dish served at this club. To three cups of cold minced lamb add one tablespoon of shopped onion, one of mashed potatoes, one tablespoon tomato catsup, four tablespoons milk, season with pepper, salt and dry mustard. Place in a baking pan and brown in the oven. Serve with a poached egg on top and fried cucumbers around.

For the fried cucumbers, cut cucumber like French fried potatoes; remove the seeds and blanch in salt water. Drain the pieces of cucumber, roll in flour, dip in egg, roll in cracker crumbs and fry light brown in deep hot fat.

Over on West Madison, out near Austin, one can find some of the finest pastry shops in the country and the most of them make specialty of serving lunches. At one they serve sour milk scones and another small cakes that are baked on a griddle. Here is the scone recipe:

Sour Milk Scones

Sift four cups of flour with a teaspoon of cream of tartar and a quarter teaspoon of salt. Rub into the flour as for biscuits, four tablespoons of butter, add one and a third cups of sour milk in which has been dissolved one teaspoon of bak ing soda. Mix to a smooth dough, ad raisins; turn out on well floured board, knead smooth, roll out and cut in rounds with a lage cutter and bake on a hot wel greased griddle. Serve hot with marmalade and fresh butter.

Rich Tea Cake.

Another and richer cake is made with four cups of sifted flour and half a teaspoon of salt mixed with three-quarters cup of butter, one cup of seedless raisins and enough cream to make a smooth soft dough. Roll out rather thin, cut with round cutter and bake on a hot griddle.

Special Cheese Tarts.

One of the nicest cheese tarts that I have tasted is made by mixing two cups of cottage cheese with four tablespoons of whipped cream, six tablespoons seedless raisins, two egg yolks, four tablespoons powdered sugar, quarter teaspoon powdered cinnamon, and ground nutmeg, one teaspoon grated lemon rind, two tablespoons orange juice and two tablespoons finely chopped almonds. Place this mixture in pastry lined tart tins and bake in a moderate oven twenty minutes. Cool and sprinkle with powd-cinnmo n.

Special Tea Cake.

For a nic tea pastry rub half a cup of butter into three cups of sifted flour, add four tablespoons powdered sugar, two tablespoons grated orange peel, one lightly beaten egg and enough milk to make smooth stiff dough. Turn out on sugared pastry board, roll to one-half inch thi k and cut in pieces one and a half inches wide and four inch s long. Bake in a slow oven until crisp. Serve with butter and jam, hot or cod

Old Style Oran e Pudding.

An old very fin orange pudding is made by sifting together two cups of flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, and one tablespoon powdered sugar. Rub into this one tablespoon butter anf two tablespoons of lard; make to a smooth stiff dough with milk. Roll into an oblong sheet half an inch thick. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with sugar. Cover the dough with peeled oranges sliced thin. Roll into a tight roll and tie in a buttered and floured cloth and cook for two hours. Drain and place on a hot platter, spr nkle over chopped almonds and pour over a lemon custard made with one cup sugar, one tablespoon flour, two egg yolks, the juice and grated rind of two lemons and one and a third cups of water.

A Favorite Pudding.

Another very good pudding and one of the old recipes that improves with age is made by beating to a cream one-third add two eggs, one at a time beating sifted flour, one cup bread crumbs, one cup seedless raisins, one teaspoon orange juice. Put mixture in a well greased pudding mould and steam two hours. Serve with lemon custard sauce.

Brown Betty.

While we are giving pudding recipes, we will give one for the old favorite, Brown Betty. Mix well two tablespoons of melted butter and two cups of fresh bread crumbs. Mix one-half cup of sugar with two cups chopped apples, one cup chopped seeded raisins, one teaspoon cinnamon and a quarter teaspoon cloves. Put a layer of crumbs in the bottom of a baking dish, cover with a layer of the apple mixture and alternate until all are used, have the last layer of crumbs. Cover tight and bake forty-five minutes in a slow oven, uncover and brown. Serve hot with hard and lemon sauce, or cold with cream and jelly.

Mrs. Wyman's Sugarless and Heatless Candy

1 lb. Seeded Raisins ½ lb. Figs
½ lb. Seeded Dates ½ lb. Walnut Meats

Zest and juice of one orange.

Put the raisins, figs, dates and walnut meats through the fine knife of the meat chopper. Add orange zest and juice; knead smooth, roll out in a long piece and cut in small rounds. Wrap in waxed paper.

LUCKY BONANZA FOR SHOPPERS THIS WEEK

Some of the greatest snaps offered for years will be handed out to shoppers at M. Fine's store, 427 George street, all day this week. Mr. Fine has been visiting the wholesale markets during the past week, and was very fortunate in picking up several thousand dollars' worth of strictly new merchandise at surprising reductions. Manufacturers in need of money were willing to make heavy sacrifices on goods for the ready cash, and Mr. Fine took advantage of many job lots, which he secured at half and less than half prices. Various classes of goods are included, such as Ladies' Ready-to-wear, Dresses, Coats, Suits, Skirts, Waists, Underwear, Hosiery and Small Wares, as well as Men's Clothing and Furnishings. Shoppers at Fine's this week will buy goods at prices so low down that they can afford to buy in large quanties without giving much serious thought to cost.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor, Peterborough Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Two clippings from The Examiner have just reached me. One is a letter signed J. T. Foley; the other a letter signed M. J. O'Brien in which the writer says:

"My attention has been called to a letter published in your paper of the 13th inst., signed by one J. T. Foley. Mr. Foley has not given us his address, but I notice that his name and initials are the same as the R. C. priest who edits the "Catholic Record," the Roman Catholic newspaper published at London, Ont."

It may be that the writer of the "J. T. Foley" letter has, through your columns, already relieved me of the charge insinuated by M. J. O'Brien. That, I think, would be the course dictated by the average man's sense of honesty and decency.

If, however, the writer's object was to put up a convenient little straw man for Mr. O'Brien to knock down, it is extremely unlikely that he has disclosed his address and corrected the false impression created.

Through your courtesy I desire to say to your readers that I had nothing whatever to do, either directly or indirectly, with the letter signed J. T. Foley in your issue of April 14th.

I am not interested in Mr. O'Brien or his type. Any ripples of interest he may have caused in Peterborough evidently did not extend to my Catholic friends here, or I should have known sooner of the matter that impels me to make this demand on your space.

J. T. FOLEY,
Editor Catholic Record.

THE WINTER WOOD.

I went into the winter wood
Wondering if life is good,
And I said to the bare, black trees,
"You have no green to give me ease,
Oh, why am I here, who am sick of feeling
The hurt in my heart that has no healing?"
But the brown leaves whispering under my feet
Had pleasant things to talk about,
The cold clean air was spicy and sweet,
And the path ran softly in and out
Where hemlocks smoothed a velvet song;
The leaves of laurel were green and strong,
And the foaming creek had more to say
Than on a tawny August day;
I heard the water fall between
Its rimy sparkling rocks rejoice,
With deep laughter in its voice—
There were no birds and little green,
But who could leave the winter wood
Wondering if life is good?

—SARAH TEASDALE.

Procrastination is one of the greatest sins in the world to sap vitality. It's a worm that eats into your self-respect. The task which is put off from day of day grows with each passing moment until it becomes a monster which you are afraid to tackle. The easiest way to get your work done is to do each task as it comes to hand. Procrastination populates the poor house.

The city may have many advantages over the small town but most of them we can get by going to the city for a few days two or three times a year. And we have a lot of advantages which city folks can't get. They tear off to the country for a week or two in the summer and try and crowd recuperation for a whole year into two weeks. But they can't do it. The city pace is too fast and as a result hundreds of the population are subject to high blood pressure due to over-exertion and worry. Once in a while we hear of a case in the country, but very seldom.

Let them have their beautiful stores, their theatres, their art institutes and their libraries. We will trade with them for just two weeks out of the fifty-two, our pure air, our sunshine, our friendly greetings, our neighbors' calls, our quiet nights and our own beautiful little town.

HOW TO BE A BORE..

Talk about yourself and your family to the exclusion of other subjects. You are clever, a little more so than other people, and it may be that your friends won't find it out unless you tell them about it. Tell them of as many clever things that you have done as you can think of and then, in order to impress it on their minds, repeat several times the several same stories. Another good subject of conversation is your various ailments Describe each one minutely and if you know anything about the ailments of your parents, throw that in for good measure. When you have done this, if you have any friends left, start over again.

HOW TO BE POLITE.

Do not try, or perhaps we should say, do not make your attempts apparent. Never overwhelm your friends by begging them to make themselves at home. Show by your actions rather than your words that you are glad to see them. More hospitality can be expressed in a quiet hand clasp than in a hundred flowery words of welcome. And above all have enough regard for yourself to treat you greatest enemy with politeness. All petty slights are merely meanness and hurt yourself more than anyone else.

It's much easier to lose the good opinion of other people than to retain it; and when any one does not care for the good opinion of others, he is not worthy of respect.

How often we hear the expression, "Oh, you must overlook that in Mrs. So and So. That's just her way." But Mrs. So and So's way shouldn't be overlooked. She should be called to account for her bad temper or her absent mindedness or whatever it is that makes her act so queerly at times. There is no reason for her to be constantly excused by her friends and they are doing her an injury when they continue to excuse her. It is probably a lazy habit she has fallen into and she should be jerked out of it by having a few of her valued friends take offense at her actions instead of constantly overlooking them.

The wheel that squeaks the loudest is the one that gets the grease. Don't hide your light under a bushel. If you have an honest opinion when anyone asks you about a certain subject, express it. Too many of us are inclined to let time burn up without throwing our little log to brighten the flame. Probably many of our citizens have a lot of mighty fine ideas about civic improvement and they are afraid to give them light. Speak up, gentlemen. They can not possibly be any worse than some of those that are aired daily.

BE TOLERANT.

One of the greatest virtues in this world and one of which we seldom hear is the virtue of tolerance. It is something which is needed in American life today, both public and private. Quickness is an American characteristic and we are sometimes too quick in our judgments of other people. A quick judgment is seldom a sane judgment. We are too prone to down the "other fellow" when he commits some act or word which does not agree with our idea of what he should have done or said under the circumstances.

This does not mean that we are narrow minded where politics or religion are concerned. Our education and our national "open-gate" policy has overcome this. But we are too quick to judge our fellow beings when their personal life and habits are concerned. Frequently we know very few of the circumstances, but we jump to a conclusion, base our judgment largely on hearsay and denounce someone as hard-hearted or a coward when, if the truth were known, he is probably a better man than we.

Many times people display lack of nerve at a crisis through no fault of their own. It may be that they have been overworked and their nervous system will not stand the added strain, or it may be the out-cropping of some inherited tendency which needs only a nervous crisis to show it up. Consequently, we should be tolerant in our judgment. Someday we may be in need of tolerance ourselves.

In passing groups of children on the street we sometimes wonder what has become of the quiet, well-mannered children of yore. Perhaps we saw so many of them we failed to appreciate them but now the species seems to be nearly extinct. By quiet, well-mannered children we do not mean sissy boys and little old maids. No one can find a happier sight than good, wholesome children at play, but they should know there is a place for their shouting and their play and that place is not on the public streets, wyhere they carelessly run into everyone as if they had the right of way and without as much as a backward glance go tearing on. Mothers probably do not realize the way their children act on the streets, yet they cannot expect them to act with the proper sobriety unless they are taught.

Give us back once more the old-fashioned, sweet mannered children, happy and wholesome in their play but gentle and quiet in public. It may sound cute the first time a child says, "Betcher life," or "Nuttin doin'," but these phrases soon lose their attraction and sound only ill-bred.

TAKING INVENTORY.

The merchants have all been very busy the last few weeks taking inventory and it has just occurred to us that this might be a good practice to carry out individually, not as regards our material wealth or property, but as regards our lives, our virtues and vices, our rating in the Credit Book of Heaven—is it higher or lower than last year?

You will probably find that your stock of Courage and Brotherly Love has run pretty low. Stock up strong with these and lay in a good stock of Determination. Maybe you have on hand a lot of goods you don't want, goods that won't sell and that take up room in your store where you want to put in new goods. Probably these are Selfishness, Bigotry, Evil-thinking, Wrong-doing and other similar brands. Don't try to hold an auction and sell these off cheaply because you will be sure to make a bitter enemy of the man who buys them no matter how little he pays. The only safe way to dispose of this brand of goods is to dig a hole deep in the Past and bury them so they can never get out.

Now you are all ready to start business with a brand new stock. Plan your work so you will be sure to see a lot of it because if you don't use it, it will soon turn into the same old stuff you have just buried.

Keep a stock of souvenirs on hand to give to your customers each time they come in, such as A Square Deal, Service, Satisfaction, Fairness, and Charity. These are very inexpensive and you will be repaid for using them by receiving a large amount of Friendship and Goodwill in return.

Conduct your business of living after this fashion and you will be rated A1 in Heaven's Credit Book.

You may be Sane

BUTTER SCRAMBLE CAUGHT DEALERS

LOSS OF 15 CENTS A POUND HIT THEM ALL, SO TRADE REPORTS.

The precipitate drop in the price of butter last week touched most of the produce dealers for varying losses that simply could not be passed on to the usually convenient and accommodating consumers. Early in the week retailers were quoting something more than 50c a lb, but over night the price had clattered down to 35c, and there was simply no escape. The dealers had to take their losses, especially when some of them followed the market as fast as it fell, and gave the advantage directly to the public without attempting to hold up the movement until they got rid of their embarrassing stocks. The drop was at least 15c a pound. Some of the grocers, for example, had supplies ranging from one to two cases of butter to 25 and 30 cases, according to stories emanating from the trade. Twenty five cases with 50 lbs. to the case, meant 1250 lbs., that had to be sacrificed at 35c, bringing an immediate loss of $187.50. Other dealers suffered in proportion, and with them all the public will commiserate for the reason that they could not assume in this deal any of the retailers' losses. So accustomed to paying the shot and bearing all the traffic will carry, has the dear public become that they will feel disappointed in escaping this recent trick in butter. At that the average householder will be satisfied when butter finally moves down to 30c.

"I do not envy a clergman's life as an easy life," said Dr. Johnson. "Nor do I envy the clergyman who makes it an easy life."

GIANT AIR-CRUISER FLIES ACROSS CANADA—On its way from Cuba to Detroit the Santa Maria, 7 1-2 ton aerial cruiser, driven by two Liberty engines of 400 horse power each, and with a wing spread of 104 feet, spent an hour and a half in the Toronto harbour on Saturday. It carried a crew of three and five passengers. The ship can carry 11 passengers and a crew of four.

CARPENTIER HAS ARRIVED FOR BOUT

VIRTUALLY ALL OF FRENCHMAN'S TRAINING TO BE BEHIND CLOSED GATES.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Georges Carpentier, European heavyweight champion, arrived here from France to prepare for his international battle with Jack Dempsey at Jersey City, July 2.

The French pugilist, with his party, was the centre of interest when La Savoie docked. The challenger immediately was surrounded by a delegation of newspaper men and photographers.

Carpentier appeared to be in excellent condition and fairly radiated confidence. Most of the questions asked him were answered by an interpreter, but occasionally Georges would inject a direct reply.

This was the case when he was asked who would win the big fight. Without a second's hesitation, he replied with a smile, "I".

Manager Descamps stated that Carpentier and his party comprising Paul Journee, French light heavyweight; Henri Mercot, a training camp cook, and a Belgian police dog Carpentier's favorite pet—would go direct to the training quarters at Manhassett, Long Island, this afternoon, and would not leave until it was time to proced to Jersey City for the chaimpionship battle.

Descamps said he regretted that it would be necessary to decline a number of invitations for Carpentier to appear in public during the next six weeks, but that the French boxer would devote his entire time to training, in view of the importance of the contest. The work for the first week will be of light order until the effects of the voyage have worn off and Carpentier is thoroughly acclimated.

To Train in Secret.

Joe Jeannette, the negro heavyweight will go to Manhassett with the French party to-day and several other sparring partners soon will be added to the camp. Descamps reiterated the statement that virtually all of Carpentier's training would be done behind closed gates, and tha there would be little attempt to work out in public.

Dempsey's challenger said he weighed about 175 pounds and never felt better. In answer to a question as to how long the bout would last he replied with a smile that he would be able to tell that late on the afternoon of July 2.

CARPENTIER'S MANAGER SAYS FIGHT WILL NOT LAST OVER SIX ROUNDS

(Note.—This is one of several articles written for the United Press by Decamps before he sailed for America.)

LA GUERCHE, France.—The Dempsey-Carpentier world's championship fight cannot last more than six rounds.

By that time either one of the two principals will be hors de combat.

It is not possible for any human frame to resist the punishment both Carpentier and Dempsey will be giving each other for more than eighteen minutes.

Personally, I expect the end before the end of the sixth round.

Whover lands the first real blow will win. Both have a punch heavy enough to end it with one blow. He who "touches" first in that way will not need to strike again.

The element of chance consequently will play a prominent part. The exigencies of the ring are never certain, and even the best of fighters is liable to leave an opening once in a while. Once will be enough for doom on 2nd July.

There will be more actual energy expended and more force in blows exchanged in these hypothetical eighteen minutes of fighting than any of the old-time champions expended in four or five times that many rounds.

Dempsey can hit harder than any boxer America ever produced.

Carpentier can hit just as hard as Dempsey.

I know this may surprise some of my American readers, because it is generally supposed that Carpentier is inferior to Dempsey in strength.

What Carpnieer may lack in physical strength he makes up for with a superior knowledge of how to hit and where to hit.

SPORT COMMENT

Baseball fans will have to read the following from the New York Herald twice to understand who is being panned:

"Rather a poor sort of home-run hero, this man Kelly, of the Giants. He never will be a Ruth, poor fellow! George saves his cash against the day when legs will be slowed up and the eyes will not be so keen, nor swing so timely and potent. He is a financial skimper, a nickel nurser, if ever there was one on the Giants. Poor fellow!

"Kelly never has been arrested for joy-riding. He doesn't even own an automobile. If he were handed a drink of hard liquor he probably would use it for a rub-down. He wouldn't know what else to do with it.

"Long George is quiet, likeable, unobtrusive, a hard worker at all times, as game as they come, for how many players would have come through the 'razzing' which unfair fans handed him early last season? He has implicit faith in his manager, Kelly has. He obeys orders, never has been suspended, never intends to be. His lone vice is a tenor voice, and he can use it with effect.

"A poor sort of home-run hero, this man Kelly of the Giants. We fear he never will be a Ruth. Poor fellow!"

Harry Heilmann, who, according to Tyrus Cobb and others, is the hardest right-handed hitter in baseball and also the best, claims that Bob Meusel, of the New York Yankees, hit at least three balls harder and further than Heilmann ever expects to hit one. This happened at Lahabra, California, when Heilmann and Meusel were playing on the same Navy team in an exhibition game for the benefit of the Red Cross. The game was staged on prairie land that was both flat and hard.

"Meusel slammed three balls past the outfielders,' says Heilmann, "and those balls just kept on bounding and then rolling. When picked up not one of them was less than eight hundred feet from the home plate."

Meusel, like Heilmann, is a right-handed batsman.

The season's home run monarchs to date—Babe Ruth of the Yankees and George Kelly of the Giants—are distinctly opposite types of hitters. All they have in common is the ability to land with extraordinary power, the ability to drag a bat up to the plate and a great yearning to slam the ball to realms beyond.

Both get the leverage of height and a long reach, but in different ways. Ruth is a left-handed slugger; Kelly hits from the other side of the platter. Kelly inclines more to left field hitting and Ruth to right field hitting.

Kelly is a freer hitter than Ruth, in the sense that he will hit to all fields much oftener than Ruth. He makes some home runs to right, but it is seldom, indeed, that Ruth hits to left for a homer or otherwise. He jolts 'em to centre-field often, however. Ruth is a freer hitter than Kelly, in the sense that he will hit all kinds, high, low, slow, fast curves, oftener than Kelly.

Kelly is a wrist hitter. Ruth a long, powerful swinger with the arms and applied with such intuitive use of the principles of applying power that he gets the benefit of every ounce of his weight—more than any slugger the game has known he does this.

Kelly leans well forward and Ruth does not, and Kelly's feet are further apart. He has an awkward knee action, but has an advantage over Ruth in that he can wait until the ball is nearer before starting his swing. He doesn't bring the bat forward from as far back, but whips in savagely with the wrist, and thereby, plus excellent timing, gets enormous power.

Ruth's feet are closer together than Kelly's, much closer, with the left foot in advance of the right. His position at the bat is the easier of the two. He holds the bat well, his arms back, with the bat vertical. Kelly has the bat pointing out backward, bat and arms lower. With his wider stance, he doesn't get as long a step forward when about to swing. He is better than Ruth in picking out balls at which to hit. He is more of a "flat-footed" hitter than Ruth. The latter is lighter on his feet.

CRESSMAN'S TO PLAY BARRIE'S

STRONG BATTERIES WILL BE SEEN IN MERCANTILE LEAGUE THURSDAY EVENING.

Al. Doughty's recent feat of holding Cressman's scoreless, when the Big Store crowd played an exhibition game with Bohunks, is taken to indicate a tight game when Barrie's and Cressman's meet in a Mercantile League fixture at Riverside Park, Thursday evening at six o'clock. Doughty is heaving for Barrie's. Cressman's will use Leith Bartley, with Bergoine behind the bat.

Team From Y.M.C.A.

The City League game scheduled for this evening at Riverside has been withdrawn to permit the Y.M.C.A. team to practice. Doug. Loomis came to the rescue of the League, when C. P. C. and Thistles dropped out, and he has plenty of offers for help from ball players. The line-up of the "Y" team will surprise the fans when the players make their first appearance next Saturday afternoon in a League game.

East Peterborough Openers.

Opening games in the East Peterborough Baseball League will be played on May 24th. The 12th Line, Otonabee team will play in Keene, and Lakefield will play in Norwood. Holiday celebrations are being planned for Norwood and Keene.

Here's Enthusiasm.

The Church Baseball League is making good progress in spite of the difficulty in getting playing grounds. In order to accommodate the several divisions of the League it has been found necessary to move outside the city. Playing grounds have been laid out at Park street and Braidwood avenue.

Orme Cavanah Home.

Orme Cavanah, former local baseball and hockey player, has returned to town. He will likely play ball with the "Y" team.

LEAFS LOSE FIRST TO JERSEY CITY

DAMRAU DROVE IN FIVE RUNS WITH HOMER AND TRIPLE.

TORONTO, May 17.—The jinx is still following less Winters and the Leafs. They lost the first game of the series to Jersey City yesterday 6 to 3, but it should never have been anything else but a win. Winters pitched splendid ball, just as good as Wurm, even though the Skeeters outhit the Leafs ten to five, and the Doylemen got but one hit after the second inning, and it came in the ninth.

The game was really lost in the first inning, when Brown and Devine dropped two throws which had the base runners beaten, and would have retired the side. The Skeeters three runs were scored, one when Devine dropped a return throw on an attempted double steal, and the other two after Brown had foozled a fast throw from Spencer to third.

SCOTTISH FOOTBALL TEAM EXPECTED TO ARRIVE TO-DAY

HALIFAX, N.S., May 17.—The Anchor Liner Cameronia, with the Scottish soccer team on board, is expected to arrive here to-day, but no wireless has been received from her yet. The visiting team will be met at the pier by officials of the Nova Scotia Football Association, and will be welcomed to the strains of the Scottish pipes. On Wednesday morning the players will be taken on a motor trip around the city and suburbs. They will rest in the afternoon for their first Canadian game, which will be played against the Halifax team.

OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE ATHLETES ARE COMING

PRINCETON, N.J., May 17.—The combined Oxford and Cambridge track team will meet a combined team from Princeton and Cornell in a dual meet at New York on or about July 29. Receipt of a cablegram accepting the invitation of the United States universities was announced here by Dr. C. W. Kennedy, chairman of the Princeton Track committee. The message came from B. G. D. Rudd, president of the Oxford University Athletic Club and leader of the combined English teams.

The meeting will be held under conditions similar to those which obtained in the Oxford-Princeton dual meeting held in London last summer, the United States and English teams each entering two men in each event. First place only will count in the scoring.

The Y.M.C.A. team will make their debut on Saturday when they clash with the C.G.E. in a City League fixture at Riverside Park.

The semi-final game for the Gordon Cup will be played between the C.G.E. team and the Comrades at Nicholls Oval to-night. The winners of this game will meet the Caledonians in the decisive match on May 24.

The kick-off will be at 5.45 p.m. It is reported that J. Clark will be referee. There is unusual interest in this game and a large attendance of football fans are sure to be on the grounds.

RYAN STOPS REDS AND GIANTS WIN

Pirates Secure But Five Hits Off Phillies' Twirlers.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The New York Nationals made it three straight from Cincinnati here yesterday, winning 7 to 4. After Cincinnati had scored four runs off Toney in the first half of the fifth, the Giants knocked out Coumbe in the second half and scored five runs on six hits. Prior to this inning not a hit had been made off Coumbe, New York's two runs in the first resulting from a muff by Fonseca.

JAKE SCHAEFER CREDITED WITH MAKING NEW RECORD

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17. — Jake Schaefer, of San Francisco, established what was said to be a world's 18.2 balk line billiard record here yesterday, when he scored 400 points in three innings against Eduard Horemans, the Belgian champion, who scored 111 points in two innings.

Schaefer had an uncompleted run of 68 remaining from Saturday's contest. His first inning to-day resulted in 326 points—a total run of 394. He scored 70 poins in his second inning and ran out the four points to complete four hundred block in his third inning.

The total score in the 4,000 point match now stands: Schaefer, 3,600; Horemans, 2,131.

PREPARATION EXPLODED.

T. M. Grier, who conducts a paint shop at the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets, miraculously escaped from severe burns this morning when a can of paint remover he was using exploded. Mr. Grier was removing the paint from the hood of a car, preparatory to repainting it, with prepared paint remover. While scratching off the remover and the coagulated paint with a piece of steel, a spark was generated, which fired the fumes, exploding the can in the painter's face. Mr. Grier kicked the burning can out of the open door to the ground below. The fire department was called but was not required. Mr. Grier was able to resume his work.

GOLF.

On Thursday Afternoon, 19th May, a Ladies' Field Day will be held at the Peterborough Golf Club. All Lady Players are asked to be present to play and to discuss plans for the season—2 o'clock sharp.

NORMA TALMADGE HAS BIG SUPPORTING CAST IN "THE PASSION FLOWER"

Sunny Spain has never been more colorfully or faithfully transplanted to the screen than in "The Passion Flower," in which Norma Talmadge rises to great dramatic and emotional heights and scores her most artistic and fascinating achievement in the silent drama to date.

"The Passion Flower" opened a 4 days' engagement at the Allen Theatre last night to an audience which was held tense with interest throughout the showing of this truly remarkable photodrama. It is a worthy adaptation of the stage play of the same name by Jacinto Benavente, Spain's greatest living dramatist, and it is a credit to the artistry of the director, Herbert Brenton, as well as to the very charming and talented star.

On the stage Nance O'Neil delighted her audiences in the role of "Raimunda,' the mother, but in the screen version Norma Talmadge is the entrancing and fiery "Acacia," the daughter who spurns the love of her jealous step-father and is the centre of a most romantic and tragic tale.

Norma Talmadge has an exceptional supporting cast, with two leading men, Courtenay Foote, who plays the role of Esteban, the step-father, and Harrison Ford, as Norbert, the poet and lover of Acacia. Others in the cast deserving of mention are Eulalie Jensen as Raimunda, Charles Stevenson, Alice May, Herbert Vance, H. D. McLellan, Austin Harrison, Robert Agnew, Robert Harold Stern, Natalie Talmadge, Robert Payton Gibbs, Augustus Balfour and Walter Wilson.

The story was adapted for the screen by Mary Murillo and Herbert Brenon and the finished production is released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

"The Passion Flower,' in its picture form, is one of the most noteworthy contributions to the silent dramatic art of recent years, and if it is to be taken as a criterion, great merit in subsequent productions may be looked for from the Talmadge studios in the future.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"Forbidden Fruit", a gorgeous Cecil B. De Mille production, is the attraction at the Capitol Theatre for the first part of the week. Last night was the first showing for this beautiful modernized version of the story of Cinderella. The vision of the old fairy tale which is incorporated in the story is filmed in a stage setting constructed entirely of plate glass. The ball-room floor, the wide staircase the stately pillars supporting baskets of blown glass fruit are all formed of glass, and the crystal floor is so constructed as to permit of the appearance of a massive clock which strikes the hour of twelve and the end of Cinderella's dream. The whole production, carried out with Mr. De Mille's colorful imagination and incomparable artistry has a wonderfully beautiful result.

Besides this big 8-reel super picture, there is the second episode of the new Ruth Roland serial, "The Avenging Arrow", a Sennett comedy, the "Quack Doctor", Topics of the Day, and the excellent musical selections of the Capital's 8-piece orchestra.

AT THE REGENT.

BOYHOOD CLASSIC, NOW IN PICTURES, TREAT FOR YOUNG

Every Regular Fellow Who Knows His Cooper Eager for "Last of the Mohicans."

What boy missed seeing Maurice Tourneur's "Treasure Island?"

"Hardly a one" answer theatre managers all over the country.

When this famous French producer made Stevenson's widely read book into a scenario, critics conceded that he had produced a wonderful picture. Most of them observed the masterful way in which he brought out the tense moments—every thrill—and made the story more than worth seeing. Just as they reported this point in that picture, so have the advance audiences praised the same in "The Last of the Mohicans," which started Monday at the Regent Theatre.

This film of Cooper's famous Leather Stocking tale brings out some thrilling episodes that will make every red-blooded American grip the arms of his seat in the theatre. From the very start of the story, Tourneur, with his artistry, caries his audience back to the days when America was young. Indians' crafty deceit starts cold chills running up and down the spine. When a noise is heard by one of the white girls—the audience holds its breath with her as she peers into the awesome gloom of the forest, looking for the sign of a redskin!

The attack on the fort, the massacre, the blowing up of the powder magazines—everything—combines to make this feature one of the notable ones in the career of Maurice Tourneur. The gentle love of Uncas for the paleface maiden, and her regard for him, and the way the story turns out, causes one to stop and think.

"The Last of the Mohicans" is finely visualized by excellent characters with the master hand of Tourneur ever off-screen, guiding them smoothly in their varied actions. The camera work, scenic effects, and wondrously gorgeous settings, are all astonishingly beautiful, and the picture is bound to please the many patrons of this popular house.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, May 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Stocks displayed a strong tone at the outset of to-day's dealings. Yesterday's late rally showing extensions in almost every part of the list. International paper overshadowed all other issues on its first transaction of fifteen hundred shares at a large fractionl gain which soon was increased to almost two points. Sumatra Tobacco, General Asphalt, Studebaker, Chandler, Central Leather and American Hide Leather Preferred comprised other strong industrials and specialties with cruicable steel, American Woolen and American Canadian Rails were dull but firm, coalers and the the Western group showing stronger tendencies.

Oil, Tobacco, Leather and Gas shares led the further advance of the first hour. The movement came to a sudden halt, however, when selling of rails, especially Hill issues, became somewhat insistent. Northern Pacific lost two points and Great Northern 1 5-8. Heayiness also developed in Republic iron and New York airbrake, the dividend status of both of those issues again being brought into question. The seven per cent. opening rate for call money was another factor in the re-action which forced the leaders one to two points under their highest quotations.

Coppers, motors, shippings, and tractions were the stabillsing features of the last hour, taking the place of oils and steels. The closing was firm.

Steels and equipments were under marked pressure at midday. Bethlehem, Crucible, Republic, and Pullman showed extreme losses of one to two and a half points. Oils continued to ease, but motor, rubber, and miscellaneous shares, especially Studebaker, Kelly-Springfield, Tire, and Famous Players rose one to two points.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, May 17.— (Canadian Press.)— Sterling exchange steady, demand 3.99 1-2; Canadian dollars 10 1-2 per cent. discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 17.— (Canadian Press.)—Free buying on the part of an eastern trader who has recently been on the bear side, led to a material advance in the price of wheat. Bullish sentiment was also engendered by the meagerness of the visible supply total and of the stock on hand in Chicago, and by the squeeze in May delivery at Winnipeg. Opening quotations, which ranged from a 1-2 decline to a 1-2 advance, were followed by a general sharp upturn and then by a moderate reaction.

Corn acted heavy at the start, but rallied when wheat began to ascend. After opening unchanged to 1/8 to 1/4c. lower, the market sagged a little further and then scored gains all round. Oats parallelled the fluctuations in corn, starting unchanged to 3/8 lower and later showing some advance. The big increase in the supply of lard here weakened provisions.

The corn market was without support, declining readily under commission house selling. Country offerings were said to be larger.

The close was heavy, with July 60 7-8.

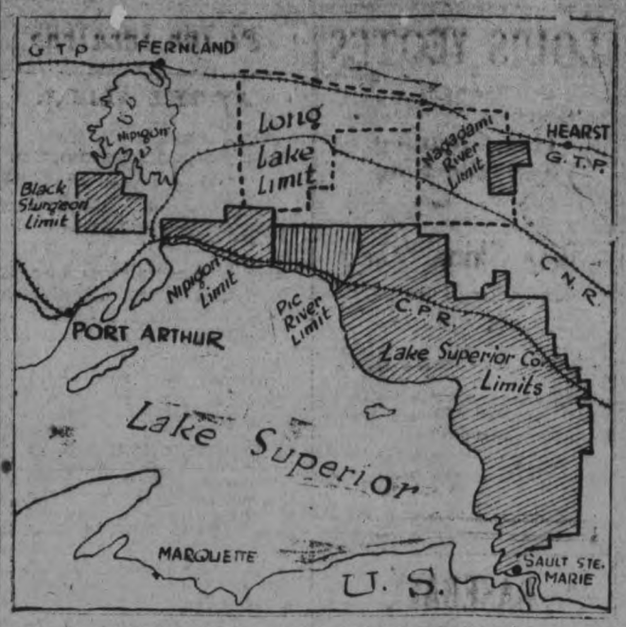
Subsequently, owing to the heavy profit-taking sales and to the decline in the corn market, most of the wheat advance was lost. The close was unsettled, with May 146 1-4 to 146 1-2 and July 115 1-4 to 115 1-2.

LIVESTOCK MARKET

TORONTO, May 17.—(Canadian Press.)— Cattle receipts medium, trade draggy quotations heavy beef steers $9.50 to $10.25; butcher steers choice $9 to $10; butcher cows, med- $12.50; lambs $11 to $13; hogs fed choice $9 to $10; butcher cows, medium $5 to $7.50; calves $10.50 to and watered selects, $10.50.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, May 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Slight fractional changes in the number of active issues was the net result of this morning's dull trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Duluth Superior was the one exception, this stock selling off 1 1-2 points to 24 1-2 on transactions of ten shares. Brazilian was active and gained 1-4 at 30 1-2. Bell Telephone lost a similar amount at 105 3-4, while Mackay moved up 1-2 at 74 1-2. Pulp and Paper stocks were stronger.



TWO LARGE PULP LIMITS THAT ARE BEING SOLD—The two pulp and timber limits for which tenders have been called by the Ontario government, are outlined on the map. They are called the Long Lake pulp and timber limit, with an area of 3400 miles, and the Nagagami River pulp and timber limit, with an area of 2300 miles. The shaded areas represent the pulp and timber limits which have already been sold, and which are earning large revenues for the province in timber dues. Many millions have been invested in the pulp and paper mills, which are supplied with wood from these areas.

A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly, hairy growths is as follows: Mix a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface about 2 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repeating but to avoid disappoin tment it is advisable to see that you get genuine delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

LEGLESS, HANDLESS, FOUGHT WAY TO TOP

MAIMED BY EXPOSURE IN STORM WHEN BOY, DOWLING ROSE TO HEAD A BANK.

MINNEAPOLIS. — "I'm glad I'm not a cripple."

That was the triumphant cry with which Michael J. Dowling, banker and business man of Olivia, Minn., greeted a cold world when he lost both legs, one and most of the other hand through exposure to a storm when he was 14 years old. And in spreading that story of triumph to maimed soldiers so that they might take heart and overcome their difficulties he so over-exerted himself that on his return to his home he suffered a complete collapse by a stroke of apoplexy which caused his death recently.

Michael was no inexperienced youth when he became a physical cripple. He was born in 1860. His father was a rover; his mother died while he was still very young. He had sold flowers in the streets of Chicago and herded cattle in Minnesota. He loved animals and it was his love for them which caused the accident. He owned a pony of which he was very proud; but the demands of the school were more urgent than the call to play so he boarded the beast at his brother's farm. One day after school he visited the pony 9 miles from town. He started back with his brother to the town. The brother and another man were in the front seat of a farm wagon, with Michael in the back. A severe snowstorm came up the wagon ran over a big stump, and Michael picked himself up in the road. The others did not know of the fall until they reached town.

Walked Miles in Storm.

The boy, just fourteen, walked miles in the storm, unable to find a house. Night overtook him and in desperation he crawled into a haystack and went to sleep. He awoke in the morning with arms and legs frozen, unable to walk. Crawling to a house, he received aid. Efforts of friends and doctors were unavailing, however, and both legs, an arm, and the other hand were amputated to save his life. He paid the doctor bills from his scanty savings, and was made a ward of the county.

Michael was no youth to let the country or anybody else support him; so when he had fully recovered his health he bargained with the County Commissioners. The result was that he was sent to Carlton College for two years, guaranteeing his return to relieve the authorities of himself at the end of that time.

Schooling completed, Michael then sixteen years old, and possessed of artificial members to replace those he had lost, became in quick succession a fence painter, manager of a roller skating rink, school teacher, principal, and superintendent, insurance writer, editor, real estate dealer, and finally banker and politician.

The details of the struggle of this man with a poor body but a strong mind, are missing. Hardships he seldom told about, rather treating his rise as a natural thing, in no way unusual.

Was in Legislature

Leaving the field of journalism, he became president of the Boonville State Bank and later of the State Bank of Olivia, which post he held until his death. In 1895 he married an Atlanta, Ga., girl and in the same year became secretary of the National Republican League. A few years later he served as a member of the State Legislature, becoming Speaker of the House in 1901.

During the world war, Mr. Dowling insisted, he enjoyed the happiest period of his life, for he was given the opportunity of fraternizing with wounded soldiers of the Allies and of speaking to them. His work in convalescent hospitals had a "wonderfully inspiring effect on the men seemingly hopelessly crippled, according to army men. While he was making an international tour to spread his optimism his popularity at home increased until he was placed on the slate for governship. Later he asked that his name be withdrawn in favor of a life-long friend, who was elected.

"What are our bodies worth?" he was fond of asking. "A man may be worth $100,000 a year from the neck up and not a dollar a day from the neck down. It's brains that count, not physique.

Such statements as that cheered wounded sodiers and gave heart to students at the Dowling school in Minnesota, a public institution named after him.

Mr. Dowling is survived by his widow and three daughters.

AURORA'S CAPERS ARE GROWING RATHER SERIOUS

BREWSTER, N. Y., May 17. — A fire which destroyed the Central New England railway station here on Saturday night was caused by the Aurora Borealis, in the opinion of the railway officials. Telegraph Operator Hatch says that he was driven away from his instrument by a flare of flame which ignited the switchboard and then set fire to the building. The loss was $6000.

Four sons and a grandson of the late Yuan-Shih-kai, first president of China, are attending Middlebury Vt. College. They range in age from 11 to 17.

FROM AWAY UP IN THE FROZEN NORTH

COMES A VOICE THAT SAYS USE DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Mr. Joseph Williams, Who Suffered from Bachache for Three or Four Years, Found Dodd's Kidney Pills Just What He Needed.

Glacier Creek, Dawson, Y.T., May 16th, (Special).—Away up here in the Yukon, where doctors are few and the rigours of the climate are very trying on the health, Dodd's Kidney Pills have made themselves known by the good work they have done. Listen to what Mr. Joseph Williams, a well-known settler here, has to say of them:
"I had been troubled with backache for three or four years," Mr. Williams states. "I took three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and found them just what I needed. My back has not troubled me since."
Dodd's Kidney Pills are known in all corners of Canada from Halifax to the Yukon. They are a kidney remedy. They are a household remedy in thousands of families.
If your kidneys are troubling you, ask your neighbours if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the remedy you need.

Society

Miss Grace Gordon, sister of Mr. G. N. Gordon, successfully passed her examinations at the Law School, Osgoode Hall, and is now entitled, subject to her call to the Bar, to practise as a solicitor and barrister.

The many friends of Miss Nellie McClure, 306 Louis street, will be pleased to learn that she is recovering from a recent operation.

Rev. and Mrs. T. Wesley, while en route to their new charge in Norwood, spent a few days with Mrs. M. J. Dodds, 227 Engleburn avenue.

Mr. Fred A. Clarke, of Montreal, was in the city to-day.

Miss Brown and Miss M. Brown, of Colborne, motored to Peterborough on Sunday and spent the day with friends.

The friends of Mr. R. H. Jackson will regret to learn that he has been taken to St. Joseph's Hospital to undergo treatment. He was unfortunate enough to break his hip a while ago and has not progressed as favorably as was expected.

Miss Lillian Parsons of Toronto, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Pearl Rehill.

Mr. and Mr. J. Dillon, Weller street, have returned from Detroit, where they attended the funeral of Mr. Dillon's brother, Mr. Hugh Dillon.

At the musicale given on Saturday afternoon last at the Conservatory of Music, under the auspices of the Women's Art Association, Mrs. Sherwood, the president, announced to the Association the purchase of a decorative panel in relief by Miss Katherine Wallis, entitled "The "The Goodlie Felowship of Solitude." It is appropriate that this beautiful work of art should remain in Peterboro, the birthplace of the artist.

At the conclusion of the musicale, a report of which appeared in yesterday's paper, tea was dispensed from a table prettily centred with lilies of the valley. Mrs. Fessenden and Mrs. H. Rush were the hostesses.

The informal dance held at the Golf and Country Club on Saturday evening last was very pleasant, although the inclement weather affected the attendance to a certain extent. Canvas screens effectually kept out the high wind and about thirty couples enjoyed the excellent music provided by Mr. Follis, while a few others played bridge by the cheerful fire in the living room. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wood, Mr. Frank Bradburn, Mr. Douglas Lawrie, Mrs. Caruthers, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. McElderry, Mr. and Mrs. Widdifield, Miss Hill, Mr. Alex. Fortye, Miss Cressman, Mr. Douglas Huycke, Miss Esme Aylmer, Mr. Brown, Miss Mulholland, Mr. Abbott, Miss Rosamond Huycke, Mr. Blaylock, Mrs. Henry, Mr. Case, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cressman. These dances will take place fortnightly during the coming season and should be very popular.

Misses Lorine McIntyre, Marjorie Welsh, and Babe Grey were visitors to Cobourg yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Earle, of Winnipeg, visited Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Roy over the week-end.

Mr. Ormond Cavanagh, who has been in Nelson, B.C., for the last two years, is visiting his mother, Mrs. J. H. Cavanagh, London Street.

CANNOT ALLOW TREATY TO BE TRAMPLED NOW

REITERATING RECENT SPEECH ON THE SILESIAN QUESTION, LLOYD GEORGE DEFENDS HIS STAND.

FEARS FURTHER TROUBLE

LONDON, May 18. Canadian Press. — Lloyd George issued a statement this morning reiterating the British attitude towards the Upper Silesian question expressed by him in his recent speech in the House of Commons and disclaiming responsibility "for the distorted reports in the French newspapers."

In the course of the statement the Premier said: "The fate of Upper Silesia must be decided by the Supreme Council and not by Korfanty. The children of the treaty cannot be allowed to break crockery in Europe with impunity. Somebody must place a restraining hand on them, otherwise there will be continued trouble."

"Great Britain," he added, "cannot consent to stand by while the treaty her representatives signed less than two years ago, is being trampled upon."

United States Won't Interfere.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Poland's request for American support in the settlement of the disposition of Upper Silesia has revoked a formal answer from Secretary of State Hughes that the United States representatives abroad would take no part in discussions concerning the Silesian question.

IT'S A SUIT AT WHOLESALE

SYSTEM OF CUSTOM TAILORING IN SEMI-READY SHOPS.

Each day in the week an average of 100 special order suits start on a rapid four-day journey through the Semi-ready shops. Speed does not impair service, but it does give to each customer the efficiency and economy of a wholesale business.

Patterns of cloth at $30 for a custom-made suit are shown, together with the more expensive woollens in serge, worsted and cheviot weaves. The four-day schedule of tailoring means that not a moment is lost and each garment is kept in motion. "I can usually bank on a suit getting here within six days", said Harry Thornton.

PETERBORO TO BE HEADQUARTERS FOR MACHINE GUNNERS

The headquarters of the 4th Machine Gun Brigade will be removed from Kingston to Peterborough early next week. Major Miller, at present commanding the local company, will be promoted to the rank of Colonel in command of the brigade, which consists of three units, at Peterborough, Oshawa and Ottawa. The headquarters staff and personel will arrive in the city early next week.

HOUSING TAKEN UP BY G.W.V.A.

CONVENTION OF PROVINCIAL COMMAND AT BRANTFORD WILL DEAL CHIEFLY WITH THIS.

SEVERAL PROPOSITIONS

TORONTO, May 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Consideration of the housing problem in Canadian cities and its application from the standpoint of providing work for unemployed, as well as homes for the workers, will be the outstanding business of the annual convention of the Ontario Provincial Command of the G. W.V.A. at Brantford on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next. Several local branches have prepared resolutions for submission to the convention on the housing question. One from the Ottawa branch proposes that the Federal government be asked to set aside fifty million dollars for this purpose to be used under the direction of the Soldiers' Settlement Board to assist city returned soldiers in building their homes. Loans up to five thousand dollars from this fund are proposed to assist these men on the understanding that the erection of the building and purchase of materials will be under the supervision of the Soldiers' Settlement Board.

HOODOO DIAMOND.

Former Lady Francis Hope Blames It for Injury.

NEW YORK, May 17. — The "hoo-doo" Hope diamond, was blamed by Miss May Yohe, formerly Lady Francis Hope, for the accident which confined her to an hospital bed to-day with the possibility that her spine is fractured. The former possessor of the famous "jinx" diamond fell to sidewalk in attempting to avoid a taxi.

OR HER NECK!

Aviatrix to Break Own Loop-the-Loop Record.

NEW YORK, May 18. — "Next time I'll break my own record," Miss Laura Bromwell, who looped-the-loop 199 times in an airplane at Mineola, L. I., declared to-day.

"I intended to make 200 loops," she added, "but I lost count."

She said that continuous looping produced no ill effects and that an aviator could go on flying like that indefinitely.

PARALYSED SURGEON PROBES FOR BULLET.

OSSINING, N.Y., May 17.—Roman Leondowski, the Sing Sing prisoner from whose brain Dr. William L. Chapman, of Brooklyn, removed a bullet several weeks ago, was taken to-day to the Dannemora Hospital for the Criminal Insane to be recommitted to prison as cured of his insanity.

He answered a series of questions rationally to-day, and prepared a written statement expressing gratitude to Dr. Chapman for restoring his sanity and curing the violent pains in the head from which he previously suffered.

Dr. Chapman, who is partially paralysed, performed the operation while seated in a wheel-chair.

THE FATE OF M'FADDEN IN JURY'S HANDS

CASE WENT TO JURY EARLY THIS AFTERNOON FOLLOWING LONG ARGUMENTS BY COUNSEL.

IS SECOND ACCUSED

TORONTO, May 18, 2.45 p.m.—(Canadian Press.)—William McFadden was this afternoon found guilty of the murder of Cecil Sabine. The jury returned this verdict after short deliberation. Two men now await sentence for this crime, Roy Hotrum and McFadden. Each of these men denied their guilt on the murder charge, although admitting complicity in the robbery.

TORONTO, May 1.—(Canadian Press.)— Early this afternoon the case of William McFadden, charged with murder in the case in which Roy Hotrum has lately been convicted, in connection with the death of Cecil Sabine, druggist, during the robbery of his store, was placed in the hands of the jury. The morning session was occupied with argument, the addresses of the lawyers and the charge to the jury by Justice Logie.

Arthur Conley, arrested at the same time as Hotrum and McFadden, who are on trial for the murder of Cecil Sabine(was to-day sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment by Justice Logie, on various convictions of robbery.

MONSIGNOR CASEY IS LAID TO REST

HUNDREDS OF CLERGY AND LAITY PAY LAST TRIBUTE.

LINDSAY, May 18—(Special to the Examiner). —St. Mary's church, where the late Monsignor Casey had labored as rector for nineteen years, could not accommodate the many hundreds from town and district, who assembled to pay the last tribute of respect. Business was suspended in the business section and men of all creeds united in the final tribute. Several bishops and monsignors together with over seventy-five clergymen attended the funeral which was an eloquent tribute to one of best known priests in the province. All Catholic educational institutions in Ontario and even a number in Quebec were represented as well as local civic and Ministerial bodies. Hundreds who could not obtain entrance to the church waited until the service was over and reverently joined the procession as it wended its way to the cemetery.

The Grand Requim High Mass was chanted by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien of Peterborough, whose parents the late Monsignor had united in marriage, he had also baptized His Lordship.

His Lordship was assisted by the following Rev. C. J Phelan, Peterboro, Assistant priest, Rev. Father Foley, London, Rev. Father Scanlan, Grafton, Deacon of Honor; Rev. Father Kline Toronto, Deacon of Mass; Rev. Father F. O'Sullivan, Port Hope, Sub-Deacon; Rev. J. J. O'Leary, North Bay, and Rev. Father Corkery of Cobourg. Acoylites; Rev. J. J. O'Brien, Peterboro and Rev. M. S. O'Brien, Lindsay, Masters of Ceremonies.

The funeral sermon was preached by Monsignor Hartigan of Deseronto, an old friend of the late Monsignor. The Reverend gentleman took as his text Ecclesiastics, Chapter 1, verse 13. In his discourse he made a touching and eloquent reference to the life work and character of the late Monsignor Casey and the great loss the church had sustained in his death. His childlike simplicity, his Christlike attributes, his love of the young and weak, his great zeal and piety were all emphasized by speakers. A historic of the institution of the priesthood followed as well as a reference to the commission given by Christ by his ministers to carry out his mission on earth, Monsignor Casey had faithfully fulfilled the trust reposed in him during his long period in the priesthood his hand was now paralyzed in death his voice stilled but his life work will long be remembered with gratitude by those among whom he labored. Every parish in the district was represented at the funeral. Peterboro was represented by the following:— Dr. Gallivan. George Ball. E. Hickey. James Doris. J. J. Duffus. R. Sheehy. G. H. Giroux. M. McFadden. W. Merrill. B. Morrow. J. J. Lynch. M. J. Maher.

WAGE CUT LIKELY ON U.S. RAILWAYS

CHICAGO, May 18.—(Canadian Press.)—General reduction in wages for unskilled railroad employees, effective July 1, forecast by the United States' Railroad Labor Board in an announcement last night, will be extended to all classes of railroad employes, it was reported to-day. No intimation was given in the Board's announcement as to the probable extent of the cut. The Board increased the wages of unskilled labor and some other classes twenty per cent.

SENTENCE TWO FOR STEALING

TWO YEARS FOR EARL SCHWEIR, ONE EOR WALTER MULLEN, FOR BREAKING INTO FREIGHT CARS.

SCHWEIR'S FIFTH TRIP

For breaking the seals on two freight cars at Havelock on May 10th, and entering and stealing from the cars, Earl Schweir, whose home is on Sherbrooke street, was sentenced to two years in the Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate Dumble this morning, and Walter Mullen of Buffalo, was given a year at Burwash Prison Farm for a similar offence.

This is Schweir's fifth trip to jail, and his second to Kingston Penitentiary. Since returning from overseas his conduct has been exemplary, and this affair was his first downward step, according to the Chief of Police.

John Evans, C. P. R. constable at Havelock, found the sealed car broken into about midnight on May 10th and within a short while found Schweir and Mullen sleeping in an empty box car. He placed them under arrest and investigating he found that the thefts consisted very largely of candies. He brought them to Peterboro and a week ago they were remanded for their records to be secured. Mullen had no police record, but Schweir, who gave his name as 'Ernest Swier,' had a lengthy list of jail terms behind him. Schweir pleaded guilty to the charges but Mullen held out on the charge of breaking seals. He was convicted on this charge by the evidence of the constable to-day. Mullen, with his clean sheet, was sent to Burwash. Schweir, alias Swier, was, according to the Chief of Police, a hardened criminal, and was despatched to Kingston, where he will be taken in a few days.

CARPENTERS AND PAINTERS ACTIVE

LIVELINESS IN BUILDING HAS MADE DEMAND ON OUTDOOR TRADES.

Less unemployment prevails amongst painters and carpenters than amongst other trades, Hugh Robertson, superintendent of the Ontario Employment Bureau, stated to-day. Not only are all the painting firms busy, but many unemployed in other trades have taken to painting, and despite inexperience, have secured considerable work. Carpenters have been much in demand at the Labour Bureau recently it was stated, and due to the resumption of building on a fair scale, there are few carpenters workless, Mr. Robertson believed. There has been a fair demand for outside labour, but the factories are still running on a reduced payroll, he stated. The textile trade was picking up somewhat, however, and the employees in this trade were gradually being taken back. There is no cry from the farms now for men, and practically all the farmers have secured help. No word has yet been received at the office about enlisting girls for fruit picking as has been done in Toronto and other cities, and it is believed that the fruit growers will not go so far afield as Peterborough to secure female pickers.

Experienced domestic help can still find work in this city, but the strangle hold domestics have had on the public at large for several years is beginning to weaken, and inefficient servants are being shown the door with less compunction than six months ago, all as a result of an abundance of female workers in the city's labour market.

WOULD PERMIT CONFISCATING PRIVATE WINE

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS BELIEVE PROPOSED LEGISLATION WOULD BE LEGAL.

COULD ENTER HOMES

OTTAWA, May 18. — (Canadian Press.) — Questioned this morning whether the Ontario Legislature would have the power to pass legislation empowering it to seize liquor supplies in the cellars of private citizens, Justice Department officials expressed the opinion that it would. This opinion was given unofficially, however. It is pointed out further that the question of the constitutionality of such a procedure would have to be decided by the courts. A Toronto despatch states that a bill will probably be introduced at the next session providing for the confiscation of this liquor and the compensation of owners for the amount seized.

ONE FACTORY DESERTED THE CHEESE BOARD

NORWOOD SELLING WITH CO-OPERATIVES THIS YEAR—452 BOXES THIS MORNING AT 15 9-16 CENT PRICE.

THE OPENING SALE

At the opening sale of the Peterboro cheese board this morning, 452 factories were listed and sold at 15 9-16c. The nine factories which were represented offered thirty-odd boxes more than on the corresponding date of last year. Norwood was reported to have gone over to the co-operatives, but it was stated that several factories would rejoin the Board this season after an absence of several years. Norwood is one of the heaviest producing factories in this district, and its desertion will leave a considerable gap in the local Board's output unless several new factories make up the deficiency.

Five buyers were present as follows: G. A. Gillespie, W. S. Cook, and W. H. Morton of Belleville; W. Flavelle of Lindsay, and George H. Ivey of Campbellford.

Bidding was fairly lively. Mr. Gillespie opened at 15c, and the bids moved up mostly in sixteenths, to 15 1-2 for the Board by Mr. Gillespie. At 15 9-16c Mr. Flavelle secured first choice taking Warminster, Warsaw and Ormonde. At the same price Mr. Ivey bought the balance of the board.

The factories boarded as follows:
Warminster	80
Selwyn	52
Villiers	60
Warsaw	60
Westwood	30
Ormonde	75
Young's Point	35
Lang	25
Killarney	35
	452

Mr. H. B. Cowan, replying to Mr. Cook, said that the Montreal price to the co-operative factories was 15 3-4c, and at the conclusion of the sale he told the Examiner that in Toronto yesterday it was 16c.

"We never hear from you people except when you are up near our price," Mr. Cook remarked.

CANADA GETS PART OF HUN INDEMFITY

OTTAWA, May 18.—(Canadian Press)—A small proportion of the first German payment on reparations may come to Canada. The payment of 150 million gold marks will, it is stated here, be applied to the cost of the Allied army of occupation, As Canada contributed a small number of men to the army of occupation for a short time immediately after the armistice, she may be the recipient of an amount partially to cover her expenditure.

PRICE SLUMPS CONTINUE YET

OTTAWA OFFICIALLY REPORTS CONTINUED DOWN TREND DURING PAST MONTH.

GRAIN LEADS LIST

OTTAWA, May 18.J— (Canadian Press.)—The downward movement of prices continued during April, according to this month's issue of the Labor Gazette. The most important changes were the declines in the prices of grain and hogs, with seasonal declines in butter, cheese, milk and eggs. In materials there were again numerous declines in leather, textiles, metals and building materials.

The cost of the weekly family budget of staple foods averaged $12.54 at the beginning of April, compared with $16 in April last year and $7.51 in April, 1914. Rents showed a slight increase in the average and further increases to become effective in May were reported.

'TEEN AGE GIRLS GAVE FINE CONCERT.

The 'Teen Age Girls' Club of Knox Church have for some time past been carrying out the ideals of the Canadian Girls in Training system, under the direction of Miss Ruth McLeish. The object of this training is towards a better girlhood, from the age of 12 to 17, and preparation for a cleaner, brighter, and more robust entry into the activities of future years.

To further exemplify their work and enthusiasm, the Club members staged a fine miscellaneous programme in the Lecture Hall last night—varied to a degree, and showing the care and attention given by teacher and pupils. The whole entertainment went with a swing, creditable indeed to all.

The objects of the club having been explained, the items were announced as follow:

Sketch—"Wild Nell," Irene Chambers, Hazel Jackson, Lizzie Heard, Nellie Francis, Marion Webber, and Jean Routly.

Recitation—"A Cowboy's Night Thoughts," Lizzie Heard.

Sketch—"Coquette," Mary, Morrison, Mary Heard, Jean Routley, Cathleen Benson, Doris Wylie, and Louise Lockhart.

Violin solo—Miss McLeish.

Dialogue—"Sir Peter and Lady Teazle," Miss McLeish and Mr. Neil Porter.

Indian Club Drill—Irene Chambers, Hazel Jackson, Lizzie Heard, Marion Webber, Catheen Benson, and Nellie Francis (pianist).

Sketch—"Census Taking." Miss Andrews and Mr. Neil Porter.

Wand Drill — Irene Chambers, Hazel Jackson, Lizzie Heard, Marion Webber, Louise Lockhart, Doris Wylie, and Nellie Francis (pianist).

Piano duet—Nellie Francis and Irene Chambers.

Sketch—"Pat's Matrimonial Adventure," Mrs. Huffman, Miss Andrews, and Mr. Freeman.

Camp Fire Scene—Entire company, singing popular melodies.

KNOWLEDGE OF SHIPPING NOT GREAT, ADMITS

BUT HANNA CLAIMS THAT DIRECTORS OF MERCHANT MARINE DO NOT REQUIRE THIS.

VERBAL BROADSIDES

OTTAWA, May 18. — (Canadian Press.) — Tilts between William Duff (Lunenburg), and Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine, and sharp verbal broadsides between Mr. Duff and D. B. Hanna of the Canadain National Railways, featured the meeting of this morning session of the Parliamentary committee on National Railways and Shipping. The exchanges occurred during an effort by Mr. Duff to secure information as to the shipping experience of the directors of the Canadian government merchant marine. Mr. Hanna intimated their actual knowledge of shipping was limited, but that special knowledge on their part was unnecessary. Neither Ottawa or Parliament appreciated the fact that there was such a thing as "National railways or ships," Mr. Hanna said, later intimating that more co-operation would be appreciated.

A. J. Mitchell, director of National lines and in charge of finance, replying to Mr. Duff, said that the depreciation and interest on the merchant marine was not deducted in 1919 as, according to Mr. Duff, was stated in the House by Hon. Mr. Ballantyne. Mr. Duff charged that the House had been misled by some one in the offices of the Government merchant marine. Mr. Mitchell resented this and said the depreciation and interest was deducted last year, after the capital cost of the ships had been received from the Marine Department.

CONSERVATIVES TO MEET HERE JUNE 10

The great revival meeting of the old Liberal-Conservative party of West Peterborough is to be held on June 10th, not June 13th, as stated. The Toronto paper report that Mayor Church said that there is no reason why the old Conservative party should disappear just to please a few Liberals in Meighen's cabinet, a local Conservative comments. This seems to be a widespread impression throughout Canada, and a revival of "the old flag, the old policy and the old party" as a war cry is said to be stirring up enthusiasm.

AGAIN SEEK ELDORADO.

Go Into Northern Vastnesses to Find River of Gold.

EDMONTON, Alta., May 18. — Search for a lost river—a river of gold—will be undertaken this year by several prospectors, including old-timers from the Yukon and Alaska, who are now here outfitting for the long journey into the north country. This lost river bed, where the Peace river once flowed, is somewhere in the big bend of the Peace, bisected by a line drawn from Fort St. John to the mouth of the Battle river.

Some years ago an Indian brought into Fort St. John a fair-sized gold nugget which, according to the tale told by the old timers of the north, he discovered in the country to the north-east of the post.

Soon after this an old trapper, a white man, who made Fort St. John his headquarters, came into the Fort with a quantity of coarse gold which he had washed from some stream in a similar direction to that from which the Indian hailed.

He never visited his trap lines after this, living on the fat of the land in care-free idleness at the post. He often disappeared, whenever his supplies of necessaries ran low, and would be away for a few days, always returning with a fresh supply of gold.

This aged trapper lived in this manner for a number of years. He died, as many trappers and north country men have, on the trail. His body was found frozen. With him went his secret, never having told to anyone the location of his find. The books of the Hudson's Bay Company still contain a large credit account in the name of the old trapper.

Northmen, who tell the story of the mystic El Dorado north of the Peace, declare that the gold was only available after a heavy fall of snow, with which the old fellow apparently washed his mineral. From an analysis of the circumstances generally, it is thought that the place from which the gold was taken was some old river bed where the Peace once flowed, but whether the story is correct or not remains to be proved.

Prospectors, however, are putting up good money to test the truth of the theory that the precious metal does exist somewhere to the north of Clear Hills in large quantities.

Huns Make the First Payment; Must Disarm By the End of June

BERLIN NOTIFIED THIS PAYMENT IS ON ACCOUNT OF THAT DUE MARCH 31—ANOTHER ULTIMATUM.

PARIS, May 18. (Canadian Press) —The Reparations Commission officially announced yesterday that Germany had placed at its disposal a hundred and fifty million gold marks, partly in gold and partly in foreign currency. It was added that the Reparations Commission was making arrangements to accept delivery of the payment. The commission in its reply to the German Government accepting payment makes it clear that this amount will be received only on account on the one billion marks due May 31 which must be forthcoming before that day in gold or approved foreign currency, bills or drafts on the German treasury, endorsed by the approval of the German banks, and payable in pounds sterling at London, francs at Paris, or dollars at New York.

The commission will meet this morning to decide what city shall be designated to receive the 150,000,000 marks, probably either Cologne, Coblenz or Mayence.

BERLIN, May 18. (Canadian Press.) — The time limit for disarmament by Germany is fixed absolutely for June 30, in the allied note presented to the German Government yesterday.

The note which concerns the execution of the recent ultimatum, demands that the organization of the German army of a hundred thousand be brought into conformity with the peace treaty by June 15th.

Superfluous munitions and unauthorized fortress equipment surrendered by May 31st, and all arms in the possession of civilians by June 15th. Germany is required to endorse by May 30 the list of munition failures authorized by the allied output of unauthorized factories.

The note further deals with the question of police and demands reduction in all classes of the police to a total of 10,000 by July 15th.

OTTAWA WATCHES POLITICAL POTS

INTERESTED IN APPROACHING BYE-ELECTIONS AND THE SASKATCHEWAN STAGE,

OTTAWA, May 17.—With by-elections under way in York, N.B., Yamaska and Medicine Hat and the Saskatchewan Legislature dissolved for a provincial election in that province, public opinion in various parts of Canada in both Federal and local affairs is shortly to be sounded.

Ottawa Enlivened.

Political circles here are greatly interested. In the constituency of the late Hon. A. L. Sifton, Medicine Hat, the local Conservative M.L.A., Col. Spencer, has resigned his seat in the Legislature to tackle the Ottawa job ,and from this the Government deduces that prospects are propitious. Col. Spencer has a fine overseas' record which, however, may hamper him judging by the results in other seats.

Farms Had Split.

The Farmers had a division in their convention as between north and south and the northern man won out and some ill-feeling is reported. Another factor in the case will be the attitude of the Liberals who will not put up a candidate of their own, but still may not support the Agrarian in view of the state of war between the Stewart Government and the United Farmers of the province.

Maharg is Moving.

Saskatchewan politicians in Parliament say that the general election there will see the old Conservative Opposition as such, largely wiped out. The fight is between supporters of the Martin Government and Independents, mostly Farmers. J. A. Maharg, M.P., who has decided to join the Martin Ministry, is also out to resign his seat here and leave for the west. Maharg heads the Saskatchewan Grain Growers, the original organization in which division is reflected by the development of an Independent faction. The alliance between Liberals and Grain Growers in this province in tentatively established and the working out of the arrangement will be watched here with great interest because a similar strategy will be attempted in various parts of the country in a general election.

York and Yamaska.

Reports to Ottawa regarding the by-elections in York and Yamaska are conflicting, but the dominant opinion is that each side will hold its own—the Government York and the Opposition the Quebec seat. No one discounts the great effect which these and subsequent bye-elections will exert upon the general situation and the determination of whether a wider appeal to the country will be taken before another session.

DECLARE NINE UNIONS "RED"

LUSK REPORT ENDORSES FEDERATION OF LABOR AND "INDUSTRIAL DEMOCRACY."

FOR PROFIT SHARING

NEW YORK, May 18.—Nine labor unions are denounced in the report of the Joint Legislative Committee Investigating Seditious Activities, as revolutionary in character and organized for the ultimate purpose of seizing industries and overthrowing the Government.

The following organizations are enumerated as within this category: Industrial Workers of the World, Workers' International Industrial Union, International Federation of Hotel Workers, Journeymen Bakers and Confectioners' Union, Brotherhood of Metal Workers, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, Amalgamated Textile Workers, International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and Fur Workers' Union.

The report, after defining the object of all these organizations as being the organization of One Big Union, having subdivisions based on entire industries, instead of on crafts and trades, the present method of organization, declares that they are all the fruit of persistent propaganda by Socialist, communist and anarchist groups "masquerading as political parties."

"The committee," the report says, "emphasizes that the real danger to American Government and to the structure of American society and its institutions, rests in the continuous activity of such organizations as here are mentioned. Revolution, if it shall be attempted in this country, will not be the work of armed bands of revolutionaries secretly coming together in conspirative organizations. Such a movement would hold out no promise of success. On the other hand, the propaganda of class hatred stimulating in thousands of workers who are ignorant of our institutions and laws a contempt for our form of Government and its institutions must inevitably lead to a division in our society, fraught with the most serious consequences to the public peace and safety.

"The success of the proletarian revolution in Russia has given a clear definition of the meaning of the co-operative commonwealth which now, in the mind of most workers affected by this propaganda, means a Soviet form of Government modeled after the Russian Soviet regime. The basic principle of the movement is the class struggle. This involves the application of physical force."

It is largely to the end that "revolutionary industrial unionism" shall receive no encouragement that the Lusk Committee takes a firm stand against recognition by the United States Government of the Russian Soviet Republic. Recognition, the committee says, would give increased strength to Soviet Russia to carry out its program of world revolution, and would lead to serious labor troubles in this country.

The Lusk Committee does not recommend repressive measures as a remedy against the conditions described, expressing the belief that present laws are adequate to meet any perilous manifestations of the movement. Instead it advocates recognition and encouragement of the American Federation of Labor, as opposed to labor unionism of the revolutionary order, education, improvement of working conditions in the industries, profit sharing and the introduction of what has become known as "industrial democracy" in the form of measures which would give to employes a share in the management of shops and industrial plants.

IS PROMOTING EMPIRE TRADE

REPRESENTATIVE OF BRITISH GOVERNMENT DEPARTMENT OF OVERSEAS TRADE HERE.

"BUY IN BRITAIN"

H. F. Gurney, representing the British Government Department of Overseas Trade, of London, England, is in the city at present. This department, which has offices in Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg, is doing practical work in assisting British manufacturers to enlarge their export trade and to encourage and promote trade within the British Empire. Although realizing that Canadians wish to buy in Canada whenever possible, the idea of this organization is to see that Great Britain gets the large share of the articles which must be purchased abroad. "What you cannot buy in Canada, buy in England, and vice versa, what Britishers cannot buy in the United Kingdom should be bought within the Empire." British manufacturers are strongly in favor of closer commercial relations within the Empire, and Canadian manufacturers are taking steps to tie the commercial bond between Canada and the Mother Country more closely. A large Canadian concern which has, until recently, been buying in considerable quantities in the United States, has just lately, through the Commissioner of Trade, submitted to British manufacturers the various lines he required. A mutual switching of business, where practicable, from foreign countries to countries within the Empire would be invaluable.

"We can assist the Canadian manufacturer by putting him in touch with manufacturers in the United Kingdom who handle the small parts which he uses in his factory here and which he has to buy abroad." Enquiries should be directed to the Trade Commissioners in Canada, either by mail, or better still, in person, for at the offices of the Trade Commissioners will be found complete information relative to every phase of British export trade. Some indication of the nature of the services rendered may be gathered from the following enquiries in recent mails:

A firm of British machinery manufacturers is ready to grant an exclusive agency for Canada to a suitable representative.

A cigar manufacturer in Canada wishes to purchase cigar bands in Great Britain, and is at once placed in touch with manufacturers in the United Kingdom.

A recent caller desired to know where a certain building material is obtainable. His order is now placed for material made in England.

A retailer in a small town enquires for the names of jobbers handling British-made house slippers. Such an enquiry meets with our most earnest attention. A manufacturers' agent with an excellent sales organization is desirous of extending his trade in British textile goods and is furnished with the information necessary to fulfill his requirements.

The statement is made that no less than 40 British manufacturers are considering establishing branch plants in Canada at the present time. Among their products are listed the following: Pianos, tinfoil, door furniture and hardware, paints and compositions, knitted goods, sports leather goods, pottery and motorcycle accessories.

The office of the Trade Commissioner in Toronto is located at 257-260 Confederation Life Building.

POWELL SAYS HE COULDN'T WALK

HAMILTON MAN HAD RHEUMATISM SO BAD HE WAS READY TO GIVE UP—TANLAC PROVES MERIT.

"All last winter my stomach was in such a bad condition it looked at times I wouldn't pull through," said George Powell, 97 Mary street, Hamilton, Ontario.

"Every time I ate a meal I just suffered agany for hours. So much gas formed it looked like I would smother, and I had terrible pains shooting all through me. At night I would roll and toss for hours in misery and then get up in the mornings so tired and weak I could scarcely move around. At times I had rheumatism in my left leg so bad I couldn't walk at all, and even to put my weight on my feet caused terrible suffering.

"Well, in trying to find relief I had used everything and was just about ready to give up. But I finally decided to try Tanlac as a last resort, and I count myself lucky that I got it. In almost no time I could eat without suffering from indigestion and now I am feeling like a different man altogether.

"I sleep like a log at nights, am scarcely troubled at all with rheumatism and always feel just fine. Since I have learned from experience what it is, I just wouldn't be without it."

PROBABILITIES.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS EVENTS

CAMPBELLFORD, May 18. — Dr. A. Haig is in Toronto this week attending the medical convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bedford, Booth street, who have been spending the past year at Victoria, British Columbia, returned to town this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Morton of Toronto were in town yesterday, the guests of Mrs. Morton's sister, Mrs. J. E. Birks. Percy is an old Campbellford boy, and since he has not been in town for several years, noted many changes. Mr. and Mrs. Morton also visited the former's mother, Mrs. William Morton, and brother, Mr. Hugh Morton, in Stirling, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Johnston visited friends on the English Line on Sunday.

Mrs. Geo. S. Haig and children are visiting friends in Bobcaygeon.

The street foreman and his staff are busily engaged oiling the streets, and motor car owners are reaping the benefit of the oil. However, in a few days' time all the disagreeable features of the oil will have passed off and the dust will be settled for the summer.

Jack Frost again made his appearance in town on Monday night and several report some of their early vegetables nipped.

GOOD ROADS FOR MANITOBA.

WINNIPEG, May 18.— Manitoba will spend $2,325,000 on good roads and aids to municipalities this year, Hon. C. D. McPherson, Minister of Public Works, announces. Road building proceeding at full pace throughout the province, he said, and many contracts are being let by the municipalities.

RAILWAYS PAY FOR IDLENESS

OFFICIAL DECLARES NATIONAL AGREEMENTS ARE AT FAULT.

BLAMES U.S. GOVT.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The national agreements between the railways and the workers, formulated under Government direction, have been the source of much complaint and criticism by railway executives. Julius Kruttschmitt, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Southern Pacific, who has been testifying before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, now conducting a transportation inquiry, has filed with the committee a list of ten cases which, he says, are typical of those in which workers are paid for work they do not do.

Mr. Kruttschnitt has maintained that the abnormal increase in railroad labor costs is due not alone to higher wages, but in substantial measure to the national agreements, which, he claims, compel the roads to pay for much work that is not carried out.

PROVINCIAL AND DOMINION GOVERNMENTS ENTER LIGNITE BRIQUETTE BUSINESS.

Plan to Produce 30,000 Tons Annually. Total Cost of Plant $720,000.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 18. — Thirty thousand tons of ignite briquettes will be produced annually at the plant at Bienfait, Sask., J. M. Leamy, Manitoba representative on the Lignite Utilization Board, states. Recommendation has been made that a meeting of the board should be held during the latter part of this month to make final plans for opening the plant and distributing the fuel.

The cost of the plant was $720,000, of which Mantioba and Saskatchewan paid $180,000 each and the federal government the balance. If this plant proves successful it is expected that additional plants will be established throughout the coal fields of the west.

Sees Canada the Hope of British Empire to Ward Off Decadence

CRERAR, PARDEE SCORE BUDGET

SEE BRUNT OF INCREASED TAXES BORNE BY POOR CONSUMER WHILE RICH ESCAPE.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 18.—Yesterday's debate on the budget was the brightest and best of the session. Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the Progressives, replied to the Prime Minister, made an illuminating criticism of the finances of the country, advocated the policy of his party for the settlement of Canadian ills and offered the Minister of Finance some practical suggestions for the meeting of the Dominion's increasing obligations.

W. F. Cockshutt, (Brantford), the champion of protection, defended that policy and attacked both the farmers and Liberals. F. F. Pardee (West Lambton), whose speech contained much in common with that of the Progressive leader, offered some criticism. Both Mr. Crerar and Mr. Pardee told the Government the country had no faith in it, and that it was time Canada had a government of vigor and courage. Both attacked the new taxes as adding to the protective tariff, both saw the mounting increases in the cost of living because of the government policy.

Mr. Crerar repudiated the suggestion that the Progressives were out to kill industry, but with Mr. Cockshutt it made no difference, for he later asserted exactly what Mr. Crerar had denied.

All the Opposition speakers saw the burden of the present government's taxation falling on those least able to pay it. The wealthy escaped, corporations escaped without their proper share and the farmer and workingman and returned soldier stood the brunt of the taxation.

DR. SALEEBY CHARACTERIZES CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND AS NEAR TO ROT.

TORONTO, May 18. — Canadian Press—"It has been said that the Empire's heart is rotten, and while I hate to admit it, it seems to me that some of the things which I have seen in England are very like the phenomenon of rot. So I hope to God you will sympathise with us, for it is in Canada that there lies the hope of the British Empire."

This was the startling declaration made last night by Dr. C. W. Saleeby, of London, England, before the general meeting of the public health convention during an address on eugenics and public health, and while he went on to point out that there are rare persons which have gained a grip, and which he feared are eating away the virility of the English race, he had great hopes that many of them would be overcome in Canada, and that though the worst might happen to the mother country in the way of physical decay, the people of Canada would more than make up for that falling off.

Dr. Saleeby recognized that his declaration was a surprising one. He termed it momentous and he made a strong appeal that the citizens of the Dominion should give greater attention to the health of future generations than is being done in England.

Fifty Dollars a Month

(Guaranteed to you by the Canada Life)

How Fifty Dollars a Month looks to the Average Man

Age 20—Happy on Fifty Dollars a month.

Age 21—Fifty Dollars a month is not enough.

Age 35—Thinks he can easily afford to "spend" Fifty Dollars a month

Age 50—Things are not going as well as they were.

Age 55—Strange how these assets have depreciated! Fifty Dollars a month is good interest on $10,000, and not to be despised.

Age 60—He finds Fifty Dollars a month pension, added to what income is left, brings happiness.

You know of men will up in years who are still "drudging along". They cannot stop if they would, but must go on to the end of their days working for a living. You can avoid that.

Why Not Pension Yourself?

Why not "take stock" of your present financial position—to size up your personal affairs and decide on a plan for the future?

Our New Pension Plan

guarantees that upon reaching a certain age in life, you will receive a monthly cheque for $50.00, $100, $200, $250—as you may now decide—and this monthly payment cannot cease as long as you live.

An Income for Life

Think what it may mean to you to be certain of an income right up to the end of life, when you consider that 97% of people in their later years are partially or wholly dependent upon others for support.

When they were younger they did not have the chance now offered you. It was not then possible to secure such a convenient and certain provision as this Monthly Pension Plan.

And This is Not All

Suppose some day before you reach age sixty you meet with a mishap and become totally and permanently disabled through accident, illness or any cause. (Such a thing has happened soon after men have secured this new policy of the Canada Life.) Immediately the payment of further premiums would be cancelled. The Canada Life would become responsible for sending you $50.00, $100, $200, $250, a month, as arranged, for the rest of your life.

There are many other benefits

An average deposit of only a few dollars a month will return you $50.00 a month later on.

FARM LABOURERS?

The Dominion Superintendent of the eastern offices of the Employment Service of the Department of Labour blames indiscriminate advertising in the English papers by Hon. Manning Doherty, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, for the influx of inexperienced "farm help" into the Province. He declares that Ontario advertised for "50,000 farm labourers, experienced or unexperienced, for Ontario farms, at good wages," and that as a result of these appeals large numbers of men have come to Canada under the nom-de-plume of farm labourers, and after working a few days or weeks on the farm have been drifting back into the cities and swelling the ranks of the unemployed. Whatever may be the truth of this charge it is fairly obvious that the regulations restricting immigration are not having the desired effect. No man is allowed to enter Canada at the present time unless he is in possession of $250, or unless he is a farm labourer. The latter exception opens the way for the influx, and it apparent that many who have no serious intention of seeking work on the farms are being admitted into Canada and their presence is adding to the unemployment evil. The need of greater care in the selection of farm labourers is impressing itself upon the people, if not on the officials who are responsible.

TARIFF REVISION.

In shelving the whole question of tariff revision the Meighen Government has made the work of the Tariff Commission valueless and of no importance. The huge mass of evidence collected at heavy expense and necessitative the calling of hundreds of witnesses in all parts of the country is to be consigned to oblivion. It is said that the testimony secured at the various sittings amounts in all to two million words. What a waste of good paper! What a waste of time, and what a waste of money! The Commission was supposed to be collecting information upon which a tariff revision could be based. In the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the present session the Governor-General declared: "My advisers are convinced of the necessity for revision of the customs tariff." And the Speech added that an inquiry had been held "and the conclusions founded thereon will be submitted to you in due course." And now the country is told there is to be no revision and the Premier, forgetting that his Government had definitely promised such a course, now has the audacity to ask "who is there that suggests that we at this time should undertake to make a revision in the country?"

APATHY ONCE AGAIN.

Outside of the remarkable triumph that the results of the civic referendum held in Montreal on Monday was for Mayor Mederic Martin and his allies, the voting was notable for the fact that fewer than half the number of possible votes were registered—to be exact, only forty-six per cent. of those entitled to express an opinion took the trouble to do so. The apathy of a large section of the electorate opens the way for bad civic government. The question that Montrealers were called upon to decide on Monday was of the greatest importance—they were asked to select a new form of government for their city. And not half of the voters turned out. The newspapers and all the big organizations in the city impressed the urgency of the situation upon the ratepayers and appealed for a representative vote, but their efforts failed to arouse the indifferent and the careless in the city's population. Evidently the people of Montreal are in no way different from the voters of Peterborough in the matter of neglecting their duty as citizens. Until there is more general interest and a keener appreciation of the responsibilities of citizenship, it is idle to look for a high grade of efficiency in civic governments. If more than half the people of the largest city in Canada are so indifferent as to the form of municipal administration that is to be installed that they will not bother to vote, there is not much hope of improving conditions.

BACK TO THE OLD PARTIES.

Considerable curiousity was, no doubt, aroused by the advertisement published in The Examiner last evening announcing that "the Committee of Five Hundred, Liberal-Conservative supporters of the old party, the old policy and the old flag have arranged to hold a general meeting of Liberal-Conservatives on June 13th for purposes of re-organization." Just what this announcement signifies is by no means clear to the general public, but if it is a movement to get politics back to the old party lines there are many people who will hail the effort with rejoicing. Group Government has not been an unqualified success. Manitoba is one striking example, but it is not necessary to go out side of our own Province to find reasons for criticizing the group system, of which Mr. J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the U.F.O., is so fond. The old two-party arrangement was not by any means perfect, but, at least, it was not intricate or involved, and it did not tie up the transaction of public business as the group system seems likely to do.

IN THE TIME OF LILACS.

Like dear old friends they gather 'round the homestead,
In simple beauty, in the smiling May,
In purple clad, or white-like drifting snowflakes,
And lift their fragrant blooms as if to say:
"We are a part of childhood, youth and gladness,
Of sweet familiar things remembered long."

Bring lilacs into a room, and you invade it with memories and dreams, and while they live, and gradually fade, the fragrance of them, which Joubert names their soul, recalls old joys to those who look back, and beckoning beauty to those who dream of days to be.

To follow the lure of a lilac lane is to have had at least "one fine moment, and to have looked down upon all the kingdoms of the earth." To have lingered over the outline of a lilac plume against a spring sky is to have caught a conception of the perfect grace of a flower. To have allowed the spring-sweet scent of them to spread glamor in the heart and mist the eyes with dreams is to have yielded to the utter rest and peace of the gospel of beauty.

A deep purple tone before unfolding, and a most elusive shade of silvered mauve in starry bloom, or white as drifted cloud, with the faithfulness of all flowers, the lilacs tell their meaning of the coming of spring. A secret they hold of wind-music, and the melody that flowers make when born in clusters. Tiny plumes of sunset might they be, that once had been part of a great cloud of rose, flung into bits of beauty of form by soft breezes, and faded to delicacy of tint with deepening twilights.

No flower so loves the exquisite harmonies born of the touch of silver raindrops on its leaves and petals, or responds so gracefully to the play of intermittent little winds. Proud with an aloofness that yet hints of wistfulness, yielding with so sweet a charm to gentleness of human touch, dreaming with apparent deep rapture that seems cruel to intrude upon, the lilac, with all its abandon of bloom, holds securely a beauty-kept place in the world of spring flowers, and yields its reveries only to those who pause and understand.

It has been said, "Folks are apt to grow common-place and want courage to own they live in the World Beautiful," but flowers recognize silent disciples of beauty, and perhaps love them most. It may be for this lilacs never desert the after those that first loved them pass on to other flower-scented ways. "I love," says Helen Millman, in her "Kalendar of Country Delights," "to bury my face in a bunch of lilac bloom, and when nobody sees me but the flowers, to imprint a kiss for old sake's sake."—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A Holyoke man has gone insane trying to answer Thomas Edison's questions. He must have been crazy or he would not have attempted the task.

If it had been Montreal people who saw that mirage the explanation would not have been hard to find.

Now that the Aurora Borealis has started to cause fires it would seem to be up to the Ontario Fire Prevention League to suggest a remedy for this new peril.

Hon. G. H. Perguson describes the legislation initiated by the Ontario Government as "hash." He probably means by that that there is a little of everything in it.

A St. Thomas minister complains because the street cars do not run there on wet Sundays. But, if they did, what excuse would a man have for not going to church?

Although Mr. Mondou described the Premier as a hangman, it is likely his own execution will be carried out by the people of Yamaska.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

It has been intimated to us that the two weeks' rest from columning which we have had as a result of the necessity of conserving space during the recent strike, might freshen our stock of jokes. No, Hortense, there is nothing new under the sun, and particularly is this true of the jokesmith trade. To add new spice to an old plot, the modern novelist uses a supposedly new angle of the alleged causes of matrimonial unrest, the playwright a bed-room scene and the scenario writer a bevy of girls in abbreviated bathing suits, but the jokesmith—all he can do is to hunt in dusty archives for a quip beyond the range of his reader's memories.

Of course, as we have intimated before, we have absolutely no objections to sharing the danger of a shower of brickbats with anyone who wishes to aid in perpretating this column upon the public by contributing a little alleged humor. Some have done so, others have done worse, and any more are welcome.

Contrary to some people's theory, it is a fact that most of us laugh harder AT people than we do WITH them. If you're a Pollyanna disciple this statement will virtually nauseate you, but if you're only a normal human, who occasionally indulges in the luxury of a grouch, you will appreciate its truth. All of which is a prelinary to the intimation, that if you have any sarcasm to cast the public can't kick any harder if you contribute it than it does at our own stuff.

Outside of banning the pun, which is in the umpteenth class of humor, we place no limits on the irrepressible wit other than to put up the bars against the late mother-in-law wheeze. It is dead, may it rest in peace; we, at least, have no desire to disturb it.

We expect you to use cognomens, not alone out of modesty, but because of the medium of publication. Amy Lowell may be the acknowledged leader of the vers libre poets, but when she said that these newspaper humor columns are "sad, pitiful things," she sure said a mouthful.

This little S.O.S. call is not an R.S.V.P. invitation, but if you do intend to reply, please do so P.D.Q.

STRONG AS AN OX AT 147.

Turk Lifts 200 Pounds Despite His Great Age.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 18.—Zora, the "human pack horse," who claims to be 147 years old and still can carry 200 pounds with ease, attributes his long life and health to hard work and proper diet. He has always been a carrier of heavy weights.

His rules of health are: Hard work, sleep, cold baths at night, no tobacco, no alcohol, no coffee, no meat, no oils, no butter, no drinking water, but plenty of hot tea, honey, sugar, cakes, bread and cheese particularly buttermilk or clabber. Every five years he takes a three months' rest in his native home in the country.

Whatever his age, Zora is a picture of health and physical vigor, mentally alert, benign, and frequently blessing the curious American sailors who visit him at his favorite cafe on the Galata waterfront.

Worked There 80 Years.

He is five feet ten inches tall, deep breasted, and has the carriage of a sheik. He is almost bald, his face is long and covered with a shiny nut-brown skin.

His eyesight and memory are good and he recalls the day when the first steamship came to Constantinople. He says he worked as a peasant at Bitlis until the age of 37 when he came to Constantinople to work at the Turkish Arsenal and that he worked there for 80 years.

Zora has been married four times. All of his wives are dead and all but two of his children. His son, Osman, aged 97, being in poor health, recently returned to Bitlis. His daughter, Gouli Hanem, aged 60, is married and healthy. Zora's father died at the age of 76 and his mother at the age of 83.

Why He's Not Rich.

Zora isn't rich because of so many expenses in caring for his family. He lives in a Kurd-klan where he pays a dollar and a half a month for a place to sleep and hot water to make his tea.

"What I want is work," declared Zora. "Idleness will ruin my health. I'll pray all my life for him who giveth me work. Health, happiness and wisdom come from work only."

Asked if he intended to join the Turkish Nationalist army Zora smiled benevolently and shook his head. "I fought many times for my country and now I wish to end my life in prayer for the prosperity of the Empire," he said.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

I LEARN TO KEEP SILENT.

I placed Thierry's red roses in a glass vase and took them into the dining room I had hesitated for a minute wondering just what to do with them. I did not want to put them in my bedroom. That would be a trifle intimate and, of course, I would have to tell Leonard who had sent them. Yes, the dining room would be best.

I wanted Leonard to notice the roses, as I wanted him to know that Thierry had sent them. Not that I cared to make him jealous. I wanted to see if when Thierry's name was mentioned he would speak of having seen him on the Astor Roof. If only he would show that he had nothing to hide from me!

The roses were marvelous. When I had finished arranging them I stooped over and buried my nose in their deep red fragrance. "Dear old Thierry," I said to myself, "how I wish you belonged to me." If only we had a son, things might be different, I was thinking.

Emma came into the dining room just then. As I raised my face from the flowers she looked at me with an odd expression around her eyes. I felt a bit awkward. I wondered how much she guessed or knew of our martial difficulties. It is so hard to hide sorrows. One can be alone in one's happiness, no one will bother one then. But sorrows—the world is always probing and spying into them, driving one to the wall.

Of course Leonard spoke of the roses immediately. He noticed them the minute we went into the dining room for dinner.

He loved beautiful things, and his face reflected their gloriousness.

"What beauties! Where did you get them?" he asked, without hint of suspicion in his voice.

"They are lovely," I said, sparing a minute and watching closely for any change of expression on his face. "Young Thierry Brunswick sent them to me," I answered easily.

For the fraction of a minute the lines around Leonard's mouth hardened and a dull red flush spread over his face and neck. He avoided meeting my eyes.

"That's nice," he said, trying to speak off-handedly. "Pretty color."

During the remainder of the meal Leonard was preoccupied and silent. Once or twice he tried to force conversation as though he felt it would be better. He did not want to appear self-conscious.

So he was not going to speak of seeing Thierry after all! Another faint hope had died cruelly with the others.

I lapsed into silence myself. Did Leonard know that Mr. Darwood had been divorced before Did he know about the Mrs. Gregg part? For a minute I was tempted to tell him. If he knew perhaps—

No, I suddenly realized it would be better not to tell him. At least I must not be the one to enlighten him. It was very possible that he did know. A lawyer always had to rake up the past. But if he did not, and I told him, it would only act adversely for me. I knew that I would not dare criticize Mrs. Darwood to Leonard. It is always dangerous for one in the eternal human triangle to attempt to censure either of the others. It is human nature not only to disapprove the truth of such criticism, but to resent it and immediately champion the one who has been slandered.

If I told Leonard that Mrs. Darwood had already been divorced once before, whether he knew it or not, my telling him would only make him suspicious of my motive. Then, too, I would have to explain how I knew. It would be foolhardy to attempt to tell him all about the Brunswick affair. Most likely he would not believe t. It is a dangerous thing to try to tell a man that a woman can make a fool of him. He is not apt to believe that.

Then I was not sure that Thierry would want me to repeat the story.

No, I decided to keep quiet. I must not lose a single point in the tragic game of love that I had entered into with all my heart and soul.

RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is produced by the accumulation of Uric Acid in the blood, and this poisonous substance attacks and inflames the membrane covering the joints and separating the muscles, thus producing severe pains. If the waste products of the human system are not properly carried off, Uric Acid forms and is deposited in the joints and between the different layers of muscles. DR. HENDERSON'S HERB TABLETS will correct this by its action on the kidneys and removing the Uric Acid from the blood. Try them and watch the results. If they fail your money will be refunded.

Dr. Henderson's Herb Tablets are put up three sizes—25c, 50c and $1 per box, at Warne's Drug Store, 351 George Street, Peterborough.

POSSESS GOOD HEALTH BY LOOKING AFTER THE BOWELS

A free motion of the bowels, once or twice a day, should be the rule of every one, as half the ills of life are caused by allowing the bowels to get into a constipated condition.

When the bowels are allowed to become constipated, the stomach gets out of order, and the liver does not do its work properly on account of holding back the bile so that it does not pass through the bowels, but is allowed to get into the blood, thus causing a poisoning of the whole system.

If you would escape constipation, sick and bilious headaches, heartburn, floating specks before the eeys, coated tongue, foul breath, the nasty irritating, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, you should keep your liver stirred up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

These pills, being purely vegetable, keep your liver working actively, helping it to resume its proper functions, and thereby removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the whole system.

Mrs. H. Barrows, Enfield, N. S., writes:—"I was troubled with sick headaches and constipation. One day a friend told me of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I got two vials, and found they did me a world of good. I therefore have great faith in them."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limied, Toronto, Ont.

Afternoon tea will be served to all visitors. 2d.

THE END OF THE CIRCUS PARADE

According to the Ohio State Journal, the big circus will have no more street parades in the cities it may visit. That welcome, bizarre and wonderful offering to human curiosity has become the latest victim to the stress of the times. The modern circus has grown so big, is so great, delays are so bothersome and unavoidable that the work required to get ready for the parade has become burdensome and wholly out of proportion to the opportunity for quickening interest and attracting business to the big tents. However great the crowds may be that line the streets to see the parade, the circus managers say the parade is not productive of business. They have their tents filled when delays force them to eliminate the parade, they take in quite as much money without the parade as with it. Elimination of the parade is a part of the evolution of the circus and its methods. Population is vastly greater than in the old days. No special appeal is required to fill the big tent if a big circus visits the city. It was different in other days when population was less, and all methods of arousing curiosity had to be employed to get the people into the big tents.

CORNET IN CHURCH; PLAYER ARRESTED UNDER BLUE LAWS

WELLSVILLE, W. Va., May 18.—Small bows of black crepe adorning coat lapels were silent protests of many citizens here to-day against enforcement of Sunday blue laws.

The Little town, once referred to as "lively," was recovering from the first shock of a blue Sabbath.

George Kemp, violinist, and William Barnes, cornetist, were facing arrest for playing at services in the First Presbyterian Church. Mayor George Kraft expressed the belief that the men had violated a city ordance.

Thirsty fans from a ball game outside the city limits found soda fountains closed. Tobacco users who had neglected an extra supply Saturday were faced by closed doors and drawn shades.

GENERAL CROP CONDITIONS IN WEST AS AT THIS DATE, REPORTED BY THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENTS

Manitoba.

WINNIPEG.—A rather unusual amount of variation in the dates of seeding in Manitoba has occurred this year. The winter's snow went away considerably earlier than it did one year ago, but succeeding this, various parts of the Province were visited by snowfalls or rains. These contributed welcome moisture in some places, but they kept the heavier land in a condition which made seeding impossible. The result was that the wheat was all sown in districts such as Hartney, Morden, Treesbank, and several other points in the southern part of Manitoba before sowing has been begun in any general way in such other places as Stonewall, McCreary, Springfield, and other points that have heavier soil.

On the lighter lands seeding was under way from about April 18, and in a few places oat sowing has been under way for about a week. At Melita, for instance, about 60 per cent. of the oats are sown. On the other hand, wheat seeding commenced in some places since May 1st, and it has continued until to-day. Almost every correspondent reports the soil to have been in excellent condition. Though the rain of the past two days was not needed in the delayed areas, it was very welcome in the districts of lighter soil. In some places there has been considerable wind, and a little soil drifting has occurred, but the rain will assist somewhat in lessening this trouble.

Reports would suggest that the area sown to crop will be about the same as in recent years. Even as far north as the Swan River Valley the wheat is above ground. The correspondent at Hamiota states that though grasshoppers have not yet come much into evidence there are large numbers of hopper eggs to be found. The condition of live stock is satisfactory. Though a few correspondents say that cattle are thin, nobody complains of disease or other trouble. Some correspondents remark upon indifference or decline in hog raising, and horse raising seems to lack enthusiasts. The correspondents at Portage la Prairie and Hamiota record the shipment of stall fed steers from those points. There are no complaints as to shortage of farm help, and wages are down at least $20 per month from last year, being now $50 to $60 per month; yet several correspondents report that farmers are hiring carefully. Farmers generally seem to regard the natural conditions of the season as being favorable, but look with distrust upon the economic situation. High freights and high prices of machinery are regarded as especially grievous to the cause of agriculture. One correspondent asks for better roads and cheaper gasoline. One states that men are using old implements that in former years would be discarded.

Alberta.

EDMONTON. — Crop prospects over the whole of Alberta are at present generally favorable. Seeding opened in good time with plenty of moisture where it is sometimes scarce and not too much in the heavier parts of the Province. Weather has been entirely favorable for wheat seeding, which is practically completed except in the Peace River country. Wheat is up well in most of south and parts of central Alberta; completion of wheat sowing immediately followed by general saturating rains and in parts snow over the Province.

Early part of seeding somewhat cold and nights continued rather low temperature until May 8, but have had good day warmth continuously for two weeks. Vegetation of all kinds making good progress. Rains of 10th and 11th have interrupted oat seeding to some extent.

Proportion of oat seeding done varies between 20 and 75 per cent.

Conditions of moisture and progress of seeding best in five years and farmers in drier areas particularly optimistic. The prospect of last year's crop has somewhat changed. Some wheat land weedy for past three or four years in the south is held out for summerfallow.

On the other hand, wheat seeding has increased up in the central and northern parts, while oat and barley seeding will show ten per cent. decrease. Normal annual increase of 10 or 11 per cent. will not be realized.

Some blowing during early part of seeding, but moisture has held land and not much appreciable damage.

Grasshopper menace feared earlier in season, but heavy snows and rains holding menace in check just now.

Saskatchewan.

Saskatchewan report delayed, but conditions up to May 9th generally favorable.

SCHEME TO SHORTEN THE BONSPIEL

Increased Representation at Winnipeg Event Anticipated. Invite Scotch Curlers For 1922-23.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 18.—The Winnpeg bonspiel of 1922 will start on Monday, February 6, and continue for one week only. Decision as to date and curtailment of the big event, was made at the first meeting of the recently appointed council of the Manitoba Curling Association here.

The scheme to shorten the 'spiel so that every competition will be completed within the space of one week, as advocated by J. T. Haig, will, it is expected, result in a much increased representation from outside points.

The Manitoba Curling Association as taken the initiative in connection with extending an invitation to Scottish curlers to visit Canada during 1922-23, and will co-operate with eastern associations to the fullest possible extent to make such a visit possible.

ELIMINATION OF DEMORALIZING ADJUNCTS PROCEEDING IN CITY OF WINNIPEG.

Council of Women Make Recommendations to Improve Influence.

WINNIPEG, May 17.— The appointment of chaperons and police women on beach trains and river steamers running out of Winnipeg is advocated by the Local Council of Women. A better lighting system in the parks is also suggested. During a recent meeting of the Council it was pointed out that much improper conduct had resulted from the lack of proper chaperonage during past summer seasons and that it was now time to take action and thus prevent the continuance of such demoralizing conduct.

POOHPOOHS HATFIELD'S RAINMAKING

SIR FREDERICK STUPART GIVES IT A SCIENTIST'S DISMISSAL—BUT MEDICINE HAT HAS RAIN.

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., May 17.—Old Jupiter Pluvius must be on friendly terms with Charles M. Hatfield, the rainmaker. After making rain for about a month, prairie farmers have asked Hatfield to turn off the moisture for a few days. These tillers of the soil, who for years have been experiencing droughts, are satisfied that Hatfield can deliver the rain as per contract, and as Hatfield has already about $3,000 for his month's work, everybody is happy, except those who continue to sneer at the rainmaker's "scheme."

Whether or not Hatfield's presence in the district is responsible, the fact remains that rain has come since his arrival. He landed here in a downpour. "Old timers" declare they have never seen such heavy precipitation or such a continuous presence of so many heavy clouds. Is Hatfield responsible? Hatfield has erected his apparatus on the eastern shore of Chappice Lake, a substantial body of water with several small lakes surrounding it. The structure, or tower, is twenty-four feet high, supporting a wooden tank 14 feet square, stated by Hatfield to be the largest tank he has yet used. It is in this that the chemicals are placed which form the secret process.

How He Does It.

As Hatfield explains it, the production of rain by artificial means necessitates the localising of moisture in the air and condensing it to the point of precipitation. To obtain this result he says, "I use certain chemicals which I treat by means of heat, the fumes of the evaporating chemicals mixing with the surrounding air and causing what may be described as an over-turning in the atmosphere." He says further, "There is no magic in my methods, nor do I trust to luck; it's the appliance of certain scientific principles fully developed over a period of twenty years."

Live the Simple Life.

Hatfield is accompanied by his brother, B. A. Hatfield. They live "the simple life" in a small shack alongside their apparatus, and remain there until their contract expires. His brother served with the American artillery in France, and as it rained there almost every day while they were there, his companions decided he was responsible.

"Rain enough, stop for a few days." This is the copy of a telegram from J. Dupeyro, of Dollard, Sask., to F. S. Ratliff, secretary of the United Agricultural Association, under whose auspices Hatfield has made his contract to supply rain.

The area which is covered by his "secret" extends from Medicine Hat to Saskatchewan near Swift Current.

At the rate of $8,000 for four inches of rainfall in May, June, and July, Hatfield has easily sliced off $3,000 already.

In answer to the farmers who are now getting too much rain, Hatfield says, "Do not fear." He wants to tap the clouds while they are available, because June may be a hot cloudless month and he admits that he cannot bring rain from a cloudless sky.

"Don't worry this year or any other year about plenty of moisture when we operate," he boasts. "I am absolutely confident of success."

Hatfield says his reception at Medicine Hat has been very flattering, also that the location of his apparatus was an ideal one, the altitude is 2,400 feet, and thousands of tons of moisture are lifted by air and wind daily from Chappice and the surrounding lakes.

He says he is prepared to demonstrate to the people and the Government that this secret is effective, and hopes to do this by continuing his tests over a period of five years. "Surely," he states, "they will believe that I have something to do with it if there is an abundance of moisture for this and the following four years."

When the above despatch was brought to the attention of Sir Frederick Stupart in Toronto yesterday, he at once pooh-poohed the idea that the rainfall at Medicine Hat had anything to do with the efforts of "Rainmaker" Hatfield. "It is quite absurd," said Sir Frederick. "Why, they have had only one and a quarter inches of rain since the beginning of the month, and none at all since last Thursday."

"The amount is not at all unusual for that district at this time of the year, and is nothing like as much as they had in the years 1915 and 1916. So far as Hatfield's efforts are concerned, they have had a good deal more rain to the east of Medicine Hat, where he is not operating. They have not had anything like as much rain as they need yet."

FOREST FIRE SEASON IS HERE

Five settlers who were recently placed on trial for causing disastrous forest fires through carelessness in 'burning off' their lands, gave as their excuse: "We did not know that little fires could escape from our control so quickly." This is the story of almost every forest fires in Canada. From five to eight thousand occur year by year, and in most cases through thoughtlessness and indifference. When one considers that the forests of just one Province, Quebec, are valued at 600 million dollars just as they stand in the "wilderness," and that timber is the one member of the family of our resources most easily and quickly destroyed, the seriousness of all forest fires is at once recognized.

In a recent statement, the Canadian Forestry Association urges precautions by campers and smokers as follows:

When in the woods, do not throw away a lighted match or tobacco.

Make your campfires small, because they cook better and are easily put out. Never build your campfire near leaves or moss, or in a dry bog, or against an old log. Select a stony or gravelly soil if possible.

When leaving camp, put your fire completely out, and that means dead out; you can do it with a few pans of water, or a shovel of earth.

VOCAL RECITAL BY MRS. RYERSON RITCHIE

ASSISTED BY MISS PALMER AND HIS HONOUK JUDGE HUYCKE.

Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie gave a delightful vocal recital in St. John's school room last night. Never before heard except in single numbers in this city, last night's performance was a complete surprise for everybody. Possessed of a very fine, pure, soprano voice and an extensive repertoire, Mrs. Ritchie presented a programme full of interest throughout. The heaviest number was the "Air de Salome," from Massenet's opera, "Herodiane," which received a perfect rendering. Mr. R. J. Devey, the organist of St. John's, accompanied Mrs. Ritchie with great skill on a piano kindly lent by the Heintzman firm. Miss Edwina Palmer solo violinist, made a first appearance in St. John's school room since returning from London, England, having completed her course of training under the best violin teachers available. Miss Palmer is a skillful artist, both as to tone and technique, aud, as will be seen from the programme given below, her repertoire is extensive. Miss Palmer was given an enthusiastic reception last night, and Mrs. Ritchie gracefully presented her with a bouquet of roses.

His Honour Judge Huycke was in very fine form, for after a very doleful statement as to his ability as a reader or reciter, he proceeded to give some selections from Tennyson, which were highly appreciated. His last selection, introducing Mrs. Ritchie's song, "There Is No Death," was very impressive, ending with "Crossing the Bar."

The Programme.

"Spring's Singing" .....Macfadyen
"Down in the Forest" .....Ronald
"Love's Way" .....Tosti
Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARIES AT ALL SAINTS MEET

A meeting of the Womens' and Girls' Auxiliaries of All Saints' church took place last evening to welcome back the delegates to the recent convention in Toronto and hear their reports. Mrs. Lucas and Mrs. Bailey represented the Girls' Auxiliary, Mrs. Beattie and Mrs. Tucker the Womens' Auxiliary, Mrs. Connelley the Juniors, and Mrs. Runnock the baby branch. These ladies gave splendid reports of the convention, which they reported to be better than ever this year, showing greater progress in every branch of the work. It was a real inspiration to be able to attend this meeting, and, as one of the delegates expressed it, "made one proud to belong to such a society." The particular message stressed at the convention and brought back to Peterborough was the necessity for more prayer in these times of reconstruction.

The meeting last evening was very largely attended. Mr. Grobb was present and closed the conference with prayer.

Turnbull's Summer Millinery Opening

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of This Week

Everyone tells us that our summer models are the most fascinating in color and shape, and the most remarkable in price of anything in distinctive hats shown anywhere. The original designs were created in our own workroom, others are copies from New York and Paris models, and the materials used in making are the very finest. No wonder that they are a delight to every woman who likes a strikingly better hat. Entrancing in color and effect, does not speak too highly of our summer millinery.

The Fabric Hats Are Beautiful

featuring especially the popular organdy hat in delicate shades of lavender, green, maize, etc., with their flimsy frills, pleats, and flowers make one look so fresh and cheerful to match the beautiful summer days. Leghorns and transparent mohairs with their larger odd shaped brims that shade the faces or through which one may see, casting a bewitching loveliness on every wearer's face. These are models for more formal occasions and the beauiful colorings are a delight to the feminine fancy.

The Sport Hats for Summer Sport

are not alone created for the missie but for the matron too, who also enjoys golfing, yachting, or motoring. One smart little sport hat which is created in the chin chin shape with an edge of duvetyn in peacock blue and soft crown of rows of duvetyn and narrow white braid has a smart wire bow perched on edge of brim, making a very striking but becoming appearance. Others are keeping step with the brightly colored Jersey sport suits and sweaters, being created from straw and felt combinations, add the finishing touch to milady's sporting outfit. These are very prominent in our varied assortment. Soft duvetyn trimmed with Angora wool, but nevertheless are beautiful and are bound to please the pert little miss whose desire is to have a hat that is different.

Sailors Always Play Prominent Part

For sport wear and for street wear, numerous women and misses prefer the sailor and we must admit they do look exceedingly smart and in good taste, so we have not forgotten about these black and white sailors, navy and white sailors, and natural milan sailors, which are all here awaiting your most careful inspection and praise.

Opening Days are Thurs., Fri. and Sat. of This Week. You are cordially invited to attend.

ST. ANDREW'S CHOIR HEARD IN CONCERT

GAVE FINE PROGRAMME UNDER JOHN CRANE'S DIRECTION.

A very appreciative audience was gratified at the musical programme presented by the Choir of St. Andrew's Church last evening, under the direction of Mr. John Crane, Organist and Choirmaster. The whole programme was worthy of note, but the unaccompanied numbers were especially above the average. The selection by the choir "Spir it Immortal" (Attila) Verdi, was rendered in a way that called for a repetition. The shading in this selection was splendidly accomplished. The duets, trios and quartettes were quite acceptable to the audience, however critical, musically, it might be. Mr. Douglas Carlisle rendered "Asra" by Newton, in his usual artistic manner. The choice of the evening was, of course, rendered by Mrs. Maurice Park in her selections and particularly so in the (b) number "The Nightingales of Lincoln Inn". In this, she excelled for the shading was beautifully accomplished, allowing the pathos of the selection to be given full latitude. Miss Hazel Davidson in her own splendid way gave several readings and she must have been gratified by the hearty recalls she received. Miss Ida Sanderson's accompaniments were only another evidence of this good musician's ability. Mr. Crane deserves much credit in the training of the choir and his ability to impart the delicate shading in the unaccompanied numbers to the choir only strengthened the verdict that he is a past master at this kind of choir work. More of such entertainments would be appreciated by the music loving people of Peterboro.

BIG TURN OUT FOR Y.M.C.A. BALL TEAM

WILL HAVE HOWARD KIRN FOR GAME WITH CANADIAN GENERALS NEXT SATURDAY.

Enough players for two teams turned out when the Y.M.C.A. City League candidates practised at Riverside Park last evening. Howard Kirn will likely twirl for the "Y" team when they meet the Canadian Generals in a League game at the ball lot on Saturday afternoon. Orme Cavanah will take a turn at backstopping.

The fans are assured of an early start when Cressman's and Barrie's of the Mercantile League play at Riverside to-morrow evening. The teams will be sent away at 6 o'clock sharp. Barrie's, with Gordon Henry pitching, beat the Bankers by 1 to 0 at the Oval on Monday evening. Fast infield work marked the fur-trimmers' play.

Queen Mary School seniors have yet to lose a game in their division of the Public School League. They have won four in a row.

Lakeviews and St. Peter's promise a lively game in the Juvenile series, on the morning of May 24th. The game will start at ten o'clock. Hamilton's and Y.M.C.A., in a City League fixture, and Westclox and Cressman's, in a Mercantile League game, will furnish the programme for the afternoon.

Russell Pogue and Seely, of the Ontario Intermediate Basketball champions, are turning out with the "Y" ball team.

FOOTBALL.

The Caledonians have transferred their game with the Canadian Woollens, which was to have been played at the Exhibition Grounds on Saturday afternoon, to Nichols Oval. The C.G.E. and De Laval teams will meet at he Exhibition Grounds on Saturday afternoon.

The Saturday games will be of unusual interest, as both the Caleys and C.G.E., the finalists in the Gordon Cup series, are in action, and the games will give a final line on the two teams who clash in the big holiday attraction.

Horsehair hats of blue, adorned with snowballs, wheat or lilies of the valley, are very smart.

MACKENZIE RIVER OIL LIMITED

For years Geologists have reported the unmistakable indications of a great wealth of oil in the Mackenzie River basin. The Oil, according to geologists, is oozing from fissures in the cliffs, seeping through the ground, and standing in pools. Near Fort Norman the oil structure extends for 40 miles on one side and 60 miles on the other side of the river. The oil is reported to be the highest grade crude ever found in the world, testing 38 Gravity Baume, rich in light products. It is stated that it can be piped in a temperature 70 degrees below zero.

Just before the close of navigation and too late for further development work in 1920, the Imperial Oil Company brought in a well estimated at from 1,500 to 2,000 barrels, at a depth of about 800 feet, within 45 miles of Fort Norman.

1921 OPERATIONS

In 1921 the first attempt on a large scale to develop the resources of the Mackenzie River oil field will be made. The Mackenzie River Oil Limited has acquired leases, under the old regulations, of 3,840 acres, or 6 square miles, in this rich field. With the opening of navigation it is intended to commence extensive drilling operations on this property. An expedition will also be fitted out for the purpose of securing additional oil leases from the Government.

ORGANIZATION AND EQUIPMENT

For the drilling operations, three complete rigs have been ordered, and should be on the ground about July 1st. Experienced drillers have been engagd to work under the direction of Mr. Frank H. Stover, one of Canada's best-known oil-drilling experts. From the locations already in evidence, and as oil is found at a depth of 800-1,000 feet, it is expected that each crew will bring in several wells during the season.

The exploration work will be personally directed by a man who knows the North Country thoroughly — Mr. Frank E. Davison — assisted by a competent geologist and engineer. Mr. Davison first went over this ground in 1898, and for over twenty years has been engaged in work in the Yukon and Alaska. In view of the probable wealth of the country and the experience of the men engaged, the expedition should acquire many more acres of valuable oil and mineral lands in 1921. Twenty or more trained men have been engaged for this development work by the Mackenzie River Oil Limited.

TRANSPORTATION AND SUPPLIES

The Company has made full provision for the carrying in of rigs and supplies. A transportation company operating boats on the waterways, and trucks, tractors and motor cars at the portage, will take in all the freight required for this Company's operations.

PEACE RIVER OIL HOLDINGS

Mackenzie River Oil Limited, in addition to the 3,840 acres at Fort Norman, have 10,000 acres of Oil leases in the Peace River District. Geologists claim that oil will be found at from 1,800 to 2,500 feet in these fields, so that some of the wells should soon reach the oil strata. In this case the Company's holdings will become extremely valuable.

OFFER

To finance the purchase of drilling rigs, supplies, cost of expedition and development work, the Company now offers the first One Hundred Thousand Treasury Shares at $5.00 per share (par value $10.00 per share, fully paid and non-assessable) and not subject to call. The entire proceeds of the sale of stock are to be used only in the development and exploration work outlined above.

These shares offer a speculation in oil that must appeal to business men.

It is a venture in what is known to be in a most promising field.

It is being supported by well-known men of means and business experience, who will carry on the Company's operations in a good business way.

This is a Canadian Company, the management and organization is sound. The work will be carried on by men who know oil drilling and know the country.

PROSPECTUS

A complete prospectus and further information will be mailed from the Head Office of the Company on request.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, May 18 (Canadian Press).—Rails were the central features at the broad opening of to-day's stock market, advancing one to three points within the first fifteen minutes as a result of the proposed cut in wages announced by the United States Railroad Labour Board. Low grades, as well as investment shares, joined in the advance, but conspicuous strength was shown by Chicago and North-Western, Northern Pacific, New York Central, Reading, Baltimore and Ohio, Kansas City Southern, and St. Paul Preferred.

Coppers and tobaccos continued to strengthen, but oils were irregular on the further heaviness of Royal Dutch, and steels reflected the uncertainty in connection with to-day's dividend action on Republic Irons.

Additions to the early rise among rails included Atchison, Great Northern, Canadian Pacific, Illinois Central and various secondary or re-organized issues. That division almost as a whole retained or extended its gains during the forenoon. In almost every other quarter of the list, the movement became more reactionary. Independent steels, railway equipments, some of the motors, and Mexican and European oils were lower by one to two points with gas shares. General Asphalt, United States' Realty and the obscure Tobaccos were inclined to harden, but attracted little interest. Call money opened at seven per cent. and exchange on London was decidedly firm.

Shippings, Oilse and several of the Steels and Equipments featured the active and stronger stocks of the mid-session. The movement was of brief duration, however, the entire list falling back when Mexican and European Oils were subjected to increased selling pressure.

Canadian Pacific and cheaper rails were in the process of further accumulation during the last hour, but Motors and Allied issues showed further heaviness. The losing was irregular.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, May 18.— (Canadian Press.)—Sterling steady, demand 3.99 3-4; Canadian dollars 10 1-4 per cent. discount.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, May 18.— (Canadian Press.)— Bullish crop reports from the south-west turned the wheat market upward to-day after a setback at the opening. Early declines were ascribed to forecasts of reduced wages for railroad employes. The expected wage cut was looked upon as indicative of lower costs in all lines, but offerings of wheat were readily absorbed and the market quickly rallied. Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to 1c. lower were followed by moderate gains all around.

Corn was steadied by the bulge in wheat. After opening 1-8 to 1-2 lower the market scored a slight advance in some cases.

Oats parallelled the action of corn, starting unchanged to 1-4 lower and sagged somewhat further but then became firmer. Provisions were inclied to harden somewhat.

Considerable buying of May wheat here for seaboard account was regarded as hedging against sales for export. It was said also that a good deal of Canadian wheat has been sold of late, but none reported. The close was strong, May 1.48 1-2 to 1.48 3-4 and July 1.18 1-4 to 118 1-2.

Shipping demand for corn was active with country offerings somewhat larger, but mainly above the market. Prices, July 61 5-8 to 61 5-8 to 3-4.

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, May 18 (Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts medium and trade was brisk. Quotations:

Heavy beef steers, $9.50 to $10.g5; butcher steers choice, $9.00 to $10.00; butcher cows, medium, $5.00 to $7.50; calves, $10.00 to $12.00; lambs, $12.00 to $13.50; hogs, fed and watered, selects, $10.00.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, May 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Five issues showed changes of some importance in the trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Maple Leaf and Brazilian recording substantial advances, while Bell Telephone, Canada Steamships Preferred and Riordan weakened considerably. After backing and filling for several days around 30 1-2, Brazilian was bid up briskly this morning the close coming at 31 1-2, a gain of 1 1-4 points. Transactions are heavy. Maple Leaf Milling gained 2 at 132. Canada Steamships Preferred weakened after its recent advance, selling off 2 1-4 to 54. Bell Telephone lost 1 1-2 at 103 and Riordan 1 1-4 at 22 3-4.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, May 18.— (Canadian Press.)—At the close of the local Stock Exchange most of the issues reigstered declines. Abitibi Paper closed fractionally stronger at 3 71-2. Atlantic Sugar was down an eighth of a point to 31 3-8. Brazilian lost a quarter to 30 1-4, while Brompton went down three-quarters before closing at 37. Laurentide closed last night at 93 and closed for the morning session to-day at 92 1-2. National Breweries weakened three-quarters to 55 3-4 and Riordan was weaker by 1-2 at 23.

WELCOME RELIEF FROM ECZEMA

Complete Treatment That Gives Gratifying Results

WARREN, ONT.

"I had an attack of Weeping Eczema so bad that my clothes would be wet through at times.

For four months, I suffered terribly, I could get no relief until I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and "Soothe-Salva".

Altogether, I have used three boxes of "Soothe-Salva" and two of "Fruit-a-tives", and am entirely well." G. W. HALL.

Both these favorite remedies are sold by dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"Fruit-a-tives" is also put up in a trial size which sells for 25c.

"SHOOT TO KILL."

These Orders Go Out to U. S. Postal Employes.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—"Shoot to kill!" These are the orders which, with 20,000 automatic pistols and thousands of riot shot-guns, have gone out to local employes throughout the United States by order of Postmaster-General Hays.

"We simply have to go back to the old Wells-Fargo days and put an end to mail robberies by the drastic methods then in vogue," the Postmaster-General asserted. Referring to the fact that in the past few months four mail employes have been murdered and 33 major robberies have taken place with a known loss of $6,204,000, Mr. Hays declared that half-way measures will not cope with the situation.

But while postal employes by the new order are instructed to take no chances in protecting their lives and the United States mail, capturing bandits will be more profitable. An additional order of the Postmaster-General provides a reward of $5,000 to any Post Office employe, civil officer or citizen who delivers a mail robber into custody.

An interesting criminal phenomenon reported by Post Office Inspectors in connection with the recent robberies is the large number of women involved. Within the last three months a score have been implicated, it was stated.

HAD BAD COUGH FOR THREE YEARS

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything that you have done to get rid of it, is the kind that is dangerous.

The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health.

There is no remedy that will relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go—like Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It has a healing and soothing action on the air pasasges and at the same time acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory orgns, destroying the germs tht produce serious lung complictions.

Mrs. John Miller, Minburn, Alta., writes: "I had a very bad cough for three years. I went to several doctors and tried different cough medicines, but nothing seemed to help me. One day a friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and after using several bottles I became completely relieved. I always keep a bottle in the house and also recommend it to others.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been universally used for over 30 years and so great has been its success, it is only natural that a great many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; 3 pine trees the trade mark; price 35c and 60c a bottle; manufactured only by the T. Milburn Company, Limited; Toronto, Ont.

WHY SUGAR "STAYS UP"

Refiners Have to Use up Expensive Raw Material.

TORONTO, May 17. — Why is granulated sugar so dear in Toronto?

This question was again asked of wholesalers and refiners this morning, when The Telegram pointed out that the best granulated was being sold in New York over the counter for 6 1-2 cents a pound, and in Detroit a nickle a pound for sugar was the prevailing price.

As usual, the wholesalers blamed the present high prices of sugar on the refiners. Wholesalers generally are selling sugar below the list price of $10.78 per cwt., at around 10 cents a pound by the hundred weight.

"The refiners are holding up the price now," said a wholesaler to-day, "because of the high priced raws they have on hand yet. If they were in the market to-day, the raws would be replaced very much cheaper, and they could lower their price to the wholesalers, and the wholesalers could sell sugar nearer the New York price."

"Who gets the $3.50 difference per hundred weight just as it stands to-day?" The Telegram asked H. P. Eckardt.

"The Government gets $2.40 cents, the exchange is 75 cents, and there is the anti-dumping clause and the freight, so you see that we are not so much dearer than the New York people," he contended.

A refiner's broker predicted that the price could not remain up at the 10 cent figure much longer.

AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION DOUBLES MEMBERSHIP IN SEVERAL WEEKS

ENROLMENT SHOWS 145 AND 200 MARK IS SET FOR THE NEXT MEETING—PERMANENT MARKERS RECOMMENDED TO THE GOVERNMENT.

The rejuvenation that has taken place in the Peterborough Automobile Association was amply evidenced at the meeting of that body held in the Board of Trade Rooms last night. Monthly meetings fell into the discard of late years, semi-monthly meetings, if thought of, were passed up as impossible, and to hold weekly meetings, as now planned, was beyond the modest dreams of any of the members.

There were several important matters discussed at the meeting, and the interest shown in the association by the men present speaks well for the rivived interest in the body from the membership as a whole. By a united effort the membership has been doubled in several weeks. A month ago there were but 71 members—to-day there are 145, and the members last night set their hearts to raising this to 200 before the next meeting, 25th May.

Arrange for Picnic.

President Robert Cotton had the chair last night. It was decided to hold a picnic at Chemong Park at a date next month when convenient for the Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Highways, to address the association, and to hold a dance in the evening.

Arrangements were made to supply cars to the Baptist Young People's and to the Knights of Columbus' Conventions to be held in this city soon, to show the delegates about the city, and those at the meeting offered their co-operation to get the requisite automobiles.

A committee, composed of the president, the secretary, and Ald. R. N. Jones was appointed to study the local traffic regulations and make any desired recommendations to the association. This action was taken on the suggestion that the regulation prohibiting turning a vehicle between street intersections accentuated traffic congestion at the intersections. By what means the acute turn blocked by the street car tracks at the north-west corner of George and Charlotte Streets making traffic congestion inevitable, might be eliminated, was discussed, and finally turned over to the City Planning Committee of the Chamber of Commerce to deal with.

Recommend Marker.

The association will recommend to the Department of Public Highways that automobile markers, such as are in use in British Columbia, be adopted in Ontario. A lucid diagram prepared by the secretary, showing the advantage of this type of marker over the present style, made an explanation hardly necessary. The markers are permanent affairs that remain, unless renewed, with the car from the factory to the dump heap. As the same number accompanies the car year after year it is believed that the registration of the cars by the Government will be easier, and automobile thefts will be considerably mitigated. The marker is so arranged that each year a small section replacing the present cumbersome marker is issued, and can be slipped in and bolted in place. The small sections with the year and the province on them will not cost the province so much to manufacture, while they will receive the same revenue from them, and more money should be available for highway improvement.

The association did not say so much last night, but this was evidently the channel their thoughts took when, on the motion of J. J. Duffus, seconded by D. Reid Wren, the province was urged to adopt markers of that type.

CALGARY INSURES ITS 600 EMPLOYEES

With Heaviest Policy Ever Written in Western Canada

CALGARY, Alta., May 17.—(Canadian Press)—The largest insurance policy ever written in Western Canada making Calgary the first city west of Ontario to make up the group insurance for its employes was signed by Mayor Adams and a Canadian insurance company recently, putting into effect an insurance policy involving 600 persons and a yearly premium of $12,000.

The policies are divided into three classes, varying in amount from $1,000 to $4,000. The amount to be paid to the heirs of regular employes at death is $1,500; to the heirs of executives and departmental heads, $3,000; and to head officials' heirs, $4,000. The rates to be paid by these three classes are: regular employes, $1 a month; executives and departmental heads, $2.50 a month; and head officials $2.55 a month.

FORMER PETERBORO BOY TIES FOR SCHOLARSHIP

Son of E. C. Srigley of Windsor Wins Honours at Queen's.

WINDSOR, May 18.—Robert Srigley, who recently returned from attending his first year in the practical science department of Queen's University, Kingston, to spend his holidays at the home of his father, E. C. Srigley, commercial master of the Windsor Collegiate, has been notified that he has tied with another student for the Dupuis scholarship in mathematics.

As he is only 17 years old and the youngest of 150 students, his success is regarded as remarkable. He was graduated from the Windsor Collegiate last summer and his excellent showing is regarded as reflecting great credit on his training here under George Campbell, B.A., head of the mathematical department, and P. M. Thompson, B. A., head of the science department.

Mr. Srigley is still awaiting for complete reports of the examination results.

E. C. Srigley was commercial master at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute before going to Windsor.

MIGRATING BIRDS KILLED PASSING OVER NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 18.—Some time during Friday night a great flock of singing birds, journeying up from the South, lost their way in the fog and rain and crashed into the Metropolitan tower. Passersby early yesterday found 300 of them dead on the pavements of Twenty-third street and Madison avenue and in Madison Square Park. All yesterday afternoon the survivors, several hundred in number, and of many varieties, rested in the park and searched for food.

Observers who have been watching bird migrations through the city for many years said that they could not remember a similar occurrence. There are believed to have been more than 20 varieties. Ordinary migratory units seldom contain more than two or three hundred birds. This one was large because the migration this spring has been slow, due to the many rains and intermittent cold.

Clerks who came to work in the offices of the Metropolitan Life Building were surprised to find Maryland yellow throats and black throated blue warblers fluttering through the corridors. A postman in the Madison Square branch station found a yellow throat perched before the stamp window and took the bird out to the park, where he set it free.

In the afternoon, when the sun came out, bench warmers in the park listened to the tuning up of catbirds, house wrens, myrtle warblers and white throated sparrows.

Some of the birds are thought to have come from as far south as Central America, the rest from the Southern States. They were very near the end of their journey, as most of the varieties are those found close to New York. Many will probably build their rests in Bronx Park.

The birds found worms and bugs in the park yesterday, and several bird lovers brought bread crumbs and scattered them.

Besides the varieties mentioned, the birds included towhees, ovenbirds, veeries, chestnut sided warblers, brown thrashers, swamp sparrows, field sparrows, nut-thatches, chipping sparrows, cave backed thrushes, Lincoln sparrows, magnolia warblers, redstarts and white crowned sparrows, a rare variety.

The Needless Misery That Women Bear

WHEN the household cares and the worries of everyday life have dragged you down, made you unhappy, and there is nothing in life but headache, backache and worry, turn to the right prescription, one gotten up by Doctor Pierce over fifty years ago.

AN OLD COUNTRY VISITOR TO CITY

MR. GEORGE EPHGRAVE TALKS ENTERTAININGLY OF OLD LAND CONDITIONS.

Mr. George Ephgrave, who is a visitor here from Waltham Abbey, in England, at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. F. W. Miller, is very much impressed with the large spaces of our wide Dominion. This is his first ocean trip, in fact, the first trip of any importance he has ever made in his life, and, like many other Old World visitors to our shores, he was supplied with names of people to be visited in various parts of Canada by their friends in England, who forget the wide stretches of our far-flung land. Mr. Ephgrave came over on the Empress of Britain, his journey from Euston Station to Montreal taking a little less than a week to make. Three enormous icebergs were sighted on the voyage, but were successfully avoided, this boat being a little more lucky in this respect than the Scandinavian, which was held up in the ice fields, and arrived in the Gulf of St. Lawrence after the Empress of Britain.

The Unemployed.

Mr. Ephgrave reports the estimated number of unemployed at present in Great Britain as being about 1,750,000. The unemployment fund takes care of a great many of these, but offers no relief whatever to the striking workmen or their families. The treasuries of the different unions are practically exhausted, this being particularly true in the case of the striking miners, who, in his opinion, will be forced to come to terms within a short time.

With regard to housing facilities, the situation is very acute. In the small town of Waltham Abbey, with 7,000 inhabitants, the municipal authorities are erecting 24 houses, with an immediate prospect of being compelled to tear down a corresponding number of dwellings which are unfit for use thereby cancelling the benefits derived from the building programme, and like conditions prevail throughout the whole of England. The union of bricklayers, which is very powerful, refuses absolutely to help out the situation, as suggested, by taking in returned men who have had a vocational training in the work and who are willing to pitch in and do their best to relieve the congestion. The old system of a three-year apprenticeship is rigidly adhered to, and, as the bricklayers are very much in demand and will allow no increase in their ranks except on the old conditions, it is impossible to proceed with a building programme with any degree of speed. The union bases its attitude on the experience of the Engineers' Institute, which opened its doors to all comers in war time and now find its ranks glutted with inexperienced workers.

WILL DISCUSS THE WATERWAY SCHEME

MAJOR ALEX. LEWIS THE SPEAKER FOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETING.

At the monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday night the special address will be given by Major Alex. Lewis, Secretary-Treasurer of the Deep Waterways and Power Association. He will speak on the proposed scheme of deepening the St. Lawrence River, a project of extraordinary interest to Eastern Ontario especially. The slogan of the association is, "Every lake port an ocean port." The hitherto impassable rapids on the St. Lawrence, between Lake Ontario and Montreal, would no longer prevent ocean-going liners from proceeding overseas from the head of the Great Lakes. A direct all-water route would be opened up between our lake ports and the Atlantic. But the chief advantage in Eastern Ontario would be the amount of hydraulic power that would be made available. The plans of the Canadian Government engineers call for the development of approximately 4,200,000 horse power, and of this, Canada,s portion would be 3,200,000 horse power. The acquisition of this electric energy would give to Eastern Ontario and Quebec industries an impetus similar to that given those of Western Ontario by the development of power at Niagara Falls. Such a scheme will have the hearty endorsation of Chambers of Commerce throughout this entire district.

An invitation has been extended to the members of the County Council to be present at Thursday night's meeting. The co-operation and interest of the rural sections of the county is necessary if the Chamber of Commerce is to fully realize the objects for which it was organized.

Several important matters are to be discussed at the meeting, and a large attendance is assured.

OFF TO A GOOD START

BOTNICK'S PRE-HOLIDAY SALE MAKING PEOPLE OPEN THEIR PURSES.

A rousing May sale that will continue up to the holiday next week, got off to a good start this morning at the store of Botnick Bros., 432 George Street. To prove that this hustling firm is not asleep on their counters, the store has put on a lively pace for four days' lively selling before the 24th of May. The whole store has been subjected to wholesale reductions. All the newest summer dry goods, ready-to-wear garments, boots and shoes, and other lines have lost their old price marks of the past few years, and are slashed down to what the street calls "hard pan." It's the ladies' May shopping event. The store is blossoming with bargains. Each day of the sale promises the greatest of values, and shoppers will likely call early for the extra "Morning Hour" specials, which are most enticing, and are promised more than they expected. Save the list of price offerings in Tuesday's Examiner. Watch the paper for further attractions.

DISARMS AND SENDS HOME FIFTEEN POLISH SOLDIERS SINGLE-HANDED

BEUTHEN, Silesia, May 18 (Canadian Press).—Colonel Cockerill, British Control Officer, lectured, disarmed, and sent home fifteen Polish insurgents who halted him at three in the morning, and attempted to examine his papers and give him orders.

The Colonel jumped out of his automobile and shouted, "What are you doing out at this time with guns? Give me your names."

The insuregnts, who were mostly youngsters, were nonplussed.

The leader finally handed over his rifle, and the Colonel boxed his ears. He then made the others give up their guns, and advised them all to go home.

Loading their fifteen rifles into the machine, he proceeded to the British Headquarters.

The Colonel's chauffeur, a Prussian soldier, said afterwards: "I have been through four years of war, but that was the nerviest thing I ever saw."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

PRESBYTERIANS AND CHURCH UNION

To the Editor of the Examiner,
Peterborough, Ontario.

Sir,—The Presbyterian Witness, the official weekly organ of The Presbyterian Church in Canada, in its issue of May the thirteenth, makes editorial reference to "the situation regarding Union" which is so incomplete as to be misleading. Any adequate statement of the position that confront the Assembly in June next should include at least the following facts.

The Assembly (St. John) of 1904 at the request of the Methodist Church, appointed a committee on Union.

The Assembly (Kingston) of 1905 in adopting the report of the Union Committee, gave forth to the church as a condition of Union, that it "must carry the consent of the entire membership."

The Assembly (Ottawa) of 1911, asked a vote of the people. This vote gave one hundred and thirteen thousand for union and more than fifty thousand against Union, in a total membership of practically three hundred thousand.

The Assembly (Edmonton,) of 1912. "In view of the extent of the minority," halted the movement, but expressed the hope of "practically unanimous action * * * * within a reasonable time."

The Assembly (Kingston) of 1915, after a pause of three years, asked the people for a second vote. This vote gave approximately one hundred and thirteen thousand for Union and seventy three thousand against Union, in a total membership of three hundred and thirty eight thousand. In the three years the membership had increased about forty thousand, the votes against Union had increased twenty three thousand, the votes for Union only six hundred.

The Assembly (Winnipeg) of 1916, ignoring the increased opposition of the people, and disregarding the repeated assurances by the General Assembly as to necessary unanimity resolved to proceed to Union.

The Assembly (Montreal) of 1917, an account of the opposition, unanimously resolved:— "That the Assembly express its sincere sympathy with the desire conveyed in many of the overtures to avoid disunion among the membership of our own Church.

That inasmuch as the resolution of last Assembly sets forth that further action will not be taken until the second Assembly after the close of the war, to secure peace in the meantime, the Assembly urges that controversy on the matter of organic union be dropped by all parties, that no attempt be made at the present time to set forth in detail the action appropriate to a future period, but that the church patiently await the new light which it may receive by Divine guidance through the growing experience of the people and the lessons of the war."

The assembly (Hamilton) of 1010, resolving upon a Forward Movement, set before the Church two financial objectives—

(1) The doubling of the Church's Budget for maintenance in the next five years; and

(a) A special Peace Thank-offering * * * * as an equipment and extension fund.

Comment on this narrative is unnecessary.

Yours sincerely,
DANIEL J. FRASER,
Montreal, May 17, 1921.

MONSIGNOR D. J. CASEE,
Late Parish Priest of Lindsay and former rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, who died suddenly on Saturday afternoon, and was buried this morning.

ONTARIO REMAINS WET UNTIL JULY

OFFICIAL RETURNS HAVE NOT ALL BEEN RECEIVED.

OTTAWA, May 17.—It is scarcely possible that Ontario will go bone dry in accordance with the plebiscite taken on April 18th, until the early part of July. May 4 was set a the date for the official count, and May 11th as the date on which the returns were to be made to the chief electoral officer of Canada. While the returns have been coming in more rapidly than they did in the case of the three western provinces May 11th has passed and there are still a number of points which have not been heard from officially. In the case of the western provinces two months elapsed between the taking of the vote and the receipt by the electoral officer of the complete returns. Thereafter thirty days lapsed between the issuance of the proclamation and the going into effect of the bone dry provisions. It is not anticipated that the Ontario returns will be so long in coming in; nevertheless the 16th of the month has arrived (the date on which the government, had the returns been complete on the day set, intended to issue its proclamation), and a number of places are still to be heard from. A little time must be allowed for checking up, and it is scarcely possible that the proclamation can issue much before the end of the present month.

In the meantime much interest centres round the possible finding of the Supreme Court of Canada in the appeal now pending from the finding of the Alberta courts regarding the validity of the plebiscite taken in that province.

Should the majority finding of the Alberta court be overthrown by the supreme court there then the results in Nova Scotia, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta will go for naught and the whole thing will have to be done over again.

LIST OF EDISON SENDS HIM CRAZY.

Man gets 100 Answers and has 41 Yet to Work Out.

HOLYOKE, MASS, May 17. — Thomas Edison may have thought that his questionnaire written for college men was simple enough but the local police are inclined to disagree with him. Early yesterday morning a young man whose name is not told appealed to the police for protection.

He said that he had a book valued at $1,000,000 in which he had written the answers to Edison's queries and that several men were trying to steal it from him.

The young man declared that he had memorized the answers to 100 questions and was working on the other 41. The police believe that he has become temporarily demented as a result of studying the Edison list.

CATTLE COMPANY FINANCED BY U. S.

GUATEMALA, April 25.— (Associated Press, by Mail).—A cattle company financed by United States investors, is negotiating with the Guatemalan government for the purchase of 17,000 acres of coast land three miles from Puerto Barrios, on the East coast of Guatemala. The land is covered with dense tropical forest.

It is the purpose of the company to first exploit the forest for its valuable timber, chiefly mahogany, after which the land will be cleared for the purpose of raising cattle.

Cattle raising is said to be the most profitable investment that can be made in this country. Formerly cattle was imported here from Honduras and Mexico, but now trainloads of cattle are being shipped from the ranches along the southern coast into Mexico daily and sold at good rices. Some of the newspapers urge the raising of more cattle, pointing out that Guatemala not only has the land adaptable for that purpose but has a stable government and an industrious population not given to revolution and strife, notwithstanding the reports frequently circulated to the contrary.

President Herrera, who is an agriculturist himself, is devoting his efforts to encourage the development of the agricultural resources of the country, which enjoys peae and tranquility.

THE C.G.E. QUALIFY FOR GORDON CUP FINALS

ELECTRICIANS DEFEAT COMRADES BY 2 GOALS TO 1 IN SEMI-FINAL FIXTURE---SCORED TWICE IN FIRST TWENTY MINUTES.

It is C. G. E. or Caledonians for the Gordon Cup and the right to represent Peterboro in the Ontario Football Association Series.

The Canadian General team made sure of a place in the finals last night by defeating Comrades at the 'oval by 2 to 1 in semi-final game. The winners ran in their two goals in the first twenty minutes and were the better team beyond all argument although the Comrades must be given credit for sticking to their guns and trying until the final whistle. The C.G.E. defence were steadier and more reliable than that of the losers, and the attacking division had a snap and system to their raids that were lacking in the work of the Comrade forwards. Neither side was quite at full strength for Manders was an absentee from the C.G.E. line up while the Comrades were without Jackson.

Both teams suffered from casualties. Joliffe, the centre half for the Comrades, had to retire at half time with an injured knee, and Williamson, inside left for the Electricians, wrenched his shoulder with seven or eight minutes to go, and had to drop out.

Comrades won the toss and consequently had the advantage of a fairly strong breeze in the first half. In addition the C.G.E. were a man short when the game got under way, Gash coming on the field five minutes after the kick-off. But the advantage in numbers at the beginning ,and the help of the wind behind them, failed to benefit the Comrades. C.G.E. took command of the play from the kick-off and put on the pressure early. Parkins forced a corner in the first few minutes, but nothing came of it. Then "Ted" Bartley got an opening only to shoot past. Comrades were rarely dangerous at this stage although Firth and McDougall combined for one raid that gave the latter his only real chance of the night to add to his scoring record. His low shot was a foot outside the uprights. Dunkley tried a long range shot a few minutes after but Griffin easily saved, and the play was transferred to Comrades' territory.

Parkins opened the scoring when he ripped in a beauty on a pass from Williamson and the success seemed to impart fresh vim to the ultimate winners. They were all over Comrades in the next few minutes. Several dangerous attacks went wrong but the Electricians were not to be denied and after some neat passing by Hotston and Parkins the ball was transferred to Wiliamson, whose quick drive tore through Post's hands and bulged the net. C. G. E. came right back, and lost an almost certain goal when Parkins and Hotston over ran the ball with the defence beaten. Play slowed up after this attack and for the balance of the half it was featureless football.

Although they were without Joliffe in the last half, Comrades never lost heart and gave a much better account of themselves. They had their share of the attacking but the C. G. E. backs, Mason and McDonald, were very cool and steady, and gave a good exhibition of back-field play in this period. Comrades finally scored, however, and a most unusual counter it was. McDougall dropped a long easy shot in front of Griffin and the C. G. E. goalie, instead of playing safe, decided to boot the leather out of the danger zone. Instead he kicked it straight at Dunkley, who was racing in on the goal, and the ball rebounded from the head of the Comrade player into the net before Griffin realized what had happened:

This bit of good fortune acted as a spur on the Comrades, and for the next few minutes they attacked vigorously, forcing several corners. The C.G.E. defence refused to be flurried however and they had little difficulty in staving off the attacks, and holding their lead until Referee Clark's whistle signalized the passing of the Comrades from the Gordon Cup series.

The teams and officials:

C. G. E. —

Comrades—

Referee, J. Clarke.

Linesmen—A. McKinley, George Coleman.

NOTES OF THE GAME

Comrades introduced a new player in Firth who hails from Oshawa. He was at outside left last night.

Hopkins, outside right for the Comrades, was the youngest and lightest player on the field. But the youngster has a nice turn of speed.

"Wag" Hotston worked hard for a counter but his marksmanship was not at the best.

It begins to look as if corner-kicking is a lost art with most of the local teams. Most of the "corners" are being wasted by poor centering.

Charley Griffin has had few harder shots driven at him this season and the one he bounced at himself off Maurice Dunkley's head last night.

Owing to the similarity in the uniforms of the C. G. E. and Comrades the former wore the Caleys' jerseys last night. And Alex. Dick will tell you they could not lose wearing the blue of the Caledonians.

A record crowd will see the Caleys and the C. G. E. play the finals for the Gordon Cup at the Nicholls oval on the afternoon of May 24th. It is the piece de resistance of the soccer season and with the teams at full strength should be a battle royal.

In the Gordon Cup series the C.G.E. have eliminated the Canadian Woollens and the Comrades, the latter having disposed of the DeLaval outfit while the Caledonians have taken care of the G. W. V. A. eleven. To get to the finals, the Electricians have played four games, having to meet the Woollens three times before a decision was reached, while the Caledonians' path to the final battle was much easier, one victory and a bye doing the trick.

In Parkins the Canadian General have a most promising centre forward. He is young, fast and aggressive and any of the goalies will tell you that he packs a wicked shot.

FINDS THAT FOOTBALL IS FLOURISHING IN PETERBORO

SECRETARY OF THE ONTARIO FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION ATTENDS REGULAR MEETING OF LOCAL ASSOCIATION.

Peterboro and District Football Association held their regular meeting in the G. W. V. A. Hall on Monday evening, with every member of the executive present. Business of importance was quickly disposed of and an interesting address and debate followed on matters re football organization and management.

The executive had a distinguished authority visiting them in the person of Mr. R. W. Muir, secretary of the Ontario Football Association. His presence made it possible for the executive to get a thorough understanding of its work and powers, and they are now able to go ahead on constitutional lines.

Several applications are coming in from outside places for membership and the Peterboro and District Football Association and a bright future awaits the new body. Peterboro hopes to do credit to itself on the football field with the successful team of Tuesday next, May 24th. The Gordon Cup winners can be depended upon to give a good account of themselves, no matter who they are called upon to meet in the Ontario Cup finals, either in Peterboro or any other place in Ontario.

Mr. Muir left the city well satisfied with the work of the executive, and hoped at some future date to visit here again and witness a game, also give any assistance which may be required in the carrying out of its progressive policy.

JUNIOR LACROSSE TEAM IS SURE FOR PETERBORO

An enthusiastic junior lacrosse meeting was held after the junior lacrosse practice last night in the Y. M.C.A. at 8 o'clock. Harry Tudhope, convenor for the district, was made chairman for the evening. It was decided that a junior lacrosse team be entered for this district. The following officers were elected:

Patrons—F. D. Kerr, G. W. Hatton; G. W. Green, H. R. H. Kenner.

Hon. President—Dr. Sutton.

President—Father Phelan.

Secretary-Treasurer — Herbert Cowan.

Executive Committee— L. Brown, S. Rosenfield, B. O'Connell, L. LeBarr, A. Johnston.

Manager—J. Sutherland.

Junior lacrosse practice will be held every Tuesday and Thursday at 6.30 in front of the armouries.

A FORMER LOCAL PLAYER WITH THE DETROIT TIGERS

Peterboro fans may not know that included in the roster of Ty Cobb's fast-going Detroit Tigers, is a player who in the days when this city boasted of a franchise in the Canadian League, cavorted around second base at Riverside Park for some time. The player in question is Joe Sargent, who was a member of the Peterboro team in the season of 1913. He was a youngster of 18 then, and his fielding was awkward but he showed a promise of developing into a hitter of value. Manager Davey Rowan finally decided that the errors he was making in the field could not be overcome by his prowess with the stick, and he was released. Now he is utility infielder for the Tigers after several successful seasons in the International. He subs for Bush at short stop and for Jones at third for the Ty Cobbers, and has developed into a classy fielder, while he still has the punch with the willow. It is a strange twist of fate that the only Peerboro player to graduate into the big show was one who could not hold a berth with the Rowan crew.

SPORT COMMENT

The most ambitious experiment of the idea of handicapping harness horses by weight, as the runners are handicapped, instead of by record, will be tried out at the Columbus Grand Circuit meeting in September. The association there has hung up a $10,000 purse with a $500.00 silver cup as a trophy for the winner for trotters of all classes; none barred, with very liberal conditions of entrance.

Handicaps on a big scale for the trotters and pacers were staged at Readville for several seasons, starting with the $50,000 American Trotting Derby in 1908, but in those races the handicapping was by distance, the Derby distance varying in the various events from one and a quarter to one and a half miles. While these events attracted a lot of attention at the time, the system did not make much of a hit with the harness horsemen, who are hard to wean away from the old record system of handicapping.

BASEBALL

Oshawa has three pitchers this year, and one of them a side-wheeler. They will need them all.—Lindsay Post.

Coombs has been selected as manager of the Greybirds and Jack Stark as captain. The choice could not be improved on. They are, respectively, the best first and third basemen in the Central League, barring none.—Lindsay Post.

A very interesting game took place last evening at the King Edward school grounds, the Brownton All-Stars defeating the South End Wild Cats 12-7.

Batteries — All Stars, Rogers, Charlebois and Connors. South End Wildcats, Batley, Rye, Moore and Dummit.

ROAD RACE DRAWS MANY ENTRANTS

Times-Journal Ten Mile Race Will Be Held as Usual, May 24.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., May 18. —Amateur distance runners representing many different cities both east and west of Lake Superior have filed their entrance papers to participtte in the annual Times-Journal road race to be held in this city on May 24, and inquiries regarding the conditions of the race are coming in daily.

The race will be run over the usual ten mile course and is open to all amateurs in good standing. Since 1910 when the race was made annnual event, it has been recognized as one of the main early season sporting events of Canada, and from the interest which is being shown this seson, the year's race will be one of the most successful from the point of view of a large field of entries.

Last year, the race was run as an Olympic semi-final and was won by E. A. Lwrence, the well known distance runner of Montreal. His time for the course was 56.49, almost two minutes slower than the record for the course made by Joe Kepper, of Winnipeg, in 1911 when he completed the circuit in 54.50. Besides Lawrence and Kepper, race winners in different years have been J. E. Edwards, of Port Arthur, Alfred Cole of Port Arthur and Ellard S. White, of Schreiber.

FLOATING MINES USED AS SOUP POTS

TERIOKI, Finland, May 18.—A new used for de-charged floating mines has been discovered by the Kronstadt refugees who are being fed by the Red Cross here. Mines were brought in from Gulf of Finland, the charges removed, their fittings taken out and the mines converted into soup pots.

SAYS OSHAWA HAS IMPORTED PLAYERS

LACROSSE FAN WRITES IN DEFENCE OF LOCAL TEAM.

To Sporting Editor:

Dear Sir,—In regard to last Saturday's lacrosse match in Oshawa, allow me to say that Peterborough has no need to be discouraged on their defeat, as the team that left here was mostly juniors, and they deserve great credit for the way they played; whereas the Oshawa team is composed of Bracebridge, Toronto, Midland and other imported players, who did not only use thir lacrosse experience, but also their brutality, to the youngsters who went down. Now, if Peterborough would take and secure positions for players it would be an easy matter to have a championship team, but the Peterborough club doesn't want to import players as they have enough young material to make a good, fast lacrosse team. All that is needed is for employers to be favorable and let the player off when asked by the manager of the club. This was the whole fault on Saturday why Peterborough could not send down a winning team to Oshawa. Toronto papers report that the visitors had no show on the field. Allow me to say Peterborough played better lacrosse and made a nicer combination game than the home team. All that was against the visiting team was the weight, which counted for Oshawa's win and they certainly used it.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor.

Yours truly,

LACROSSE FAN.

AT THE THEATERS

AT THE ALLEN.

NOTICE.

Among the coming attractions at the Allen Theatre is "The Scoffer," which seems to bid fair in arousing more than the usual interest among local devotees to the cinema art. This is an Allan Dwan production, made by the Mayflower Company and released through the Associated First National and it is based on the theory that even a religious man's faith in the Supreme Being can be shaken by adverse circumstances. It is said a powerful dramatic situation is created through bringing to a climax such a man's attempts to discredit the Higher Power in a comparision with man's might. This picture is booked to open its engagement at the Allen Theatre on Thursday.

AT THE CAPITOL.

CAPITOL PRESS COMMENT.

Capitol Theatre offers a remarkable boy wonder to-morrow night, wee Sandy MacPherson, only 8 years of age, in songs, dances and Scotch stories, and a great picture programme.

District Manager Green of the Paramount Company is in the city to-day and states that a few first-class vaudeville acts will be presented at the Capitol in the next few weeks in connection with their high-class picture programmes. To-morrow night and for the balance of this week, an extra added attraction will be Wee Sandy MacPherson, the 8-year old wonder boy from Scotland, who sings, dances and gives a remarkable impersonation of the great Scotch comedian, Harry Lauder. This wee laddie has been over the entire Pantages vaudeville circuit as the big special hit with Kincaid's Scotch Review.

A big special picture programme, with the famous funny man, Fatty Arbuckle, in a big 6-reel feature production entitled 'The Life of the Party,' and many other good short reel subjects.

AT THE REGENT.

BEST PICTURE HERE IN "LAST OF THE MOHICANS"

"Never has such a picture been booked at the Regent Theatre," was the verdict of the management of that popular house after they had seen Maurice Tourneur's picturization of "The Last of the Mohicans," by J. Fenimore Cooper, which started here Monday.

"There is everything for everybody," he continues "and not a member of the family can miss it, because it pleases the old folks by bringing happy remembrances of other days; for the middle aged—the fathers and mothers of to-day — the appeal is strong because of the personal entertainment element with the value of the picture solely as an amusement. These parents have another interest, that of educating their children, for Cooper's famous book is used in school work, and by seeing the film, the youngsters are doubly impressed, and their interest in literature is stimulated.

"Then for the boys and girls! What kid has not 'played Indian' and enjoyed it? Not a one, indeed. Therefore every lad and lassie of Peterborough will have the very time of their lives at the Regent when this big historical picture is shown.

"Every American in whose veins flows the blood of our forefathers, wants to see this thrilling picture. I could go on for an hour and tell of the wonderful scenic beauties— the mountains — the splendid acting, stage settings and photography.

ANY MOTHER TO ANY SON.

So, lay him down to rest,
His hard fight won;
Nothing can harm him now,
Earth's course is run.

For when he reached his bourne,
Drew his last breath,
Life claimed him, so that he Never knew Death.

God stretched His mighty arm
Out of His heaven,
Took this tired child of His,
Raised him up, shriven;

Plunged him in Lethe's stream,
Purging away
War's bitter memories
In the cool spray.

Stripped off earth's swaddling bands,
Setting him free,
So that he might fulfill
His destiny.

How dare I then repine?
Calm and dry eyed
Through my allotted span
Shall I abide.

Till on my waiting ear
Sweetly shall fall,
Piercing Death's blurring mists,
Life's trumpet call.

RECONSTRUCT RUINS.

MEXICO CITY, April 28.—(Associated Press, by Mail.)— An appropriation of $50,000 for reconstructing the ruins at San Juan de Teotihuacan, has been approved by President Obregon.

San Juan is the site of the two great pyramids of Mexico, one to the Sun and the other to the Moon. Adjacent to these piles is a buried city which flourished probably 4,000 years ago. Senor Manuel Gamio, head of the department of anthropology of the Department of Agriculture, is in charge of the excavation of this city.

WEDDING BELLS

SULLIVAN—McKINLEY.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday in St. Peter's Cathedral by Rev. Father Phelan, when Annie L. McKinley became the wife of Mr. Frederick B. Sullivan, both of this city. Miss Margaret Lepointe and Mr. J. A. Shevlin assisted the bride and groom. The bride was prettily attired in blue taffeta and large black hat. Many costly presents were received, showing the high esteem in which they were held.

HAYES—BOWIE.

A quiet wedding was solemnised at St. Anne's Church, Toronto, yesterday, when Anna Bowie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bowie, 818 Gerrard Street East, was married to Dr. J. V. Hayes, of this city, by Father O'Brien. Miss Lenore Bowie was bridesmaid, and the groom was supported by his brother Carl. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home, and Dr. and Mrs. Hayes left on a motor trip through the States. On their return they will reside at 281 Park Street.

OBITUARY

JAMES LATIMER.

Death claimed a prominent South Monaghan farmer yesterday, in the person of James Stratton Latimer, of lot 5, concession 6. James Latimer was 58 years old, and had lived in South Monaghan many years. He is survived by his wife, who is a daughter of the late Rev. J. E. Robeson, one brother, John, of Toronto, and two sisters, Mrs. James Armstrong, Bolivar street, and Mrs. Harry Russell of Cavan.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, at 2 p.m. on Thursday to Fraserville cemetery.

MRS. W. H. LOUGH.

Following a paralytic stroke yesterday at 7 a.m., from which she did not regain consciousness, Nellie Lough, wife of W. H. Lough, postmaster at Ida, died at 11 o'clock last night. Mrs. Lough was 72 years old and was a sister of the late James Bentie, who died last year. She was widely known and held in high respect by a large circle of friends, and her sudden death has spread a pall of gloom over the village. Mrs. Lough is survived by her husband, one son, Roy, at home, and four daughters, Mrs. Robert McCamus of Cavan, Helen at Ottawa, and Vivian and Jean at home. The deceased was a devoted member of the Anglican church. Canon Allen, of Millbrook, will conduct the funeral service at the house Thursday at 2 p.m. Interment will take plae in St. John's cemetery, Cavan.

WILLIAM HALL.

The many friends of Mr. William Hall will regret to learn that he passed away last evening at his home in the Township of Fenelon, in the County of Victoria, in his eighty-seventh year. His father, the late Adam Hall, who died in Peterborough in 1881, was one of the first settlers in the Township of Smith, where the late William Hall was born on the 19th November, 1834. He married Miss Alice Davidson, who survives him, on the 8th August, 1860, and settled in the Township of Fenelon, where he has since resided.

He is survived by his widow, and his sons, Adam and Thomas, of Francis, Sask., William and Andrew of Fenelon, and R. R. Hall, Barrister, of Peterborough, and his daughters, Mrs. Alex. Carley of Fenelon Falls, and Mrs. George Bagshaw, of Fenelon. He is also survived by his brothers, Andrew J. Hall and Robert Hall, Collector of Customs, and by his sisters, Mrs. W. G. Ferguson and Miss Isabel Hall.

The late Mr. Hall was for many years a member of the Township Council of Fenelon and of the County Council of the County of Victoria.

The funeral will be announced later, on the arrival of his sons from Saskatchewan.

PLOWED UP $1,300.

LANSING, Iowa, May 12.—(Associated Press.)—Fortune turned her smiling face on John Brazell, of Lansing, when the plow which he was operating unearthed $1,300 in gold. The sum was found on the old Patrick Callahan farm, where Brazell was working as a farm hand.

The money was in a glass jar and the small fortune is believed to have been buried on the farm for an indeterminate number of years.

"LOVE NEST" SONG WON THE PRINCE OF WALES

Had a Copy Sent From New York Long Before it Was Published Here.

LONDON, May 17. — Although the American musical comedy Mary has only lately been produced here, one of its songs, "The Love Nest" has long been popular in London, thanks to the Prince of Wales.

He saw the show in New York and was so taken with the song that he asked for a copy of the score. Then he wanted to send a copy to Princess Mary but was told that would be impossible, as the song had not been published in England and would not be until the play was brought here.

However, eventually a point was stretched and the song was published here some time ago.

The Prince lunched a short time ago at the American Club on Piccadilly, and while there autographed a £1 note for No. 26 in the Derby sweep.

"What will I get if I win?" he asked.

"Only £90," one member answered, "because the club intends to keep the autograph as a souvenir."

Society

Mrs. J. W. McDermid was the hostess of a very pretty tea yesterday afternoon, in honor of Miss Jessie Cressman, at which between fifty and sixty of her friends were present. The lovely rooms were decorated with flowers, two beautiful silver baskets of white lilacs and pink roses draped with mauve tulle, which adorned the tea tables being particularly decorative. Mrs. A. W. Cressman poured tea and Mrs. E. C. S. Huycke cut the ices; the assistants, the Misses Clare Mason, Rosamond Huycke, Jean Eastwood, Margaret Turner, Helen Thompson, Mrs. G. H. Thompson.

Mr. J. J. Frawly, of Erie, Pennsylvania, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Echle at Glover-lea cottage, Chemong Park. On May 12th Mr. and Mrs. Echle celebrated their sixth wedding anniversary.

Mrs. D. M. Barnett of Toronto, who has been visiting at her brother's, Mr. C. Masterson, 23 Park, and other friends in the city, has returned home.

The engagement is announced in Toronto of Jean Kilbourn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Smith, and Lieut.-Col. William George Barker, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., etc., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. J. Barker, of Dauphin, Manitoba. The marriage will take place quietly June 1. Mr. Smith, father of the prospective bride, is one of the prominent business men of the country. He has large holdings in Canada Steamships, Canada Cement, the "North American" group of furniture industries of Owen Sound, and several shipbuilding companies. He is president of the Collingwood Shipbuilding Co., and on a number of industrial and shipping directorates. Miss Jean Smith is a granddaughter of John M. Kilbourn, for some years vice-president and one of the chief organizers of the Canada Cement Company.

Mr. Marshal Vincilette left yesterday for his home in Swanston, Vermont.

Major A. P. Miller is in Kingston on military business.

A very successful and well-patronised tea, to wind up the series of calendar bridges which have been so popular this season, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss F. Morrow, Weller Street, under the auspices of the Otonabee Chapter, I.O.D.E. The pretty rooms were beautifully decorated with white lilacs and pink tulips, and the tea table, dainty with Point de Venise and roses, was very attractive. Mrs. W. A. Sanderson and Miss Morrow received the guests, and Mrs. A. H. Stratton and Mrs. Yenney had charge of the table, assisted by the Misses Daisy Davidson, Doris Clegg, Helen Morphet, and Margaret Widdess. During the afternoon, a musical programme was given by Mrs. W. R. Widdess, accompanied by Mrs. C. S. McClelland, Mr. Herbert Rush, Mrs. W. Hills, and the Misses Morphet.

Miss Hattie Duncan, of Toronto, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. H. Delahaye, Dublin Street.

Miss Helen Brady has gone to Montreal to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Brady.

Mrs. Loring, of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. R. R. Hall.

Dr. W. N. Hayes has returned from Toronto, where he attended the wedding of his brother, Dr. J. V. Hayes, yesterday.

OFFICIAL YARNSMAN.

NEW YORK, May 12.—(Associated Press.—An opportunity for old salts to return to the sea in a new capacity —that of official guide and yarnsman—is announced by a large U.S. steamship company here.

The company decided that what was needed on its larger ships to answer the hundred and one questions of landlubber passengers were some of those retired seamen that are to be found in the sailors' missions along the waterfront, modelling ships and splicing ropes. So various seamen's organizations have been asked to nominate their best yarn spinners and an official board will pass judgment.

Then the wwinners will be shipped. Their chief duties will be in the ships nursery and on the playdecks giving the youngsters maritime history in story-book form.

"ENGLAND IS OVERCROWDED"

WINNIPEG, May 18. — "The administration of the Soldier Settlement Board in Canada, should be in the hands of the individual provinces rather than under federal control, for provincial government officials in charge of the department of agriculture have a much wider knowledge of provincial conditions than can possibly prevail in Ottawa," said Colonel Hamenley, for many years a member of the British House of Commons, representing the Woodstock division of Oxfordshire, during an interview while visiting this city.

Col. Hamenley is interested in bringing out Imperial ex-service men to Canada to settle on the land, and is desirous of having them colonize in communities where they would be able to keep in touch with their friends. He is also deeply interested in bringing settlers to Canada from the old land to provide them with work.

"England is overcrowded," the Colonel said, "and the only thing that remains to be done is to transplant them to the overseas dominions. This soldier settlement scheme is a splendid attainment for our people who can farm, but I feel sure that the administration could be better handled by the Provinces."

GRANITE TOWERS TO GUIDE TRAFFIC

Ornamental Structures Replace in N.Y. Temporary Signal Stands

NEW YORK, May 17.—Polished granite towers surmounted by ornamental clocks will soon replace the temporary signal structures on Fifth avenue, according to a plan worked out at a meeting of the Finance and Budget Committee of the Board of Estimate.

City Officials were informed by John A. Harriss, special Deputy Police Commissioner in charge of traffic, that the Fifth Avenue Association had agreed to contribute $50,000 for the purchase of material for the ten towers, which are to be erected by the city.

"Since the installation of the light system," Commissioner Harriss said "minor accidents have dropped to an extent that has saved the insurance companies more than $2,000,000 and big accidents have been virtually eliminated. The tower system is to be installed in Detroit, and I believe in Chicago and Philadelphia."

CHIEF JUSTICE WHITE MAY DIE BEFRE MORNING

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Chief Justice White of the Supreme Court of the United States is not expected to live through the night, his physicians said late this evening. "His pulse is weak and his pulse is bad," Dr. Francis Hagner said after a visit to the beside at Garfield Hospital. "He probably will not survive the night."

The Chief Justice submitted to an operation for bladder trouble last Friday, and had improved steadily until late to-day when he suffered a relapse.

BRITISH TRADE WITH CANADA HAS INCREASED

LONDON, May 17.—Latest official trade returns show that the value of Great Britain's trade with the overseas Dominions and possessions has increased at a greater rate proportionately than her trade with foreign countries. In 1913 rather less than 39 per cent. of British exports went to the countries within the Empire, whereas the returns for the first quarter of 1921 show that Great Britain's exports to British overseas possession amounted to 43 per cent. of her total exports. Exports to Canada during the first quarter of the present year were practically the same as during the corresponding period in 1913, but imports from Canada have increased very considerably.

WHAT KIND OF A MACHINE HAVE YOU?

Is it a perfect machine, running smoothly all the time, never stalling, never jarring, never failing to assimilate, always efficiently doing its duty? Or is it a rundown, battered old thing that has lost some of its parts, that is always in need of patching, that works sometimes and falls down on the job sometimes?

ARE YOU PROUD OF YOUR HUMAN MACHINE?

Or are you ashamed of its lame, halting way of going about its business? Don't blame it. Don't blame fate. Look within yourself. You are to blame if your health is poor and that delicate, wonderfully made machine—your body—does not perform every function naturally, easily and satisfactorily.

THERE IS A CAUSE

for every failure of your human machine to function properly. From the brain to every part of the body—to even the minutest cell—there flows a constant stream of vital force, of power for proper operation. This force is transmitted through the nerves, and it is only by nerve impingement, or pressure, at the point where the nerves emit from the spine that this force can be hindered or cut off. Subluxations, or displacements, of the vertebrae (small bones or segments of the spine) produce this pressure.

The Chiropractor by palpation finds these subluxated vertebrae, and by a movement of the hands adjusts them back to normal alignment. The nerves are freed of pressure, the vital force is transmitted normally, and health results.

SAY JEALOUSY IS AT BOTTOM OF ABDUCTION

PARENTS OF KIDNAPPED SINGER AND POLICE ALSO ALLEGE ATTEMPT TO BLACKEN HER CHARACTER.

ARE INVESTIGATING

PALMERSTON, May 19.—(Canadian Press)—This morning there are no further developments in the investigation into the kidnapping and chloroforming on Tuesday night of Miss Edna J. Lee, leader of the Knox Church Choir and prominent music teacher, who was found gagged and bound in an out of the way part of the town yesterday morning. Miss Lee's parents and the police here attributed jealousy and an "attempt to blacken her character" was the motives for the deed. Miss Lee is suffering from shock and exposure in the open but is otherwise unhurt.

Police Chief Wilson said to-day, "Miss Lee is a splendid singer and her leaving one church to go to another has caused bad feeling." The chief said he thought that an "organized grudge" might be at the bottom of the affair.

The Authorities are to-day making investigations in Listowel, which is Miss Lee's home town, and in Guelph. The police say that Miss Lee could not herself have tied the knots which bound her.

BLAMES FRENCH IN U. SILESIA

REFUGEE COUNTESS SAYS WHEN ENGLISHMAN OR ITALIAN COMMANDS ORDER WILL BE RESTORED.

FRENCH ASSIST POLES

BERLIN, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—Order cannot be restored in Upper Silesia while General Lerond, or any other Frenchman, commands the Inter-Allied forces to whom is enlisted the execution of the Versailles Treaty, said Countess Scherr-Thess, who arrived here yesterday with other refugees who had escaped from the district affected by the Polish insurgents in the plebiscite area. The Countess is a daughter of Henry White, one of the United States Senate's delegates at the Versailles Peace Conference.

"When an Englishman or Italian is given command there," she declared, "the Germans will have confidence, and it will be possible to restore order and disband the volunteer forces organized to protect the rights granted by the Versailles Treaty. The French have permitted the Poles to have arms and assisted them in every way possible in their preparations for overrunning Upper Silesia. They then withdrew the guards from the railway bridges so the Poles could dynamite them and cut off communication."

BUTTER PRICES IN THE LOCAL STORES

THE MARKET IS IN A STATE OF COLLAPSE,

Enquiries made by the Examiner at several stores in the city to-day, established the prevailing price of creamery and dairy butter at 33c and 35c. The butter market now is steady, the dealers say, but at one of the leading butcher stores of the city the Examiner was informed that 20c butter seemed not at all improbable with the Toronto and Montreal markets in a state of collapse. Some dairy butter is on sale in the stores but the quantity is limited. One grocer stated that with butter at such a low price the farmers refused to sell to the stores and preferred to trudge to the Saturday market to get a higher figure. Only a few years ago there was as much dairy butter sold in the grocery and butcher shops as there was creamery, but the Examiner was told that with the war and high prices a movement away from the shops set in and now there is but a small quantity of dairy butter sold in the stores.

Eggs Unchanged.

Eggs are unchang d in price — 30c and 32c is the general quotation. Large quantities of May eggs are being packed but the price has not been affected to any extent by the increased demand, Mother Hen evidently having responded with greater production.

Grocers say that this year's make of cheese is not on the market yet and the price of last season's cheese is still 40c up to 45c.

CLEARING WAY TO SETTLEMENT

NOTHING DEFINITE SO FAR, HOWEVER, REGARDING FURTHER COAL STRIKE NEGOTIATIONS.

UNION FUNDS SHRINK

LONDON, May 19. (Canadian Press.) Premier Lloyd George's separate unofficial conversations conversations with the coal owners and miners have led to nothing definite so far and even the names of those who interviewed the Prime Minister have not been divulged.

It is stated however that progress has been made towards clearing the way for the acknowledgment of a conference between the mine owners and the men.

The Premier is determined that open negotiations will only be renewed when the way is reasonably clear for a settlement. There is no longer even a pretense that the leaders of the miners are unanimouely insistent for a national profit pool, but it is equally notable that public opinion remains far from whole heartedly condemning the miners.

The trade unions' funds are now depleted more than ever previously in modern times.

BUSINESS MEN FROM GERMANY VISIT CANADA

CLAIM THEY ARE ONLY INVESTIGATING TRADE CONDITIONS, NOT SOLICITING BUSINESS.

EXPECT HUN RECOVERY

QUEBEC, May 19. — (Canadian Press).—Ten German business men reached here this morning on the liner Empress of France. One of their number announced that they were merely visiting Canada to investigate commercial conditions and not to obtain business. Some of the Germans had rather a gloomy picture of conditions in the Fatherland, but all believed that it would not be long before the country captured a large part of its pre-war trade. They stated that already business between Germany and England was picking up. Unsettled labor conditions in the British Empire had resulted in England "coming to reason" sooner than she would otherwise have done, one German said.

DEATH FOLLOWS FOOTBALL GAME

THOMAS R. (TIM) ROBBINS DIES IN HOSPITAL AS RESULT OF INJURIES.

TORONTO, May 19.—Caught in a bad scrimmage in a soccer game Saturday afternoon on the St. Clair avenue field of the Swift Canadian Company, Thomas R. (Tim) Robbins of the Don Valley team, received injuries from which he died last evening in Grace Hospital. Robbins was 35 years old, and a brickmaker in the employ of the Don Valley Brick Works. He leaves a widow and two children.

Robbins' team met the Swift Canadians in a league game on Saturday afternoon, and at one point there was a hot scrimmage, during which he was crushed. Although he felt ill for a moment or two, he went on with the game until the end.

Saturay night ,at his home, he was in great pain, and a doctor was called. His condition did not improve on Sunday, and on Monday he was taken to Grace Hospital to undergo an operation. He was in such a weakened condition that he was unable to undergo the operation, and he died last evening.

Doctors at Grace Hospital say he died from a rupture of the intestines.

Acting Chief Coroner Dr. Geo. W. Graham decided last night an inquest was unnecessary, death being purely accidental.

The funeral will take place Saturday.

There will be a meeting to-night in Torrens School of the club and its supporters to arrange to attend the fumeral.

J. F. Johnston Caps Premier's Reference to Progressives.

OTTAWA, May 19.—J. F. Johnston (Lost Mountain) genially remarked in the House yesterday that, if Progressives were a "dilapidated annex" (citing the Prime Minister), then, after next election, the Government party would be an "exploded blister."

Later, W. D. Euler (North Waterloo) created amusement by a query. He referred to pleas made by the Minister of Finance for the use of Canadian rather than United States manufactures.

"Why, then," quizzingly asked Mr. Euler, pointing to two new clocks recently installed in the House, "does the Government buy clocks in the United State ? There are clock factories in Canada."

G.N. Gordon in Maiden Speech Scores Budget and its Heavy Taxes

DEPLORES SYSTEM OF TAXATION OF UNEMPLOYED AND ACCOMPANYING EFFECT UPON INDUSTRY, RAPS MEIGHEN AND CALDER AND ALLEGES ATTITUDE OF GOVERNMENT THE REASON FOR UNREST.

FEARS EFFECT UPON PETERBORO INDUSTRIES

OTTAWA, May 19.—G. N. Gordon, the recently elected Liberal in West Peterborough, made his first real speech in the House of Commons yesterday in the Budget debate. The West Peterborough member made a good impression. His speech was more that of an old-time parliamentarian than that of a new member. He was not heckled, and the Government and Opposition members alike paid close attention. He spoke of the milling industry and of the effect of the new taxes on it. He deplored the fact that the workingman's dinner table was being taxed and showed the general effect of such a tax on industry. He spoke of Peterborough industries, with which he is most familiar, and explained the industrial supremacy of that city.

Mr. Gordon confined himself to two or three points, particularly the tax on food. Canada, he declared, because of the food tax, was back to the days of the corn laws. For a Government which professed such fondness and sympathy with the industries of the country, the tax on food showed inconsistency.

"You tax the food of the country and you injure industry, because you increase the cost of living to labour. Surely the manufacturers want living conditions cheaper, but here is a Government which is taxing the workman's table. It is that which is making unrest and discontent. You are taxing these people, while the men who made tremendous profits during the war and promised the last dollar, go comparatively free. The same Government allows diamonds and jewellery to go without taxes. It is a discrimination against the working man."

WILL HURT MILLING INDUSTRY HERE.

Mr. Gordon dealt at some length with the effect of the taxes on the milling industry. In this connection he pointed out that certain industries in Peterborough were able to compete in the United States market. Over a million dollars worth of mill products had gone to the United States from Peterborough, half a million dollars worth of milking machine parts, and also wood products to the extent of thousands. The present tax, he said, would stop the package trade in mill products, such as rolled oats—the mills, because of the taxes on package goods, would resort to bulk trade. This would be unfortunate for goods sold in bulk could be adulterated and lower grades could be mixed by those who purchased from the mills and sold as the top grade. The mills had reputations which might suffer because of lack of protection of their products. Mr. Gordon pointed out again that the tax worked another hardship on Ontario and Quebec millers. They were obliged to pay a tax on the grain shipped from the West at the price at which it sold here. That price included the freight from the West, and it was a bad principle to put that in as part of the cost to be taxed. The Western man did not have to pay for it. He thought the Fort-William prices snould govern the rate.

INCREASE COST OF LIVING.

He pointed out that the Sales Tax imposed by the Minister of Finance would have the effect of increasing the cost of living and the cost of production. It was provided in the new taxation that milled products, such as flour, rolled oats, etc., were subject to the Salex Tax when enclosed in packages under 48 pounds in weight. Yet the enclosure in such packages was in the best interests of sanitation and the best protection against adulteration. The poor man could not afford to buy in large quantities; the rich man could. The new tax was a great burden upon the labouring man throughout the country. Corn flour was taxable in packages under forty pounds; corn meal was taxable in any quantity. Corn flour was only purchased by the rich and well-to-do; corn meal was a staple of the labouring man.

RAPS MEIGHEN AND CALDER.

The Prime Minister had taunted the Opposition with being "tools and minions" and with inconsistency. His charges were on a par with the action of a schoolboy looking out of a window and making faces at the passers-by. Had the Prime Minister forgotten the eloquent words uttered by his Minister of Immigration, Mr. Calder, in 1919? At that time the latter had declared that he was a Liberal and that no man could change his views. In the same year he had declared that a revision of the tariff was absolutely necessary. He had also declared it was his duty to stay with the Government until the soldiers had returned and until after demobilisation. "In Peterborough," said Mr. Gordon, "the soldiers have all returned long ago. What demobilisation is he now waiting?"

A Voice: "The demobilisation of the Government."

ALLEGED UNFAIR DISCRIMINATION.

The Government had talked of unrest and discontent. To what was that unrest and discontent due? The returned soldiers had gone back to his forge, his lathe, his bench, or his profession. It was not the returned man who was causing discontent and unrest. "There is another cause of unrest," said the member for West Peterborough. "During the present session the postman's bonus was cut by 25 per cent. A postman is a man who serves the public irrepective of the position which members of the public hold. He is a man who in many cases has a limited lease of life because he is out in all kinds of weather. But his miserable bonus has been cut by one-quarter, and two days after this was announced the Government brings in a Bill, whereby the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court shall have a salary of five thousand a year as administrator, in addition to his ten thousand as salary, and that he shall be exempt on the latter from income tax. That," said Mr. Gordon, "is another cause for unrest and unhappiness."

WILL LAY CHARGE AGAINST BANDITS' CHAUFFEUR, HULSE

LAST OF HOTRUM-M'FADDEN-CONLEY GANGSTERS TO BE DEALT WITH.

TORONTO, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—Walter Hulse, driver of the motor in which the Hotrum-McFadden-Conley gangsters operated, is going to be tried for the part he is alleged to have played in the hold-ups, according to authoritative information to-day. It is stated that the Crown will lay a charge against Hulse of aiding and abetting and conspiring to commit an unlawful act. The chauffeur will appear in Police Court to-morrow, still held as a material witness, and it is stated the Crown will ask for another remand and then lay the charge against him.

LONDON-PARIS BREACH SEEMS WIDENED MORE

NEWSPAPERS OF FRENCH CAPITAL RESENT LLOYD GEORGE'S SPEECH OF YESTERDAY.

LONDON SUPPORTS HIM

PARIS, May 19. — (Canadian Press).—Declarations made regarding Poland and Silesia by Lloyd George yesterday caused considerable irritation to French newspapers. There was little comment on the Premier's words this morning, but what there was seemed severe.

Echo De Paris: "Please give us even less, if possible, than you did in the last speech before the House of Commons. The affair is too grave henceforth to be treated as politics. There is no getting away from one fact, the 'Entente Cordial' is at stake."

LONDON SUPPORTS PREMIER.

LONDON, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—Newspapers to-day showed greater unanimity in endorsing Lloyd George's declaration yesterday than they did his almost sensational statement made before the Commons last Friday. There were in some instances references to the judiciousness of reiterating Great Britain's viewpoint at this moment regarding a point already made sufficiently clear.

NEW PARNERSHIP OF SCOTT COMPANY

MR. IRA MOORE JOINS EAST CITY FIRM.

The old-established firm of Wm. Scott & Co., Coal and Cold Storage, East City, which has been conducted by Mr. Scott personally for the last 25 years, will in future be looked after by Mr. Scott and Mr. Ira D. Moore. Mr. Moore, widely known in Peterboro, in sporting and business circles, brings with him an eighteen years' experience with the Quaker Oats Company, in which he became well and favorably known to many for his thorough business qualities.

The firm of Scott and Company has recently been awarded the contract for supplying coal to all the public schools of the city, involving some 800 tons, and Mr. Moore will doubtless appreciate all orders connected with the coal or cold storage business, to which he promises careful personal attention. Mr. Scott and Mr. Moore should make a successful business team.

Annual Convention of Methodist W.M.S. Held at Norwood Yesterday

NEARLY 200 DELEGATES ATTENDED—STIMULATION OF INTEREST IN ORGANIZATION'S WORK STRESSED.

The annual convention of the Women's Missionary Society, Campbellford District, Bay of Quinte Branch, was held yesterday in the Methodist Church at Norwood, with nearly 200 delegates present, from Westwood, Havelock, Campbellford, Dartford, Stirling, Roseneath, Trent River, Wellman's Corners, Hastings, Keene, South Dummer, Seymour and Rawdon.

The ladies were welcomed at the morning session by Mrs. A. J. Terrill, wife of the pastor at Norwood, and by Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, of Norwood, district superintendent of the society, who occupied the chair throughout the proceedings. The morning was devoted to the hearing of reports from the 13 auxiliaries, 2 circles and 6 mission bands affiliated with the organization, read by the following: Seymour, Mrs. J. E. Glover; Hastings, Mrs. W. S. Way; Wellman's Corners, Mrs. Geo. Maybee; Campbellford, Mrs. W. H. Ashton; Havelock, Mrs. Jas. Barton; Norwood, Mrs. M. Spence; Mount Pleasant, Mrs. I. Reid; Keene, Mrs. W. E. Honey; Dartford, Mrs. M. A. Atkinson; Warkworth, Mrs. Wallace Baker; Stirling, Mrs. G. A. Kingston; South Dummer, Mrs. Jos. Humphries; Westwood, Miss Ethel Douglas. These reports showed very encouraging progress made all along the line during the year, both in their financial and missionary activities.

Addresses in Afternoon.

The afternoon session, which opened at 1.30, was occupied with the hearing of addresses from several ladies, and the election of officers for the coming year, which resulted as follows: District Superintendent, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, Norwood; Assistant Superintendent, Mrs. B. F. Doxsee, Hastings; Secretary, Mrs. A. C. Denike, Havelock.

"What the Circle Means to Me" was the title of the first paper, read by Miss M. Phillips, of Warkworth, a short but interesting paper describing the benefits to be derived from membership in the Circle, which the speaker regarded as the link between the Mission Band and the W. M. S. The gathering of the girls together for one evening in a month in the Circle results in their learning something different from their school studies, and each member should have some special part in the programme of these meetings, to stimulate further interest in their work.

Society's Record.

Mrs. E. W. Cafley, wife of the pastor of South Dummer and Westwood, gave a very fine address, which was listened to with marked attention. "One of the fairest pages in the history of the evangelism of the world," she remarked, "will be the record of the work of the Women's Missionary Society." That the society must have its life in the loving and serving of others was emphasized strongly, and the "cheering on the side lines," the interest and helpful effort and, above all, prayer, of those who are members of the band, must be given to ensure success for the faithful workers in the field. "The world is a huge whispering gallery, and the impact of the West on Eastern life and thought is shattering many of the old Eastern ideals. Chinese temples are falling down. Our Christianity is taking a hold on China, but if China embraces our civilzation without our religion, what moral disaster may follow. This is the time to teach China that only integrity of character can make a nation truly great. For over 4,000 years China remained self-satisfied and contemptuous of everything foreign. Now it is looking to the West for guidance. Out of 5,000 students in Tokio recently questioned, it was found that 4,500 of these professed agnosticism or atheism. Only 500 remained true to the old religion. Shintoism is rapidly dying out and Buddhism is almost obsolete. The work also that may be done by the W.M.S. in alleviating the conditions of life under which so many of the Chinese and Japanese women labor was touched on, and the evils which will inevitably result in the allowing of these Eastern comers to our shores to gather in colonies and thus further the spread of tuberculosis, gambling and the drug habit were described.

'There are two or three things which are necessary to make the world safe for democracy, first: the same standard of conduct for the nation as for the individual; second, the common man must have a chance with the super man; third, hate must not be a motive for conduct; fourth, there must be a great world leader," and the speaker regarded Christianity as the great leader which is based upon love and understanding.

Supplies Needed.

Mrs. W. H. Ashton, of Campbellford, the branch corresponding secretary, made an appeal here for supplies for the new home at Radway Centre, which is expected to be completed by the fall, and responses came from the different auxiliaries in promises of quilts, pillows and cases and towels for the final equipment of the building.

G. N. GORDON, M.P.,

West Peterborough, who made his maiden speech in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon during the debate on the budget, attacking the taxes placed on food and the restrictions upon industry.

Need of Service.

A splendid and inspirational address was given by Miss Nelly M. Turner, of Campbellford, dealing with the need of service and prayer from the members of the W.M.S. "The one hope, the one source of inspiration, the one message, for the Society is Jesus Christ," said Miss Turner, and referred to the Old Testament for the type of woman most fitted to be the model of the Women's Missionary Society, finding there the figure of Esther, the Jewish girl who cared so greatly for her own people. Her first step, to get into saving relationship with the King's household, is exemplified in the lives of the members of the W. M.S., every one of whom is a member of the King's household, a daughter of the Lord. Her practical interest in the sufferers outside the gates, her real heart interest in their woes, may be followed by all those who care for those outside the fold who do not know anything of the love and life of the Saviour. The third point in her career was her readiness to do personal work and service in the cause she had espoused, when she fasted and prayed and caused others to fast and pray, to gain the good end she had in view, and the last outstanding attribute in her character which might well be imitated by every member of this Society, was her attitude of mind when she said, "I go, and if I perish, I perish," the chaarcteristic which made her proceed with her original good intention regardless of cost.

"If there is failure in the front-line trenches," remarked the speaker, "it is not the fault of the front line, but of the home base, in its failure to uphold the leaders by prayers," and unceasing prayer for the workers at home and abroad in all circumstances, even over the wash-board and the scrubbing-pail, where the busy housewife may dedicate her thoughts and labors to those engaged in spiritual conflicts, was recommended in a strong final appeal from the enthusiastic young orator.

Advertising the Society.

Mrs. A. C. Denike, of Havelock, read by request a paper entitled, "How Best to Advertise the Society," recommending among other things the installation of a bulletin board in the churches for the announcement of meetings and matters of interest in connection with the work and above all, the untiring and personal efforts of every member to advertise the work of the Society and its aims and objects.

Receipts Increase.

The report of the district superintendent, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, of Norwood, disclosed a very satisfactory financial statement for the year. Receipts totalled $3,287.72, an increase of $490.84 over the previous year.

Rev. Mr. Kenny, of Campbellford, spoke a few words of congratulation to the meeting, on one of the largest conventions ever held by the district society, and encouraged to further efforts the women who are "doing so much of the work of the church," promising them in future a larger hold on the financial rewards of their efforts.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved to the auxiliaries, the pastors and their wives, the branch at Norwood, and the ladies of the church who served a very appetizing lunch and tea in the basement, under the able supervision of Mrs. W. T. Buck, president of the Norwood branch. The place of meeting for next year will be Havelock.

Several fine solos were contributed during the afternoon by Mrs. J. Glover, of Campbellford, Mrs. E. W. Cafley, of South Dummer, a duet by Mrs. Glover and Miss E. Meiklejohn, and a very pleasing little exercise was given by the Norwood Mission Band, directed by Miss Ada Greenbank. Mrs. Garlick was the organist for the occasion.

Friday is considered an unlucky day because for centuries it was the day chosen for public executions.

CAMPBELLFORD REGIMENT HAS NEW EQUIPMENT

DRILL TWO NIGHTS A WEEK—CAMPBELLFORD HAPPENINGS.

CAMPBELLFORD, May 19.—The baseball game played on Tuesday night by the members of the Young Men's Bible Class of the Methodist Church Married Men vs. Single Men) proved to be most interesting, the score being 9 to 3 in favour of the Single Men. Had it not been for the very excellent pitching of George Ashton (a newly married man) there might have been a complete whitewash.

Military News.

The 40th Regiment has received a new supply of equipment—four machine guns, forty rifles, a quantity of haversacks, kit bags, etc. Practice will be resumed two nights a week, Tuesday and Thursday, instead of Monday, Wednesday, and Friday as formerly.

Sergt. D. A. Montgomery has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant, and the 40th Regiment now has another efficient officer.

The band, under the competent leadership of Mr. R. T. Cowell, will give an open-air concert to-night in front of Mr. Wood's drug store. Come along and encourage the boys and help them to procure the wherewithal to get some necessary repairs to their instruments.

Motored to Norwood.

Yesterday the weather was ideal, and a very large number of ladies motored to Norwood to attend the District Convention of the Woman's Missionary Society. The following very kindly volunteered their cars to convey the delegates to Norwood: Messrs. J. N. Stone, Samuel Johnston, Charles Davidson, T. L. Diamond, C. A. Wilson, James Potts, William Duncan, G. A. Kingston, and Rev. H. B. Kenny. Little Misses Cherrie Turner and Frances Dingman attended as delegates from the Mission Band, and the following ladies attended: Mesdames E. J. Bonney, A. I. Bonney, A. J. Beavis, L. F. Gould, W. I. Stillman, Hormell, William Bland, George Smith, James Hare, Wilter Wiggins, A. Willis, E. Williamson, G. W. Hammond, I. T. Frederick, R. Moore, T. L. Diamond, L. A. Denike, W. E. Carnahan, William Keir, William Runnells, Samuel Johnston, William Bateson, Percy Denyes, L. B. Glover, C. W. Turner, W. H. Ashton, A. W. Free, Mrs. James Potts, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Glover, Mrs. G. A. Kingston, and Miss Nellie Turner, whose address was so much appreciated.

All the delegates were very enthusiastic over the excellent addresses delivered, the fine musical programme, and of the hearty hospitality of the ladies of Norwood, who so royally entertained the delegates.

The convention next year will be held in Havelock.

Eye Injured.

Mr. Edward Hubble, who was sent by the Hydro Commission to Walkerville some little time ago, had the misfortune to get a piece of steel in his eye. After the removal of the steel, the eye was quite painful, and Mr. Hubble is now at his home here. With the best of medical attention, the eye will soon regain its normal condition.

Died Yesterday.

The four-year-old daughter of Clarence Malhiot died yesterday from diphtheria. The deceased was sick but a few days. She had almost recovered, when she suddenly expired on Wednesday morning.

Bowling Club.

The Bowling Club expect to commence active bowling on Friday afternoon on the green which they have prepared near the banks of the canal, south of the town.

Cattle Shipped.

The Farmers' Club shipped fifty hogs and fifty calves on Tuesday. They paid 10 cents per lb. for hogs and from 6c to 8c for calves. They also unloaded about half a car of seed corn.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. T. S. Baker and Mrs. Wm. Locke are spending a couple of weeks in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson, son William and daughter, Mrs. Weatherson, of Detroit, who resided in Campbellford a few years ago, spent Tuesday with M. and Mrs. Harper Shaw, Front Street.

THEY FORGOT TO VOTE

(London Daily News.)

The crimes and blunders committed by Governments are due much more to the people who do not vote than to those who do.

PROROGATION NEXT WEEK IS NOW EXPECTED

SIR JAMES LOUGHEED INTIMATES THIS TO THE SENATE AND RAPID DAYS LOOKED FOR.

GORDON'S FIRST SPEECH

OTTAWA, May 19. — (Canadian Press).—The Opposition speakers, Liberal and Progressive, held the floor in the continued budget debate in the House yesterday. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, was scheduled to speak, but his speech went over to-day, as did the close of the debate. The Senate announcement by Sir James Lougheed, Government leader in the Upper Chamber, that prorogation is expected next week, is an indication, however, of some rapid days ahead.

During the proceedings much of the discussion followed familiar paths. But there were some sharp parries and thrusts. Duncan Ross (West Middlesex) charged Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Militia, with being a sort of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. W. H. White (Victoria, Alta) accused the Government of tampering with everything, and never had the people in Alberta struggled so hard as to-day to make both ends meet.

G. N. Gordon, West Peterborough, made his first speech.

BY-ELECTIONS STIR OTTAWA

POLITICAL CIRCLES TURN ANXIOUS EYES TOWARD THE WEST.

MAHARG RESIGNS SOON

OTTAWA, May 19.—With by-elections under way in York, N. B., Yamaska and Medicine Hat and the Saskatchewan Legislature dissolved for a general election in that Province, public opinion in various parts of Canada in both Federal and local affairs is shortly to be sounded. Political circles here are greatly interested.

In the constituency of the late Hon. A. L. Sifton, Medicine Hat, Col. Spencer, the local Conservative M.L.A., has resigned his seat in the Legislature to tackle the Ottawa job, and from this the Government deduces that prospects are propitious.

Col. Spencer has a fine overseas record, which, however, may hamper him, judging by the results in other seats.

The farmers had a division in their convention as between north and south, and the northern man won out. Some ill-feeling is reported. Another factor in the case will be the attitude of the Liberals, who will not put up a candidate of their own, but still may not support the Agrarian in view of the state of war between the Stewart Government and the United Farmers of the Province.

J. A. Maharg, M.P., who has decided to join the Martin Ministry, is about to resign his seat in Ottawa and leave for the West. Maharg heads the Saskatchewan Grain Growers, the original organization in which division is reflected by the development of an independent factor.

The alliance between Liberals and Grain Growers in this Province is tenatively established, and the working out of the arrangement will be watched here with great interest, because a similar strategy may be attempted in various parts of the country in a Federal election.

CHLOROFORMED, CARRIED AWAY

PALMERSTON YOUNG WOMAN VICTIM OF MYSTERIONS ATTACK LAST NIGHT.

SHE WAS NOT HARMED

PALMERSTON, May 19. (Canadian Press.)—Miss Edna Lee, leader of the Knox church choir, was the victim of a mysterious attack last Tuesday night. Miss Lee, who has music classes both here and in Listowel, returned from the latter town last night, arriving at 8 o'clock. She went to the Presbyterian church for some sheet music and while on her way from there a car drove up and a man jumped out. He asked her to help him as his wife was ill in the car, and Miss Lee, although a little startled, saw a woman sitting in the car apparently crying, with her face in her hands. Miss Lee went over to the car and was immediately seized by the man who put his hand over her mouth, and then thrust her into the rear seat, where the woman was. Miss Lee was then chlorbformed, her hands tied behind her back, and her ankles bound, and she was carried and left in Louis Nairn's lane on the edge of the town. The chloroform bottle with the handkerchief were left under her nose so that she would continue to inhale it. She was found in an unconscious state about 5:30 yesterday morning. No other injury was inflicted than that occasioned by the shock. Miss Lee can offer no clue as to the offenders.

For Women Smokers.

LONDON, May 12.—(Associated Press).—Prizes were offered for the women who smoked most gracefully while partaking of afternoon tea at the Tobacco Fair at Royal Agricultural Hall. The events were open to the public.

STERN JUSTICE METED OUT TO BANDIT GANG

M'FADDEN SENTENCED TO BE HANGED, HOTRUM AWAITS SENTENCE FOR MURDER, CONLEYS TO PENITENTIARY.

HULSE ONLY ONE LEFT

TORONTO, May 19.—(Canadian Press). — William McFadden was found guilty of the murder of L. C. Sabine and sentenced to be hanged on August 3rd.

Roy Hotrum, found guilty of the murder of L. C. Sabine, is awaiting sentence.

Arthur Conley, who pleaded guilty to being connected with three holdups, was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary.

Jack Conley, who pleaded guilty to being connected with two holdups, was sentenced to 20 years.

Walter Hulse is being held at the Toronto Jail, awaiting the pleasure of the Attorney-General.

With the death penalty imposed on William McFadden by Justice Logie in the assizes yesterday, and Arthur and John Conley sentenced to long terms of imprisonment, all members with the exception of Walter Hulse, taxi cab driver, of the bandit gang, which terrorized the city last spring, have been dealt with by the law.

REAL APPRECIATION.

"What Can You Do?"

One of the first questions asked the man seeking a new position is, "What can you do?". If you say "I can save money", and produce a Merchants Bank Pass Book that shows regular weekly or monthly deposits, you need no other recommendation. The man who saves systematically—knows the value of money—is providing for the future—is ambitious—is using his head as well as his hands—and the Savings Account proves it.

THE SUN'S PROPHECY.

The Farmers' Sun, which claims to be the official organ of the United Farmers of Ontario, seems to be an uncompromising enemy of the Hydro-Electric system. It has tried to stir up ill-feeling between city and country by maintaining that city power-users should be taxed to help pay the cost of rural transmission lines, and it has persistently attacked the Hydro radial lines, which should be of as much benefit to the people of the rural sections as to the urban dwellers. Now The Sun ventures into the field of prophecy, and referring to the Sutherland Commission, which has been investigating the radial question, declares that 'it is expected that the commission will bring in an adverse report." As the U.F.O. organ claims all the credit for the holding of the radial inquiry, this statement may, perhaps, have been printed more or less in the nature of an intimation to the members of the commission as to what is expected of them.

THE HOUSING PROBLEM.

The announcement that the housing problem is to be the outstanding feature at the Provincial convention of the Great War Veterans' Association next week is of general interest, for there is no question that is playing a greater part in adding to the cost of living at the pesent time. Rentals form one of the biggest items in the expense account of the average family just now, and while the price of foodstuffs and of many other articles is rapidly dropping The Labour Gazette's official figures for the past month show a slight increase in rents on the average with further increases likely to become effective in the near future. And until enough houses are built to meet the demand higher rentals are likely to be in order. It is a welcome announcement that the veterans are to endeavour to hit upon a plan that will afford some relief. The need is apparent, but the solution is not easily found. Perhaps the G.W.V.A. deliberations may prove of assistance; the public will certainly wish them well in their attempt.

THE AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION.

The growth of the Peterborough Automobile Association, which now numbers 145 members, as against 71 a month ago, should be an encouragement to the officers and an incentive to the local motorists who have not yet joined to come into the fold. The association is moving along right lines and deserves the support of the entire motoring fraternity. And, incidentally, the friendly interest of the whole community should be tendered the movement, for the association is showing itself to be unselfish in its aims, as its action in deciding to provide cars for the entertainment of the delegates to the conventions of the Baptist Young People and of the Knights of Columbus clearly shows. The forming of a committee to study the traffic regulations is another step which indicates the Automobile Association is alive and active. In this connection, the members should not lose sight of the fact that the chief object of such regulations is to make conditions safer, not only for motorists, but for the general public. Much valuable work can be done along that line by the association, and the people generally will appreciate the effort.

THE WAY OF THE TRANSGRESSOR.

"Orangized society is too strong for any criminal; it gets him in the end." These words of Mr. Justice Logie used in sentencing Arthur Conley to fiftpen years in Kingston Penitentiary on a charge of robbery in Toronto should be noted by the crooks and criminals who are still at large and considered along with the terrible fate of the Hotrum-McFadden-Conley gang should cause those who have embarked on a life of crime to realize that in the long run there is no escape, and that if only in self-interest leading a decent life is the only wise policy. These bandits, who thought they could wrest a living from society by exacting tribute at the point of their revolvers, are to pay a tragic price for their folly. Two of them are under sentence of death; a third goes to the penitentiary for a long terms. They deliberately chose the wrong path, ignoring the fate of others who had made the same decision and imagining that they could get away with it. They did for a few months until one of them lost his nerve, pulled a trigger and took the life of a defenceless druggist. And now two of them must pay the price. Mr. Justice Logie is quite right. Organized soriety always gets such criminals sooner or later.

LABOUR SHOWS THE WAY.

No more intelligent action has been taken to relieve the literally human shortage in dwelling-houses in this city than that of the two Bricklayers' and Masons' Unions. Seeing clearly that building has been brought to a stop by the high cost of labour as well as of material, these two organizations of the most important human factors in house-building have voluntarily voted a reduction in wages.

This is a display of a high order of salesmanship. They note that their output, i.e., skilled labor, is not being bought by its customary consumers. These "consumers" are the men who build houses for profit. They are deterred partly by the high costs and partly by the uncertainty as to how long these high costs will last. But the big point is that they are effectively and disastrously deterred. The twin consequences are that labour is denied the work it needs, and the public are denied the homes which it is the ruin of family life to lack.

So the two Bricklayers' and Masons' Unions intelligently and patriotically take the step which every intelligent and public-spirited merchant should take in similar case. They reduce the cost of their output. This will enable the professional and the "personal" home-builder to start work. The men who have taken this bold initiative, and so set the wheels of production moving, should reap the legitimate profit of plenty of work; and the keenly-suffering public should find its profit in plenty of homes.

* * * *

We have been looking for somebody to reduce our staggering rents. These Union Labour men have done their bit. If rents do not presently come down, it is not their fault. Incidentally, they will gain by this reduction themselves. Where they must live in rented houses, they will get the benefit. What they have lost in wages they should gain in lowered rentals.

But we cannot expect one battalion to win the war. Other men who control other factors in the cost of houses must fall into line. Then quite different varieties of labour can take action equally intelligent and public-spirited. It is not always that such action can so quickly and obviously repay itself. Sometimes the route by which a reduction in wages comes back to the skilled workmen who accept that reduction in the form of lowered prices on the products thus cheapened is more indirect and tardy. But the building trades should be able to get their money back unmistakably and without too much delay.

Then there are other factors in house-building than the labour which works on the job. There is management, material and capital. These also must show courage and public spirit. They also should accept reductions in profits. Then they also will share in the universal gain which will follow a restoration of pre-war production.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The price of butter seems to be dropping as fast as the Toronto Ball Club.

The moving of the headquarters of the 4th Machine Gun Brigade to Peterborough is a recognition of this city's importance as a military centre.

—The fact that Canada may get a share of the Hun indemnity is not causing much excitement, for it is not expected that it will be enough to wipe out the national debt.

The expected wage cut on American railways should mean a similar reduction on the Canadian lines. The high cost of labour on the railways is one of the greatest obstacles in the way of a return to normal conditions.

Trust Lloyd George to find an expression that is understood by everybody. His statement on the Silesian situation that "children of the treaty cannot be allowed to break crockery in Europe with impunity" needs no explanation.

Just when people were getting ready for a quiet summer along comes somebody and starts the local political pot boiling.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

A visionary generally handles money as though it were a phantom.

Most city people unacquainted with pastoral terms puzzle over the foot and mouth disease and wonder of it has any connection with the open mouth scourge.

A good crop of dandelions on his lawn this spring will make many a man appreciate Nature more fully.

When we reach a full-blown state of politeness and consideration for others we will not turn a page of a newspaper when sitting in a street car with out turning to the man behind to ask whether he is reading it.

It may soon be necessary to keep the tax and let the government have the income.—New York World.

The latest addition to the stock of stereotyped phrases is, "negotiations will be resumed at an early date, according to information from authoritative sources."

Evidently a substitute for the mythical fountain of youth has been discovered at last. Chicago police say they can't enforce the curfew law because they can't tell the grand mothers from the girls of curfew age on account of their skirt lengths.

Another funny thing is that it doesn't shock fathers to see decollete clothes on other men's daughters the way it does to see them on their own.

When a woman finds her husband monotonous she generally runs up bills to break the monotony.

Contrary to the general belief there are many women in the world who are not susceptible to flattery—but they are in the cemeteries.

A schoolgirl was required to write 200 words about a motor car. She submitted the following: "My uncle bought a motor car. He was out riding in the country when it busted going up a hill. The other 180 words are what my uncle said when he was walking back to town, but I know you wouldn't want me to repeat them."

OBJECTS TO FAIR WEATHER OPERATION OF SUNDAY STREET CARS.

ST. THOMAS, May 17. — Strong criticism of the alleged discrimination on the part of the city authorities in the operation of the Sunday street cars was made by Rev. L. C. Hammond, pastor of the Disciples Church, yesterday.

He declared that he was not opposed to Sunday service, but he was opposed to the alleged catering to holiday seekers on fine days, and permitting churchgoers and other persons to walk on inclement days. The cars should be operated winter and summer, on fair days and on stormy, he declared.

Mr. Hammond charged the men in charge of the citys affairs with giving too little attention to church matters, and too much attention to matters pertaining to worldliness, and he urged churchgoers to see that the right men are nominated and elected in the future.

This paint film is less than 1\100 of an inch thick. What does that mean to you?

When you stop to realize that a two-coat film of paint is less than 1-100 of an inch in thickness, and that this thin film stands between your house and the weather, you can see the vitalness of buying the right kind of paint.

Lowe Brothers High Standard Paint forms a tougher film than any other paint we know of. It is elastic. It will not crack with the weather's changes. It is both weatherproof and waterproof.

It costs a little more than most paints, but it always covers more surface, therefore less paint is required and you actually save money at the very start. This fact, coupled with its long lastingness, makes it really an investment paint.

If you want to prevent future trouble, come in and talk over your paint problems with us.

STORY OF HEROIC SELF-SACRIFICE.

LONDON, April 12. (By Mail.) A story of heroic self sacrifice and devotion has reached England from the leper village of Chandag, India, where Mary Reed, a solitary white woman missionary, is giving her life to minister to the sufferings of her fellow lepers.

News of her isolated life was brought back by Mr. Oldrieve, the organizing secretary of the Mission to Lepers, who has just returned from a 70,000 mile journey visiting all the leper colonies in India.

Thirty years ago Miss Reed went into this desolate spot in this desolate spot in the Himalayas, 6000 feet above the sea level, offering herself to the leper cause. Although a victim of the malady she is still able to carry on her spiritual work among those afflicted like herself.

Miss Reed seldom sees white people for her station is 80 miles from the nearest railway line. There are 46 women lepers in the community, and 19 men in the men's refuge, a short distance away.

According to Mr. Oldrieve, there are 200,000 lepers in India. "At present," he declared, "it is not right to say that any cure for leprosy has been found."

BRIDE OF 19 MURDERED.

Marriage and Death Hand-in-hand—Bridegroom is Blamed.

DECATUR, Ala., May 18.—W. F. Seay, department store clerk, was being held under arrest here to-day, charged with the murder of his 19-year-old bride, whose body was found in a mutilated condition on the outskirts of Florence, Ala., Sunday night. After being lodged in jail here yesterday, Seay made an unsuccessful attempt to burn the jail by making a bonfire of his bedding and clothing in his cell. Seay was said to have later attempted suicide by buting his head against the bars of his cell.

FLEET FOOT

Sport Shoes

THE very name suggests the kind of shoes they are. FLEET FOOT—light, easy, flexible—springy and buoyant when walking the links—firm and sure when on the tennis court and bowling green.

FLEET FOOT shoes were designed originally for sport. Men liked them so well—found them so restful and comfortable—that they demanded FLEET FOOT styles for every-day wear.

Then wives and mothers and girls in dainty summer gowns insisted on having FLEET FOOT Pumps and Oxfords.

Now, there are styles for every member of the family—men, women, boys and girls—for morning, noon and night—work and play—in town and for holiday time.

Genuine FLEET FOOT shoes have the name stamped on them. It pays to get the genuine FLEET FOOT—pays in style, comfort, long wear and economy.

LOVE!

By KATHERINE MOORE

I Work to Regain Leonard's Love. Chapter 54.

Trying to be hopeful and striving to win back my husband's love in the face of heart-breaking discouragements, was the hardest task I had ever set for myself. Sometimes I was sorely tempted to give it all up. There was always the solution of the divorce courts to fall back on But that thought was horrible to me.

Sometimes I wondered if I really still loved Leonard.There would be days at a time when all my feelings and emotions were at a very low ebb. Then I could not be sure of anything. At such times I became a nouentity. Nothing mattered.

Then again my love would really consume me, sweeping all logic and caution from my brain At times like this I was in great danger of doing something desperate. Waiting was deadly, suffocating. I would plan revenge —some terrible action in order to bring satisfaction to my soul. But fortunately, these burning passions would destroy themselves with their own terrible force. Then my nerve would collapse and I would sink again into a physical and mental torpor.

So the days went on. I tried to keep a calm exterior. No matter what was in my heart, I knew I must hide it from Leonard. If I was to win, and God knows I was fighting hard ,I had to play the game. The strength of my plans rested on the power of my influence over my husband. I made up my mind that Leonard was going to realize that he needed me—that I meant more to him than he had ever dreamed of. He was going to find it impossible to get along without me. He was going to need my love.

So I planned and hoped down in the deep recesses of my heart. But always there was the ghastly thought that perhaps his love for me was dead that nothing could ever bring it to life—could ever rouse it again.

One think I knew. I must never force my love upon him—never be insistent—never overbearing in the smallest little way. I felt as if Leonard were walking toward me on the thin ice and if I became too anxious urged him too insistently, he would go crashing down through hopeless depths. I would lose him I could never follow then. If I could hold him ever so little, if the ice did not break through no matter how thin it might be, then perhaps he could be mine again.

Then I knew that I still wanted him. But if that one finely drawn ethical line that marked the point between rectitude and weakness should be broken—then I would lose, and irretrievably, even beyond the desire to win.

Leonard had not spoken again about buying the automobile. My heart tightened at the thought that perhaps he was spending too much money elsewhere.

Spring was warm and inviting I divided my days between doing everything in my power to keep the home bright and attractive and taking long walks alone out into the country. It did more than anything else to steady my nerves and bring solace to my aching heart.

I found a wonderful profusion of wild flowers. On each occasion I would gather the most glorious specimens and fix them in an attractive bunch and bring them home with me.

One time I would arrange them in a low flat blue dish of glossy pottery and place them on the mahogany table in the living room. Then again I would fill an irridescent pale green glass bowl that I had, and put them on the drop leaf table in the hall where Leonard would see them the first thing when he came in, tired.

"Been out in the woods again Noreen?" he would ask interestly, "What's this little blue flower you have here?" Then he would lean down and drink in their wild, earthy fragrance. "White violets — my they're sweet!"

I wanted everything at home to be fresh and free from taint. I must see about that auto he said one day, and my heart thrilled happily.

Boils So Bad

HAD TO GIVE UP WORK

Frou the days of Job, up to the present time, boils have been one of the afflictions of the human race.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not prevent them from breaking out again.

Boils are simply caused by the bad blood bursting out; and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters, which has been on the market for over forty years, is well known as the greatest blood medicine procurable.

It purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul matter from the system, and when this is done the boils vanish, and you should never be troubled again.

Mr. James Fahey, Newport Island, Que., writes:—"I was troubled with boils on my back and neck, so bad that I was obliged to give up work. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. Finally, I went to a doctor, and he treated me for several weeks, and all without benefit. At last a friend told me of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I decided to give it a trial. I got three bottles, but before I had taken two the boils were all gone. It is eight months now, and I have had no return of the old trouble, and have never felt so well."

Obituary

On Tuesday morning one of Norwood's oldest and most highly respected citizens passed away in the person of Mrs. Elizabeth Kempt, in her eighty-third year.

The late Mrs. Kempt was a true Christian character, a loving, self-denying mother and a person who was always ready to help others in times of trouble or sorrow.

Until within the past year she had been an active person and enjoyed the best of health. Naturally optimistic, she saw nothing but the best in everything.

Her husband, the late Kenneth Kempt, predeceased her several years ago.

She leaves a family of two sons, Kenneth and Alex. of Norwood, and two daughters, Mrs. A. Richardson of Tilsonburg, and Mrs. J. Brightwell of Detroit.

The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon from the home of her son, Mr. Alex. Kempt, to the Norwood Cemetery.

Delegate Named.

Mr. G. A. Brethern has been appointed by the Quarterly Board of the Methodist Church, delegate to the District meeting in Campbellford, on May 26th.

Personals.

Mr. Lumsden was in Napanee, on Monday.

Mrs. Engisch was in Peterborough, on Saturday.

Mrs. Cameron of Westwood, visited her sister, Miss M. Carter, on Wednesday.

Rev. H. Kenney of Campbellford was among those who attended the W.M.S. Convention on Wednesday.

Mr. John Baskin Jr., was in Napanee on Monday.

Miss Beatrice Liscumb was in Peterborough on Saturday

Professor H. E. Ford, Mrs. Ford and son of Toronto are guests at the home of the former's father, Dr. S. P. Ford.

Mrs. (Dr.) Harrison of Keene, was in town this week.

Mrs. Buchanan was a visitor to Peterborough on Saturday.

Mrs. Denike of Havelock, spent Wednesday in town.

Mrs. Honey and daughter, Miss Mabel Honey of Percy, were in town this week.

Miss Thelma Johnson of Toronto spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Laing.

EDUCATION IS NEEDED.

(The Outlook.)

The first need of the hour is not to provide an international police to enforce international law on the nations, but to create an international law because the nations recognize the supreme claims of international justice.

ENORMOUS MOUNTAIN LION KILLED IN ALBERTA

WATERTON LAKES PARK, Alta, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—An enormous mountain lion or cougar was killed here recently by Andrew Bower, Park Ranger. The animal measured 7 feet 11 inches in length. As these animals are one of the most destructive in the mountains and annually kill a large quantity of game, the killing of this lion is of great value to the park authorities in their efforts to protect the deer, sheep, etc. The skin has been forwarded to Dr. Anderson of the Victoria Memorial Museum, Ottawa.

BIRTHDAY PARTY HELD IN OMEMEE BY W.M.S. BRANCH

PRESENTATION TO THE OLDEST MEMBER—OMEMEE NEWS OF INTEREST.

OMEMEE, May 19.—The monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, which was held in the Sunday school room of the Methodist church on May 5th, was a unique affair. It taking the form of a birthday party for the oldest member, Mrs. MaCrea, who on the 6th of May celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday. The usual business meeting was held, reports being given by the secretary, Mrs. (Dr.) Earl, the treasurer, Mrs. Ivory and corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bushnell. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Mulligan, Mrs. (Rev.) Stillman conducted the meeting. The society now has a membership of 76, of whom 57 were present. There are 10 life members and an increase in funds of $72 since last year. Just before the meeting closed, the acting president, Mrs. Stillman, read the following address to Mrs. MaCrea ,and the dainty little daughter of Mrs. Morcombe presented a handsome bouquet of roses:

To Mrs. MaCrea, Omemee:

Dear Mrs. MaCrea,—The members of Omemee Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church, of which you have been a faithful member for so many years, take this opportunity of extending to you their hearty congratulations on this, the occasion of your 88th birthday.

We rejoice that you are still permitted to meet with us and assist in our great work for the Master and trust you may be spared to surpass the four-score years and ten.

As a slight token of esteem and good wishes we ask you to accept this bouquet of roses; to us they betoken life; their beauty a symbol of the beauty of holiness, and their sweet perfume emblematic of the odors of incense, the prayers of the saints of God.

Your life and example will ever prove an inspiration and blessing to us all.

Again wishing you many happy returns of the day.

Signed on behalf of the society—
Mrs. Stillman.
Mrs. G. Earl.

Mrs. MaCrea, although quite overcome for a minute, regained her composure and thanked the ladies in a happy little speech. Miss Parsons then sang 'Mother McChree,' after which dainty refreshments were served. The guest of honor sitting with several old friends at the centre table on which reposed a huge birthday cake. Many were the good wishes and congratulations showered upon the aged lady, who was proclaimed by all to be 88 year young. The hostesses for the happy event were Mrs. T. A. MacPherson, Mrs. Jas. Bushnell, Mrs. P. Race and Mrs. R. Poast.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. S. Faulkner was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Halligan, of Bewdley, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lamb were visitors to Peterborough on Monday.

Mr. A. Clarke of Lindsay, was in town on business recently.

Mrs. MaCrea and Miss Ella MaCrea have returned home after a pleasant week in Toronto.

Messrs. S. J. MacKay, T. E. MacPherson, W. G. Stephenson, Percy Parsons and George Griffin were a delegation to Peterborough on Monday to have the river dredged this summer.

Mr. John Knight of Markham, is in town renewing old acquaintances.

The many friends of Mr. Harry Magee will be pleased to see him around again, after his serious illness.

Mr. George Wilson has commenced digging the cellar of his new home and has given the contract for his cottage to the Morden brothers of Mount Pleasant.

Mr. J. Magee was a visitor to Peterborough on Saturday.

Miss Maynard, and her brother, both of Toronto, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hart over Sunday. Miss Maynard is a colored missionary and leaves for Africa early in July. She gave a very interesting and much appreciated address in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening.

Mr. David Graham is having an auction sale of household goods on his premises next Friday, May 20th. Mr. Graham has sold his home to Mrs. J. Magee and intends moving to Collingwood the last of the month, where he has purchased a grocery business.

Gypsies in Town.

Omemee was again visited by a band of gypsies on Friday, having taken up their usual abode on Sturgeon street north, where they spent the week end. The ladies offered quite a variety of hand-made lace for sale, while the men indulged in horse trading.

Mr. William Glass of Bridgenorth, visited Mr. and Mrs. William Best this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Weir of Peterborough, were the guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. Francis Fee, last week.

GERMANY AND CHINA UNABLE TO MAKE PEACE

NO COMMERCIAL INTERCHANGE ESTABLISHED, ALTHOUGH PEACE LEGALLY DECLARED.

BERLIN, May 19.—(Associated Press).—China and Germany are apparently no closer to an actual restoration of diplomatic relations than they were six months ago in spite of the fact that unofficial delegations are at work in both countries trying to perfect a treaty.

Herr von Borch heads the German delegation which is working in Pekin and Dr. Chang is Chairman of the Chinese delegation which is living at the Chinese legation in Berlin.

Although China passed a resolution declaring it was at peace with Germany, following the refusal of the Chinese to sign the Versailles Treaty because of the disposition made of Shantung Province, the Chinese Government has not yet abrogated its legislation forbidding Germans to carry on business in China.

Consequently, German firms are unable to conduct business with the Chinese in the name of German citizens. While the Chinese war legislation is not rigidly enforced, it still stands on the Chinese statute books, and German trade is not regarded as safe until there is some written agreement between China and Germany which will prevent legal complications.

It now seems unlikely that China will sign a treaty with Germany until the United States devises some plan of restoring diplomatic relations with Germany. China followed America's lead in breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany and did not enter the war against the Central Powers until the United States had done so.

When China entered the war it was as an associated power, and not as an allied power of the Entente. And now it stands with the United States as non-signatory to the Versailles Treaty and critical of the provisions of that treaty. China is a member of the League of Nations, however, having gained admission to that body by signing the Austrian Treaty.

Theoretically, China is at peace with Germany. It has so declared itself by legal enactment. But all the legal steps necessary for the restoration of diplomatic relations must be taken before peaceful relations and commercial interchanges are possible.

China and Germany have not exchanged ministers and consuls. Dr. Chang has the same uncertain position in Berlin that Ellis Loring Dresel, the American Commission, holds. Both the Chinese and American representatives are in Germany merely through the courtesy of the German Government. And Dr. Borch is in Pekin merely as a recognized negotiator without any diplomatic rights or privileges.

How to Rid the Arms of Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty).

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required: Mix a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone.

HAPPENINGS IN HASTINGS

HASTINGS, May 19.—A public meeting was held in the I.O.D.E. rooms on Monday evening for the purpose of organizing a tennis club.

A committee consisting of five, Mrs. H. Chapman, Mrs. (Capt.) Hubbs, Mrs. F. Hawkins, Miss Laura Walsh and Miss Pansy Runnels, was appointed to canvass for members. A nominal fee of $2.00 will be charged for the season the same to be paid before Saturday if possible to Miss Gladys Stevenson, treasurer, then a meeting for organization and election of officers will be called for Monday evening.

Mr. Blake of Roseneath, has purchased the grocery business of Mr. J. Perrault and has opened up for trade.

Mr. Allan Cameron of Peterboro, was in town in Tuesday.

Wednesday 18th., marks the beginning of the yearly half holiday, which will be continued until Sept. 30th.

A game of lacrosse was played on yesterday afternoon between a team from Havelock and the locals, resulting in favour of the visitors by 11-5.

Mrs. Ayre of Ottawa, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. West, town.

Born—In St. John to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crate, (nee Bessie Colville) a daughter.

Mrs. Bryden of Marmora, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. West.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Brown of Roseneath, have been very unfortunate in the loss of their fine large barns by fire the origin of which is unknown. The family were away from home and when the fire was noticed by a neighbor, it was too far advanced to save anything. Their loss contains, 13 fine head of cattle, seven good horses, two brood sows and about seventy hens also a quantity of hay, grain and feed. This is acknowledged to have been one of the finest barns in the county and the stock second to none.

Mr. Branbecker of Kitchener, has been engaged as book-keeper by the Hastings Tanning Co.

Mr. Fred Scriver of Peterboro, is visiting friends here.

Mr. Horchover of the Toyland Creators, Toronto, and Mr. Fowler of the same city, presented a proposition to the Board of Trade and citizens in general.

A joint committee of the village Council and the Board of Trade, have the matter in hand and expect to report in the near future.

The boys of the lacrosse team have received their new sweaters of Royal blue and white and will present a neat appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Spellman are visiting friends in Niagara Falls.

Miss K. Stewart of Peterboro, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. Cruikshanks.

MUST HAVE REVENUE TO SAVE RAILROADS

Willard Admits Private Ownership Cannot Continue Long With Present Returns.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Private ownership of railroads cannot continue if railroads costs, when fair return on capital is considered, continue to exceed revenues, according to Danial Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio, who testified to-day before the Senate Investigating Committee.

Mr. Willard said, however, that railroad conditions, so far as depression and lack of earnings were concerned, differed "only in degree" from those in other industries. The general economic situation and the difficulties encountered in Federal war-time operation of the carriers, he added, were in his opinion largely responsible for present difficulties, and he expressed confidence that private ownership would justify itself financially and work out under the present law.

TRENT RIVER HAPPENINGS

TRENT RIVER, May 19.— The weather has turned cold and high winds prevailed for the past few days, making things unpleasant for visitors who have arrived for the season at their cottages.

Mrs. P. Logan from Smith Falls, is visiting at the parental home.

Mr. A. Wight has greatly improved his resort and has painters engaged at the work.

Mr. John Waters is also improvin ghis residence with a new coat of paint, Mr. Jas. Mann & Son having the contract.

Mr. Faulkner of Havelock, is spending his spare hours re-painting his summer home.

A government tug passed through here trailing a big scow, en route from Healy Falls, to-day.

THE WEATHER

There was another close approach to frost last night, but the thermometer did not succeed in reaching that mark. In a few days the chief danger should be over, but frosts are occasionally experienced until the first week in June, although they are becoming rarer as the years roll by.—W. P.

Mothers--Be Careful

Much of the trouble in weaning the baby is developed by the use of a cheap and unsanitary nipple. The NOBILITY nipple is sterilized and is sanitary, transparent and non-collapsible. It is put up in a separate box with a red band on each nipple. You will meet with the doctor's approval if baby uses NOBILITY nipple. t t s.

SAYS ACID STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION

Excess of hydrochloric acid sours the food and forms gases.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydro-chloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble wth excellent results.

GIRL'S STATEMENT WILL HELP PETERBOROUGH

Many women will profit by the following statement of one of their sex: "I was afraid to eat on account of stomach trouble. Even rice did not agree. After taking Adler-i-ka I can eat anything." Alder-i-ka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing foul matter which poisoned stomach. EXCELLENT for gas on the stomach or sour stomach. Guards against appendicitis. It brings out poisonous matter you never thought was in your system. McDermid & Jury and E. L. Payne, Druggists.

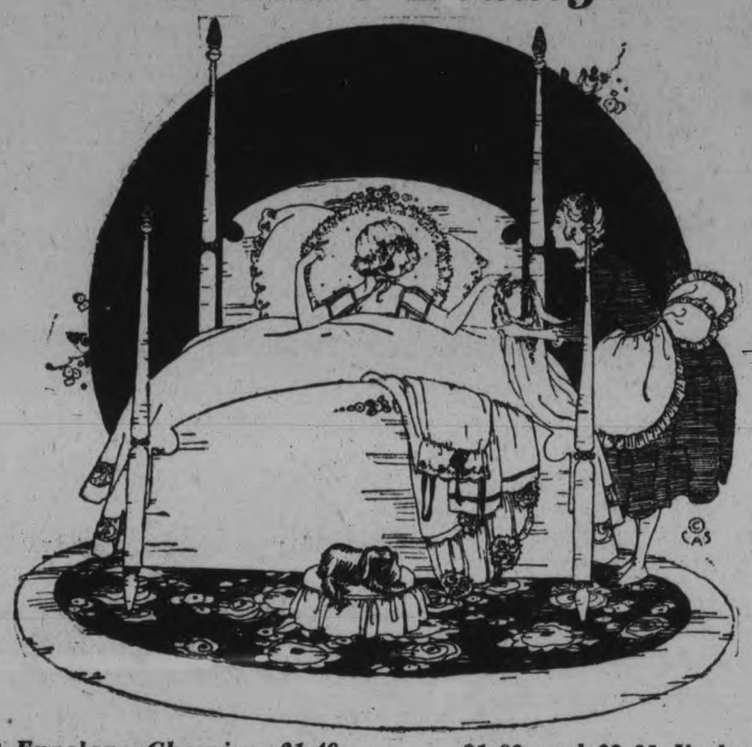
THE MAY SALE OF WHITE

Presents Special Price Opportunities and Dozens of Garments of Rare Beauty



$2.25 and $2.29 Envelope Chemise, $1.49

There is little trimming on these. The maker no doubt decided that it was better to put quality into the material and let the trimming go. However, all the yokes have an edging of lace or embroidery and some are run with ribbon. The lower edges are also edged with lace or embroidery. The material is nainsook.

$2.49 Envelope Chemise, $1.74

Quite plain, but well cut and finished and of substantial white nainsook. The yokes and lower edges are finished with narrow embroidery edging with fine firm edges.

$3.75 and $3.95 Envelope Chemise, $2.49

These are called "French Fashion" because they are pretties with pink hemstitching only. This appears around the yoke, over the shoulders, and also defines the high waistline. The casing at the top is run with pink ribbon. Also hemstitching around the lower edges.

If you are partial to the French machined hand-embroidery you can have a very charming garment in this style.

$4.25 Envelope Chemise for $3.39

An assortment of four patterns. Three of them show narrow, finely worked scalloped edges all around with French machined hand-embroidery motifs on the yoke. Some have strap shoulders and others shaped style. The fourth style has a square neck and hemstitched edges all around, and hemstitched panel pattern on the front with pale blue eyelets in each panel.

$2.25 "Athletic" Envelopes for $1.59

The name "Athletic" is given to this garment because of its suitability for athletic occasions, such as tennis, golf, etc. An inset panel of jersey across the back permits much freedom of the body and prevents a strain on the nainsook portion of the garment. The edges are bound with silk hemstitching and the yoke has three circular rows of silk stitching.

$2.39 to $2.50 Underskirts, $1.79

The material is a fine nainsook, of course. Some have deep frills of torchon or filet. The latter are garnished with tiny bows of pink or blue ribbon. All show a series of frills above the tucks. Also some embroidery flounced ones.

$3.25 to $3.50 Underskirts, $2.74

Extraordinary fine qualities of nainsook are employed in the making of these. There are three distinctly different styles of frills, but all are embroidered. One is a floral scroll, another is a dot and mitre pattern, and the third is a tiny tree in blossom. Wonderfully fine embroideries with firm edges. Also one with a fine val lace frill with embroidery panels worked into the design.

$1.89 and $2.25 Underskirts, $1.48

Made of a fine quality of nainsook; lace or embroidery frills, also dust flounce.

$2.95 Gowns at $2.39

The finest and softest of nainsook is used in these, and the yokes are formed of lovely embroideries run with ribbon, and sometimes of fine lace in pointed panels with insets of embroidery. Smocking appears just beneath the yoke or to the sides. In this assortment there is also a fine specimen of French machined hand-embroidery work. You can have O.S. sizes in many of these. All are short-sleeve models.

$4.25 Gowns at $3.17

We will have to call them nainsook for lack of a better name. They are Oh so fine, and the entire yoke of one is of exquisite embroidery with the edges turned inward and forming a V-shaped yoke. A row of hemstitching goes over the shoulder and another row joins the nainsook to the embroidery. The second has a V yoke with just a narrow beading run with blue ribbon, and the waistline is also defined with the same and the sleeves are finished in a like manner. A third model has a pale blue ribbon bow on the front. Neat embroidery V-shaped neck. In all models the sleeves are short.

$1.89 to $2.25 Gowns, $1.49

All are short kimono sleeve styles; square or round necks edged with embroidery beading and run with ribbon. The material is a white nainsook.

$1.88 Corset Covers at $1.39

$2.50 Combinations, $1.59

A very fine quality of nainsook with a narrow Swiss embroidery beading around the yoke, run with pink ribbon. The lower edges are frilled with a fine Swiss embroidery. Buttons down the front.

The Rug in Our Front Show Window Proves Conclusively That the "Hoover" Does Not Pull the Pile or Destroy the Rug

The rug that is now displayed in our George Street show window was purchased by a well-known Peterborough woman ten years ago. For the past six years it has been cleaned at least twice a week by a Hoover, and is still in splendid condition.

There Are Persons Who Are Either Thoughtless or Ignorant of "Hoover" Efficiency, or Else Maliciously Inclined, Who Will Tell You

"The Hoover pulls the pile and destroys the carpet." This is untrue, and the rug now on display is ample proof.

If you are a prospective Hoover purchaser we would like you to see this rug, or better still, talk with the owner, whose address we can give you, and you can hear her testimonial first hand.

BIG INCREASE IN BUILDING PERMITS FOLLOWS NEW YORK TAX EXEMPTION

RETROACTIVE BILL EXEMPTING ALL HOUSES AND APARTMENTS TO THE EXTENT OF $5,000 HAS STIMULATED BUILDING—THE SHORTAGE OF HOMES IS EXTREME.

NEW YORK, May 19. — Last week saw the largest number of building permits for dwellings that New York has known for many a day. Fourteen hundred and twenty-five were issued. The week before twelve hundred and seventy-five were taken out. They are the direct result of a $5000 tax exemption ordinance which became effective on the 25th February of this year, and which holds good until January 1, 1932.

They Live in Layers.

Even though New Yorkers are of the cliff dwelling type, content to live in layers for the privilege of being in the city, they cannot get house room. With the population increasing one milion in every ten years the city needs 20,000 new houses annually. There has been practically no building for the past five years. Already the house shortage has passed the 100,000 mark.

A Likeable Law.

You can pass laws from now till doomsday and not add one apartment or one house to the place. The first real move in the right direction was the passing of a city ordinance on February 25, 1921, to encourage small builders and small home owners to come back into the building field.

How it Helps Build Homes

This building boosting ordinance is nothing more or less than a $5000 tax exemption for ten years—until January 1, 1932.

If your house costs five thousand or less you do not pay any taxes except for local improvements. On a two-family house you have $10,000 exempt from taxation.

On an apartment house, provided it is for dwelling purposes exclusively, and is not an hotel, you are exempt $5,000 on each five roomed apartment.

If the apartment has more than five rooms that does not increase the exemption. It stays at $5000 for each apartment.

If apartments contain only two, three or four rooms, then the exemption is $1000 per room.

Building must be started by April 1st, 1932, and completed within two years.

The bill is retroactive. If such buildings have been completed since April 1, 1920, they are entitled to exemption, and also if they were in course of construction September 27, 1920, and completed within two years after the Act took effect.

For those who Feel the Rub.

The ordinance is planned to produce small houses and medium class apartments—dwellings for those who need them most ,the white collar brigade, who are neither laborers nor millionaires.

It seems to work.

In the ten weeks immediately following the enactment of this ordinance, that is from Feb. 2 to May , this year, permits were taken out for the erection of one and two family dwellings that would house 1614 families, or an increase of 43 per cent. over permits for dwellings for 1128 families in the same period of 1920.

More Cells for the Beehive.

The apartment house permits for the same ten weeks provided for 3276 apartments. In the same period in 1920 there were only permits for 553 apartments. The increase was 492 per cent. The total of 4892 habitations is 110 per cent. more dwellings than were contracted for in the corresponding ten weeks of 1920.

Naturally the increase in apartments has been much greater than the increase in individual dwellings.

"Own your own home," is a practical ideal in Toronto. It is an impossible idea for most of New York. Land is too dear to devote any area of it, within reasonable distance of the centre of affairs, to sustaining just one house.

Biff for Big Rent Some Day.

Colin H. Woodward, secretary of the Borough of Manhattan, says there is no immediate prospect of rent reduction. It is too early. What he hoped for is to arrest the increase and get enough dwellings to make competition bring rents down.

Small houses for which permits have been issued, will, he says, be ready for occupation in three or four months, and apartment houses in from six to eight months.

MRS. W. E. SANDFORD, of Hamilton, president of the National Council of Women.

YALE SUSPENDS ENTIRE CLASS OVER CHEATING

EIGHT SOPHOMORES OF SHEFFIELD SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL EXPELLED; 13 ON PROBATION FOR NOT TELLING.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 19.—The expulsion of eight sophomores from Sheffield Scientific School of Yale and the placing of thirteen more on probation were announced on Saturday. The twenty-one students, constituting an entire class, were found guilty of violating the honour system at a recent examination.

Their punishment, the severity of which is causing comment throughout the university, was decided upon by the Faculty Discipline Committee on the recommendation of the Student Discipline Committee. The prompt and decisive action of the latter body in the matter is taken to show that the sentiment of the students is strongly in favour of the honour system.

Eight Accused of Cheating.

It is alleged that eight men who were expelled "cribbed" on the examination. The other thirteen were found guilty of failing to inform on their companions. The names of the students were not made public. It is said that none of them was prominent in college activities.

The discipline of an entire class, with the expulsion of nearly half the members, is said to be the strongest measure ever taken here to uphold the honour system.

That system compels every student to give his word of honour not to give or accept help of any kind in answering questions and to pledge himself also to report all violations of this promise that he may discover. When the honour system was introduced it supplanted the monitor system, under which instructors patrolled the classroom during an examination and enforced honesty by his vigilance.

In Force Five Years.

The honour system was introduced at the Sheffield Scientific School five years ago, and recently the question of introducing it in Yale College has been agitated. Discussion of this suggestion has received new impetus as a result of the severe punishment administered at the instance of representatives of the Sheffield student body to the twenty-one members of the sophomore class.

LANDSLIDE DAMAGES SEVERAL VILLAGES IN REGGIO CALABRIA.

MILAN, May 19.—The Reggio Calabria district has been visited by a calamity nearly as great as the 1907 earthquake. A big landslide occurred, four miles long by a mile deep, engulfing forests, vineyards, and several villages.

Where villas and orange groves stood there is now only a shapeless mass of earth and boulders surrounded by puddles.

Fortunately no loss of life occurred, the landslide having moved slowly from mountain to valley.

The villagers were terrified, the accident happening at night, with deep, constant rumbles like far-away thunder, which frightened the superstitious peasants nearly out of their senses. When daylight came and forests were seen to move and topple over, excitement knew no bounds. Nothing was saved, and the damages total several million lire.

WIFE'S FAULT WHEN HUSBAND BEATS HER.

LONDON, May 19. — "Wives should not be beaten," was the view recently advanced by Magistrate Symmons at the Clerkenwell Police Court when a young wife applied for a separation order on the ground of cruelty.

"I have invariably found," said Mr. Symmons, "that when a man knocks his wife about it is her own fault. There was once a good old law under which a man could thrash his wife as long as the stick was no thicker than his thumb."

Mrs. Margaret B. Nevinson, Justice of the Peace, does not agree with this. Interviewed on Mr. Symmons' statement, she said:

"This is not an age to glorify brute force. What about the fellow who comes home drunk and knocks his wife about? Is he to have the approval of our magistrates the following day?

"Briefly, it raises a question I thought was dead? Should wives be thrashed? Certainly not!"

TROOPS ON THE RHINE TO HEAR CONCERTS BY WIRELESS TELEPHONE.

THE HAGUE, May 19.—Concerts by wireless telephone for the entertainment of the Allied troops on the Rhine and many thousands of people travelling on the seas are soon to be started under a scheme for which Herman Darewski, the composer, is responsible.

The concerts, Mr. Darewski has explained, will be given twice a week here, on Sundays and on Thursdays, and will be picked up by the wireless telephone and transmitted to all stations with receiving apparatus within 500 miles of The Hague. The latest musical successes will be reproduced as well as classical music. It is estimated that 100,000 people will hear the first concert, soon to be given here.

SAFETY WEEK
Be careful not to buy any Vacuum Cleaner till you see the "EUKERA."

After many months of correspondence and careful planning, we finally secured the consent of the Eureka Electric Vacuum Cleaner Co. to hold this "25 Club." For a considerable time, clubs similar to this have been held in Toronto, and with great success, and they were strictly confined to that city, so that the outside people had very little opportunity to join before the Club Membership was completed.

EUREKA
Electric
Vacuum Cleaner

This is the Cleaner that "Gets the Dirt"—not the Carpet. The Cleaner that won the highest possible award at five world's fairs.

THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY

Now that we have been fortunate enough to have permission granted us, to hold this "25" Membership Club, to have the Eureka Vacuum Cleaner placed in your home by paying $2.50 down and $1.00 a week afterwards until Cleaner is paid for.

THE FIRST ANNUAL EUREKA "25" CLUB

is rigidly restricted to 25 members—the Eureka Co. have placed in our store only 25 of these "Get the Dirt—Not the Carpet Machines" to be sold on this special 25 club plan. You pay only the regular price—no additional charges—for this Vacuum Cleaner on the club plan. It is the self same cash price. The only difference is that you pay $2.50 down and $1.00 a week until the Cleaner is paid for.

RAILWAYS HERE TO CUT WAGES

CANADIAN RAILWAYS PROPOSE REVISION OF WAGE SCALE AND WORKING CONDITIONS.

MONTREAL, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—It was stated at the offices of the Canadian Railway Association yesterday that notices had been issued by the Canadian Railways to employees that the time hod come for general revision of wages and working conditions.

This means downward readjustment of wages and as regards working conditions the abolition of the present onerous conditions imposed on carriers by the terms of the McAdoo Award. Notice of termination of existing wage and working term agreements have been sent out by the railways and these will be handled by the Railway Association of Canada on behalf of all railways.

C. D. Riddell, secretary of the Railway Association, stated yesterday that no immediate action was looked for but that preliminary steps were being taken by the Railways which would be followed by conferences between the executives of the railways and representatives of the men.

ANNUAL MEETING AT MOUNT JULIAN

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE ELECT OFFICERS—PERSONAL MENTION.

MOUNT JULIAN, May 18. — The annual meeting of the Mount Julian Women's Institute was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Chas. Lauder, on May 5th, with a good attendance. All officers were re-elected for this year, the minutes read and confirmed, and a delightful programme of vocal and instrumental music rendered. Reference was made to the resolution passed last year to observe the last Sunday in May as Father's Day, and the attention of the members drawn to this date. The meeting closed with tea, served by the hostess.

Mrs. I. D. Church has been called to Toronto by the illness of her father.

The delegate meeting will be held on June 16th at Mt. Julian, the delegate being Mrs. Robt. Cronk, of Pickering. Mrs. Cronk was born and educated in North Carolina, and for some time taught school there. Since her marriage she has lived near Pickering, but has always taken a keen interest in all matters educational. She will have information of a practical and valuable nature.

Mothers' Day services at Eden Methodist church were well attended. Rev. Mr. Hall of Apsley, gave a splendid sermon from the text, "Honor Thy Mother," and a duet entitled "Our Mother's Way" was rendered by Miss Carr and Miss Brown.

Rev. Mr. Mallot of Peterborough, and Rev. Mr. Hall of Apsley, were guests of Mrs. Jas. Reid on Wednesday last.

Mrs. Wm. Church of 472 Cedar street, Peterborough, represented the Women's Institute of Mount Julian at the Social Service Convention held in Peterborough last week.

Mrs. Jno. McFadden was the guest of Mrs. Bruce Reid for the week end.

Miss E. Brown and Miss G. Carr were guests of Miss T. Church on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Northey visited Mr. Jos. Northey over the week end.

Miss Irene Thompson is spending her vacation at her home in Mount Julian.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Reid motored to Lakefield on Friday last.

Mr. J. Northey and Miss E. Northey spent Saturday last in Lakefield.

Miss Carr and her pupils from Lower Burleigh school, came up to Mount Julian school on Saturday to play baseball with Miss Brown's class, and enjoyed a keen game, after which lunch was served.

Her many friends will be pleased to learn of Mrs. Jos. Church's return to her home from the hospital.

GUN CLUB MAY ENTER SHOOT AT STIRLING

The Peterborough Gun Club will hold their weekly shoot at their grounds Friday evening at 6.30. All members are requested to be present, any new members will be welcome and made to feel at home by the Membership committee. The Club are thinking of sending a squad to Stirling for a shoot on the 24th of May. Any members who are able to make the trip will kindly notify the secretary, Chris. Wood.

LABOR WASTE COSTS MILLIONS, ROADS CHARGE

TEN CASES FILED WITH SENATE COMMITTEE TO SUPPORT ATTACK ON THE NATIONAL AGREEMENTS.

BACK PAY FOR NO WORK

WASHINGTON, May 19.— The Association of Railway Executives gave out a list of ten cases filed with the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee by Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific, to support his assertion that the national agreements compel the roads to pay for much work that is not done. According to him, the abnormal increase in railroad labor costs is not due to high wages alone but also to the national agreements. The cases are said to be typical. They are:

The Pere Marquette Railway was compelled to pay $9,364 in back pay to four employees because their titles under these agreements were changed by a decision of the Director General while the nature of their duties and the volume of their work remained the same.

A car repairer on the Virginian Railway was paid $1,000 for work he never did. He was laid off with other employees because there was no work for him to do. When he became entitled under his 'seniority rights" to be re-employed he received back pay and overtime.

$6,500,000 in Extra Time.

The shop crafts agreement provides that when employees are required to check in and out on their own time they will be paid for one hour extra at the close of each week, no matter how few hours they may have worked. This rule in the first six months of 1920 cost the railways $6,500,000, or at the rate of $13,000,000 a year.

On the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad piecework car repairers decreased 41.4 per cent and air brake repairers 3.4 per cent in efficiency under a guarantee of a fixed minimum rate per hour.

On the abolition of piece work on the Union Pacific Railroad in the wheel shop at Omaha Neb., the time required for the same work was increased 31.9 per cent and the output was cut down 24 per cent; and in a coach cleaning yard at Denver the time required was increased 38.8 per cent and the output decreased 28 per cent.

An employee of the Southern Pacific's Tuscon, Ariz., shops was paid $50.05 for three days' work because he was sent 214 miles to repair a gas engine, forty-five and one-half hours being punitive overtime, most of which was spent in travelling or waiting. As a result of several emergencies of this kind, he was allowed 377 1-2 hours in a twenty-three-day working month, earning $272.16, and a pipe fitter from the same shop was allowed 391 hours in a twenty-three-day month, earning $281.52, mostly punitive and double time allowed while travelling in addition to his expenses.

$14,436 to Gang to Fifteen

A conspicuous example of ridiculously high compensation of unskilled labor is that of a gang of men on the Southern Pacific who place blue flag signals on trains in yards and who couple and uncouple steam and air hose. When any of these men are absent, car cleaners were used as substitutes, the classification of these being changed by the Director General from watchmen with laborers' pay, to carmen, and back pay awarded to January 1, 1918. The gang consisted to fifteen man, all unskilled, and they were given back pay during Federal control of $14,436.

Southern Pacific employees whose sole duty was to keep watch on stationary engines and to stop the engine in case anything went wrong were re-classified by the Director General as "electrical workers", one man on the Salt Lake division being given back pay of $2,381, another, $2,004; another, $2,000; another, $2,003; and six others amounts varying from $1,500 to $1,000.

$215 a Month for Unskilled Work

Under the present classification rules of the shop crafts, to change a nozzle tip in the front of a locomotive it is necessary to call a boilermaker and his helper to open the door because that is boilermaker's work; to call a pipe man and his helper to remove the blower pipe, because that is pipemen's work; and to call a machinist and his helper to remove the tip, because that is machinists' work; also for the same force to be employed for putting in the new tip.

Men employed to couple and uncouple hose between the cars (not as difficult or hazardous a task as hitching a span of mules) are now classed as carmen, receiving 80 cents an hour with time and one-half for Sundays and holidays, averaging about $215 per month, for working seven hours and forty minutes a day.

LAWN BOWLING

The formal opening of the season will take place on May 24th.

To-morrow (Friday) the executive will appoint the skips and form the rinks. The Games committee will then draw up the schedule, which commences on Monday, May 30th. As the schedule will be a long one, consisting of rink games, singles and doubles, it is imperative that all games be played as scheduled. Games will start at 7.30 p.m. and skips will be held responsible for the members of their rink being on hand. The personnel of the rinks will be announced in the press on Saturday. Next week will be devoted to practice games and all members and intending members are asked to be out and get in shape for the season's work.

The Newmarket lawn bowlers are going to pay us a visit on Wednesday, June 22nd, and we want our members to assist the committee in every way possible to make their visit enjoyable.

MERCANTILERS.

Alex. Kay will handle the Mercantile League game this evening, between Cressman's and Barrie's, and will start the contest at six o'clock. Bartley and Henry will be the opposing twirlers.

Bob Carson is leaving town, and Canadian Generals will likely use "Bun" Frost in Saturday's game.

The City Leaguers will have the first contest on Saturday afternoon. Y.M.C.A. asked that a change be made.

Bankers and Generals will provide a Juvenile series game at Riverside Park to-morrow evening.

KING EDWARDS.

King Edward Seniors played good ball behind Bradley's fine pitching, and the Southerners defeated Centrals in a Public School League game yesterday afternoon, by the score of 10 to 5.

King Edwards knocked Johnston out of the box in the first inning, scoring six runs. Thornton twirled the remainder of the game.

If King Edwards can defeat Queen Mary next week, they will tie with the Westerners for the leadership of the series.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterborough, May 19th, 1921.

Mr. Editor:

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly allow me to correct a staement made by the Chief of the Fire Department in last night's issue of The Examiner. He stated that the fire was caused by T. L. Anderson putting hot ashes against the back of his stable. I wish the Chief and all others to distinctly understand that I never at any time placed hot ashes at the back of the stable, nor did any one in the house do so. If hot ashes were placed against the stable they must have been placed there by others. Had I done so they would have been placed near by own door and not the length of the stable away from it.

Thanking you for your kind space, I remain.

Yours truly,
T. L. ANDERSON.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—Declines ranging from 1 to 3 points in several of the prominent speculative issues marked the early dealings on the Stock Exchange today. Pressure was most apparent in Crucible Steel, People's Gas and Sumatra Tobacco. Some of the motor issues and junior oils also eased and rails manifested none of the previous day's strength, most of the leaders re-acting fractionally. New York Air Brake recorded the only noteworthy gain, rising two points, despite yesterday's cut in dividend

Professional pressure made further headway during the morning on the unusually small amount of business. Independent Steels, motors, equipments, sugars and utilities shared in the general decline of 1 to 3 points. Numerous specialties, whose dividend prospects have become increasingly doubtful in the last few days, were heavy or weak.

Famous Players, Sears, Roebuck, Remington Typewriter, and National Enamelling lost one to four points. Dividend paying rails of the type featured by Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Great Northern, and New York Central, forfeited all their gains of the previous day.

Chemical shares were the only specialties to show a strong tone, rising one to two points. Call money opened at 7 per cent.

International Paper, Republic Iron, Tobaccos and low priced Oils gained 1 to 2 points later, but changes elsewhere were nominal. The closing was irregular.

The market leaders registered additional losses during the dull midsession. Steels, Motors and Oils, as well as Metals, Sugars and Textiles, were conspicuously heavy. The postponement of dividend action on Hocking Valley coincided with the re-actions of from one to two points in the coal group.

TORONTO, May 19.—(Canadian Pacific—The Toronto collapse of Riordon pulp to a new low record at 18 featured this morning's trading of the Toronto Stock Exchange. Brazilian was extremely active, but the market generally showed a disposition to weaken. Opening at last night's closing figure 21 3-4, Riordon dropped quickly at noon at the low mark of the session. Brazilian opened quite strongly at thirty three but it forfeited practically the whole of yesterday's advance on realizing sales. The noon price was 31 1-4. F. N. Burt preferred gained a point at 108. Spanish River Common weakened fractionally to 72 1-2 preferred stock scelling at 79.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—Action of the wheat market to-day failed to justify rumors that a big break in prices would result from the passage of an anti-pit bill by the upper house of the Illinois Legislature. Instead of flocking to bear side, the majority of traders took the view that any unusual setback in values would furnish a good opportunity to buy and that the anti-pit measure was still a long way from enactment. Fresh crop damage reports from the south west tended also to steady the market which, although ranging somewhat lower ,kept well within the ordinary limits.

Opening quotations which varied from 1-2 to 2 1-2 C lower were followed by rallies that in some cases brought the market back to the same as yesterday's finish.

Corn swayed with wheat. After opening 3-8 to 1 3-8 lower, the market soon recovered most of the loss and for May delivery reached yesterday's final figures. Oats took the same course as other cereals, starting 3-8 to 3-4 down, and later turning up grade. Provisions were steadied by firmness in the hog market.

Later the corn market receded as a result of favorable weather and of reports that planting showed rapid progress. The close was unsettled with July 60 5-8 to 60 3-4.

Subsequently the wheat market scored a material advance but reports of rain in Kansas brought about free selling and temporary declines. The close, nevertheless, was strong with May 152 to 153 and July 119 3-4 to 120.

LIVESTOCK MARKET.

TORONTO, May 19. — Cattle receipts were light; trade steady Quotations: Heavy beef steers, $9.50 to $10.25; butcher steers, choice, $9 to $10; butcher cows, medium, $5 to $7.50; calves, $11 to $12.50; lambs, $12 to $13; hogs, selects, $19.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, May 19. (Canadian Press.)—Sterling exchange steady; demand $4.00; Canadian dollar 16¼ per cent. discount.

Members of the Central Ontario League Club, who are to play in Keene to-morrow night, are reminded that the cars will leave the Water street alleys at 5 o'clock.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH

The fourth and final meeting of the Trustee and Quarterly Official Boards of George street Methodist Church was held on Tuesday evening. Reports of the year's work were recieved from the various socities and departments. These showed that all departments were in an extremely flourishing condition.

The pastor, Rev. W. Harold Young reported the net total membership of the church to be 1127, an increase of 17 after all removals were deducted.

Epworth League.

The Epworth League reported a most successful year, closing with a membership of 71 and a contribution to mission of $250.00.

Sunday School

The reports of both George St. and Grace Sunday Schools, showed that splendid work is being accomplished under the leadership of Geo. Robertson and A. F. Hagerman. The total membership of George St. School is 881 with a home department and cradle roll of 267. The membership of Grace school is 100. During the past year the King's Bank at George street has produced a missionary contribution of $500.

Missionary Societies

The Fidelis Mission Band, Mission Circle and Woman's Missionary Society reported a goodly membership and a contribution to the missionary cause totalling $775.00.

Ladies Aid.

The Ladies Aid showed in their report that the members had accomplished considerable work during the year. A total of $2,248.00 was raised, most of which was spent on improvements.

Reports of church funds also showed that a forward move had been made during the past year; $3,577.95 has been contributed for missions, which is an increase over last year. Total receipts to the regular current fund were $6,225.00. This report showed that a slight reficit carried over from 1919-20 has been wiped out, and that all requirements for the past year will be fully met.

Candidate for Ministry

Mr. Charles Armstrong, who has most successfully passed his preliminary examinations was recommended to District Meeting, as one who should be accepted as a candidate for the ministry.

District Visitors

Election for District Visitors resulted as follows: J. E. Stevens, J. Hartley, H. Moore, G. Powell, A. Northey, J. Spencer C. Stevens, W. Fisher, D. H. Kerneghen, R. C. Heard and Miss Crane.

Dr. J. E. Middleton was appointed as representative at the District Meeting

Board of Stewards

The following were elected as the Board of Stewards for the coming year, E. E. Ingall, B. F. Ackerman, H. C. Stabler, S. R. Armstrong, Dr. Middleton G. C. Carruthers, C. E. Smith, F. Brownscombe, Geo. Robertson, J. J. Hartley, Nelson Routley, Mrs. Stubbs and H. G. Walker.

A DISTINGUISHED PREACHER IN PETERBORQUGH SUNDAY

The people of Peterborough will have an opportunity of hearing a great preacher on Sunday.

Dr. O. C. S. Wallace, of Montreal, comes to Murray street Baptist church on the occasion of the 75th anniversary of its organization.

Dr. Wallace was formerly the Chancellor of McMaster University, but is at present pastor of Westmount Baptist church. He is a man of most attractive personality, and a very strong preacher. Last Sunday he was one of the speakers at the Southern Baptist convention in Virginia.

The choir of Murray street will be out in its full force and will be assisted for the day by Miss Flavelle and Mrs. Reesor, of Lindsay.

Those who have pews in the church will do well to be present ten minutes before the hour of service.

AN ARTIFICIAL RINK PROBABLE FOR ST. KITTS

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., May 19.—A good hockey and curling rink looks nearer to St. Catharines now than for many years. The Chamber of Commerce having taken up the project, an option on a site has been obtained and a meeting of the committee in charge will be held tonight to make further plans. The public will be asked to take stock in the enterprise.

At St. Catharines is a "soft" winter point, with Jack Frost never to be depended upon, it will have to be an artificial ice plant rink, something the people of St. Catharines have been agitating for years, as they want to get into the hockey game. It is believed that, like lacrosse, there is enough native material here to put a hockey team in any company, because the born lacrosse player naturally plays hockey.

REPORT ON PENSIONS.

OTTAWA, May 19.—The report from the Special Committee on Pensions, Insurance and Re-establishment is expected to reach the Commons about Monday. The committee, it is understood, is now taking up the questions of housing and unemployment in Executive session and will probably spend another day or so on these two problems.

OUR ENDORSEMENT goes with "THE SCOFFER"

To Our Patrons:
It must be a strikingly unusual photodrama to win our special endorsement. It must be a portrayal of men, women and emotion so real and virile as to stand abruptly dramatic; and because "The Scoffer" is one photodrama you'll remember in a hundred we unhesitatingly commend it to you

DEATH OF MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT.

Knit Socks During Uninteresting Debates.

LONDON, May 19.—The death of J. Cathcart Wason, member of Parliament for the Orkney and Shetland Islands, removes one of the most original characters in the House. Mr. Wason was 78 years old, and stood six feet six inches in height.

He developed the curious habit some years ago of knitting socks during slack times in the Commons, not actually in the House but in the tea-room or one of the whips' rooms, while uninteresting debates were going on in the Chamber.

He said his original purpose in learning to knit was to commend himself to the womenfolk of Orkney and Shetland during his electoral campaigns, but he found afterwards that it was a soothing occupation for dull hours.

"Character in Housefurnishing"

"Character in House Furnishing" is the title of a little article about the right sort of furnishings for the true home, which says:

'Just as tact is knowing what not to say, so good furnishing is knowing what not to buy. William Morris has said: 'The arrangement of our houses ought surely to express the kind of life we lead or desire to lead,' but, could many of our homes be stripped of the bric-a-brac and ornaments valued only because 'everyone has them,' we would find more beauty that would appeal to every one who came in contact with it. It would not be possible to take the overfurnished house of to-day and, by taking out what was superfluous, to get the desired effect, but, starting at the foundation of furnishing, were every article of furniture actually needed for the use and comfort of the occupants of the home, and article beautiful in itself and harmonious in its environment, the result would be, without fail, an artistic whole. But while it is not possible for every woman to have the surroundings she wishes, surely somewhere in the home can be one little corner she may call her own, and where she may put those things that are an inspiration.

"One woman who knows the effect of environment has one little nook in the home where she keeps her desk, and about that desk are her helps to character. Simple, in the way of pictures, inexpensive, but each satisfying some craving of her nature. The lesson of cheeriness and good work in the face of death looks down upon it from the pictured face of Robert Louis Stevenson; the serious, purposeful countenance of Charles Lamb; Scott, who labored for long years to pay his debts, and stands here for honor; the earnest, enthusiastic face of the young Dickens; "Madame Le Brun and Daughter," with its message of domestic love, adventures and mystery in the eager old sailor of "Raleigh's Boyhood," and the brooding lad who follows his pointing finger—all these gather about this woman's desk, each with its separate message for her.

"Most women have a love of the beautiful, and are sensitive to their surroundings. A print of a beautiful picture, a plaster copy of some great sculpture will flash a message of beauty and joy to them that will lift them for a moment out of the commonplace or sad into the mystic world of its artist maker. And since these are to be had now for comparatively little, it is worth a woman's while to surround herself in her home with such as have a special and uplifting message for her."

Peterboro Horticultural Society Seeks to Beautify Waste Places

The Peterborough Horticultural Society, with its slogan, "ABeautiful Peterborough," has started out with a 1921 objective of a thousand members. As they say, "These are the days of co-operation. As a society, the horticulturists have an influence that is denied them as individuals. The example of one man who beautifies his lawns and grounds is felt by and acts as a stimulus to his neighbors. How much more good would 1,000 such men and women do for Peterborough?"

The society, which has the extremely low annual membership fee of $1.00, has a splendid list of options, including flowers of all sorts, iris, peony, geranium, dahlias, begonias, shrubs, spiraea, honeysuckle, mock orange, hydrangea, miscellaneous seedlings of many varieties, flowers, currants, grape vines, raspberries and strawberries. So excellent is the selection that a recent subscription was received from Toronto, from a woman who realized that the Peterborough Horticultural Society would give her more for her money than her own home town.

The aims and objects are itemized as follows:

To foster and encourage all horticultural activities in and around the city of Peterborough, by

(a) encouraging the improvement of home, factory and public grounds;

(b) holding meetings for discussion and for hearing lectures on subjects pertaining to the theory and practice of improved horticulture;

(c) holding an annual lawn and garden competition;

(d) holding exhibitions.

It would be a fine thing if the rising generation would co-operate with the society, as they do in some places, to preserve from injury flowers, trees and lawns. The wanton spirit which ruthlessly tears up fresh blooms from garden or field and leaves them strewn over a hot and dusty roadway, the little hands which strip tender sprouting limbs and young foliage from tree and shrub and the small feet which make such ugly imprints on spring lawns and terraces might be trained then to preserve, instead of destroy, the defenceless living plant-life of good old Mother Earth.

PIMPLES AND ERUPTIONS

Due to Bad Blood Which Must be Purified.

Many people, both men and women, suffer from skin troubles, such as eczema, blotches, pimples, and irritations. It is a great mistake for those suffering from troubles of this kind to smear themselves with greasy ointments. Often they could not do anything worse, for the grease clogs the pores of the troubled skin and the condition becomes actually worse.

When there are pimples or eruptions, or an irritating or itching rash a soothing boracic solution may help to allay the irritation, but of course that does not remove the trouble. Skin complaints come from an impure condition of the blood, and will continue until the blood is thoroughly purified. It is well known that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had splendid results in many forms of skin disorders and blemishes. This is due to the fact that these pills enrich the blood and this new blood attacks the impurities that give rise to skin troubles and disperses them. Among those who have found relief through the use of this medicine is Mr. Charles Hedge, South Woodslee, Ont., who says: 'I was a great sufferer from boils for almost a year. I tried several remedies, but they did not help me, and I was becoming thin and looked worn out. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking five boxes the boils disappeared, and I have not been troubled with them since. In other ways, too, I felt better."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Recipes

Cold Fillets of Beef.

Two and a half pounds of fillet of beef, 2 oz. of margarine, one onion, one carrot, half a turnip, one bay leaf, six peppercorns, half a teaspoonful of mixed herbs tied in muslin, one or two tomatoes, glaze, ne tablespoonful of grated horseradish, one gill of mayonnaise, one gill of aspic jelly, watercress, salt, pepper. Cut the fillet into rounds about the size of the top of a tumbler, trim off all fat or gristle, wash, peel, and slice the vegetables, melt the margarine in a pan, and when hot add the vegetables, herbs, bay leaf, and seasoning. Fry pale brown, then put in the fillets and fry until nicely browned outside, turning often. They should be slightly underdone. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and brush over with glaze. When cold, coat with mayonnaise. Dip the tomatoes into boiling water, skin gently, and cut into slices. Place a slice on each fillet. Arrange the fillets in a circle on an entree dish, put a little grated horseradish on each, place a little well-washed watercress in the centre, and garnish with chopped aspic.

Number Thirteen

Although there are some people who regard the number thirteen as their lucky numeral, like Maxine Elliott and President Wilson, for example, there are still very, very many who consider it a sign of evil. The 13th floor in an office or apartment building is the most difficult to rent, according to real estate agents; in most hotels there is no guest chamber of this number, young ladies rarely choose the 13th for a wedding day, and even strong-minded persons are averse to sitting down to a meal with thirteen around the table, the idea being that one of the number will die during the following twelve months, a notion ascribed to the fact of there being thirteen at the Last Supper table.

Then there is the spilling of the salt, which accident is supposed to foretell accident and trouble, or a quarrel if spilled when being passed from one person to another at the table. The curse may be lifted by throwing a pinch of the material over the right shoulder. This bit of superstition has been traced back to the Romans, who used salt in their religious sacrifices, and to spill it, after being placed on the head of the victim, was considered a bad omen.

Salt is also one of the many ingredients against the machinations of the witches, who were a source of trouble to our ancestors in many ways.

With regard to bread, if a loaf accidentally breaks in the hand of an unmarried woman, it is a sign that she will be unwed for a twelvemonth, or that there will be a serious dissension in her family. Turning a loaf upside down after cutting it was an evil omen in former days. A crust of bread carried in the pocket was also thought to ensure good luck in ancient times.

And there is the beginning of anything on Friday, and the aversion of most people to passing under a ladder, and the evil which inevitably attends the opening of an umbrella in a house. Also, there are peacock's feathers, which carry with them an atmosphere of ill-luck, and the black cats which inadvertently cross one's path when starting out on a journey, and the passing of another on the stairs—all these and many other things haunt the paths of the righteous and the unrighteous alike, to form pitfalls for unwary feet.

Art Association

The Women's Art Association is to be congratulated on its acquisition of one of the most popular of Miss Katherine E. Wallis' entries at her recent exhibit here. It is a decorative panel in relief work, entitled "The Goodlie Fellowship of Solitude," depicting the peaceful form of a young maiden with open book resting quietly on her lap. A bookcase suggested in the background and tall flower-filled vase at her elbow supply decorative notes, and a greyhound stretched at her feet in an attitude of reposeful relaxation carries out the peaceful suggestion of the whole panel, one of quiet, pleasant meditation.

Palmistry

Persons who are always worrying have long fingers.

People with short fingers are quicker and act more from impulse than those with long ones.

Skilled watchmakers always have large hands, while builders of pyramids and colossal temples have small ones.

The individual who is careful in dress and behavior usually has long fingers.

Extravagance is indicated by supple fingers that have a tendency to turn backward.

A New Branch

On Sunday evening, May 15th, a branch of the Catholic Women's League was established in Ennismore. Mrs. G. H. Popham, 1st Vice-President of the Peterborough subdivision, with several other members of the Executive, motored to Ennismore and were cordially received by Rev. Father McAuley. A meeting was held and officers were elected and instructed in their duties. This branch will form another link in this rapidly-growing Dominion-wide organization.

Household Hints

Don't Send for the Carpenter when your table drawers and doors stick in hot weather. Instead, save his bill by rubbing a little brown soap on the table or doorframe that sticks and it will move smoothly.

How Many Odd Stockings have you thrown away because you could not find their mates after wash day? You can stop this leak by sewing an ordinary dress snapper on the top of each stocking and then fastening the pairs together.

A PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT

Worry and Adrenalin.

Every time we are excited, every time we worry a reflex action is sent to the adrenals, which causes a pouring into the system of adrenalin, the latter increasing the heart action and the arterial tension. This fact explains why worry and excitement so often lead to arteriosclerosis, heart disease and nephritis.—Dr. Edmund M. Pond, Surgeon to Rockland Hospital, before Vermont Dental Society.

HOUSEHOLD ECONOMIES

Don't Throw Away Those Net Curtains because they are torn. Dip squares of net into cold starch, apply to the rent on the wrong side of the curtain, and iron with a hot iron. The net will blend with the original curtain in such a way that the tear cannot be seen.

Instead of Paying a Carpenter to mend the holes in your floor after the removal of water or gas pipes, plug them yourself with new corks of the proper size. The corks will take any floor stain and prevent the mended places from being noticeable.

Do You Let Your Brooms Stand bristle downward on the floor when not in use? To increase the length of usefulness of brooms and brushes, tack a heavy cord to one side of the handle a little above the middle, and hang up with the brush end down. These articles should be kept clean by washing occasionally with warm soapy water.

Before Baking Potatoes let them stand in hot water for at least fifteen minutes, and they will bake in less than half the ordinary length of time.

Keep Your Stockings from getting "runs" by putting a row of machine stitches around each stocking three or four inches from the top.

Knowing How to Read the Gas, Water and Electric Meters, and the minimum charge for each, will save you money. For instance, in summer one may use an electric iron toaster freely, since less electricity is used for lighting than in winter. In winter, when the greater part of the cooking is done on the coal range, the gas may be used for other purposes to raise the meter to the minimum. So in summer the washing machine may be run by electricity, and in winter, when little water is used, by an attachment to the water faucet.

Keep Your Bacon Rind; it adds a delicious flavor to vegetables, taking the place of butter for this purpose.

For Your Summer Bungalow which is located where ice is unprocurable or expensively scarce use this cold box: Select two boxes, one twelve inches larger in all dimensions than the other. Bury the larger box on the north side of the house so that it is level with the ground. Put a twelve-inch layer of clean sand in the bottom and on it place the smaller box, then fill in all round with clean sand. Close with a double lid on hinges. Each morning pour a pail of cool fresh water on the sand.

To Get More Cream than usual from milk heat the milk until lukewarm, then suddenly chill it. This will bring more cream to the surface.

If You are Buying Woollen Goods for next winter at a summer sale, and you want to make sure you are not getting a mixture of wool and cotton, burn a sample. If the material contains any cotton the flame will run along the line where the cotton is.

Find Out How Much Pectin is in your fruit juice before you make jelly, and avoid having a lot of unjellied jelly. Without pectin jelly will not jell. To one tablespoonful of alcohol, and if a gelatinous mass which can be gathered up on a spoon results, pectin is present and that juice will make good jelly. If the pectin is not there, cook the juice again with the white inner skin from oranges or lemons, both of which contain plenty of pectin, until a gelatinous mass forms when tested.

Save Your Bits of Soap. Punch holes in the top of a baking-powder tin can and keep the soap bits in the can, and you'll have, at no cost, a suds producer for dishwashing.

ROSE PETAL NECKLACE.

Soak a quart of the dried petals over night in water. Next morning grind them through the peanut butter blade of the food chopper six times. Put the dough on an old iron plate or rusty stove lid and leave over night. Grind three or four times the second day and put in a teaspoonful of copperas crystals dissolved in water before the last grinding.

KEEPING ONIONS.

To prevent onions from sprouting let the onions dry, heat a poker red hot and with it singe the roots. Put in a dry place and you will find they will keep perfectly.

GREAT LAKES CRUISES

A voyage over Lakes Huron and Superior, those great fresh water seas makes one of the most popular of vacation trips. The fleet of the Northern Navigation Company (Grand Trunk Route) sailing from Sarnia to Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur and Duluth, offers the maximum in comfort, service and safety. From Toronto special Grand Trunk steamboat trains make direct rail conection with the vessels at Sarnia, Ont. The round trip over the Great Lakes occupies six days. The traveler find each hour filled with ever-changing interests. There is the charm of the daily life on shipboard, the thrilling experience of passing through the locks at Sault Ste. Marie, the day ashore at Canada's Twin Cities, Fort William and Port Arthur, and the visit to Duluth, the city built upon the mountain side. For all information apply to Grand Trunk agents or to C. NEW BREAD FIRM IS LOCATING HERE

WELL KNOWN "MACKEY'S BREAD, LIMITED," TO TAKE OVER PETERBORO BREAD COMPANY.

Mackey's Bread, Limited, is the name of the latest Peterborough business concern. This well known firm, which successfully operates bakeries in Kingston, Cobourg, Ottawa, Brantford and Sarnia, has decided to extend its operations to Peterborough, and on Monday, May 23rd, will take over the plant and business of the Peterborough Bread Company. Mr. R. M. Mackey will be in charge of the local branch, and is moving here with his family from Kingston.

Mackey's Bread Limited believe in service and in quality, and the same superfine bread that has made the firm's name famous in other cities will be offered the people of Peterborough. They will continue to manufacture the Mackey bread that is so popular everywhere.

The firm's business has been built up on a basis of quality, and Mr. Mackey proposes to conduct the Peterborough branch on the same lines that have proven so successful elsewhere.

FRED MESLEY IS NEW PRESIDENT

OF THE TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL—T. J. STENTON VICE-PRESIDENT.

In the election of officers at the Trades and Labour Council meeting last night Mr. Fred Mesley was chosen as president, Mr. T. J. Stenton vice-president, and Mr. J. A. Sharpe was appointed to the trustee board. The municipal committee for June is composed of Harry Coit, F. Mesley and Jas. Dodds. Mr. Mesley, the president-elect, is a member of the Stationary and Hoisting Engineers' Union. He succeeds Mr. Harold Gilbert, who held the position in the interim following the resignation of T. H. Lane.

E. N. Compton, a representative of the Dominion Government's Labour Department, addressed the delegates, discussing the work in which he is at present engaged, and also other questions of interest to Labor.

MILITARY STORES GO UP IN SMOKE

$750,000 LOSS WHEN BUILDING NEAR TORONTO "EX" BURNS.

TORONTO, May 19.—(Canadian Press).—Fire destroyed the barracks stores belonging to the Dominion Government to the amount of about $750,000 early last night. The large frame building, situated near the east entrance of the Exhibition Grounds, and packed solid with camp equipment, used by the C.E.F. in No. 2 Military District during the war, was reduced to ashes in less than an hour. Constructed between three and four years ago, the wooden walls were dry like tinder, and the roof, where the fire was first discovered, was made of tar roofing. The building itself was situated in an open field, and the flames getting plenty of draft, towered high over the factory buildings to the north.

LACROSSE NOTES

The holiday next Tuesday will find all the lacrosse teams of the district engaged. Havelock is billed for Campbellford, where the Exhibition Board are putting on a big field day, and Peterborough is going to Norwood, where they will meet the combined teams of Hastings and Norwood players. Although these are exhibition games they will give the fans a chance to get a line on the strength of this district.

Reports of Saturday's game in Oshawa all agree that the Motor town has lined up a fast and shifty team that will take some beating in their Toronto group. Oshawa is not the only team in this section of the province that is suspected of importing players this season, and if tourists are to be tolerated, the lacrosse boom will be flattened out before it gets nicely started. The revival is foredoomed to an early dissolution if this practice so severely dealt with by the O.H.A. is permitted.

The Peterborough intermediate, thanks to Dr. Sutton, Jas. Skinner, C. S. Cummer, Bert Todd and the other ardent and faithful followers of the game, are struggling along with very little public attention. Perhaps when the season opens lacrosse will draw its share of support in this city, and to that end the club is offering season tickets for one dollar for the double schedule, a price that should appeal to everyone.

The juniors practice to-night at Central Park, and, by the way, the youngsters give every promise of developing a good team right now. Their willingness to learn, together with a natural skill and adaptation for the game, is making up for the late start in training. Occasional practices with the intermediates will bring them on rapidly, and the local club should be well represented in the junior series.

Both lacrosse teams appreciate the kindness of the Y.M.C.A. in placing the baths and lockers at the disposal of the players. This is a decided convenience and advantage.

SPORT COMMENT

All residents of Rome are not Romans, neither are the members of the Scottish football team, which arrived in Canada yesterday, all Scots. Among the touring soccer men is a Canadian, Douglas Thompson, formerly of Winnipeg. Thompson enlisted with the Princess Pats, and during the war showed such wonderful form on the football field that immediately hostilities ceased he was made many offers to play professional.

Milwall was successful in landing him, but he is now with Aberdeen, and the critics have been heaping praise upon him for his great performances.

The team plays in Hamilton on 26th May, and a picked team from the Hamilton and District League will meet the tourists, irrespective of what the A. A. U. of Canada may say.

A young man who followed the plough horses in their slow, heavy strides on a farm near Crookston, Minn., five years ago, will try to make Ralph DePalma and other speed demons eat his dust on the Indianapolis motor speedway on 30th May.

The youth is Jules Ellingboe, whom a race promoter picked up from the farm and developed into king of the dirt tracks. Now Ellingboe is seeking to take the crown in the greatest automobile race of all times—the 500-mile international sweepstakes, two weeks hence.

Flashing around the two and a half mile brick oval, he shaved the track record in a trial spin. He travelled 101½ miles an hour and his time for the 2½-mile trip was 1.29 flat. This is two-fifths of a second slower than the track record.

Ellingboe had a car entered for last year's race, but he couldn't get it ready in time and was unable to start. This year he will drive a Frontenac.

OSHAWA FANS LIKED THE WORK OF THEIR IMPORTED LACROSSE TEAM

(From the Oshawa Telegram.)

That lacrosse is going to be very popular in Oshawa this summer was clearly demonstrated by the large attendance of about one thousand fans at Alexandra Park on Saturday afternoon to see Oshawa's hopes in the O. A. L. A. intermediate series hand the men from the Lift Lock City an 18 to 3 lacing, in the opening match of the season. The locals being much superior in every department of the game the contest was nothing more than a good work out for Coach Warwick's team. On the occasion of Peterboro's visit to Oshawa last year the tables were somewhat reversed, only the score was not nearly so one-sided, and it was a source of satisfaction to many of the fans to see the Oshawa boys even accounts with Peterboro.

Scoring a Matter of Form.

If there was any doubt in the minds of a few of the spectators as to the abilities of the locals, it was rather hurriedly removed as soon as the game commenced. Scoring goals was a mere matter of form and had they chosen to do so an even larger score could have been rolled up against the visitors. The Oshawa players are boys who know the game and have lots of "pep" and added to this they have developed team play under Coach Warwick's guidance, which completes a smooth working aggregation that spells trouble for all comers this season.

No Weak Spots.

As far as weak spots in the team are concerned there aren't any from the goal out the boys are right in the game all the time, always ready to take a pass and check hard. In Saturday's comedy their best efforts were not called for and therefore the fans were unable to judge their real strength. However it was very easily seen that when they chose to let themselves out speed was in abundance.

The game was almost free from any semblance of rough play, with only two or three penalties being meted out for minor offences, and consequently it was a good exhibition of lacrosse. That the Petes tried their utmost to keep the locals from scoring was evidenced by the severe checking they displayed around their own nets and strong attempts to break through the Oshawa defence.

Some of the Stars.

Joe Jocques caught a place in the hearts of the fans by his snappy work in the Oshawa nets and he promises to be one of the shining lights of the outfit for the season. In Beecham at point, and Cooke at cover point, Oshawa has a pair that are hard to beat; they give the net guardian perfect support and they keep their opponents shooting from the outside. Norman Irwin distinguished himself by securing three out of four goals in the rst quarter on some brilliant work and he continued the good work throughout the game.

Josephus Daniels, late U. S. Secretary of the Navy, has written a book which clears up a matter very much in dispute. If nobody after this asks, "Who won the war?" the answer is, "Josephus did."

BASEBALL

The fans should not overlook the juvenile series of the City League, for the youngsters are playing snappy ball. To-morrow night at 6 o'clock the Bankers and Generals will clash at Riverside Park, and the fixture promises to be a real battle. The Generals can move up into a tie for first place by beating the Bankers, and they will have the best line-up of the season.

When Jake Solomon's Petes invade Cobourg on Tuesday for the opening game in the Central Ontario League series, they will likely find themselves opposed by a Peterborough boy on the rubber. Percy Ecobichon, the young southpaw who was with the Bohunks here last season, is with the Cobourg team and is expected to draw the pitching assignment on the holiday.

Scores of Peterborough fans are preparing to motor to Cobourg on Tuesday for the Ceneral League opening. A jaunt to the Lakeshore town by motor is a very pleasant holiday outing, and the Petes will not lack rooters in their first League game.

Boys who have been indulging in the habit of stealing baseballs at Riverside Park during workouts and games are warned that police court cases will follow any further thefts. The police were notified last night of several cases of stealing from the Peterborough Central League team, and in future no leniency will be shown.

Manager Solomon will invade U. .O. territory with his team to-morrow evening the Petes being billed to meet the Keene East Peterborough League team in a twilight game at Keene. It will be a good workout for the Central Leaguers in preparation for Tuesday's battle.

The C.G.E. Central League team have lost the services of their good southpaw twirler, Bob Carson. The pitching burden will fall on the shoulders of "Bun" Frost.

The Y.M.C.A. will trot out a formidable team on Saturday for their game with the Canadian General.

The three Central Ontario League at Lindsay, Belleville at Oshawa and fixtures on Tuesday are: Port Hope and Peterborough at Cobourg.

Alex. Kay of Peterborough, will umpire the Belleville-Oshawa game at Oshawa on the holiday, while Jack Rosevear of Port Hope, will handle the Peterborough-Cobourg game at Cobourg.

The first home game in the Central Ontario League will bring Oshawa here a week from Saturday.

AT THE THEATERS

AT THE ALLEN.

SNOOKY SETS FEAT RECORD IN YOU'LL BE S'PRISED

Snooky, the Humanzee, who has astounded motion picture audiences by the intelligence that he shows in Chester Comedies, has a new sort of a role in "You'll Be S'prised" at Allen Theatre Thursday. He enters the scene as a regulation tramp with his worldly goods at the end of a cane over his shoulder ,and a little white poodle as his companion. Snooky shows that he is a real tramp by sawing wood for his meal and then quitting the job when he sees a luscious pie in the window and finally cooking his own meal with an assortment of the customary cans as his utensils.

But this is only the preliminary. Snooky rescues a baby on a runaway wagon from the path of a train and finally saves the station agent's money from a band of crooks. Some other of his exploits include blowing up a shack in which the villains have taken refuge, recovering the stolen money by flooding them from the water tank and then leading the whole band into the arms of the law.

Little Ida May McKenzie, who has won so many friends in Chester Comedies, again has an important part.

AT THE CAPITOL.

Capitol offers a big picture programme and a remarkable vaudeville act to-night—Wee Sandy MacPherson, the pocket edition of Harry Lauder, in songs, dances and Scotch stories.

This vaudeville act will be the talk of the city before Saturday night. Wee Sandy MacPherson, the wonder boy from Scotland—this wee laddie only 8 years of age—has been the big hit of Kincaid's Famous Scotch Review over the Pantages circuit, from coast to coast, known as the pocket edition of the famous Harry Lauder. This wee Scottish wonder sings, dances and does a remarkable recitation on the war. At Galt, Guelph, Kitchener, Hamilton, Toronto, and everywhere on the Continent where this clever little star has appeared he has been a tremendous hit, and, no doubt, vaudeville lovers in this city will also take to him as his work deserves all the credit the public can bestow on him.

The first of the five-reel feature comedies in which Roscoe Arbuckle, the famous heavyweight star, is to appear, by arrangement with Joseph M. Schenck, is "The Life of the Party," adapted from Irvin S. Cobb's story of the same name. The picture will be shown at the Capitol Theatre to-night.

The story reveals the adventures and love affairs of an affable young lawyer, Algernon Leary, in his efforts to break the Milk Trust. Leary's powerful adversaries attempt to ruin his reputation by sending a notorious "vamp" to blackmail him, but he not only succeeds in withstanding her charms, but beats out the corporation's candidate for mayor at the polls. The picture is declared to be rich in laughs, one of the funniest situations being when Leary attends a masquerade party attired as a child of three and, through a misunderstanding, is chased all over town by indignant citizens and policemen.

Mr. Arbuckle's support includes Frank Campeau, Viora Daniel and Winnifred Greenwood. Walter Woods adapted the story to the screen and Joseph Henabery directed. It is a Paramount production.

The balance of this big programme and the excellent musical selections of the Capitol Concert Orchestra will complete a splendid week-end bill that should attract capacity crowds the balance of this week.

PEARL WHITE "FOUND HERSELF" IN FEATURES

Pearl White is a much-to-be-envied young woman. She reached the topmost round of fame as a serial star, but as a portrayer of dramatic roles which require genuine acting of a high degree she is acknowledged to have "found herself." Four pictures of extraordinary merit have been made by William Fox with Miss White in the star roles during the past year. The latest is "The Mountain Woman," to be shown at the Regent Theatre to-day. This is a screen adaptation of Charles Neville Buck's splendid novel, "A Pagan of the Hills."

"The Mountain Woman," produced under the direction of Charles Giblyn, is a heart-touching story of the Kentucky hills. Its characters are living types of that picturesque, quaint people who have endeared themselves to all who have visited that section. The sub-titles of the picture have been done in that droll, humorous speech characteristic of the mountain country of "Kaintuck."

The chief chaarcter is "Alexander McGivens," the "gal in pants,' the "he-woman," whose manner warned prospective suitors, "Hands Off."

BRITISHERS MAY BAR FREAK GOLF CLUBS

New Rule On Unplayable Ball — Other Revisions.

LONDON, May 19.— (Canadian Press.)—Freak golf clubs, such as the "corrugated," "grooved," and "slotted," probably will be barred on British courses in the near future, according to a statement issued by th esecretary of the Rules of Golf Committee.

Many members of the committee are said to be against the use of these clubs and the action is contemplated, it continues, "as they understand that the executive committee of the United States' Golf Association adopt a similar attitude." The secretary adds that no action is intended until after the amateur and open championships have been played.

The Rules of Golf committee of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club, carrying out the decision reached at the autumn meeting of the club, have issued their revision of the rules, which came into operation on May 1.
